MANUFACTURES OF BOSTON.

Number of establishments conducted under so-called factory system, having annual product valued at $500 or over, 3,077; value of year's product, $621,922,000 or 118.4 per cent increase over the 1914 product; value added by manufacture, $272,316,000; average number of wage earners, 88,759; total wages paid in year, $96,401,000, or 95 per cent increase over 1914; salaried employees, 19,518, receiving $39,291,000 in salaries; value of materials used (including fuel, also power and heat rented), $349,606,000; primary horsepower, 101,604; capital invested, $351,261,000; value of leading products: (1) Boots and shoes (not inclu. rubber) with cut stock and findings, 37 establishments, $62,970,000; (2) confectionery and ice cream, 68 establishments, $46,097,000; (3) printing and publishing, newspapers and magazines, 137 with $33,607,000 product; (4) foundry and machine shop products, 142 with $32,149,000; (5) men's clothing, 162 with $31,338,000; (6) book and job printing and publishing, 311 with $22,810,000; (7) bread and other bakery products, 306 with $21,681,000; (8) women's clothing, 173 with $20,656,000; (9) coffee and spices, roasting, grinding, etc., 14 with $16,239,000; (10) electrical machinery, apparatus and supplies, 32 with $10,671,000; (11) malt liquors, 10 with $8,956,000; (12) druggists' preparations, 9 with $8,661,000; (13) tobacco, cigars and cigarettes, 94 with $8,400,000; (14) furniture, 61 with $8,344,000; (15) steam fittings, also steam and hot-water heating apparatus, 9 with $8,135,000; (16) food preparations (not elsewhere shown), 29 with $5,667,000; pickles, preserves and sauces, 13 with $5,246,000.

Largest number of establishments (i. e., 311) in book and job printing industry; largest number of wage-earners with confectionery and ice cream makers, viz., 8,258; largest total of wages paid, $10,066,000, by foundry and machine shops. (From U. S. Bureau of Census, Preliminary Report for 1919).

NET DEBT PER CAPITA IN LEADING CITIES (BY RANK).

New York, $183.87; Cincinnati, $169.13; New Orleans, $117.56; Boston, $113.72 (i. e. with population wrongly estimated at 738,901. Should be $106.39 with population estimated at 789,817 on Feb. 1, 1919); Baltimore, $100.54; Cleveland, $95.75; Pittsburgh, $91.44; Los Angeles, $87.61; San Francisco, $86.24; Philadelphia, $79.60. Figures are approximate, as population had to be estimated. (See U. S. Census Bureau's Financial Statistics of Cities, 1919, page 297.)

The per capita figures are high for New York, Boston and Cincinnati, as compared with other cities, because of their extensive investments in public service enterprises. Boston's debt for subways and tunnels being 38 per cent of the whole debt and the interest and sinking-fund dues payable from the revenue earned, it should be classed as investment-debt and kept separate from the debt for non-productive outlays met by taxation. Hence the per capita net general debt of Boston in 1919 was $67.32, not $106.39, assuming that the population was 789,817 on Feb. 1.

EXPENDITURES OF THE CITY OF BOSTON FOR THE PAST FISCAL YEAR.

Total ordinary and extraordinary, $57,477,910 or $5,288,419 more than in 1919-20. For maintenance of departments (excluding Water Service and Printing Department), $33,910,233 (including $9,897,928 for School Departments); for City and County interest, $3,406,141; sinking-fund requirements, $894,429; serial loan payments, $1,191,100 (making all debt requirements, excluding Rapid Transit, $5,491,670); for Water Service (including Metropolitan water assessment, interest on debt and extension of mains), $3,186,007 (covered by water revenue); State tax, $4,262,300 (regular) and $200,937 (special for benefit of soldiers and sailors of World War); other regular Metropolitan and State assessments, $1,596,897; Printing Department, $312,519 (covered by revenue); special appropriations from Tax Levy, $2,616,988; special appropriations from Parkman Fund income, $176,505. Total ordinary expenditures, $51,754,056 or $4,146,904 more than in 1919-20. Total expenditures for departments only, $5,976,774 more than in 1919-20. Department increases of expenditure in excess of $25,000 over the year 1919-20, were: Assessing Dept., $28,539; Collecting Dept., $31,896; Consumptives' Hospital Dept., $59,512; Election Dept., $72,521; Fire Dept., $359,093; School Depts., $2,485,296; Public Works, $1,295,958; Police, $495,770; County of Suffolk, $119,697; Park and Recreation Dept., $210,759; Overseers of Poor, $73,583; Library, $125,019; Public Buildings, $58,806; City Hospital, $235,071; Health, $52,201.

Regular appropriations unexpended by the departments and accounted as surplus reached the noteworthy total of $370,808. Decreases of expenditures from 1919 were City and County Debt Requirements, $357,991; Soldiers' Relief Dept., $52,557; House of Correction, $41,608; Licensing Board, $2,771.

Extraordinary expenditures for permanent improvements (i. e., loan appropriations, etc., including unused portions from previous year), $3,897,029, of which $792,215 was for Rapid Transit construction, mostly for the new Arlington St. Station, i. e., $607,496; $848,060 for sewer construction; $1,035,685 for making of highways; $350,000 for School Dept. buildings; $156,601 for East Boston Ferry improvements; $147,092 for sea wall, etc., Roxbury Canal; $112,466 for Jail hospital; $69,144 for widening of streets; $188,984 for playgrounds; $42,551 for park improvements; $78,522 for High Pressure Fire Service; $50,792 for public buildings and land; $24,917 for other objects. For Rapid Transit and other debt requirements, $1,793,044. Total extraordinary, $5,690,073 or $1,107,734 more than in 1919-20. Of the 1920 loans, the amount expended within the same fiscal year was $1,866,406 or 65.6 per cent.

RECEIPTS OF MILK IN BOSTON, BY RAIL.

Total receipts in 1920, 166,380,325 quarts, or 131,157,890 by Boston & Maine R. R.; 26,254,365 by New York, New Haven & Hartford R.R.; 8,968,070 by Boston & Albany R.R. The said total exceeds that of 1919 by 9,672,042 quarts and that of 1918 by 20,065,708 quarts and is the largest on record.

ASSESSED VALUATION AND TAX RATE OF BOSTON.

Assessed valuation as of April 1, 1920, $1,572,457,180 (as corrected), or $1,396,073,300 real estate and $176,383,880 personal (including $23,209,180 bank stock). The real estate valuation showed a gain of $66,783,200 over the 1919 total; the personality a loss of $22,479,798.

Total tax rate, $24.10 per $1,000 of valuation, or only 50 cents more than in 1919, divided thus: City tax, $19.04 ($7.14 of this for schools); County tax, $1.42; State tax, $3.64. Total tax warrant, $41,258,579.59 (i. e., $2,544,776.43 more than in 1919) or $32,833,918.08 City tax; $2,364,527.07 County tax and $6,060,134.44 State tax and Metropolitan assessments; Poll tax $978,970 or $5 each on 195,794 polls, the extra $3 poll tax being imposed 1920-23, inclusive, because of soldiers' war bonus (see Acts of 1919, Chap. 283).

The exceptional increase in the City rate, or $1.89, was due to the unprecedented demands of the School Committee for increased appropriations, the School tax for 1920 being $2.12 more, but the City tax other than for schools decreasing 0.23, as compared with 1919. As the State tax was reduced from $5.03 in 1919 to $3.64 (—$1.39) only 50 cents addition to the total tax rate was necessary in 1920.

Of total assessed property value, 43 per cent is located in Ward 5 and 23 per cent in Wards 7, 8 and 9, or about two-thirds of the whole in said four wards. Average valuation per acre for all land assessed (i. e., 18,611 acres), $42,512, the total land valuation in 1920 being $791,199,100.

In the 10 years 1906-1916, the total assessed valuation increased 25 per cent, while the population gained 26 per cent. In the 20 years, 1896-1916, the gain in valuation was 64 per cent and in population 50 per cent.

Boston has for some years ranked fourth among cities of the United States as to aggregate valuation, but first as to valuation per capita. The City's real estate valuation in 1919 was 74 per cent larger than that of St. Louis, 63 per cent larger than Pittsburgh's, 67.4 per cent larger than San Francisco's and 132 per cent larger than Baltimore's, all computed on the same basis, or 100 per cent assessment.

ANNEXATION TO BOSTON.

East Boston in 1637; South Boston in 1804, being set off from Dorchester; Roxbury in 1868, a city of Norfolk County since March, 1846; Dorchester in 1870, a town since September, 1630; Charlestown in 1874, a city of Middlesex County since February, 1847; Brighton in 1874, set off from Cambridge and incorporated as a town of Middlesex County in February, 1807; West Roxbury in 1874, set off from Roxbury and incorporated as a town of Norfolk County in May, 1851; Hyde Park in 1912, a town of Norfolk County since April, 1868.

These annexations, which added 24,312 acres of land to the original land of Boston, were by area as follows; East Boston, 1,435 acres; South Boston, 795; Roxbury, 2,450; Dorchester, 5,600; West Roxbury, 8,075; Brighton, 2,664; Charlestown, 424; Hyde Park, 2,869. Filled land increased the area later by 1,396 acres. In 1875 the annexed territory had a population of 201,250, or 58.86 per cent of city's total; in 1910 its population had increased to 477,311, or 71.18 per cent, Hyde Park not included.

POPULATION OF BOSTON BY GEOGRAPHICAL DISTRICTS.

East Boston (i. e., Wds. 1 and 2, including the islands) 63,051 or 2,629 less than in 1915; Charlestown (Wds. 3 and 4) 34,272 or 5,329 less; Boston Proper (Wds. 5, 6, 7, 8, and northern corner of Wds. 12 and 13) 170,637 or 25.663 decrease; South Boston (Wds. 9, 10 and northern part of Wd. 11 to Howell St.) 64,144 or 5,601 decrease; Roxbury (most of Wds. 12, 13, 14, 15 and all of Wd. 16) 135,024 or 7,341 increase; Dorchester most of Wd. 11, Wds. 17, 18, 19, 20, 21 and part of 24) 157,932 or 19,813 increase; West Roxbury (including Jamaica Plain and Roslindale, i. e., Wds. 22 and 23) 63,190 or 7,119 increase; Brighton (Wds. 25 and 26) 41,724 or 6,942 increase; Hyde Park (most of Wd. 24) 18,086 or 628 increase. According to these unprecedented census returns, the five districts constituting the most densely inhabited part of Boston (i. e., from the northern boundary to Franklin Park, including Roxbury and South Boston) showed a net decrease from 1915 to 1920 amounting in all to 31,881, while the other four districts showed an increase of only 34,502. In the preceding five years, 1910-1915, the same five districts increased by 16,373 and the other four by 58,481, a total increase (omitting the 15,936 gained by annexation of Hyde Park in 1912) of 58,918, or more than 22 times the increase from 1915 to 1920 as shown by last U. S. Census.

POPULATION OF COUNTIES (U. S. CENSUS) WITH INCREASE OVER PREVIOUS CENSUS (STATE) RANKED FROM LARGEST.

(1) Suffolk (3 cities and 1 town) 835,522 or 8,721 over 1915; (2) Middlesex (11 cities and 43 towns) 778,352 or + 44,728; (3) Essex (9 cities and 25 towns) 482,156 or + 18,494; (4) Worcester (3 cities and 57 towns) 455,135 or + 24,432; (5) Bristol (4 cities and 16 towns) 359,005 or + 12,041; (6) Hampden (3 cities and 20 towns) 200,305 or + 37,361; (7) Norfolk (1 city and 27 towns) 219,081 or + 17,174; seven other counties (4 cities and 127 towns) 422,800 or — 3,905. Total for the 14 counties (38 cities and 316 towns) 3,852,356 or 159,046 (i. e., 4.3 per cent) over 1915. Of said total, 2,741,599 (i. e., 71.17 per cent) were in the cities and 1,110,757 (i. e., 28.83 per cent) in the towns. The four counties, Suffolk, Middlesex, Essex and Bristol contain 63.73 per cent of the state's inhabitants.

If the municipalities having a population of 5,000 or over are properly called urban, then the percentage of urban population in the entire state reaches the notable figure of 90, while the rural shows but 10 per cent.

INCORPORATION OF BOSTON.

Boston was incorporated as a city February 23, 1822, this being the date when the Act of incorporation was passed by the Legislature. On March 4 following, the voters of Boston accepted said Act, viz. Chap. 110, 1821-22, as its first City Charter by a majority of 916 in a total vote of 4,678. Ten futile attempts had previously been made to incorporate as a city, viz., in 1650, 1659, 1667, 1708, 1744, 1762, 1784, 1791, 1804 and 1815. Revised charter adopted in 1854. Charter again revised in 1885 and amended in 1909.

REDUCTION IN LIGHTING RATES.

Coun. WATSON offered an order—That his Honor the Mayor be requested to direct the Corporation Counsel to appear forthwith before the Department of Public Utilities and request a reduction in the price of gas for the people of Boston, as it is the opinion of the City Council that a reduction should be made.

Passed.

MUNICIPAL LIGHTING PLANT.

Coun. WATSON offered an order—That his Honor the Mayor be requested to send an order to the City Council recommending an appropriation of $5,000, to be expended by the Executive Committee of the Council, when appointed, for the purpose of securing information as to the establishment of a municipal electric lighting plant, and for obtaining any information pertaining thereto that may be of benefit to the inhabitants of the City of Boston.

Coun. WATSON—Mr. President, I noticed that a titter went up when the $5,000 was mentioned. I was half inclined to smile myself, but not for the reason that some of these kidders laughed. I have no apology, and I don't think any other member of this body has, for the $5,000 appropriated for the trip that the Council last year made to the Middle West to look into the lighting situation. What the members of this body here last year, mostly comprising the membership of this year, found was the foundation of the voluntary reduction by the Edison Company in the price of electricity to the consumers of Boston, and of that $5,000 we returned $1,500. Notwithstanding the fact that some members ridiculed the trip, we brought back, in the vernacular of the day, the bacon, in the way of information that convinced members that their information concerning public ownership of lighting plants was correct. It is true that his Honor the Mayor vetoed the order that we passed to take the first step looking toward municipal ownership, but the veto was not an unfriendly veto; it was a lawyer's veto. The Mayor saw the danger of this body tieing the city up to the buying of a plant at a greater price than should be paid for it. I have no criticism to make of Mayor Peters for his veto. I regret that he did not sign the order, so that we might take the first step this year and be a year nearer to public ownership in Boston. The purpose of this proposed $5,000 appropriation which we request the Mayor to send an order for to this body is the same practically as the purpose of the $5,000 appropriated last year. It is so that we may prepare ourselves to secure information vital to the conduct of this body in matters pertaining to electric lighting, and perhaps pertinent to the contracts of the Edison Company with the City of Boston for ten years to supply light for our city. I told the members of the body last year, when I asked that the Council have an opportunity to visit the Middle West to see public ownership in full operation, that I wished them to see the way the thing was being worked out with their own eyes; that, while I was convinced that public ownership of electric lighting was proper and right, I did not feel that it was fair to ask my colleagues to take my position in the matter at 100 per cent value. I wanted the two new members of the body, Coun. Walsh and Gilbody, and also Coun. Hagan, to see the thing in operation with their own eyes, the lighting situation in other great cities of this country, so that we might more intelligently consider the proposition, and I have the same feeling in regard to this order, so that all the members of the Council may be able to pass intelligently on the question of municipal ownership and operation of electric lighting plants in Boston, now before the Executive Committee. So much for the titter that went up from my associates. It is all right for them to titter, but let me tell them that by following me on this lighting situation they added a plume to their hats that they may be proud of. It took a dint of hard work to make certain members of this body see the thing in the proper light. Therefore I take the thing more seriously than some who titter. Now, this order is a legitimate one. I believe that our hands are going to be upheld by Mayor Curley. He has the confidence and respect of 74,000 who voted for him and at the present time of the great preponderance of those who voted against him. We are going to have the united backing of the people of Boston in this matter. The Edison people have only gone one step in what may be, and in my opinion will be, a hundred steps eventually, in reducing the price of electricity. I have read with much interest about their voluntary reduction of price. I saw it in the Herald, which is not unfriendly to the Edison Company, judging from their editorial of today, which I will comment on in part for a moment. Mr. President, Mr. Edgar gets $50,000 a year salary, with a drawing account of as much again for any purpose he wishes, an aggregate of nearly $100,000 for him to use as he sees fit. For what? For giving interviews to the press and keeping the price of electricity up. He said among other things in his statement on the front page of the Herald, continued on the fourth page, that

"The present maximum rates of the companies supplying the four largest cities in the United States—that is, New York, Chicago, Brooklyn and Philadelphia—are more than 8 cents; for, although the New York rate is 7 cents plus a coal clause, now amounting to 5½ mills, the fact that the New York company does not supply lamps to its customers makes its rate equivalent to a rate in excess of 8 cents."

But Mr. Edgar failed to refer to Cleveland, with 800,000 population, and selling electricity at 3 cents per kilowatt hour for household purposes, electricity for light and cooking being supplied by the municipal lighting plant of the city of Cleveland at that rate. He also fails to refer to the private plant, the Cleveland Illuminating Company, which sells to the consumers in Cleveland, in competition with the public plant, electricity for 5 cents a kilowatt hour. He fails to refer to the city of Buffalo, with 500,000 population, where there is a monopoly, controlled by the Genesee Lighting Company, which sells electricity for 4 cents per kilowatt hour. But if he were asked how that was, he would explain the thing in his usual cunning way, "Why, that is hydro-electric power from Niagara Falls." Yes, Mr. Edgar, it is, but they use a steam plant where they burn coal to generate steam for electricity, having 90,000 kilowatts capacity, and they charge but 4 cents per kilowatt hour for that. They buy the other electricity from the Niagara Falls Hydro-electric Company, as middlemen, and are then able to sell it to the people of Buffalo for 4 cents a kilowatt hour. In Detroit, with its million population, the private company supplies electricity to the inhabitants for lghting purposes in their homes for 5½ cents per kilowatt hour. In Chicago, my friends and fellow members, the charge for street lights is $49 per year per lamp, against $79.10 here, from the private concern and the public concern. In Milwaukee they have their own lights, their own conduits and wires, and they buy their electricity from the private plant for 1¼ cents per kilowatt hour. Mr. Edgar refers to Philadelphia, Chicago, Brooklyn and New York, and he does not know that Brooklyn and New York are one. He still thinks they are two separate cities. Yes, and Coun. Donoghue reminds me of something that had slipped my memory. The Edison Company here do not supply lamps for nothing. They charge, the same as the New York company does. I consider that Coun. Donoghue knows whereof he speaks, because he uses electricity in his business office. I use gas at home.

President HAGAN—And here, too.

Coun. WATSON—Brother Hagan, of shoe fame, says "and here, too." Well, as he is getting older, I trust that he will become more serious. Again I will try to impress on you, Mr. Presiding Officer, that I am serious in this proposition. I saw something today in the American. I do not always agree with what I see in the American. Sometimes I agree and sometimes I disagree, but it has been one of the great mainstays in this contest against crooked public service corporations, of which the Edison Company is a ringleader. I have here an editorial in today's American. Just think, the Edison Company have been charging the people $58 a ton for coal for electricity generated by the state's drinking water. They have been robbing, plain larceny, deliberate stealing, from the electricity consumers of Boston. They have been charging them under the coal charges for coal for electricity, and they have been buying from the New England Power Company, who generate their electricity at the Connecticut river and other rivers in the western part of the state,—charging for coal when coal is not used; deliberate, unadulterated and positive larceny, and if they never had the goods on them before for deliberate larceny, there is ground for an indictment today. You cannot indict a corporation, you can only fine them; but if Edgar and those with him in the combination that has been looting the public of Greater Boston since electricity has been used here in Greater Boston were doing business as individuals, the grand jury of Suffolk County, in my opinon, could indict them for grand larceny—charging for something they do not give. Then there is the conservative Boston Herald, which I read daily. I like to get the opposite side of a question from a biased source. The Herald has an editorial today headed, "The Herald and the Public Service Corporation," and I am going to pay the first tribute that I ever paid to the Herald, now. They are conservative and they do not deny that they are absolutely and positively against public control and operation of public service corporations. You would think they were talking of some individual. The editorial says, in part:

"You are all familiar with the recent activities in the Boston municipal council, which by a vote of 7 to 2 decided on the municipal operation of an electric light plant—a project which Mayor Peters wisely vetoed. Such a step would be in the highest degree calamitous. It would be retrogressive to our civilization. The Herald wants the Edison Company to continue to furnish the electric light to Boston as a municipality and to its citizens. And because we want it we feel that it is immeasurably more incumbent on us than on the advocates of government ownership to see that the Edison Company does its work in the right way always."

That is an admission by the Boston Herald, in my opinion, that the Edison Company has not done and is not doing business in a proper way. I might read all of the editorial. In fact, I will ask permission to have the stenographer print it in full, in order that we may refer to it at a later date.

The editorial referred to is in full as follows:

"The Herald and the Public Service Corporation.

"The Herald opposes government ownership and operation of public utilities by either city or state or nation. This is its persistent policy. Never before in the history of the country did the need of this policy seem more impelling. To this policy we expect to adhere.

"It is incumbent on any newspaper entertaining this well-matured theory to see that the private ownership and operation of the great public utilities is reasonable, fair and effective. We cannot afford to let private operations prove otherwise. Our whole philosophy depends on the proper regulation by public authority—which we believe is as far as public authority ought to go—of those concerns which are in themselves natural monopolies and on whose service the entire community depends.

"Any newspaper which advocates public ownership of everything rests under no such obligation. It can complacently see private operation become as selfish and self-seeking as possible. Such tendencies, wherever they exist, furnish grist for the public ownership mill. They contribute arguments in that direction. They tend to convince the public that perhaps the only way for it to obtain its rights in a reasonable degree is through actual ownership or control.

"You are all familiar with the recent activities in the Boston municipal council, which by a vote of 7 to 2 decided on the municipal operation of an electric light plant—a project which Mayor Peters wisely vetoed. Such a step would be in the highest degree calamitous. It would be retrogressive to our civilization. The Herald wants the Edison Company to continue to furnish the electric light to Boston as a municipality and to its citizens. And because we want this we feel that it is immeasurably more incumbent on us than on the advocates of government ownership to see that the Edison Company does its work in the right way always.

"Now many excellent citizens, readers of the Herald, make the point that our recent strictures on the situation, as Corporation Counsel Hill's investigations have disclosed it, should have awaited a conclusion of the case in which the Edison Company had itself put in all its testimony. But events were steadily reaching conclusions. The Edison Company itself had come forward with the so-called voluntary reduction of rates immediately applicable and with the implied promise of successive reductions in the future. Had not the time arrived when the public was entitled to know something of what it was all about? Should we not fail in our duty as interpreters of current events if we neglected an appraisal of the situation at such a crisis in its course as this?

"Because a newspaper is fundamentally conservative—as the Herald surely is—does not close its eyes to errors and omissions of capitalistic operation, if there be any. The best defence of the existing order against socialism, bolshevism, and all the vagaries of the day, lies in an intelligently critical attitude toward those concerns on whose operation under private ownership that policy must in the long run depend."

The Edison Company robs the small storekeeper who pays $8, $10, $12 or $15 a month for electricity the same as it robs others. It plays no favorites. It indulges in the same legalized, downright robbery, such as charging for coal that it has not used, as in cases where it buys electric power which is supplied by the New England Power Company. There is a concern that last year I did not name, but I am now going to name it, which has received some pretty stiff bills from the Edison Company. It is the Boston Ice Company, which has an artificial plant on George street, Roxbury. I have here the original bill of the Edison Company, charging $1,800 under the coal clause, with a bill for electric lighting of $2,000, making the bills for the month of November and December in the year 1920 nearly $4,000. No, Mr. President, they don't play any favorites. I have letters in my possession from the All-American Shoe Company's stores, one on Washington street, sent by Mr. Wilson, who met me in Chicago in the presence of the present acting presiding officer, and talked with me in the lobby of the hotel and patted me on the back and encouraged me in this work. He gave me four letters in connection with four or five stores controlled and owned by the All-American Shoe Company, the old Rice & Hutchins Company, of which Mr. Hardy is manager. Their bill was doubled in the year 1920 because of the excessive coal charges, which the company now announces that it will voluntarily take off, and stating that it will reduce the price of electricity about 9 per cent. I predict that before Arthur D. Hill, who is looking after the city's interests together with the Boston American attorney, Grenville S. MacFarland, before the Public Utilities Commission, gets through, the Public Utilities Commission will order the Edison Company to reduce their charges for electricity to less than 8 cents per kilowatt hour. This fight before the Public Utilities Commission must not stop, fellow members. I believe that Mayor Curley will stand back of the prosecution there. I know he is now downstairs intending to do his duty as his conscience dictates, and all that he wants from us is a helping hand—which he is going to have from me, and I think from the balance of the members of this body. He is going to make good. He cannot make good unless the Edison Company and their like are driven to their lairs and compelled to treat the consumers of electricity in Boston like human beings instead of a lot of cattle. I have confidence in Mayor Curley, confidence that he will make good. The 74,000 people who voted for him are looking upon him today with pride, and rightfully so, and they are going to continue to do so for the next four years, in my opinion. It is my intention to stand behind him in everything that he does for the interest of the city, and I will be the first to break with him the moment that he and I disagree honestly on a vital question. I hope that he will continue from the point where Mayor Peters left off, keeping the contest before the Public Utilities Commission going, thereby compelling the Edison Company to do the right thing. I might go on indefinitely, Mr. President. The Edison Company has now leased the Old Colony Lighting Company, the Somerset Lighting plant, the Old Colony Chambers Corporation. They run the Old Colony Apartments, at the corner of Somerset and Howard streets. They had their own plant there for generating electricity and had a contract to supply the Suffolk County Courthouse at 5 cents per kilowatt hour. That company bought the electricity from the Edison Company and then sold it to the County of Suffolk for 5 cents, and made a profit. How did they do it? The Edison Company has now leased the plant and controls the Old Colony Apartments, and is selling electricity to the county courthouse for 5 cents a kilowatt hour. How do they do it? The day they came out with their reduction they had reading notices galore, but they had paid advertisements on the front pages of the papers. Even the American carried their ads. They were in every paper in Boston, morning and night, and in every daily and weekly paper in Greater Boston. They were in weekly papers in Framingham, where they supply electricity, and in papers in Newton. In papers in every single place served by the Edison Company there appeared paid advertisements. The amount spent in that way must amount to $50,000. And whose money was it? That of the consumers of electricity in Boston, their money. Oh, they have killed the goose that laid the golden egg. We see the same old gluttony, the same old selfishness. They were not satisfied with a reasonable return and with reasonable salaries. They were giving to Mr. Edgar $40,000 a year, but now he must have $50,000, getting that increase in less than three months. Everybody must get more. Mr. Ives must get more money. It is the same old story. They are drunk with power, drunk with greed. One word further, and I am through. I want the members of this body to know that Arthur D. Hill, the Corporation Counsel, sent me a personal letter in reply to one from me congratulating him on his work before the Public Utilities Commission, stating in substance that he appreciated my congratulations, but that for the efforts of others there would have been nothing done in the electric lighting matter, and that the credit was not all his, that the credit belonged to this body, the City Council. He paid a glowing tribute to the Council of 1921 for being the trail blazers and pioneers in the effort to bring the Edison Company to task and to explain the things it has done. At a later date I shall wish to have the Corporation Counsel's letter made a part of our records, because I want the members here to read it and to throw out their chests, as I threw out mine when I got it. This body has earned its salaries many, many times over in the last year on the lighting question alone. Mr. President, I don't know whether the members wish to have this order go to the Executive Committee or not. I don't really think there is any need of it, in view of the fact that it is simply a request of his Honor the Mayor. I trust that if it does go to the Executive Committee it will be reported back this afternoon, but I would move, if there are no objections, a suspension of the rule, that the order may be put upon its passage at this time.

President HAGAN—The Chair believes that this is a matter which should go to the Executive Committee, and he so refers it, unless the gentleman asks for a suspension of the rule.

Coun. WATSON—Do you object to the passage of the order at this time?

President HAGAN—I think it ought to go to the committee for consideration first.

Coun. WATSON—All right, sir.

The order was referred to the Executive Committee.

CLAIM OF D. DOHERTY.

Passed under a suspension of the rule.

PAYMENT TO MRS. LAWRENCE FLANAGAN.

Coun. DONOGHUE offered the following:

Resolved, That the City Council of Boston favors the enactment of legislation authorizing payment to the widow of Lawrence Flanagan, late an employee of the Public Works Department of the City of Boston, of the balance of salary which he would have received for the financial year 1921 had he lived and served throughout that year.

Passed under a suspension of the rule.

A VOTE FOR PRESIDENT.

On motion of Coun. MORIARTY the Council voted to proceed to the election of a president.

The Clerk called the roll, with the following result:

For David J. Brickley—Coun. Brickley, Ford, Moriarty—3.

For John A. Donoghue—Coun. Donoghue, Walsh, Watson—3.

For Daniel W. Lane—Coun. Gilbody, Hagan, Lane—3.

And there was no choice.

RECESS TAKEN.

The Council voted at 2.30 p. m., on motion of Coun. Ford to take a recess subject to the call of the chair.

The members of the Council reassembled in the chamber and were called to order by the chair at 3.37 p. m.

EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE REPORTS.

Coun. MORIARTY, for the Executive Committee, submitted the following, viz.:

1. Report on petition of Gertrude A. Goodman (referred today) for permit for children under fifteen years of age to appear at Dorchester Women's Club Hall, February 17—that a permit be granted.

Report accepted; permit granted on the usual conditions.

2. Report on order (referred today) requesting the Mayor to send an appropriation of $5,000 to the Council for the purpose of securing information as to municipal electric lighting plant—that the order ought to pass.

Report accepted; order passed.

3. Reports on communications from the Street Commissioners (referred January 16 and January 23) giving notices of hearings on petitions for licenses to store and keep gasolene—that the same be placed on file.

Reports accepted; notices placed on file.

4. Report on resolutions (referred January 30) concerning the appointment or election of judges—recommending the passage of a resolve in the following new draft, viz.:

Resolved, That in the opinion of the City Council of Boston legislation should be enacted to submit to the people the question of the election of judges.

Report accepted; resolution passed.

Action on appointment submitted by the Mayor February 6, 1922, viz.:

1. Michael B. O'Donnell, to be a Constable.

The question came on confirmation. Committee—Coun. Watson and Ford. Whole number of ballots cast 9, yeas 9, and the appointment was confirmed.

COUN. BRICKLEY ELECTED PRESIDENT.

Coun. FORD—Mr. President, I move that we proceed to the election of a president for the year 1922.

The motion was carried, and the Clerk called the roll, with the following result:

For David J. Brickley—Coun. Brickley, Ford, Gilbody, Hagan, Lane, Moriarty—6.

For John A. Donoghue—Coun. Donoghue, Walsh, Watson—3.

Chairman HAGAN—Six members having voted for Coun. Brickley and three for Coun. Donoghue, Coun. Brickley has been elected president for the ensuing year.

On motion of Coun. DONOGHUE it was voted that the election be made unanimous.

Chairman HAGAN appointed Coun. Donoghue and Lane a committee to escort the President-elect to the chair. They performed the duty assigned.

President BRICKLEY, in taking the chair, said:

Fellow members of the City Council, I thank you exceedingly for your courtesy in doing me this honor. I greatly appreciate it. We have all heard the inaugural address of the new Mayor, and I presume that our primary duty will be to give the Mayor our hearty co-operation in order that Boston may have, as it deserves to have, the first place among the cities of the United States as the exponent of efficient government. The Chair awaits the pleasure of the Council.

GENERAL RECONSIDERATION.

Coun. FORD moved a general reconsideration on all business transacted at the meeting, hoping that the same would not prevail. Lost.

Adjourned at 3.42 p. m., on motion of Coun. MORIARTY, to meet on Monday, February 20, at two o'clock p. m.

PUBLIC WORKS DEPARTMENT.

Proposals for Collecting and Removing Ashes, Store Dirt, House Dirt and Refuse in Dorchester.

The Commissioner of Public Works of the City of Boston, office 508 City Hall Annex, invites proposals from citizens of the United States and corporations or other legal associations wherein the controlling interest to the extent of at least over one half thereof is owned by a citizen or citizens of the United States for collecting and removing ashes, store dirt, house dirt and refuse between March 6, 1922, and January 31, 1923, including the removal of all household refuse during the spring cleaning period between April 1, 1922, and May 15, 1922, and shall also remove grass, garden refuse and leaves during the entire term of the contract in the following district, Dorchester, and giving bond therefor of a surety company approved by the Commissioner, to secure the due performance of the contract and the full protection of the city. Forms of proposals may be obtained at Room 508, City Hall Annex. Each proposal should be inclosed in an envelope, sealed, marked "Proposal for Collecting and Removing Ashes, etc.," and left at Room 508, fifth floor, City Hall Annex, before 12 m. on Thursday, March 2, 1922, with a certified check for five hundred dollars ($500), payable to and to become the property of the city if the proposal after acceptance is not carried out. The proposals will then and there be publicly opened and read. Proposals must be made in duplicate, the sealed duplicate, without check, to be deposited by the bidder with the City Auditor previous to the time named for opening the proposals. If the price bid appears to the Commissioner to be abnormally high or low, it may lead to the rejection of the proposal. The undersigned reserves the right to reject any or all proposals or to accept any proposal should he deem it to be for the best interest of the city so to do.

Thomas F. Sullivan,
Commissioner of Public Works.
Boston, February 23, 1922. (Feb. 25.)

MASSACHUSETTS CIVIL SERVICE EXAMINATIONS.

The Massachusetts Civil Service Commissioners announce examinations as follows:

Nurses, March 3, 1922.

This examination will include school nurses (including Boston school nurses), health nurses, visiting nurses, etc., and will be held for the service of all the cities and of such towns in the state as are classified under civil service. At present there are several vacancies in various cities throughout the state. The examination for nurses who possess a certificate from the State Board of Registration of Nurses will consist of the filing of an experience sheet. The mark given in experience will be combined with the mark given them by the State Board and an average will be taken to determine their standing on the list. Nurses who are not registered by the State Board of Registration of Nurses will be required to take a written examination as follows: Training and experience, 7; the writing of a letter or report, 2; dietetics, food, and cooking, 3; anatomy and physiology, 2; principles and processes of nursing, 6; total, 20. Since registered nurses will go on the list ahead of any who are not registered, applicants should specify in their application, in answer to the first question, whether they are applying as registered nurses or non-registered nurses. Applicants who are not registered must be graduates of a hospital or similar institution giving a course of instruction in nursing at least two years in length or must have equivalent training.

Stationary Engineers, Stationary Firemen and Marine Engineers, March 3, 1922.

The examination for each kind of position will include a statement of training and experience, a physical examination, and the possession of a license, either (a) as first, second or third class engineer; (b) as first or second class stationary fireman; (c) as chief engineer for lake, bay and sound service, the license to qualify a man to operate a vessel of at least 200 gross tons. The date given above is not the actual examination date, but the date on which, as nearly as possible, applicants who have filed applications during the preceding three months will be given a physical examination.

Water Inspectors and Meter Readers, March 18, 1922.

This examination will be held for the service of the various cities of the Commonwealth and of such towns as are classified under civil service. At present there are several vacancies in various cities throughout the state. From the eligible list established as a result of this examination, names will be certified to fill present vacancies and such other vacancies as may arise from time to time. The subjects of examination with their respective weights will be as follows: Training and experience, 5; report, 1; practical questions, 4; total, 10. The practical questions will include an example in arithmetic.

The names of veterans who pass the examinations will be placed upon the eligible list in the order of their respective standing, above the names of all other applicants, as provided for in chapter 150 of the General Acts of 1919.

Only citizens of the United States who have been residents of Massachusetts for the past year have a right to apply. Preference in certification will be given to applicants who, at the time of filing application, are residents of the city or town from which requisition is received.

BOSTON NOTES.

UNDERGROUND RAPID TRANSIT IN BOSTON.

The Boston Transit Commission, consisting of five members, two appointed by the Governor and three by the Mayor, began its official existence July 1, 1894, and ended it July 1, 1918, after seven extensions of the original term. It constructed, under the authority of Acts of the Legislature, the following subways and tunnels, the ownership of which is vested in the City of Boston, and all costs to be covered by revenue from same, not by taxation; Tremont Street Subway from Broadway and Tremont st., South End, to North Station and from Boylston st., near Charles to Park st., 1.68 miles, opened to Park St. September 1, 1897, and to North Station on Sept. 3, 1898, costing with subsequent alterations, $4,416,000, the first municipal subway in the United States; East Boston Tunnel, from Maverick square, E. Boston, under Boston Harbor and State st. to Scollay square, Boston Proper, 1.42 miles, opened December 30, 1904, costing $3,336,000; Washington Street Tunnel, from Ash st. opp. Nassau, South End, to Traverse st., near North Station, 1.16 miles, opened November 30, 1908, costing $8,496,700 (including $2,850,000 land damages); Cambridge Connection Subway, from under Park st. station of Tremont St. Subway to Grove st., near Cambridge Bridge, 0.47 miles, opened March 23, 1912, costing $1,465,000; Boylston Street Subway, from Commonwealth ave., near Kenmore st., Back Bay, to Tremont St. Subway, near Charles st., 1.5 miles, opened October 3, 1914, costing $5,327,000; East Boston Tunnel Extension, from Scollay square to North Russell st., 0.41 miles, opened March 18, 1916, approximate cost, $2,450,000; Dorchester Tunnel, from Park st., Boston Proper, to Andrew square, South Boston, 2.26 miles, opened December 3, 1916, as far as South Station, on December 15, 1917 to Broadway, South Boston, and on June 29, 1918, to the Andrew Square terminal; trains of four or six cars are run in the Washington St. Tunnel, continuing on elevated track to Forest Hills, also in Dorchester Tunnel and connecting Cambridge Tunnel from Andrew sq., So. Boston to Harvard sq., Cambridge, while only single or double street-cars are run in the other tunnels and subways; amount borrowed to 1921 for the Dorchester tunnel, $10,750,000. Total cost of all subways and tunnels, about $36,995,000, incl. loan of $825,000 for new Arlington Station, against which a sinking fund of $5,818,710 has been accumulated from the revenue, payable mostly in 40 years from date of each loan (loans since 1911 payable in 45 years), annual interest averaging 3.8 per cent. These underground ways about 8.9 miles in all with total of 19.27 miles of single track were leased to the Boston Elevated Railway Company (which furnished the equipment) for term of 25 years (except Tremont Street 20 years) at annual rental of 4½ to 4⅞ per cent of net cost (except East Boston Tunnel which was at ⅜ of one per cent of all annual gross receipts of said company). In accordance with Chapter 741, Acts of 1911, the various leases were extended to July 1, 1936, the rental to be 4½ per cent of net cost after expiration of the first-term leases.

By Chap. 185, Special Acts of 1918, the powers of the Transit Commission, whose term expired that year, were transferred to the Mayor, Commissioner of Public Works and City Treasurer, or such person or persons, not exceeding three, as the Mayor might appoint. By Chap. 3, Ordinances of 1918, the Transit Dept. was established as a regular City department, to be in charge of three commissioners.

HIGH PRESSURE FIRE SERVICE, PUBLIC WORKS DEPARTMENT.

Work completed to February 1, 1921, including the old salt water fireboat line installed in 1898, a total of 10.68 miles, comprising 12,876 feet 12-inch, 25,200 feet 16-inch and 18,302 feet 20-inch pipe, with 289 hydrants, all of which are ready for use, being supplied by domestic high service at Tremont street, near West, from a 16-inch gated connection.

Total mileage of system to be 18.6, covering the business district in Ward 5 and a part of Ward 8; total capacity 24,000 gallons per minute at 300 pounds pressure; three pumping and electric power stations, to be located on Commercial street, Atlantic avenue and Stuart street.

Total loan appropriations authorized, $1,000,000, all of which had been expended by 1920, when an additional appropriation of $300,000 (from Tax Levy) was provided for completing the power stations.

MUNICIPAL SERVICE.

Complaints, inquiries or suggestions regarding the work of municipal departments should be made in writing to the officials directly in charge. The failure of such officials to make reply within a reasonable length of time should be brought to the attention of the Mayor. Communications should be directed as follows:

To the Board of Street Commissioners, Room 401, City Hall Annex, for information relative to the laying out, relocation, widening and the discontinuance of highways; the taking of real property for municipal purposes; the assessments of betterments for streets and sewers; the plotting of undeveloped areas for streets and the opening of private ways; the granting of licenses for the storage or sale of merchandise in public streets; the regulation of street traffic; the making of specific repairs in public streets, the naming of public streets, the planting and removal of trees in public ways, the issuing of licenses for the storage of gasolene, oil and other inflammable substances or explosive compounds, the use of the public ways for any permanent or temporary obstruction or projection in, under or over the same, including the location of conduits, poles and posts for telephone, telegraph, street railway or illuminating purposes, signs, marquises, bay windows, coal holes and vaults.

To the Commissioner of Public Works, Room 511, City Hall Annex, for information as to the watering, cleaning, lighting and repairing of streets, the construction and care of sewers and catch-basins, the operation of the ferries, the maintenance of bridges and drawbridges and the removal of ashes and offal.

To Room 604, City Hall Annex, for information relative to the supplying or metering of water and the water charges of the city.

To the Health Department, Room 1107, City Hall Annex, for information relative to the inspection of milk, vinegar, meat, fish and vegetables, the issuance of permits for stables, slaughter houses, etc., smoke nuisances, the existence of contagious diseases or public health nuisances.

To the Board of Park Commissioners, 33 Beacon street, for information as to the care of the Common, Public Garden, Franklin Park, Franklin Field, Commonwealth avenue, Back Bay Fens, Marine Park and the small parks and playgrounds in general throughout the city, and as to the extermination of gypsy moths and the charges made for such service. Application may be made to this department for information regarding the public baths and gymnasiums maintained by the city, and with regard to municipal indoor concerts and band concerts; also information relative to Mount Hope, Evergreen, Fairview and other public cemeteries owned by the City of Boston.

To the School Committee, 26 Mason street, for information relative to the operation of the schools of the city.

To the Schoolhouse Commissioners, Room 1007, City Hall Annex, for information as to the construction and repair of school buildings.

To the Board of Examiners, Room 1001, City Hall Annex, for information regarding the licensing of persons having charge or control of the work of construction, alteration, removal or tearing down of buildings.

To the Wire Division of the Fire Department, Room 905, City Hall Annex, for all information relative to the erection of poles, the building of conduits, the installation of wires and electrical apparatus. Also to the same office for permits for the installing of wires and electrical apparatus within buildings in the City of Boston, and for the payment of fees incident to the granting of the privileges above named, and which must invariably be paid in advance.

WITHOUT ADVERTISING.

The Mayor has approved the following contracts awarded without advertising; requests of heads of departments to do work with the department forces without advertising; additions to and deductions from contracts.

Assessing Department.

The Mayor has approved a contract with the Library Bureau for listing the persons in the City of Boston who will be assessed for the payment of a poll tax in 1922.

A communication from Chairman Edward T. Kelly was as follows:

City of Boston,
Assessing Department,
February 21, 1922.

Hon. James M. Curley,
Mayor of Boston:

Dear Sir,—We desire your permission to make a contract with the Library Bureau for a list of persons liable to assessment of a poll tax for the year 1922.

The list to be prepared from the copy as it is written for the Police Department and is to be done while said work is in progress. This method would permit of the third copy being available not later than May 25, a result not possible if the contract is awarded to anyone else. The final copy will be ready early in June, complete deliveries being assured by contract on or before June 30.

We respectfully request your permission to make the contract with the Library Bureau at the figure submitted by them of $13,000, because they can complete the work at an earlier date than anyone else, having access to the lists during the progress of the police work and because in our opinion it cannot be done at a less cost by anyone else.

Very respectfully yours,
Edward T. Kelly, Chairman.

Public Works Department.

The Mayor has approved the following contract work upon request of the Commissioner of Public Works:

Boston, February 25, 1922.

Hon. James M. Curley,
Mayor of Boston:

Dear Sir,—Authority is requested to make repairs to steel and iron work of Dartmouth Street Bridge over New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad and Boston & Albany Railroad with the day labor forces of the Boston Transit and Public Works Departments, without inviting proposals therefor by advertisement, the estimated cost for labor and material being $8,000. This is maintenance work and it is extremely difficult to tell how much will have to be done until the floor of the bridge is ripped up. It is known that the bridge is in very poor condition and the necessity for repairs is urgent.

Respectfully,
T. F. Sullivan,
Commissioner of Public Works.

ADDITIONS TO AND DEDUCTIONS FROM CONTRACTS.

The following additions to and deductions from contracts have been approved:

Public Buildings Department.

A deduction amounting to $48.18, on contract with Thomas W. Byrne for electrical work, Faneuil Hall Market, as follows: Omit 190 10-watt lamps, 4 25-watt lamps. Original contract, $1,296; total deduction, $48.18; contract as standing, $1,247.82.

THE MAYOR NAMES INSTITUTIONS COMMISSIONER.

Dr. David J. Johnson, named by the Mayor for appointment as Institutions Commissioner, is married, lives at 118 Commonwealth avenue. Born in Boston in 1874, he received his education in the public schools of Boston, attended Holy Cross College and the medical school of Harvard University, receiving his degree from the latter institution in 1897.

From 1897 to 1898 he was house officer at the Long Island Hospital and on McKinley's declaration of war with Spain, immediately volunteered for service with the army. He served as an assistant surgeon with the rank of First Lieutenant for three years. Part of his work with the army was the organization of the Fort Strong Hospital at Long Island head. He recruited the 44th and 45th U. S. Volunteers at Camp Meade, Penn., and served with the 15th U. S. Infantry at Plattsburg Barracks as regimental surgeon, accompanying this regiment as far as San Francisco, under orders to proceed to China for the defence af the legations from the Boxers.

Orders from Washington recalled Dr. Johnson to Plattsburg Barracks, however, and after further service at this station, he resigned from the army and entered private practice in Roxbury, Dorchester and Boston. He served at the Boston Dispensary for a year and was then placed in charge of the Roxbury branch of the dispensary.

Dr. Johnson is a member of the American Medical Association and the Massachusetts Medical Society. During the war with Germany he offered his services to the Surgeon General of the Army and was placed in the U. S. Volunteer Medical Corps.

STRANDWAY IMPROVEMENT.

Mayor Curley is considering a $750,000 development plan by which a troublesome boulevard traffic situation at City Point, South Boston, may be obliterated, the present scenic beauty of the section much enhanced, and employment provided for skilled and unskilled mechanics.

The plan would enlarge the present small square where Columbia road, Old Colony avenue and the Strandway converge, near Columbus Park, and where there are now periodical minor accidents and a standing danger of a bad one.

Chairman James B. Shea of the Park Commission, Commissioner C. A. Coolidge and Arthur A. Shurtleff, the commission's consulting architect, were in conference with Budget Commissioner Rupert S. Carven and the Mayor.

Mr. Shurtleff's plans, as displayed, call for a greensward circle in the center of the enlarged circle, around which traffic would turn in an orderly way, instead of becoming mixed as in the present "hit or miss" jumble. The new circle's diameter would be about 350 feet, thus giving ample space for several groups of cars and eliminating altogether the present cross channels of traffic.

An added reason for such an improvement is that the terrain at this point is on as high an altitude as any along the immediate shore, and affords the pleasantest view of the harbor and bay.

This improvement is the only one now under consideration for immediate action, but the Shurtleff plans also contain suggestions for a new bathing beach opposite Columbus Park, nearby. "And some day, when we get wealthy enough, we ought to have a new concrete and steel bath house to replace the present worn-out, ramshackle firetrap which we call the L Street Bath House"!

The Mayor thinks, too, of enlarging Independence Pier, leading from the mainland at City Point over to Castle Island, so that boulevard motorists can cross the pier to the island in summer, park there and enjoy cooling zephyrs off the water.

As a popular waterfront resort of its special nature these improvements, if they go through finally, would put the Peninsula District several laps ahead, and make it somewhere near as "swell" as the famous Lynn boulevard and other North Shore highways.

CLAIMS.

The Mayor has approved the claim of Henry J. Savage, 4181 Washington street, Roslindale, in the amount of $400, as full payment for land taken and all damages occasioned to his estate upon Kennebec street, Dorchester, by the taking made for school purposes under an order of the Board of Street Commissioners of November 26, 1920.

The Mayor has approved the claim of John Neville, 34 Adams street, Charlestown, in the amount of $1,245.64 as full payment for land taken and all damages occasioned to his estate on Chelsea street by the widening of said street under the order of the Board of Street Commissioners.

The Mayor has approved the claim of Julia E. Sullivan, 1755 Beacon street, Brookline, in the amount of $82,617.50 as full payment for land taken and all damages occasioned to her estate in Eliot street by the laying out, extension, widening, relocation and construction of Stuart street, city proper, between Huntington avenue and Washington street; and the widening and construction of Eliot street, between Warrenton street and Broadway, under the order of the Board of Street Commissioners.

MAYOR INDORSES NAUTICAL SCHOOL.

A number of graduates of the Massachusetts Nautical School have called on Mayor James M. Curley for assistance to combat the recommendations embodied in House Report 800 under the head, "Abandonment of Activities," which suggests the discontinuance of the Nautical School.

Massachusetts does practically nothing to help her great fishing industry, while Pennsylvania, with a twenty-mile shore front on Lake Erie, appropriates about $300,000 to keep her fishing industry going. Our fishing interests are now in a parlous condition, an industry that is coeval with the settlement of Massachusetts and has been the foundation stone of all her industrial greatness. Now comes this recommendation to kill the Nautical School at a time when Massachusetts is struggling to revive her marine activities. Napoleon regarded the military blunderer as a criminal and this recommendation is an exhibition of stupidity that brings it perilously near the Napoleonic dictum.

Mayor Curley has this to say of this remarkable lack of appreciation of historic Massachusetts and its marine achievements which the abandonment of this nursery of Captains Courageous connotes:

"The suggested abandonment by the Department of Education of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts of the Nautical School would be a distinctly reactionary policy, and one as hateful to the pride and tradition of the Commonwealth as it would be detrimental to the morale of a community which has been nautical from its birth and whose primacy and prosperity have been the outgrowth of its maritime activities. What Massachusetts is today she owes to the vigor and valor of her seamen of former days; the wealth captured from the seas and the commerce that was carried on them were the capital that made industrial Massachusetts possible, for nature has been a grudging mother of the state.

"The smug statement that a merchant marine is a federal or a private concern rather than a state function is a species of treason, and points plainly to one of the reasons for the decay of the state from its former leadership; it connotes a willingness to surrender the spirit of independence and self-reliance which has been the saving salt of New England, and to have the growth and grandeur of this state made dependent on the whim of federal bureaus who regard New England as a negligible quantity.

"At a time when the best minds and energies of Massachusetts are being called on to work for the restoration of the former commercial primacy of the port of Boston, and when it is becoming increasingly obvious that every commercial and industrial interest of New England demands that we go back to the sea and its traffic to cure our financial ills, the suggestion of the Department of Education is as ill-advised as it is antagonistic to the higher interests of the state. As well advocate the abandonment of our common schools and seek in federal and private initiative and control the training of our children for citizenship.

"A self-dependent Massachusetts should train her own sons for maritime careers and stimulate even more generously the work that is represented by the Nautical Training School. The fact that the State Department of Education seems to be obsessed with a singular incapacity to understand the work and future significance of the Massachusetts Nautical School is not so much a reason for its discontinuance as it is an evidence of lack of vision on the part of that body.

"It will be a day for Massachusetts to mourn when her utter neglect of her fishing industries is supplemented by the abolition of a school that is as essential to her interest on the sea as her common schools, and the proponents of such a cowardly surrender deserve only rebuke. If at this trying hour when the commercial and industrial interests of the state are hanging in the balance we permit those appointed to conserve our educational interests deliberately to destroy the cradle of our maritime marine, the Nautical School, it will be well to take down the insignia of our marine activities from the dome of the State House and abandon all pretense of emulating the spiriting and the industry of the founders of Massachusetts.

"Under no circumstances should any such action be taken until the matter has been given the most thorough discussion and the widest publicity.

"The future of the self-respecting, self-dependent democracy of Massachusetts lies in the management of its own affairs and the development of its own interests without the insidious meddling and coddling of Washington. Much of the lethargy and indifference that have come with a retrogression of all our affairs can be traced to the deleterious interference of federal agencies in our domestic affairs. The federal bureaus have not made so magnificent a use of their opportunities for public good as to tempt us to abandon the agencies that served us so well. The Nautical School of Massachusetts has been one of our glories and practical assets of great work. It must be continued and maintained; its splendid achievements and its future possibilities are worth ten times all they have cost. It would be a queer commentary on the state which has spent millions to celebrate and commemorate the men who founded Plymouth, that it now should be willing to abandon the nursery which trains the sons of Massachusetts to keep alive the maritime traditions and restore the maritime prosperity which have been the glory of the Commonwealth.

"Graduates of the Massachusetts Nautical School have been and are now filling positions of responsibility and usefulness connected with the marine and engineering interests of the country all over the republic as well as on the seas, and each one of them brings honor and credit to the school that trained him and constitutes a living proof of its unique value to our country and the practical wisdom of its existence. A list of the graduates and the positions they fill is impressively numerous and constitutes a record of practical achievement that is a splendid tribute to Massachusetts and to the sons she has trained."

WILL ENTERTAIN VETERANS.

The Mayor, upon recommendation of Councillor Gilbody, has appointed Peter F. Costello as chairman of the City of Boston Committee for the Entertainment of Disabled Veterans of the World War.

MAYOR PROTESTS DIFFERENTIALS.

Mayor Curley addressed a telegram to United States Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, protesting the present system of differentials, upon the 25th instant.

The telegram of Mayor Curley was as follows:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor,
February 25, 1922.

Hon. Henry Cabot Lodge, Senate Chamber, Washington, D. C.:

The present system of differentials on New England Railroads is destructive to commerce, and should as a matter of justice be corrected at once. A committee interested in the development of the industry and commerce of New England are prepared to present the facts at such time as you may designate to the New England delegation in Congress, believing that through the united action of the New England representation in Congress immediate relief will be possible. Will you kindly wire me when it will be agreeable for you to have our committee wait upon your meeting of New England representatives at Washington?

James M. Curley, Mayor.

MAYOR ARRANGES FOR PROTECTION OF CITY.

Mayor Curley determined during the current week the manner of devising ways and means for the protection of the city from possible breaks in high pressure water mains.

The Mayor referred the question to Acting Commissioner Joseph P. Manning of the Fire Department by memorandum.

The following communications are self-explanatory and advise the manner by which Mayor Curley plans for safeguarding the City have been perfected:

City of Boston,
Fire Department,
February 13, 1922.

Hon. James M. Curley,
Mayor of Boston:

Dear Sir,—Referring to your memorandum on the question of training an emergency crew in the Fire Department to take care of breaks in water mains I would say that I have gone over the matter with the chief of department and we have come to the following conclusions:

The Fire Department, primarily intended for extinguishing fires, has always been ready to respond to emergency calls where loss of life and property is threatened. I can see no reason why the Fire Department could not render prompt and efficient service when called upon to close gates in case of breaks in the water mains, provided, however, that the proper equipment is furnished and that the firemen receive the necessary instructions to do the work.

I would suggest that instead of having one crew trained to do this work, every fire engine company in the city be so trained and equipped, in order to render more prompt and efficient service. To have but one trained crew for this work would mean considerable delay in responding to remote sections of the city and consequent increased damage every moment of delay pending its arrival.

Arrangements could be made whereby a hose wagon and a district chief of each locality would respond in a similar manner as to a still alarm call. Also the emergency crew of the Water Division should be notified to respond in the event of the fire engine company being engaged at a fire at the time of the emergency.

I will be glad to take this matter up further with your Honor, or the Commissioner of Public Works, if you suggest.

Yours very truly,

Joseph P. Manning,
Acting Fire Commissioner.

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor,
February 23, 1922.

Mr. Joseph P. Manning,
Acting Fire Commissioner:

Dear Sir,—I have this day instructed the Commissioner of Public Works to designate Mr. Christopher Carven of the Water Department to confer with Chief Walsh and yourself with a view to the protection of the city from possible breaks in high pressure mains.

Sincerely yours,

James M. Curley, Mayor.

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor,
February 23, 1922.

Mr. Thomas F. Sullivan,
Public Works Commissioner:

Dear Sir,—I am in receipt of the inclosed communication from the Acting Fire Commissioner, and would appreciate your turning this matter over to Christopher Carven of the Water Department, with instructions to take up at once with the Fire Commissioner and Chief of the Fire Department the question of having plans of the location of gates of the high pressure system furnished each one of the district chiefs throughout the city, and the equipping of the car of the district chief with the necessary apparatus for the shutting off of gates in the event of break in water mains.

This would appear to me as the most advisable method of meeting this condition. However, if a better one can be determined on, it would be acceptable.

Sincerely yours,

James M. Curley, Mayor.

City of Boston,
Fire Department,
February 28, 1922.

Hon. James M. Curley,
Mayor of Boston:

Dear Sir,—In accordance with the instructions contained in your letter of February 23, 1922, a conference was held at this office today with Mr. Christopher Carven of the Public Works Department, Chief Walsh and myself with a view to the protection of the city from possible breaks in high pressure mains.

Arrangements have been made to instruct members of the department from the in-town companies and the emergency crews in the location of and method of operation of the gates of the high pressure mains. It has also been arranged to furnish this department with an adequate supply of wrenches to shut down the gates when necessary.

Yours very truly,

Joseph P. Manning,
Acting Fire Commissioner.

THE PROBLEM OF DIFFERENTIALS.

Mayor Curley wired Senator Lodge upon the 1st instant asking for a personal appointment on Friday, March 3d, in order that he might lay before him the imperative need of the Port of Boston for speedy action on the part of the Interstate Commerce Commission in the matter of wiping out the freight differential that now operates against this port in the routing of east-bound freight.

Commenting on his plans the Mayor said: "I am confident that as soon as the Interstate Commerce Commission realizes the certain results in reviving the business of this port, with its consequent amelioration of the unemployment situation they will act with reasonable promptness. Moreover their decision will be in harmony with the expressed purpose of President Harding's recent message on maritime affairs and his keen interest in shipping affairs.

"The Boston Chamber of Commerce, with which I am anxious to co-operate, has been preparing an important brief covering this and other questions pertaining to the port and I do not care to discuss its case or trench on its work until the Chamber is ready to act; but in all cases there will be co-ordination of effort and harmonious relations.

"I am satisfied that every effort made to stimulate trade through the port will have the sympathy and aid of every commercial and industrial agency and unit in Massachusetts, as perhaps the most vital and human need of the hour is to provide work for the unemployed; and work and wages spell peace in the community, content in the home and happiness all around.

The message of President Harding is certain to have stimulating effect and do much to dissipate the pessimism that has been too much in evidence in commercial circles of the country for a year past. This seems to be an opportune time for action as it is understood that New York is now ready to protest against the differential, which it has not been willing to do in the past, and to advocate a flat rate from Chicago to the Atlantic seaboard regardless of mileage as is now operative between Chicago and the Pacific ports."

ABATEMENT OF POLL TAXES.

Mayor Curley received upon the 25th instant from the Board of Assessors the following letter relative to the abatement of poll taxes of the veterans of the Spanish and World War:

City of Boston,
Assessing Department,
February 25, 1922.

Hon. James M. Curley,
Mayor of Boston:

Dear Sir,—Under existing laws veterans of the Spanish and the World War are obliged to make application to the assessors within ninety days of the date of the tax bill in order to receive abatement of $3 of the $5 tax bill.

This proceedure, in so far as it relates to the World War veterans, is entirely new and should be brought to the attention of the veterans in order that their rights may be preserved.

Application for abatement must be made within ninety days of July 1, and no provision has been made for receiving applications at a later date. Unless these applications are made to the assessors within the required time no abatement can be made. There is no provision in the law for an extension of the time and no allowance made for any inability to make application after the time specified.

I discussed with the Tax Commissioner the question of amending the law so that the assessors might receive applications after ninety days of the date of the bill upon the presentation of reasonable excuse for delay. He writes that considering all the circumstances it is not advisable to recommend any changes in legislation at the present time.

It thus becomes necessary to bring to the attention of the veterans their rights regarding abatements and the necessity of exercising them before it is too late.

The Assessing Department intends to attach a blank application to every tax bill of the veterans reported by the police, but as some may be omitted these suggestions are made.

Very respectfully yours,

Edward T. Kelly, Chairman.

MAYOR SENDS FISCAL MESSAGE.

Mayor Curley addressed a message relative to the financial requirements of the city for the forthcoming year to the members of the City Council upon the 27th instant.

The Mayor's message was as follows:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor,
February 27, 1921.

To the City Council:

Gentlemen,—Under the provisions of section 3, chapter 486, of the Acts of 1908, the Mayor is required to submit the budget within thirty days after the beginning of the fiscal year, and I accordingly submit the accompanying budget in lump form.

Boston holds the unique position of being the only city in the state which has its limit of appropriation power fixed by the Legislature. Under existing law, the city may raise $6.52 on each one thousand of the average valuation for three years, less abatements, for general municipal purposes, exclusive of schools. For several years past the Legislature has granted a higher rate operative one year at a time. Last year this rate was $11 on each thousand.

The effect of the present law, and the comparison with the last year, is as follows:

Amount available for appropriations inside the tax limit 1921-22	$25,791,276 11
Amount available for appropriations inside the tax limit 1922-23	14,492,622 43
Decrease in appropriating power under the present law	$11,298,653 68

No further comment is needed to show the inadequacy of the present law to provide for the needs of the city.

The Legislature is now considering a bill granting the right to Boston to fix its own tax limit. Upon passage of this bill, or other legislation granting authority to appropriate sufficient funds for the needs of the municipality, I will immediately proceed to prepare and submit at the earliest possible time the annual budget in full segregated form.

Respectfully,
James M. Curley, Mayor.

MAYOR PROVIDES WORK.

Agents of five public service corporations in conference with Mayor Curley upon the 27th instant committed their companies to full co-operation with him in carrying on the task of putting underground this year more than the required four-mile quota of wires still strung overhead.

The New England Telephone and Telegraph, the Edison, Postal, Western Union and Boston Elevated companies were represented. The law requires that four miles of wires be buried yearly until all are submerged, as a measure of public safety. Shortage of necessary conduits and war high prices are responsible for the fact that less than a mile of wires has been buried in the last five years.

Mayor Curley argued for a resumption of this work beginning April 15, or as quickly thereafter as each company can begin it. None offered objection to starting them. Thus extended employment should be provided.

The Mayor said the telephone company's man informed him it plans an outlay of $6,000,000 this season for general conduit and cable work.

OUR INDUSTRIAL DECADENCE.

New England is surely digging its own industrial grave. This is the conclusion reached by Mayor James M. Curley, after a careful study af the expansion and development of the port of Montreal which has been in progress for the past few years.

For, while New England has been listlessly dozing away and neglecting its port possibilities, Montreal and the Marine Department of Canada have been spending more than $70,000,000 in improving that port's facilities and along the great St. Lawrence waterway to the sea, erecting warehouses, deepening channels and extending Montreal piers so as to take care of the ever increasing business from its great wheat fields and cattle growing sections, much of which must pass through the Port of Boston if this section is to remain alive.

Once Montreal is fitted to care for all Canada's grain and meat shipments Boston and New England die of industrial starvation. New England is hemmed in on one side by the Hudson river and on another by the St. Lawrence. By the development of a system of barges by the New York Central lines much of the United States shipments which formerly came through New England to Boston by way of the Boston & Albany Railroad are being diverted down the Hudson river to New York. This leaves New England depending on shipments from Canada, such as grain and meats, to provide ballast for ships coming into Boston with raw materials for this section and taking away our products which do not provide cargo bulk.

To show how New England stands to lose by neglect of the Port of Boston there passed through the city of Sault Ste. Marie during the year 1921 more than 91,000,000 tons of shipping. Montreal up to this year has not been able to care for much of this tonnage which might be headed for her port. But this spring there will be completed extensions to her grain elevators for storage, extensions of her piers and the deepening of her harbor channel that will invite eventually most of that shipping to her port.

Canada has already spent $90,000,000 on the great St. Lawrence waterway from the Great Lakes to Montreal, deepening the channel to 30 feet. It is planned to deepen the channel from Montreal to the sea to 35 feet at an expenditure of $20,000,000 more. In addition to this the Marine Department of Canada is proposing to spend $150,000,000 more to deepen channels and canals to admit ocean steamers to Toronto, Port Arthur and Fort William on the Canadian side or Duluth, Detroit and Chicago on the American side.

In 1920 there were shipped from Canada by way of Port Arthur and Fort William by water to Canadian ports, 73,470,913 bushels of grain and to American ports by way of water, 64,882,078 bushels, making a total of 138,352,991 bushels of grain passing out of Canada by water. In 1919 the number of ships clearing at Montrael was 957, with a total tonnage of 3,489,368. The city now has capacity for storing 8,600,000 bushels of grain in its elevators. On September 7, 1921, there were 78 ocean going vessels docked there and loading or unloading shipments. Up to last August 61,963,000 bushels of grain had been moved through the port of Montreal as compared with 25,000,000 bushels during the same period of the previous year and 12,500,000 bushels during the first half of the year 1914.

Montreal is building a cold storage plant, which will be completed in May of this year, eight stories high, with four stories fitted for refrigeration and three stories for dry storage. This warehouse is being built at a cost of $2,250,000. This warehouse is one of the best equipped of any port in the world, having a railroad elevator hoist which will take cars filled with freight to any floor, thus providing for the handling of carload freight from sheds to warehouse or vice versa. Cars for delivery to outside points may thus be loaded for these points at the different floors and shipped without intermediary cartage. Every modern convenience known to facilitate the quick movement of freight has been installed in this building.

Plans are under way for the erection of new grain elevators of 4,000,000 bushels capacity which will be the largest at any seaport in the world. Extensions will be made to the elevator system also so that vessels at any berth in the harbor will be able to receive their grain there without shifting to special grain berths. They will also be able to load grain at one level while loading or unloading freight at another.

All Montreal's piers have been so improved as to make the port of increasing value to shippers. The Victoria pier has been so extended as to give the market basin 2,700 linear feet of high level quays for ocean steamers of a depth of 35 feet at low water and 4,000 linear feet on low level quays for river and canal vessels.

Three other piers, the King Edward, the Alexandra and the Jacques Cartier piers have been extended 250 feet, thus enabling them to accommodate two of the largest vessels navigating the St. Lawrence river on each side, thus being 1,200 feet long. All wharves further along the waterfront, both high and low levels, have been extended and miles of concrete walls are being built along the front to enhance the value of its eight miles of harbor.

Montreal is also planning to take care of tramp steamers' trade by the erection of another grain elevator from which these can load grain, thus increasing the grain shipments through this port more than one third those of the present time.

In 1920 Montreal's imports were $246,898,626 and her exports $353,138,249. In this same year imports of the Massachusetts customs district which includes Boston and eight minor ports were $392,752,807, while her exports were $192,866,178. Boston's foreign trade fell off $48,300,045 in one year.

In addition to all this preparation for taking care of her own trade and thus drying up Boston and New England industrially the Canadian railroads are erecting enormous hotels along their routes to thus take care of passenger travel which might otherwise be diverted to Boston and through New England. All this means but one thing. Boston and New England must wake up immediately or soon die of industrial stagnation.

MAYOR INDORSES ANTI-LYNCHING BILL.

Mayor Curley has strongly indorsed the Dyer Anti-Lynching Bill, now pending in the United States Senate, and has addressed the following letter relative to the proposed legislation:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor,
February 25, 1922.

Mr. James Weldon Johnson, Secretary National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, 70 Fifth Avenue, New York, N. Y.:

Dear Mr. Johnson,—I am duly in receipt of your valued favor of the 24th instant, inclosing a memorial to the United States Senate, making righteous protest against the killing and burning alive of human beings in the United States, and advising that, since the year 1889, there have been 3,443 mob burnings, including the taking of the lives of sixty-four women.

I have, upon the public platform and through the columns of the press, made repeated statements that this character of outrages in the United States should be summarily ended, and the transgressors punished to the full extent of the law.

I am pleased to sign your memorial which is herewith inclosed, and sincerely trust the desired legislation may be enacted.

Sincerely yours,

James M. Curley, Mayor.

3. Patrick J. Monahan, 189 Heath street, Roxbury, to the position of Constable of the City of Boston.

Laid over under the law.

MUNICIPAL BUILDING, BRIGHTON.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, February 15, 1922.
To the City Council:

Gentlemen,—In accordance with the request of the City Council on February 6, the Superintendent of Public Buildings has prepared an estimate of the cost of providing a site and erecting a municipal building in the Brighton district. I am transmitting his report herewith.

Respectfully yours,
JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

City of Boston,
Public Buildings Department,
February 10, 1922.
Hon. James M. Curley,
Mayor of Boston:

Dear Sir,—In reply to the inclosed order of the City Council that the Superintendent of Public Buildings be requested through his Honor the Mayor to give an estimate for the site and a municipal building in the Brighton district, I wish to say that a suitable building to be erected in this district would cost approximately $350,000. As for the site, that is problematical, as it will all depend on the location and the number of buildings on same.

In connection with this order I might add that there is an appropriation, made in 1917, in the sum of $5,000, for the plans, studies, etc., for a proposed municipal building in Brighton. Messrs. Desmond & Lord were appointed architects and they prepared certain sketches, when they were ordered to discontinue all further work along these lines. They have, however, submitted to this office sketches showing the possibilities of the building they contemplate erecting.

We had in view at that time a location known as "Wilson Park," a lot of land containing 25,035 square feet, located at the junction of Academy road and Chestnut Hill avenue, but probably this site would not be available now, as it has been turned over to the Park Department.

FRED J. KNEELAND,
Superintendent of Public Buildings.

Placed on file.

COMMERCIAL, INDUSTRIAL AND PUBLICITY BUREAU.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, February 20, 1922.
To the City Council:

Gentlemen,—The most important proposition confronting New England today, and more particularly the capital city of New England, Boston, is the restoration and revival of commerce.

The whole history of the greatness of Boston in the past resulted from the commercial activities of her citizenship. With a view to conserving what little remains and acquiring that which her position entitled Boston to enjoy, I recommend the establishment of a Commercial, Industrial and Publicity Bureau to work under the direction of the Mayor.

I accordingly recommend the passage of the accompanying order.

Respectfully,
JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

Ordered, That the sum of $20,000 be expended, under the direction of the Mayor, by the Commercial, Industrial and Publicity Bureau in the prosecution of its duties, said sum to be charged to the Reserve Fund.

Referred to the Executive Committee.

APPROPRIATION FOR COMMITTEE ON UNEMPLOYMENT.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, February 20, 1922.
To the City Council:

Gentlemen,—It is highly important that the citizenship of our city enjoy the advantages to which, as citizens, they are entitled, and these advantages can best be conserved by promoting a policy of preference in employment to all who are citizens both in public and private employ.

With a view to relieving unemployment, I recommend the establishment by the City of Boston of an Unemployment Bureau to work in conjunction with the Unemployment Committee.

On October 7, 1921, $2,500 was appropriated by the Mayor and City Council to be expended by the Committee on Unemployment. Of this appropriation, there is a balance today of approximately $2,000, and in order that the Employment Bureau may have sufficient funds to properly function, an additional appropriation of $10,000 should be provided.

I accordingly recommend the passage of the accompanying order.

Respectfully,
JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

Ordered, That the sum of $10,000 additional be expended, under the direction of the Mayor, by the Committee on Unemployment, in the prosecution of its duties, said sum to be charged to the Reserve Fund.

Referred to the Executive Committee.

Ordered, That the persons named in the foregoing schedules be and the same are assessed the sums set against their respective names as their proportionate part of the cost of constructing sidewalks on the above-named streets, and the same is ordered certified and notice given to the persons as aforesaid.

The order was passed.

ALTERATIONS, CAMBRIDGE STREET BRIDGE.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Law Department, February 18, 1922.

James Donovan, Esquire, City Clerk:

Dear Sir,—In answer to the following order of the City Council passed February 13,—

"Ordered, That the Corporation Counsel be requested to inform the City Council as to the cause of the delay in the completion of the alterations of the bridge by which Cambridge street crosses the Boston & Albany Railroad in Brighton," the delay has been caused because it has been necessary to institute court proceedings to have a commission appointed by the Superior Court for the County of Suffolk to ascertain what party or parties interested shall do the work and how the cost of the work to be done is to be apportioned. Joseph A. Campbell, Esquire, of this office, has charge of this matter for this department and he has filed the necessary petition in the Superior Court. The commissioners will be appointed in the very near future and he informs me that he expects that an agreement will speedily be arrived at between the parties interested as to which party will do the work and when that is done the work can be commenced at once.

In these matters it is customary to have the parties agree that the city shall be allowed to do the work and that after the work is done, the commission appointed shall determine in what proportions the cost shall be distributed.

Very truly yours,

Arthur D. Hill,
Corporation Counsel.

Placed on file.

STANLEY A. RINGER PLAYGROUND.

Coun. WALSH offered an order—That the Board of Park Commissioners be requested to name the Allston Playground Stanley A. Ringer Playground, in memory of the said man who died in the service of the United States during the World War; and that the playground be designated by suitable signs.

INCORPORATION OF BOSTON.

Boston was incorporated as a city February 23, 1822, this being the date when the Act of incorporation was passed by the Legislature. On March 4 following, the voters of Boston accepted said Act, viz. Chap. 110, 1821-22, as its first City Charter by a majority of 916 in a total vote of 4,678. Ten futile attempts had previously been made to incorporate as a city, viz., in 1650, 1659, 1667, 1708, 1744, 1762, 1784, 1791, 1804 and 1815. Revised charter adopted in 1854. Charter again revised in 1885 and amended in 1909.

CITY CHARTER CHANGES.

In 1854, 1885 and 1909 important changes in the original City Charter of 1821 were effected for the purpose of improving the methods and efficiency of the City Government. The revision of 1854 (Chap. 448, Stat. 1854) referred to the voters for acceptance, gave the Mayor a qualified veto over the action of the City Council, also the power of removal of appointed officials, besides providing for his election by a plurality instead of a majority vote. The amendments of 1885 (Chap. 266, Stat. 1885) were not submitted to the voters for approval. They transferred all the executive powers to the Mayor, prohibiting the City Council from interference with the executive and administrative business of the City. This was done in order to end the inefficiency resulting from an excessive number of joint committees, a municipal development conforming to the traditions of the outgrown town government.

The amendments of 1909 (Chap. 486, Stat. 1909) cut down the number and powers of the legislative branch of the government to a minimum, the Board of Aldermen (13 members) and the Common Council (75 members) being abolished. For these was substituted a single City Council of nine members to be elected at large for 3-year term. The Mayor's position was further strengthened by giving him a 4-year term, subject to recall at end of two years, but requiring a majority of the registered voters to make the recall effective. The Mayor's power over appointments was no longer subject to check by aldermen but by a State board, the Civil Service Commission, and City elections were removed from all connection with national and State politics, no primaries nor caucuses being permitted, all candidates for office to be selected by means of nomination papers. The only question in this Act of 1909 which was submitted to the voters was contained in section 35, i. e., whether Plan 1 or Plan 2 should be adopted, the first providing for a term of two years for Mayor and a City Council of 36 members to be chosen in primaries. Plan 2 was adopted by a majority of 3,894. Charter of 1909 amended later as follows: (1) By Chap. 437, Acts of 1910, exempting loans issued for Rapid Transit construction from the prohibition of the establishing of sinking funds, as contained in sec. 26. (2) Chap. 730, Acts of 1914, fixing date of annual municipal election on the sixth Tuesday after the state election instead of in the following January, as in sec. 32; changing the requirement as to signatures on nomination papers to 3,000 for Mayor and 2,000 for City Council and School Committee instead of 5,000 for all, as in sec. 53, also limiting the number of nomination papers issued to 300 for a candidate for Mayor and 200 for other candidates, referring to sec. 54. (3) Chap. 37, Special Acts of 1918, annulling the jurat at end of nomination papers. (4) Chap. 94, Special Acts of 1918, abolishing recall of Mayor, and making him ineligible for re-election, i. e., establishing a single term of four years, but not prohibiting the election of any Mayor for other than consecutive terms.

UNDERGROUND RAPID TRANSIT IN BOSTON.

The Boston Transit Commission, consisting of five members, two appointed by the Governor and three by the Mayor, began its official existence July 1, 1894, and ended it July 1, 1918, after seven extensions of the original term. It constructed, under the authority of Acts of the Legislature, the following subways and tunnels, the ownership of which is vested in the City of Boston, and all costs to be covered by revenue from same, not by taxation; Tremont Street Subway from Broadway and Tremont st., South End, to North Station and from Boylston st., near Charles to Park st., 1.68 miles, opened to Park St. September 1, 1897, and to North Station on Sept. 3, 1898, costing with subsequent alterations, $4,416,000, the first municipal subway in the United States; East Boston Tunnel, from Maverick square, E. Boston, under Boston Harbor and State st. to Scollay square, Boston Proper, 1.42 miles, opened December 30, 1904, costing $3,336,000; Washington Street Tunnel, from Ash st. opp. Nassau, South End, to Traverse st., near North Station, 1.16 miles, opened November 30, 1908, costing $8,496,700 (including $2,850,000 land damages); Cambridge Connection Subway, from under Park st. station of Tremont St. Subway to Grove st., near Cambridge Bridge, 0.47 miles, opened March 23, 1912, costing $1.465,000; Boylston Street Subway, from Commonwealth ave., near Kenmore st., Back Bay, to Tremont St. Subway, near Charles st., 1.5 miles, opened October 3, 1914, costing $5,327,000; East Boston Tunnel Extension, from Scollay square to North Russell st., 0.41 miles, opened March 18, 1916, approximate cost, $2,450,000; Dorchester Tunnel, from Park st., Boston Proper, to Andrew square, South Boston, 2.26 miles, opened December 3, 1916, as far as South Station, on December 15, 1917 to Broadway, South Boston, and on June 29, 1918, to the Andrew Square terminal; trains of four or six cars are run in the Washington St. Tunnel, continuing on elevated track to Forest Hills, also in Dorchester Tunnel and connecting Cambridge Tunnel from Andrew sq., So. Boston to Harvard sq., Cambridge, while only single or double street-cars are run in the other tunnels and subways; amount borrowed to 1921 for the Dorchester tunnel, $10,750,000. Total cost of all subways and tunnels, about $36,995,000, incl. loan of $825,000 for new Arlington Station, against which a sinking fund of $5,818,710 has been accumulated from the revenue, payable mostly in 40 years from date of each loan (loans since 1911 payable in 45 years), annual interest averaging 3.8 per cent. These underground ways about 8.9 miles in all with total of 19.27 miles of single track were leased to the Boston Elevated Railway Company (which furnished the equipment) for term of 25 years (except Tremont Street 20 years) at annual rental of $4\frac{1}{2}$ to $4\frac{7}{8}$ per cent of net cost (except East Boston Tunnel which was at $\frac{1}{8}$ of one per cent of all annual gross receipts of said company). In accordance with Chapter 741, Acts of 1911, the various leases were extended to July 1, 1936, the rental to be $4\frac{1}{2}$ per cent of net cost after expiration of the first-term leases.

By Chap. 185, Special Acts of 1918, the powers of the Transit Commission, whose term expired that year, were transferred to the Mayor, Commissioner of Public Works and City Treasurer, or such person or persons, not exceeding three, as the Mayor might appoint. By Chap. 3, Ordinances of 1918, the Transit Dept. was established as a regular City department, to be in charge of three commissioners.

PUBLIC WORKS DEPARTMENT.

PROPOSALS FOR FURNISHING DOUBLE AND SINGLE TEAMS AND AUTO TRUCKS.

The Commissioner of Public Works of the City of Boston, office 508 City Hall Annex, invites proposals from citizens of the United States and corporations or other legal associations wherein the controlling interest to the extent of at least over one half thereof is owned by a citizen or citizens of the United States for furnishing double and single teams and auto trucks in Districts Nos. 8 and 10, between March 13, 1922, and January 31, 1923, and giving bond therefor of a surety company approved by the Commissioner in the sum of five thousand dollars ($5,000) for each district, to secure the due performance of the contract and the full protection of the city. Forms of proposals may be obtained at Room 508, City Hall Annex. Each proposal should be inclosed in an envelope, sealed, marked "Proposal for Furnishing Teams," and left at Room 508, fifth floor, City Hall Annex, before 12 m. on Wednesday, March 8, 1922, with a certified check for one thousand dollars ($1,000) for each district, payable to and to become the property of the city if the proposal after acceptance is not carried out. The proposals will then and there be publicly opened and read. The attention of all bidders is called to the fact that failure to bid on furnishing auto truck and chauffeur may lead to the rejection of the entire bid. Proposals must be made in duplicate, the sealed duplicate, without check, to be deposited by the bidder with the City Auditor previous to the time named for opening the proposals. If the price bid on any district appears to the Commissioner to be abnormally high or low it may lead to the rejection of the proposal for said district. The undersigned reserves the right to reject any or all proposals or to accept any proposal should he deem it to be for the best interests of the city so to do.

MUNICIPAL SERVICE.

Complaints, inquiries or suggestions regarding the work of municipal departments should be made in writing to the officials directly in charge. The failure of such officials to make reply within a reasonable length of time should be brought to the attention of the Mayor. Communications should be directed as follows:

To the Board of Street Commissioners, Room 401, City Hall Annex, for information relative to the laying out, relocation, widening and the discontinuance of highways; the taking of real property for municipal purposes; the assessments of betterments for streets and sewers; the plotting of undeveloped areas for streets and the opening of private ways; the granting of licenses for the storage or sale of merchandise in public streets; the regulation of street traffic; the making of specific repairs in public streets, the naming of public streets, the planting and removal of trees in public ways, the issuing of licenses for the storage of gasolene, oil and other inflammable substances or explosive compounds, the use of the public ways for any permanent or temporary obstruction or projection in, under or over the same, including the location of conduits, poles and posts for telephone, telegraph, street railway or illuminating purposes, signs, marquises, bay windows, coal holes and vaults.

To the Commissioner of Public Works, Room 511, City Hall Annex, for information as to the watering, cleaning, lighting and repairing of streets, the construction and care of sewers and catch-basins, the operation of the ferries, the maintenance of bridges and drawbridges and the removal of ashes and offal.

To Room 604, City Hall Annex, for information relative to the supplying or metering of water and the water charges of the city.

To the Health Department, Room 1107, City Hall Annex, for information relative to the inspection of milk, vinegar, meat, fish and vegetables, the issuance of permits for stables, slaughter houses, etc., smoke nuisances, the existence of contagious diseases or public health nuisances.

To the Board of Park Commissioners, 33 Beacon street, for information as to the care of the Common, Public Garden, Franklin Park, Franklin Field, Commonwealth avenue, Back Bay Fens, Marine Park and the small parks and playgrounds in general throughout the city, and as to the extermination of gypsy moths and the charges made for such service. Application may be made to this department for information regarding the public baths and gymnasiums maintained by the city, and with regard to municipal indoor concerts and band concerts; also information relative to Mount Hope, Evergreen, Fairview and other public cemeteries owned by the City of Boston.

To the School Committee, 26 Mason street, for information relative to the operation of the schools of the city.

To the Schoolhouse Commissioners, Room 1007, City Hall Annex, for information as to the construction and repair of school buildings.

To the Board of Examiners, Room 1001, City Hall Annex, for information regarding the licensing of persons having charge or control of the work of construction, alteration, removal or tearing down of buildings.

To the Wire Division of the Fire Department, Room 905, City Hall Annex, for all information relative to the erection of poles, the building of conduits, the installation of wires and electrical apparatus. Also to the same office for permits for the installing of wires and electrical apparatus within buildings in the City of Boston, and for the payment of fees incident to the granting of the privileges above named, and which must invariably be paid in advance.

ADDRESS DELIVERED BY HIS HONOR, MAYOR JAMES M. CURLEY, AT MEMORIAL SERVICES FOR CRISPUS ATTUCKS ON BOSTON COMMON, MARCH 6, 1922.

"No fact in American history can be more worthy of remembrance than the occasion which the City of Boston joins you in celebrating today. The death of Crispus Attucks, who was neither a slave nor a free man, but a fugitive from a master, had the fire of freedom in his breast and led that little band of martyrs to spill their blood on State street on March 5, 1770.

"By that act he won everlasting claim to citizenship and gave to the colored man of Boston, New England and the entire United States a heritage that will ever grow dearer with the years; which you will ever have the right to cherish with undying zeal and which has linked you indivisibly with the progress and prosperity of this Commonwealth. That sacrifice more than anything else that could have transpired has made you blood brother with us all.

"The life of Crispus Attucks and his comrades, sacrificed on that memorable day in 1770, started the removal of the British troops and British tyranny from this city and country. It was the first act that led to the Revolution, for with the sacrifice of that day the people of Boston became filled with a new inspiration, the determination to achieve their liberation from foreign taxation and domestic oppression. This sacrifice hastened the declaration of Independence.

"By the blood of Attucks and his comrades submission to English law was ended and the people became masters of this continent. The death of those men made the republic secure and it has remained secure to this day.

"The act which the City of Boston joins you in celebrating today and in memory of which you are gathered here was no common deed. It was the deed of one of not the least of the world's heroes. And by that deed unbrotherly feeling was obliterated and in its place came the conviction for Boston, Massachusetts, New England, that all men are brothers. A conviction that has been proven upon each occasion since that day on which there has been a call for sacrifice or heroic action, whether it was at Appomattox, Gettysburg, San Juan Hill, out on the Western plains, in the Philippines, or on Flanders Field.

"It was the death of Attucks and his comrades that gave America its preliminary victory of the Revolution. They are justly regarded as the first martyrs to American Independence and I congratulate citizens of Boston who are members of his race—men who are my fellow citizens—on the heritage his death has left you. By his blood you are heirs to and sharers in the destinies of Boston and its progress.

"I urge you to make greater use of your heritage by studying the problems of your city, taking deeper interest in these problems and joining your fellows more and more in the efforts at solving them. Boston is your Boston as well as mine. Every civic betterment effect is yours just as every civic fault is yours. Pride in your heritage which Crispus Attucks has left you; pride in this Boston of yours and mine should lead you ever to take pride in her success, her achievements and her glories.

"At times historians have tried to belittle the act of Crispus Attucks and his comrades, but truth stands out emblazoned with such brightness as never to be dimmed. Attucks and his comrades were not of the ruling class. They were products of the common lot, the great mass of citizens on whom depends the success of every community. Attucks was neither a slave nor a free man but a fugitive. He had in his breast, however, the burning desire for freedom, that little spark that makes men and brothers of us all. He had in his heart the desire for freedom from the chains of slavery that bound him to master in Framingham and freedom from the chains that bound this country to the British.

"This desire that fired his breast has been passed on to you and revived by such men as Douglass, Sumner, Lincoln, Brooks, Booker T. Washington and others with large vision and the feeling of human brotherhood. It is for you to keep the fire burning and to remember that patriotic citizenship is not a matter of color or birth but a right of soul and manhood and womanhood toward which the good and noble in all races strive.

"I feel that I can say nothing more inspiring to you as a fitting close than to quote from the poem of that Irish patriot and Boston citizen, John Boyle O'Reilly, written when the monument to Crispus Attucks was unveiled on Boston Common:

"Where shall we seek for hero, and where shall we find a story?
Our laurels are wreathed for conquest, our songs for completed glory;
But we honor a shrine unfinished, a column uncapped with pride,
If we sing the deed that was sown like seed when Crispus Attucks died.

"Shall we take for a sign this Negro slave, with unfamiliar name,
With his poor companions, nameless too, till their lives leaped forth in flame?
Yes, surely, the verdict is not for us to render or deny;
We can only interpret the symbol; God chose these men to die,
As teachers, perhaps, that humble lives may chief award be made;
That from lowly ones and rejected stones the temple's base is laid!

"Oh, blood of a people! Changeless tide, through century creed and race!
Still one as the sweet salt sea is one, though tempered by sun and place;
The same in the ocean currents and the same in the sheltered seas;
Forever the fountain of common hopes and kindly sympathies.
Indian and Negro, Saxon and Celt, Teuton and Latin and Gaul,
Mere surface shadows and sunshine, while the sounding unifies all!
One love, one hope, one duty theirs! No matter the time or ken,
There was never was separate heart beat in all the races of men."

OBSERVANCE OF CENTENNIAL.

The Boston Centennial Committee has outlined plans for celebrating the 100th anniversary of the incorporation of the city on Patriots' Day, April 19, in harmony with the request of Mayor Curley, and proposes that May 1, the actual date of the inauguration of Boston's first city government, be recognized by events that will bring the anniversary closely to the minds of the people.

The committee suggest a city-wide display of the city flag from April 19 to May 1, and window displays with special reference to the development of Boston trade and industry in the last century.

For April 19 a "Commemorative Historical Meeting" at Faneuil Hall in the afternoon is planned as the chief feature of the day. At the suggestion of the committee, Mayor Curley has invited Senator Lodge to be the orator. Mayor Curley will preside. The remainder of the program will include prayer, music and the reading of an original poem.

In the evening, there will be an open-air community festival on Boston Common. It will consist of a band concert, motion pictures and mass singing. Mayor Curley will speak.

The committee has asked the Bostonian Society to arrange a special public exhibit of historical interest relating to Boston of the past. It is proposed that the exhibit open with ceremonies on April 19 and continue open until May 1. The committee is arranging a school essay competition for city medals or other suitable souvenirs.

The suggestion has been made to the local stock companies that one of them produce a theatrical performance during the week that includes May 1 which shall represent the life of Boston in 1822, or else produce a play which was popular 100 years ago.

The suggestion has been made that one of the daily newspapers reproduce on May 1 a Boston newspaper of that date in 1822.

The heads of the various churches and other places of religious worship will have the anniversary called to their attention, with invitation to take such note of it on the Sunday preceding May 1 as may seem to them feasible.

Besides the centennial events on April 19, the Patriots' Day committee of the Public Celebration Association is preparing to carry out the annual joint program with participation of seven or eight towns and cities through which will go the reproduced historic rides of Paul Revere and William Dawes on the morning of that holiday.

REJECTED CLAIMS.

Joseph P. Lyons, Assistant Corporation Counsel, announces the Law Department has disapproved thirty claims against the city, in seventeen of which no amounts were specified, and the other thirteen aggregated $2,330.08, and are classified as follows:

Against the Collecting Department, two, amounting to $219.49; against the Fire Department, eight, in three of which no amounts were specified, and the other five amounted to $1,396.83; against the Hospital Department, five, in three of which no amounts were specified, and the other two amounted to $98.85; against the Public Works Department, fifteen, eleven of which no amounts were specified, and the other four amounted to $614.91.

WITHOUT ADVERTISING.

The Mayor has approved the following contracts awarded without advertising; requests of heads of departments to do work with the department forces without advertising; additions to and deductions from contracts.

Schoolhouse Department.

The Mayor has approved a contract with the Boston Buick Company for the purchase of a Buick sedan car, for the use of the Commissioners of the Schoolhouse Department.

A communication from Chairman Thomas P. Glynn is as follows:

Boston, March 7, 1922.

Hon. James M. Curley,
Mayor of Boston:

Dear Sir,—The Board of Schoolhouse Commissioners respectfully requests your Honor's approval to the purchase, without advertising, of a seven passenger Buick Sedan car, standard equipment, at a cost of two thousand five hundred and fifty-five (2,555) dollars, delivered.

This car is to be used by the chairman of the commission, and also as may be required by other members of the Board and chiefs of division of the department.

The reason for requesting authority to contract, without advertising, for bids is that no advantage would result from advertising. The car to be purchased is the type deemed most suitable for the requirements of the department, and the price is the lowest that could be obtained.

Respectfully yours,

Thomas P. Glynn, Chairman.

Supply Department.

Upon March 6 the Mayor approved a contract with Castner, Curran & Bullitt, Inc., and the Maritime Coaling Company for the purchase of 7,600 tons of coal.

A communication from Superintendent George J. Cronin of the Supply Department was as follows:

Boston 9, March 2, 1922.

Hon. James M. Curley,
Mayor of Boston:

Dear Sir,—Attached herewith is list of bids received on semibituminous coal for various city institutions. I respectfully request that authority be granted this office to enter into a contract, and purchase, without advertising, 6,600 tons of coal from Castner, Curran & Bullitt, Inc., and 1,000 tons of coal from the Maritime Coaling Company, distribution of coal to be as shown on the attached list. These concerns are the lowest bidders figuring on the cost per million B. T. U.

The bid of the Gorman-Leonard Coal Company cannot be considered in view of the fact that they quote on a larger quantity than we require, and in view of the further fact that their guarantees are not definite and that offer is informal in that it bears no autograph signature.

I earnestly request that the authority requested above be granted. Our contracts for coal expire on the 31st of March. Strike or no strike, the City of Boston will require coal during the next two months, and I believe that we should protect ourselves by purchasing at this time the quantities called for on the attached list.

Respectfully yours,

G. J. Cronin,
Superintendent of Supplies.

FIRE DEPARTMENT ORDERS.

General Order No. 18.

I. Bureau of University Extension Courses.

For some years considerable thought and study have been given to the matter of providing a means whereby members of fire departments might be able to improve themselves, and fit themselves to take examinations for higher positions in the department or in other walks of life. The Division of University Extension, Department of Education, through its agent, Dennis A. Dooley, has just announced a new course, "Preparation for Civil Service Examinations," by means of which members of the Boston Fire Department will be assisted in improving their education and preparing themselves for promotion and for the better performance of their duties.

An announcement with regard to the course will be distributed to each officer and member of the department. The Acting Fire Commissioner urges each officer and member of the department to read this announcement carefully and to make every effort possible to avail himself of the opportunity offered. Attention is called to the fact that the course does not interfere in any way with the regular duties of members of this department, since the work can be performed in leisure moments at the fire stations or at home. The only charge is an enrollment fee of $1 for lesson papers, stationery, and postage. The Department of Civil Service and Registration recognizes the value of this course, and a credit of one additional point in his experience mark is given to every candidate for promotion who can present a certificate for having completed it.

The Acting Fire Commissioner heartily indorses this project, and believes that an excellent opportunity is afforded the members of the department to spend some of their leisure time pleasantly as well as profitably. Prompt action is suggested, as the course will undoubtedly be extended to other fire departments. The Acting Fire Commissioner hopes to receive excellent reports from the Bureau of University Extension on the work of the members of this department in connection with this course.

II. Report of Motor Vehicle Accidents.

The custom of forwarding reports in duplicate, on Form 5, by the operators of motor vehicles concerning accidents in which any person is killed or injured, as required by paragraph VII., General Order No. 34, Series 1920, will be discontinued herewith.

Commonwealth of Massachusetts forms No. E 23 (Report of Motor Vehicle Accidents) will be distributed to district chiefs with this order. Every operator of a motor vehicle which in any manner is involved in an accident in which any person is killed or injured shall report the same in writing on form No. E 23. This report will be made in duplicate, one copy forwarded to Fire Headquarters through official channels for the Registry of Motor Vehicles, and the other copy retained by the operator submitting it.

By order of the Acting Fire Commissioner,

John O. Taber.
Chief of Department.

General Order No. 19.

I. Retirement.

The following retirement is hereby announced:

Chief of Department Peter E. Walsh.

Chief Walsh was appointed to this department July 29, 1892. His promotions were as follows: To lieutenant, August 28, 1896; to captain, November 4, 1904; to district chief, August 22, 1913; to Chief of Department, July 31, 1919. He now retires on a pension after twenty-nine years of service in the Boston Fire Department.

By the retirement of Chief Walsh the department loses an able and efficient officer. He has passed through the various offices of the department through application to his duty, and his career is a lesson to the officers and men of the department who desire to advance themselves.

Chief Walsh has requested me to extend to the personnel of the department his thanks and appreciation for the high character of service and co-operation extended to him during his period as an officer in the department.

II. Promotion.

The following promotion is hereby announced:

First Deputy Chief John O. Taber to be Chief of Department.

Joseph P. Manning,
Acting Fire Commissioner.

General Order No. 20.

I. Promotion.

The following promotion is hereby announced to take effect as of August 13, 1921:

Capt. DeWitt Lane of Engine Company 41, to be acting district chief of District No. 11 during the absence of the district chief of that district. Captain Lane has been acting in this capacity since August 13, 1921.

II. Name of Street Changed.

By an order of the Board of Street Commissioners, approved by the Mayor March 1, 1922, the name of the public way known as Malcolm street, city proper, from Pinckney street to Chestnut street, has been changed to Cedarlane way.

III. Transfers.

The following transfers are hereby announced:

Ladderman George J. Schiedel, from ladder 13 to Engine 28.

Hoseman James E. Welch, from Engine 28 to Ladder 15.

Hoseman John M. McLaughlin, from Rescue 1 to Engine 22.

By order of the Acting Fire Commissioner:

John O. Taber,
Chief of Department.

MAYOR COMMENDS PACIFIC CARGO.

Mayor Curley addressed a telegram to Mayor Rolph of San Francisco, upon the 8th instant, commending Boston shipments of sea food to the Pacific Coast.

The telegram of Mayor Curley was as follows:

Hon. James Rolph, Jr.,
Mayor of San Francisco, Cal.:

Through the courtesy of the New England Fish Exchange, I am sending you, on the refrigerating boat "Neponset" of the North Atlantic and Western fleet, 1,000 pounds of haddock that I trust, through your efforts, will be put to good use. I might suggest that if a market for some of our North Atlantic products can be found in your city regular shipments will be made by refrigerated service, giving citizens on the West Coast an opportunity to purchase, at low prices, a variety of fine sea foods.

It may interest you to know that a carload of refrigerated fish leaves Boston every week for Southern points and that arrangements are now being made for regular country-wide distribution from Boston. This distribution is made possible through scientific refrigeration.

James M. Curley, Mayor.

A similar telegram was sent to Mayor George E. Cryer, of Los Angeles and Mayor Hugh M. Caldwell of Seattle.

MAYOR FAVORS ENGINEERS' BUREAU.

Mayor Curley declared upon the 10th instant that he favored a reorganization of the Public Works Department and the creation of a new bureau to take over the engineering duties of the Public Works, the Park, Street Laying-Out, Schoolhouse and Assessing Departments. The Mayor said that the Public Works Department last year expended $11,706,608, about half of which was used for contract work. The $11,000,000, he added, included loans such as that of $1,000,000 for the East Boston ferryboats, and $1,500,000 for street surfacing.

The new bureau would be headed by an engineer at a $7,500 salary. Mayor Curley thinks that a considerable sum could be saved by his plan.

RETIREMENT OF LABORER.

A meeting of the Retirement Board for City Laborers was held in the Mayor's office on Thursday, March 2, 1922, at 3.15 p. m. It was voted to retire the following employee, said retirement to date from March 3, 1922, at the rate of $360 per year.

BOSTON FINANCE COMMISSION.

Boston, March 4, 1922.

Hon. James M. Curley, Mayor:

Sir,—The Finance Commission respectfully calls to your Honor's attention certain defects in the contract for furnishing crushed stone to all departments of the city, bids for which are to be opened by the Superintendent of Supplies on Monday, March 6, 1922.

It appears that the city will require in its day labor work approximately 65,000 tons of crushed stone, involving an expenditure of about $150,000. The greater portion of this crushed stone is used in the various services of the Public Works Department. The Park Department uses considerable and an unimportant quantity is used in other departments.

The specifications upon which bids are invited for the present year are lacking in definite provision regarding several important matters, as follows:

1. As to who, in behalf of the city, is to judge of the quality of the stone delivered.

So far as any provisions of the specifications cover the matter, it appears that this duty is placed upon the Superintendent of Supplies.

The Superintendent of Supplies may not be an expert on the quality of crushed stone for the various purposes for which it may be used. Even if he were an expert he has not sufficient time to attend to the matter, and would have to rely upon experts employed specially for the purpose. The Superintendent of Supplies informed the Finance Commission some months ago, in connection with specifications for the season of 1921, that he had never passed on the quality of crushed stone furnished the city or appointed anyone to do it for him, and that he had never received a complaint from the Public Works Department or elsewhere of any departure from the specifications by those who furnished the crushed stone for the city.

The Finance Commission believes that the duty of inspection as regards the quality of crushed stone should be placed upon the officials of the departments using the materials, assisted by such laboratory tests as are hereinafter recommended.

2. The only provision in the specifications for this year which in any way defines the quality of crushed stone to be furnished is as follows:

"Hard, tough, dense, broken stone, trap or Roxbury conglomerate of these qualities, free from round or ill-shaped stones, dirt or other objectionable materials, to be furnished in the following sizes, as ordered by the Superintendent of Supplies."

This provision is of very little assistance in directing an inspector as regards the actual qualities of the stone which is to be furnished; its suitableness must be of necessity a matter of opinion and opinions are likely to vary within wide limits among the many inspectors.

It is recognized by up-to-date engineering experts that the various operations involved in constructing municipal works require crushed stone of different qualities. A stone that may be satisfactory in one class of work may not be suitable for another class of work. For example, a quality of stone that is suitable for constructing mass work with cement concrete, such as foundations for sewers and base for pavements, may not be suitable for a wearing surface of a bituminous pavement.

Scientific methods and apparatus for determining the qualities of stone for the purpose in which it is to be employed have been developed and standardized. The most recent practice in defining the quality of crushed stone is to specify the minimum requirements according to certain tests, the principal of which are tests for hardness, toughness and resistance to abrasion.

The Finance Commission has secured samples from substantially all of the active quarries in the City of Boston that furnish stone for municipal purposes. These samples were sent to the Office of Public Roads of the National Department of Agriculture and submitted to the necessary tests to determine their suitability for use in bituminous pavements. Copies of these reports are now in the possession of the Commissioner of Public Works.

It was found from these tests that the qualities of stone from different quarries varied within wide limits, and in some cases the quality varied greatly in samples from the same quarry. Samples taken from several of the quarries indicated a stone below the minimum limits recommended by the best authorities on bituminous pavements. Nevertheless it appears that during the past season, 1921, a considerable amount of stone was used by the city that was unsuitable for its purposes. In some cases subordinate officials of the Public Works Department complained that the stone furnished was unsuitable. In at least one case the foreman in charge of the district refused to use the stone furnished him.

In order to protect the city the present form of specifications should be so changed as to provide for the determination of the quality of stone for any particular purpose by application of the tests above mentioned. These tests would require preferably the installation of the necessary apparatus in the testing laboratory of the city, or, as an alternative, the use of some private laboratory having apparatus for such tests.

3. It appears to be the custom of the Public Works Department to require contractors to submit bills for the stone furnished, using billheads furnished by the department. No authority for this method of procedure appears in the specifications or contract.

The Finance Commission is now investigating numerous bills rendered to the city for crushed stone for the months of May to September, 1921, inclusive, that apparently were not received by the city officials until February of the present year.

Article 8 of the contract, page 7, provides as follows:

"The City will pay the Contractor the amount due under the contract as stated in the proposal, said payment to be made on the first of each month for all stone furnished prior to the first day of the preceding month, and the final payment to be made thirty-one days after the completion of the contract."

Neither in this article nor elsewhere in the contract is there any definite requirement that the contractor shall submit bills. On the other hand, the responsibility for determining the amount due from the city appears to be upon the officials of the city. The only obligation of the contractor in connection with the accounting for the stone furnished is contained in the specifications of the contract, page 10, (b):

"Furnish with each delivery of material a ticket giving the amount thereof."

It would seem that the amount due the contractor should be based upon certificates of the amount of stone delivered, as determined by the officials of the department from the tickets delivered with each load.

The Finance Commission recommends that before contracts are signed for the supply of crushed stone for the present year the contract be changed so as to cover adequately the following points:

1. That the responsibility for inspection of the stone be placed upon the head of the department using the stone, rather than upon the Superintendent of Supplies.
2. That the various departments using crushed stone establish standards for the crushed stone to be used in their various operations.
3. That the qualities of crushed stone be determined by tests for hardness, toughness and abrasion by standard methods as outlined in the various bulletins of the Office of Public Roads of the United States Department of Agriculture.
4. That there be installed in the testing laboratory of the city the necessary apparatus to make standard tests of crushed stone to determine its qualities as regards hardness, toughness and abrasion.
5. That the provisions of the contract relating to the determination of the amounts of stone furnished, the submission of bills and payments to the contractor be so changed as to make clear the duties of each party to the contract.

Respectfully submitted,

Michael H. Sullivan,
Chairman,
Courtenay Guild,
John F. Moors,
James M. Morrison,
J. Waldo Pond,
The Finance Commission.

THE FINE RECORD OF CHIEF TABER.

Senior Deputy Chief John O. Taber, named by Mayor Curley as Chief of the Boston Fire Department, is one of the most noted of New England's fire fighters and has enjoyed a long and honorable record of service.

He was appointed as a permanent member of the Boston Fire Department January 6, 1888, and was assigned to Engine Company No. 9 as a permanent substitute. Upon February 16, 1888, was assigned to Ladder Company No. 2. Later, on July 1, 1888, he was transferred to Ladder Company No. 8. Upon January 1, 1889, he was appointed as permanent ladderman. Later, July 1, 1889, he was appointed senior ladderman of truck No. 8. Upon June 28, 1894, was appointed to the position of acting lieutenant at the request of the Chief of Department. Later, June 24, 1895, after civil service examination, the above position was made permanent, and he was assigned to command Engine Company No. 3.

Later, October 13, 1896, he was assigned in command of Ladder Company No. 13. Upon January 8, 1898, he was commended by the Fire Commissioner for meritorious service performed at Box 82, in removing gunpowder from the Johnson grocery premises. Later, March 22, 1900, he was promoted to the position of captain. In June, 1903, Chief Taber was promoted to the position of Acting District Chief of District No. 2. At his own request, in April, 1905, he was transferred to Engine Company No. 15. Upon March 9, 1906, he was promoted to the position of District Chief.

Chief Taber March 11, 1914, in view of a fine and meritorious record as above-outlined, was promoted by Mayor James M. Curley to the position of Senior Deputy Chief of Department. Since holding the position of Senior Deputy Chief of the Department, in the absence of the Chief of Department, he has filled that position. From the day of entrance into the Department up to the present time he has filled all the positions within the department, and has performed all the duties with entire satisfaction.

In January, 1920, Chief Taber was detailed to reorganize the forces and activities connected with the Bureau of Supplies and Repairs, which branch, after a period of nine months, was pronounced 100 per cent efficient in accordance with plans and recommendations laid down by the National Board of Fire Underwriters.

Chief Taber in all his active service in the Department has been assigned in the high-value section of the city, and has never committed an act that would call for a fine, reprimand or punishment, and his record is meritorious.

Chief John O. Taber in the administration of Mayor James M. Curley, from March 11, 1914, to January 31, 1918, performed the following service:

1. By order of the Fire Commissioner, drew up comprehensive plan for new fire districts in Boston. Accepted.

2. By order of the Fire Commissioner, drew up new plans for fire prevention inspection, which have enabled the department to increase the work in this regard by more than sixty per cent.

3. By order of his Honor the Mayor, made inspection and report on hazardous conditions at Deer Island and Long Island, Boston Harbor. Recommendation accepted.

4. By order of the Fire Commissioner, made general inspection and comprehensive report and recommendation on all the railroad terminals in the City of Boston. This includes all freight and passenger terminals. Recommendations accepted.

5. Acted as a member of the Board of Merit which considers all acts of a commendable nature performed by members of the department, and recommends the degree of reward.

6. Acted as a member of the Board appointed to draw up plans, and inaugurate a school of instruction for officers in this department. In operation.

7. By order of his Honor the Mayor, drew up and submitted to the Superintendent of Schools material for the education of pupils for the conservation of both life and property. This has been made a part of the school program, and is at the present time in operation.

8. By order of the Fire Commissioner, at the request of the Fire Prevention Commissioner, made special investigation and report and recommendations covering the storage, sale and use of gasolene along the waterfront. Comprehensive plans for the safeguarding of hazardous conditions along the waterfront were also presented through channels. Recommendations accepted.

9. By order of the Fire Commissioner, at the request of the Fire Prevention Commissioner, drew up plans for the safeguarding of what is known as the "roof sign hazard." Accepted.

10. By order of the Fire Commissioner, appeared before the Massachusetts Gas and Electric Board on the hearing pertaining to appliances for the control of gas at fires. Recommendation accepted.

11. By order of his Honor the Mayor, appeared before a legislative committee on the matter of the fire hazard from combustible roof coverings.

12. Upon order of the Fire Commissioner, appeared before a legislative committee relative to the matter of the fire limits in the City of Boston. Continued.

13. Upon order of the Fire Commissioner, drew up and submitted plan for the organization of a private fire department at and for the protection of the Charlestown Navy Yard. Accepted.

14. Upon order of the Fire Commissioner, at the request of the Fire Prevention Commissioner, made exhaustive survey, report and recommendations for the town of Saugus, Mass. Accepted.

15. Acted as a member of the state-wide school committee, serving on special committee to devise and submit safeguards for safe and sane conditions in school buildings throughout the state. Out of twenty-one suggestions offered, twenty were accepted and embodied in the general report.

16. By order of the Fire Commissioner, appeared before the Special Committee of the Boston Chamber of Commerce on the matter of pensions for members of the Boston Fire Department.

17. By order of the Fire Commissioner, appeared before the City Planning Board on the matter of preservation of life and property. Recommendation accepted.

18. Submitted suggestions and plan for inspection and protection of the waterfront, and extra hazardous risks from the special hazards arising from the emergency of war. Accepted and put operation under government control.

OUR DECREASE IN TRADE.

Boston during the past year shows a total decrease in trade of the port of 61.49 per cent, as compared with the year 1920, according to Mayor James M. Curley, who has had the statistics prepared by the new Commercial and Industrial Bureau. At the rate by which Boston lost shipping in 1921 in another year the business of the port would be nothing, according to the Mayor.

Of the total value of the exports for the year 1921, $2,994,501, or 4.94 per cent, pertained to foreign merchandise exported from Boston. In the year 1921 the total imports decreased 58.02 per cent while the total exports fell off 68.55 per cent, as compared with the previous year.

Imports for the year 1921 amounted to $164,867,888, a decrease of $227,884,919 from the record of the year 1920, while the total exports were but $60,655,077, a drop of $132,211,101. The total amount of trade business done by the port for the year amounted to but $225,522,965, or a total decrease of $360,096,020.

As to the number of vessels entering and clearing from the port of Boston during 1921, the total, according to the figures supplied the Mayor by the Bureau, was 2,411, with a total of 4,780,682 tons handled through the port.

"This certainly indicates," adds the Mayor, "that Boston will have to make the fight of her life during the next two or three years to save her port business from dropping to absolutely nothing. While all this has been going on other ports of the country and Canada have been making advancements in the amount of their business. Boston's citizens don't seem to realize to what extent the port has lost in business strides during the past year. The situation is exceedingly alarming."

MAYOR ORDERS UNION WAGE.

Mayor Curley has notified the Trustees of the Public Library to raise the wages of the employees of the printing plant there from $39 a week to $40.28 to meet the request of the Boston Typographical Union.

The Mayor's action was the result of a letter he received from the Rev. Alexander Mann, president of the trustees, which was in part as follows:

"A year ago, your predecessor refused to allow an increase in the scale of the employees of the printing department of the library, and in making up the budget this year the trustees did not add to the item, as they understood they were paying their employees the scale paid in the majority of the printing plants operating in the city, namely, $39 a week.

"The trustees feel, however, that similar scales should exist in all city departments for the same kind of work, and desire to ask your consideration of this matter and whether you wish the board to accede to the minimum union scale for linotype operators, namely, $40.28, as called for by the president of the Boston Typographical Union, and whether you will allow the necessary increase in the budget to meet the requested wages."

KENTUCKY ORATOR COMING.

United States Senator A. Owsley Stanley, who will be the mutual guest of Mayor Curley and the South Boston Citizens Association for the Evacuation Day ceremonies March 16-17, is one of the best-known Democratic orators in the United States. He was born in Shelbyville, Ky., May 21, 1867, educated in the schools of his native state, and graduated from Center College, Danville, Ky., in the class of 1889. He received the honorary degree of LI.D. from the State University of Kentucky June 1, 1916. Senator Stanley was admitted to the bar of Kentucky in 1894, and became a Congressional elector in 1900. He was first elected to Congress as a member of the House of Representatives in 1902, and served in the 58th, 59th, 60th, 61st, 62d and 63d Congresses from the Second District of Kentucky.

Senator Stanley was elected governor of Kentucky in November, 1915, and served as chief magistrate of the Blue Grass State until May, 1919, when he resigned that office to attend the extraordinary session of the United States Senate to which he was elected in November, 1918. Senator Stanley's term expires March 3, 1925. Senator Stanley was married to Miss Susan Soper April 29, 1903, and has three sons, A. Owsley, Jr., William Soper Stanley, and Marion Shelby Stanley. Senator Stanley is an old friend of Mayor Curley, with whom he served in Congress. He is a man of brilliant intellectual attainments and his fame as an orator is countrywide. The citizens of Boston are assured of a most gifted address upon Evacuation Day in the coming of the noted Kentucky statesman.

CONFIRMATION OF APPOINTMENTS.

The Massachusetts Civil Service Commission have confirmed the following appointments of Mayor Curley:

E. Mark Sullivan, as Corporation Counsel.

Joseph A. Rourke, as Commissioner of Public Works.

John J. Curley, as City Treasurer.

William J. Casey, as Superintendent of Printing Plant.

Rupert S. Carven, as City Auditor.

Joseph G. O'Malley, as Principal Assessor.

Dennis D. Driscoll, as Deputy Institutions Commissioner.

Myron P. Lewis, as Park Commissioner.

The Commission declined to confirm Edmund L. Dolan as City Collector.

PUBLIC EMPLOYMENT OFFICE.

Business in the Boston Public Employment Office, 23 and 25 Pearl street, for the month of February shows a decided increase in the number of people wanted by employers and the number of positions reported filled over the month of January. During the past month the State Commission appointed by Governor Cox, to distribute a special appropriation of $50,000 for unemployment, made a call upon this office for 300 unemployed married men with dependents for work in the Metropolitan District Commission for which we sent 402 men and of which 274 men were put to work and there are a number to be heard from.

According to the official figures there were 8 per cent less orders than in January and 22 per cent less than in February, 1921. The number of people wanted by employers shows an increase of 36 per cent over January, also an increase of 3 per cent over February a year ago. The number of positions reported filled shows an increase of 38 per cent over January and an increase of 13 per cent over February, 1921.

The attendance of applicants for employment shows a decrease of 7 per cent from the previous month and a decrease of 10 per cent from February a year ago. The attendance of service men in search of employment was 2,552 (1,772 soldiers and 780 sailors) of which 202 (134 soldiers and 68 sailors) were given introduction cards to employers and 178 (90 soldiers and 88 sailors) secured positions. The attendance was 1 per cent more than in January and 6 per cent more than February a year ago. The positions offered were 47 per cent more than January and 87 per cent more than a year ago. The number of positions secured by service men shows an increase of 91 per cent over January and an increase of 263 per cent over February, 1921.

The calls in the men's skilled department embraced carpenters, lathers, painters and electricians in the building trades and machinists, polishers, metal spinners and sheet metal workers in the metal trades. There has been some call for upholsterers, engineers and firemen while the printing industry called for compositors, pressmen, feeders and linotype operators.

The principal call in the men's unskilled department was for able-bodied laborers who were citizens and married men with dependents for work in the Metropolitan District Commission. There has been some call for casual laborers and culinary workers in hotels and restaurants.

The call for boys has fallen off considerably in the last ten days but prior to that time there was a pretty fair demand with a heavy supply of applicants looking for work.

In the women's skilled department there was a fair call for candy workers the early part of the month which fell off considerably toward the close. The supply was very good and there still remains many skilled candy workers looking for positions. There seems to be a scarcity of chocolate and bon bon dippers. The call for other general factory work has been light with the exception of power stitchers for the garment trades with a very small supply. Hotel and restaurant work has been fairly good with an oversupply of help looking for positions.

In the women's unskilled department the demand for housework girls continues to be heavy with a small supply of applicants. There has been more calls for day workers this month than for some time past, which were quickly filled.

The daily average demand was 54 as compared with 58 in 1921; 59 in 1920; 72 in 1919; 62 in 1918; 72 in 1917; 74 in 1916; and 41 in 1915.

The average daily number of positions reported filled was 44 as compared with 40 in 1921; 52 in 1920; 47 in 1919; 45 in 1918; 49 in 1917; 56 in 1916; and 36 in 1915.

G. Harry Dunderdale,
Superintendent and U. S. Special Agent.

MAYOR VISITS S. S. "NEPONSET."

Mayor Curley made a visit of inspection upon the 7th instant at 3.30 of the steamer "Neponset," that docks at the Army Base Pier, this being the first refrigerator boat to reach Boston in the intercostal service from the Pacific. She is one of the North Atlantic and Western fleet and is bringing refrigerated salmon and fruits.

On the return trip, Mayor Curley, in co-operation with the Boston Fish Association, arranged to send a complimentary order of 1,000 pounds of refrigerated haddock to Mayor Rolph of San Francisco and a similar amount to Mayor Cryer of Los Angeles and Mayor Caldwell of Seattle. Commenting on the shipment, the Mayor said:

"The idea of sending samples of North Atlantic fish to the West Coast, in a refrigerated boat came from the new Commercial and Industrial Bureau and was made possible through the generosity of President Pulham and his associates in the fish industry. Once the people of the West become acquainted with some of the fish that Boston has for sale that do not grow in Pacific waters, I feel that they will become regular customers of ours."

THE HALF CENTURY ANNIVERSARY OF MAZZINI.

Mayor Curley paid a gracious tribute to the memory of Giuseppe Mazzini, the famed Italian philosopher and patriot, during the past week in behalf of a request presented by prominent American citizens of Italian birth or ancestry.

The message of Mayor Curley was as follows:

"I salute the Italian people upon the half century observance of the death of the famed Italian patriot, philosopher, and friend of all mankind, Giuseppe Mazzini. No man in the destiny of Europe or America has served humanity with more lofty impulse or lived a purer life or of more enduring fidelity to the interests of his fellow men. No man has ever seen the sorrow and the hopes of Italy as did Mazzini, as in the streets of Genoa he witnessed the broken Italian soldiers temporarily beaten back in the lust of war and blood, and no man was ever honored by a more devoted following. The United Italy of today is the expression of Mazzini's ideal. Mazzini's beautiful expression, "that he has served as a watcher over a mystery of dawning life and over the cradle of a people," is a wonderful attribute to his service for his country. He was calm in the assurance that there was in store for Italy a future not without trials but at least not unworthy of the traditions of a far distant past; "not unworthy of the splendid achievements in times more recent of her several, but divided states; not unworthy of the sons of Italy whose diverging but convergent efforts have combined to make Italy one."

DEATHS BY GAS.

Mayor Curley received a report from Building Commissioner Herbert A. Wilson, upon the 9th instant, relative to an investigation and recommendations in regard to recent deaths which have resulted in Boston and caused by illuminating gas.

The report of Commissioner Wilson is as follows:

City of Boston,
Building Department,
March 9, 1922.

Hon. James M. Curley,
Mayor of Boston:

Sir,—I am inclosing herewith a report of investigation and recommendations in regard to deaths caused by illuminating gas. I have shown this report to the Health Commissioner and it meets with his approval.

Yours very truly,
Herbert A. Wilson,
Building Commissioner.

City of Boston,
Building Department,
March 7, 1922.

Hon. James M. Curley,
Mayor of Boston:

Dear Sir,—In reply to your communication of February 22, relative to a further investigation in regard to deaths caused by illuminating gas and with recommendations as to how the lives of people, through the use of gas, may be better protected, I submit the following report:

The greatest number of deaths and accidents to users of gas, exclusive of suicides, can be traced to the carelessness and even the confusion of occupants in operating the various appliances in places of habitation, particularly in the lodging house, where the transient or permanent lodger occupies a single room. These deaths and accidents are brought about largely through the use of hose-connected gas hot plates and room heaters; to cheap and defective appliances, and to the closeness of the key which controls the lighting burner to the hose cock which operates the heating appliances. These appliances are often furnished and installed by the lodgers and are moved as desired to the various rooms or different locations in the same room, and if there happens to be no hose cock at the wall bracket, a "Yale fitting" for the hose connection is placed under the lighting burner, which adds to the danger and causes confusion, as it brings three keys in too close proximity to each other. Great care must then be exercised to see that the proper key is turned on at the right time, or accidents will necessarily result.

When hot plates and room heaters with control cocks on the appliances are connected with the hose, the flame is often shut off at the appliance end, thus allowing the gas to remain in full force on the hose, which may accidentally become detached from the appliance, thus leaving an open flow of gas in the room. The gas to the premises is usually supplied from a single meter, and the person in charge of the house will furnish, or allow the tenant to furnish, these hose-connected room heaters and hot plates, the latter to be used for cooking purposes.

Present regulations prohibit two gas cocks to be nearer each other than 6 inches, and wherever conditions have been found in violation of this regulation it has been corrected. The accidents due from defective hose and poor hose connections can be largely reduced if poor hose could be eliminated. There are many grades of poor and inferior tubing on the market. The demand is largely for the cheapest tubing that can be turned out and such an article stays in proper working order for a short period of time only. The rubber ends are made of poor material and they will harden and split soon after being put into service.

The subject of gas tubing has been gone into quite thoroughly by the Bureau of Standards at Washington, D. C., and many tests of flexible gas tubing have been made and reports rendered. Quite a few cities have taken up this question of deaths and accidents caused by gas asphyxiation. The city of Newark, N. J., has recently adopted an ordinance forbidding the sale of all tubing, unless the same has the approval of the gas inspection forces of the city. In the passage of this ordinance large quantities of inferior and defective tubing were condemned and removed.

I respectfully call your attention to the statute under which the Building Department and the Health Department get their authority on gas inspection work, and which defines the duties of each department.

In section 5, chapter 265, Acts of 1897: The inspectors of the Building Department shall inspect all new work relating to gasfitting in new and in old buildings, the connections and use of such work, and shall report all violations of this act, or of any act or ordinance relating thereto which now exists or may hereafter be enacted or ordained. They shall also perform such other proper duties as may be required by the Building Commissioner.

Section 7 provides all materials used and work performed under the provisions of this section shall be subject to such regulations as shall be made by the Health Commissioner and the Building Commissioner.

Section 10 of the same act provides that the Health Commissioner of said city, by his inspectors, shall from time to time, as he deems proper, inspect the gas fixtures and appliances in any building and shall make such requirements relating thereto as he deems the public health requires, and the owner of such building shall comply with such requirements.

Recommendations.

I am submitting for your consideration the following recommendations:

First.—That the Gas Board authorized under section 7 of the above named act, consisting of the Health Commissioner and the Building Commissioner, acting jointly, adopt the following additional regulations.

Section 1. No old or poorly constructed gas tubing shall be permitted to be installed in any location and the use of good grades of tubing shall be restricted. All individual gas cocks on lighting fixtures and hose connections attached at a wall bracket or chandelier shall be separated by a distance of at least six (6) inches.

(If this regulation is adopted it will prevent confusion and avoid the accidental opening of an adjoining cock which might come in contact with the hand.)

Sect. 2. All gas heating appliances to be used for the heating of rooms in places of habitation shall be so constructed that proper provision is made for sufficient air circulation so that there may be proper combustion, and there must be a free air circulating space of at least four (4) inches between the floor and the base of the appliance.

Sect. 3. Gas stoves, hot plates or room heaters having more than one burner shall not be used in places of habitation unless the same be connected with an iron pipe to conform to gasfitter's scale, and shall have a tee-handled gas cock in an accessible place within eighteen (18) inches of the nearest burner of the appliances.

Sect. 4. No tube constructed gas radiator not equipped with a flash plate or equally safe device shall be installed or operated in any places of habitation.

SECT. 5. No hose-connected gas appliance shall be installed or operated in places of habitation upon which appliance there is a controlling gas cock.

SECT. 6. In all places of habitation where gas appliances are used for cooking or room warming purposes, and where in the judgment of the Health Department there is not sufficient ventilation to properly carry off the products of combustion, there shall be installed a vent pipe to the outer air of at least four (4) inches in diameter.

SECT. 7. Upon examination of the fixtures or appliances in any building the Health Department shall affix a tag upon any or all gas fixtures or appliances where defects or leaks are found, and said tags must not be removed except by an authorized agent of the Health Department.

SECT. 8. It shall be the duty of the Health Department, through its inspectors, upon finding that the condition of any gas fixture or appliance, or the piping to same, is such as to constitute a menace to the health or life of the occupants, or to the safety or stability of the building, to order the gas shut off and the gas meter removed by the gas company furnishing or owning the same, and gas shall not be turned on in the building again until approved by the Health Department and the Building Department.

Second.—That there be placed on every prepayment gas meter, in a conspicuous place, the following notice printed in English, Italian, Polish and Hebrew:

STOP, READ AND OBEY.

Never put a quarter in the coin slot until you have seen that every shut-off on the stove and lighting fixture is closed.

(The Boston Consolidated Gas Company has agreed to print this notice and place it on the meters.)

Third.—That the following notice be printed on tags and given to the inspectors to use when poor and defective appliances are found.

BOARD OF HEALTH WARNING.

..............................192 .

Location of Building..............................

Owner. Lessee..............................

The gas fixtures and appliances in this building are in a defective and dangerous condition, and if not made safe at the end of ten days will cause the gas to be shut off and meter removed.

Inspector,..............................

..............................192 .

The gas has been shut off these premises by order of the Health Commissioner and must not be turned on until proper repairs have been made.

....

....

And the same inspected and approved.

Inspector,..............................

..............................192 .

This gas fixture } is defective and gas appliance } dangerous.

Any person using it is in danger of DEATH.

This tag must not be removed except by an authorized agent of the Health Department.

Inspector,..............................

Fourth.—As the present law makes it compulsory upon the part of the Health Commissioner to inspect all gas fixtures and appliances already installed in all buildings, and as there are about 90,000 buildings containing approximately 200,000 separate fits and meters with a yearly increase of about 1,400, and as there is only one inspector assigned to the work of inspecting appliances and fixtures, I recommend that the inspection force under the Health Commissioner be increased by such additional inspectors as he may deem necessary in order to properly inspect these appliances and fixtures.

Fifth.—The gasfitting inspection force in the Building Department employed on installation of gas pipes, boilers, heaters and fixtures on new and all alteration work to be increased by three additional inspectors, there being but six men employed on such work at present and one of these is on leave of absence.

Sixth.—The enactment of new legislation or passing of an ordinance forbidding the manufacture and sale of inferior gas tubing, gas cocks and other appliances within the Commonwealth or the city. I think the passage of legislation would be more effective than that of an ordinance. If an ordinance were adopted only in Boston these inferior appliances could still be obtained in nearby cities and towns having no ordinance or regulation to prevent their sale.

Seventh.—That the Boston Consolidated Gas Company be requested to send a circular with each gas bill, setting forth in such circular the necessity of being cautious in the handling of all gas appliances.

I think the gas company will co-operate with us on this recommendation.

In compiling this report I have consulted with Thomas Jordan, Deputy Health Commissioner; George Comerford, inspector in the Health Department, and Mr. Goodwin, engineer of the Boston Consolidated Gas Company.

Respectfully submitted,

HERBERT A. WILSON,
Building Commissioner.

CONTRIBUTION FOR OUR VETERANS.

Mayor Curley received upon the 8th instant from Walter Scott of New York, famed Scotsman and prominent in the aid of a vast number of causes for the relief and prevention of human suffering, a check in the amount of $100, for the disabled soldiers and sailors of Boston.

Mr. Scott had hoped to be in Boston to meet Sir Harry Lauder and Mayor Curley, old and cherished friends, but was prevented by an important business engagement.

Mayor Curley addressed the following communication to Mr. Scott in acknowledgment of his interest in the welfare of Boston Veterans of the World War:

CITY OF BOSTON,
OFFICE OF THE MAYOR,
March 8, 1922.

MR. WALTER SCOTT, 495 Broadway, New York, N. Y.:

DEAR MR. SCOTT,—I am duly in receipt of your valued telegram, and your check in the sum of $100 in behalf of the disabled soldiers and sailors of Boston.

Your heart and purse are as ever turning in the same generous direction and it is a gratifying pleasure to hear from you.

Sir Harry Lauder and escort called yesterday morning at the Mayor's office, and it was a delightful pleasure to renew my acquaintance with this genial fellow who brings into the world so much of sunshine and happiness.

I sincerely trust that I may have the early pleasure of greeting you at the Mayor's office, Boston.

With many renewed assurances of my highest consideration and regard,

Sincerely yours,
JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

LUMBER TRADE WITH WEST COAST.

Mayor Curley announced the port of Boston has begun a permanent lumber business with the West Coast of the country. With the docking of the steamship "Dochra" at the Army Base Pier, according to the new Boston Commercial and Industrial Bureau, there have come into the port during the past two weeks more than 3,000,000 feet of Washington fir lumber and more is on the way. This lumber is in anticipation of the building boom which is to start this spring.

The first shipment to reach the port contained slightly more than a million feet and the second, which was part of a mixed cargo, contained more than 600,000 feet composed largely of sidings for the new cars which the New Haven Railroad is to build. In addition to the lumber the "Dochra" is bringing a mixed cargo composed of products of the West Coast for distribution throughout New England.

New England is to benefit by another shipment of West Coast lumber, for a lot of 2,000,000 feet is on the way to New Britain concerns. This shipment will not come to Boston, however, but will be distributed throughout the southern part of New England.

Lumber from the West Coast is in demand here because that of Maine is too short for most demands, the trees of that state having no such lengths as are obtained in the great Northwest.

FREE PUBLIC LECTURES.

The Trustees of the Boston Public Library announce the following free public lectures to be given at the Lecture Hall, upon Thursday evenings at 8 p. m. and Sunday afternoons at 3:30 o'clock.

The entrance is from Boylston street only. The doors will be opened two hours before each lecture and closed ten minutes after the lecture begins. The Thursday lectures are always illustrated by lantern slides. The Sunday lectures usually are not illustrated. Exceptions are mentioned below. Lectures are given occasionally during the winter in the Lecture Hall of the Charlestown, East Boston, Jamaica Plain, North End, and Upham's Corner Branches.

Thursday Evenings at Eight O'Clock.

Mar. 16. Recent American Architecture. J. Randolph Coolidge, Jr., A.M.

Mar. 23. Michelangelo: Sculptor, Painter, Poet, including a detailed survey of his Frescoes in the Sistine Chapel. Charles Theodore Carruth.

Mar. 30. Boston Becomes a City: 1822. Its social, literary and artistic development. Martha A. S. Shannon.

Apr. 6. The Romance of Time-Telling from the Days of the Cave Man. Samuel Bernard.

PROCEEDINGS OF CITY COUNCIL.

Monday, February 27, 1922.

Regular meeting of the City Council, held in the Council Chamber, City Hall, at two o'clock p. m., President BRICKLEY in the chair and all the members present.

APPOINTMENTS BY THE MAYOR.

Subject to confirmation by the City Council the Mayor submitted the following appointments for the terms ending April 30, 1922, viz.:

1. John F. Gillespie, 660 Bennington street, Ward 1, to the position of Constable of the City of Boston.
2. Patrick Austin Grady, 15 Spring Garden street, Ward 11, to the position of Constable of the City of Boston.
3. Ascher E. Horowitz, 61 Hollander street, Roxbury, to the position of Constable of the City of Boston.
4. James J. Burns, 227 Centre street, Dorchester, to the position of Constable of the City of Boston.
5. William Joseph O'Connell, 7 King street, Dorchester, to the position of Constable of the City of Boston.
6. William H. Mealey, 56 Humphreys street, Dorchester, to the position of Constable of the City of Boston.
7. Robert T. Carey, 21 Aberdeen street, Ward 8, to the position of Constable of the City of Boston.
8. James Joseph Sullivan, 17 Dennis street, Ward 12, to the position of Constable of the City of Boston.
9. Salvador C. Sottile, 95 Spencer street, Dorchester, to the position of Constable of the City of Boston.
10. Michael P. Murphy, 734 East Sixth street, South Boston, to the position of Constable of the City of Boston.
11. Thomas Joseph O'Brien, 7 Codman Hill street, Roxbury, to the position of Constable of the City of Boston.

Severally laid over under the law.

VETO—JOHN J. DOLAN.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, February 21, 1922.
To the City Council:

Gentlemen,—I return herewith, without my approval, the order of your honorable body as passed February 13, 1922, for the reasons as set forth in the communication from Commissioner of Public Works, to wit, that John J. Dolan, on the advice of his attorney, resigned from the city service while serious charges were pending against him, the date of resignation being December 23, 1920.

Respectfully,
JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

City of Boston,
Public Works Department,
February 18, 1922.
To the Honorable the Mayor:

In reply to your memorandum of February 14, regarding the City Council resolution approving the enactment of legislation to authorize the reinstatement of John J. Dolan, beg to advise that Dolan resigned, on the advice of his attorney, on December 23, 1920, while serious charges were pending against him. I think it would be well for the member of the City Council who introduced this order to request its withdrawal in the interest of Mr. Dolan, rather than have all the facts in the case presented to the public.

Yours respectfully,
T. F. SULLIVAN,
Commissioner of Public Works.

Placed on file.

VETO—THOMAS R. BROPHY.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, February 21, 1922.
To the City Council:

Gentlemen,—I beg to return herewith, without my approval, the order of your honorable body as passed on February 13, 1922, providing for reinstatement of Thomas R. Brophy in the service of the City of Boston.

In view of the communication submitted by the Commissioner of Public Works in this case, namely, that the actual employment of this man in the service of the city was less than two years in a period of eighteen years, and that he has been out of the service of the city for more than four years, in my opinion, he has forfeited the right to be reinstated.

Respectfully,
JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

City of Boston,
Public Works Department,
February 18, 1922.
To the Honorable the Mayor:

In reply to your memorandum of February 15, regarding the City Council order favoring legislation reinstating Thomas R. Brophy, beg to advise that he was appointed lamplighter with the Rising Sun Street Lighting Company on June 12, 1899. When this contract expired in 1907 the city took over the work, and on May 1 of that year he, with the other lamplighters employed by the company, was transferred to the Lamp Division of the Street Department. On September 15, 1908, street lighting was placed under contract again and he, with all the other men so employed, was transferred to the Rising Sun Company. He continued with this company until December 7, 1917, when a number of the lamplighters, including himself, went on strike.

Legislation has been passed authorizing the re-employment of lamplighters who remained in the service of this company until such time as their routes were abolished by the installation of automatic lighting devices. During Brophy's eighteen years' service as lamplighter he was only employed sixteen months on the city pay roll. It would seem to me establishing a poor precedent to reinstate him over the heads of men who have been on the civil service list for many years and who are anxious for employment with the city.

The facts are exactly the same in the case of Richard P. Kelly, except that Kelly entered the service of the lighting company four years later.

Yours respectfully,
T. F. SULLIVAN,
Commissioner of Public Works.

Placed on file.

VETO—MRS. LAWRENCE FLANAGAN.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, February 21, 1922.
To the City Council:

Gentlemen,—I beg to return herewith, without my approval, the order of your honorable body as passed February 13, 1922, favoring the enactment of legislation authorizing payment to the widow of Lawrence Flanagan of the balance of salary for the financial year 1921.

The reasons as set forth in the communication from the Commissioner of Public Works should suffice; for the adoption of this order might result in the creation of a policy that, while proving beneficial to one individual, would be an injustice and an injury to the rest of the entire community.

Respectfully,
JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

City of Boston,
Public Works Department,
February 18, 1922.
To the Honorable the Mayor:

Referring to your memorandum of February 14, regarding the City Council order authorizing payment to the widow of Lawrence Flanagan the remainder of his salary, beg to advise that Flanagan was employed as subforeman in the Paving Division since 1899 and until the date of his death of January 8 current. His last regular employment was in August, 1921. He was afflicted with an incurable disease, and from the 18th of August to the day of his death he was carried on the pay roll as on "sick leave" with full pay, this being authorized by Mayor Peters upon my recommendation. Evidently the person suggesting this order was not familiar with the facts, as a reference to the pay rolls in the Auditing Department will confirm the above information.

Yours respectfully,
T. F. SULLIVAN,
Commissioner of Public Works.

Placed on file.

VETO—RICHARD J. KELLY.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, February 21, 1922.
To the City Council:

Gentlemen,—I beg to return herewith, without my approval, the order of your honorable body as passed on February 13, 1922, providing for reinstatement of Richard J. Kelly in the service of the City of Boston.

In view of the communication submitted by the Commissioner of Public Works in this case, namely, that the actual employment of this man in the service of the city was less than two years in a period of eighteen years, and that he has been out of the service of the city for more than four years, in my opinion, he has forfeited the right to be reinstated.

VETO—PHILIP J. POWERS.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, February 25, 1922.
To the City Council:

Gentlemen,—I return herewith, without my approval, the resolve passed by your honorable body on February 13, 1922, favoring legislation for the reinstatement of Philip J. Powers in the Park and Recreation Department.

The accompanying report of the Park Commission contains sufficient facts to justify the action here taken.

Respectfully,
JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

City of Boston,
Park Department, February 23, 1922.
Hon. James M. Curley,
Mayor of Boston:

Dear Sir,—In answer to your memorandum of February 14, relative to Philip J. Powers, formerly employed in this department as a life guard and helper, I respectfully submit the following information:

Powers was first employed July 15, 1912, and worked until the twentieth day of July, 1916, when he absented himself until November 2, 1916. He worked for a short time until November 1, 1917, when he absented himself again until the sixth day of December, 1917; he worked four days and has not worked since. According to the civil service rules he has been out of the department since the 16th day of June, 1918.

The department is not responsible for his absence; he is not, in my opinion, a valuable man to the department, and I have no reason to ask for his reinstatement.

Very respectfully yours,
JAMES B. SHEA,
Chairman.

VETO—WARREN J. STOKES.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, February 25, 1922.
To the City Council:

Gentlemen,—I return herewith, without my approval, the resolve passed by your honorable body on February 13, 1922, favoring the enactment of legislation to increase the pension of Warren J. Stokes, for the reason set forth in the closing paragraph of the letter received from Thornton D. Apollonio, secretary to the School Committee.

In my opinion, the contention of the School Committee, with reference to the general subject of pensions, is sound and should be sustained.

Respectfully,
JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

City of Boston,
School Committee, February 23, 1922.
Hon. James M. Curley,
Mayor of Boston:

Dear Sir,—In reply to your memorandum, dated February 15, 1922, calling attention to the following action by the City Council on February 13, 1922:

"Resolved, That the City Council of Boston favors the enactment of legislation to increase the pension of Warren J. Stokes," and asking for a report from the School Committee on this matter, stating all facts, and also its recommendation, the following is respectfully submitted:

Warren J. Stokes was appointed a truant officer September 12, 1876, and continued in that position, except that his title was subsequently changed to that of attendance officer, until August 31, 1916, when he was retired at the age of seventy-eight, on pension at the rate of $360 per annum, under the provisions of chapter 257 of the Special Acts of 1916, which provides that the School Committee may retire with an annual pension any janitor or attendance officer who has reached the age of sixty years, after completing a period of not less than twenty-five years of service, and who has become physically incapacitated, the pension to be equal to one half the compensation to which the pensioner would have been entitled for full employment during the last year of service, but not exceeding $360 per year.

In the opinion of the School Committee this pension is not an adequate one, except perhaps for custodians (school janitors) who have charge of small buildings, but is the maximum amount allowed under the present law.

In this connection your honor's attention is respectfully called to chapter 132, Special Acts of 1919—An Act Relative to the Maximum Pension Payable to Retired School Janitors or Attendance Officers in the City of Boston—which increases the maximum pension to $500 a year. This act provides that it shall take effect upon its acceptance by the Mayor, the City Council, and the School Committee of the City of Boston. The School Committee accepted this act on April 21, 1919. Similar action was taken by the City Council on May 26, 1919, and was vetoed by Mayor Peters on June 10, 1919.

On November 29, 1920, an order was passed by the School Committee requesting the Mayor to approve the act referred to (chapter 132, 1919), which, as stated above, he had previously vetoed. Mayor Peters replied, on December 11, inclosing a copy of his previous veto, and explaining his attitude on the subject.

Inclosed are copies of the order passed by the School Committee November 29, 1920, the veto of the Mayor, and his communication of December 11, 1920.

In response to your request for a recommendation, as above stated, the Board does not consider the pension paid to Mr. Stokes to be adequate. The Board, however, would not feel warranted in indorsing legislation to increase his pension which would not include other former employees who are equally deserving of similar consideration.

Very truly yours,
Thornton D. Apollonio,
Secretary.

VETO—MRS. WALKER A. SMITH.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, February 18, 1922.

To the Honorable the City Council:

Gentlemen,—I beg to return herewith, without my signature, your order of February 13 favoring the enactment of legislation authorizing the payment to the widow of Walker A. Smith, formerly an employee of the Police Department, of the balance of salary for the financial year 1921, which he would have received had he lived and served the city throughout that year.

I am also sending report of the Police Commissioner setting forth facts in the case and his views with reference to this particular class of legislation, and which views I share, believing that the enactment of this particular measure would open the gates to an abuse that it might be extremely difficult later to correct.

Respectfully,
James M. Curley, Mayor.

City of Boston,
Police Department, February 15, 1922.

Hon. James M. Curley,
Mayor of Boston:

Dear Sir,—I am in receipt of a letter from your secretary stating that the City Council has passed the following resolution:

"Resolved: That the City Council of Boston favors the enactment of legislation authorizing the payment to the widow of Walker A. Smith, formerly an employee of the Police Department of the City of Boston, of the balance of salary for the financial year 1921, which he would have received had he lived and served the city throughout the year."

In accordance with your request for a statement of the facts and as to my recommendation, I am attaching hereto a copy of a letter sent by me to the City Council under date of September 27, 1921; the matter before the Council being whether widow of Inspector Smith should be granted the annuity provided by statute for a police officer who dies from injuries received in the performance of his duty. I am attaching to that report, as indicated in the letter, a copy of the report of the chief inspector, therein referred to.

The same reasons that applied in the matter of granting the annuity appear to me to apply with equal force to the proposition now under discussion. If the widow of Inspector Smith is given by the City of Boston the balance of the salary to which he would be entitled if he had served the city throughout the year, it establishes a precedent by which the widow or dependents of any police officer, who dies from any cause not connected with his official position, may properly and rightfully claim the same treatment from the city. If such a procedure is deemed wise in his specific case, then a general rule should be established in all cases, without distinction or discrimination.

Very respectfully,
E U. Curtis,
Police Commissioner for the City of Boston.

September 27, 1921.

To the Honorable City Council:

Gentlemen,—Your order of September the 12th for an annuity to the widow of Walker A. Smith, formerly a member of the Police Department, is received in this office and I have had a full investigation of the matter made. I send you copy of the report from the chief inspector. At my request Paul D. White, M. D., examined Inspector Smith. He had before him the statement of Inspector Smith showing the facts as they are represented to you in the report of the chief inspector. He also discussed the matter verbally with Inspector Smith and reported to me as follows:

"There is no clear-cut evidence in the literature or as seen at the Hospital* here of an accident, such as Inspector Smith had, acting as the cause of a heart condition such as he shows at present.

"In conclusion it is my opinion that Inspector Smith is suffering from serious heart disease due to some infection and not to his accident. His symptoms however were induced by the extreme exertion at the time of the accident. His future is uncertain so far as his heart condition goes and I should judge rather unfavorable. His work should be light and he should avoid any sudden excitement of exertion. At present he is on the border line of cardiac failure."

I cannot find anything in the report on the facts or in the report of the examining doctor which would justify me certifying that Inspector Smith died from injuries received in the perfomance of his duty. I must therefore notify you that I disapprove of the granting of the annuity because I am of the opinion that this case does not fall within the statute.

Very respectfully,
E. U. Curtis,
Police Commissioner for the City of Boston.

---

* Massachusetts General.

City of Boston,
Police Department, September 27, 1921.

To the Police Commissioner:

Sir,—In compliance with your order of the 20th instant, I respectfully report that Walker A. Smith was appointed a reserveman in the Boston Police Department, October 23, 1900; was transferred to the Bureau of Criminal Investigation, January 1, 1904, promoted to rank of inspector, February 26, 1907, and died July 11, 1921.

A few years ago I noticed that he was losing weight, color and activity, but I cannot recall, even approximately, just when I first noticed this.

Inspector Smith was a strong, rugged, active man, a good officer and was rated as an athlete. In August, 1919, he informed me that he was not feeling well and he applied for fourteen days leave of absence, which was granted. In August, 1920, for the same reason, his application for fourteen days leave of absence was granted. Between February 24, 1921, and July 11, 1921, he was absent from duty seventy-six days on account of sickness.

Chief Inspector.

VETO—D. DOHERTY COMPANY.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, February 25, 1922.

To the City Council:

Gentlemen,—I return herewith, without my approval, the resolve passed by your honorable body on February 13, 1922, favoring legislation to enable the City of Boston to reimburse the D. Doherty Company for losses sustained in delivering coal to the city for use in certain schools.

The precedent created by an enactment such as is here proposed would, in my opinion, result in a raid on the city treasury far beyond the power of the city to meet.

I appreciate that the action of the claimant was most meritorious and that a failure to approve legislation providing for his reimbursement by the city for losses sustained may appear harsh, yet, nevertheless, apparently there is no other action which, in justice to the public, one can justify taking.

Respectfully,
James M. Curley, Mayor.

COMPREHENSIVE CITY PLAN.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, February 27, 1922.

To the City Council:

Gentlemen,—The beginning of the second century of Boston's existence as a city presents possibilities for usefulness to future generations of such tremendous value that I deemed it advisable to invite the co-operation of the City Planning Board in the formulation of a program, the adoption of which is vital.

The City Planning Board, after a long study and fortified by the searching investigation conducted and data collated, has submitted a report, a copy of which report I am transmitting herewith, which might well serve as a basis for consideration and action.

I respectfully recommend the passage of the accompanying order covering an appropriation of $10,000, as requested by the City Planning Board, for the preparation of a comprehensive city plan, that waste and duplication may be minimized and that a constructive program worthy of the City of Boston may be adopted and pursued in the years that are to come.

Respectfully yours,
James M. Curley, Mayor.

City of Boston,
City Planning Board, February 22, 1922.

Hon. James M. Curley,
Mayor of Boston:

Dear Sir,—The City Planning Board begs leave to transmit herewith a report, and recommendation looking toward the preparation of a comprehensive city plan for the City of Boston.

Emphasis is given to the recommendation at this time for several reasons. Among them:

(1.) Boston was the first town in Massachusetts to become a city, being incorporated February 23, 1822. No more fitting celebration of its 100th anniversary could be devised than to launch, at the beginning of its second century of municipal life, a movement for a comprehensive city plan which shall make provision for the development of the city along orderly, progressive lines.

(2.) The investigation by a committee from the federal government of postal facilities in the Boston district, particularly with reference to the possible relocation of the Post Office building, together with the order recently passed by the City Council with reference to the location of a new city hall, emphasizes the need of careful foresight in the location of future public buildings.

(3.) The City Planning Board is advised that the next annual meeting of the National Conference on City Planning will be held this year in Springfield, Mass. As noted in the accompanying communication, Springfield already has a comprehensive city plan under way, and holding the conference in that city means that the attention of the leading city planning minds all over the country will be focussed upon one of the cities of this Commonwealth.

For these, and many other reasons which the Board believes are obvious to your Honor, some of which are set forth in the accompanying communication, such as a major street plan, including the main arteries of traffic in and about the city, and to the adjacent cities and towns; zoning plan, providing protection for residential districts, and promoting the development of industrial and commercial areas, regulating the location of garages, etc.; development of port, harbor and railroad facilities; location of public buildings, and the development of recreational facilities.

The recommendation is made that your Honor authorize an appropriation of $10,000 to be expended under the direction of the City Planning Board, for the employment of expert assistance in the preparation of a comprehensive city plan for the City of Boston.

Respectfully submitted,
The City Planning Board,
Frederic H. Fay,
Acting Chairman.

A Comprehensive City Plan.

The City Planning Board has now been in existence nearly eight years, during which time it has had opportunity to study in detail practically every phase of municipal development, existing and proposed. It has in that time had the privilege of making various recommendations, based upon comprehensive surveys, a gratifying number of which have been adopted, leaving others still open for future consideration.

In this work, while its appropriation has been and is exceedingly limited, it has been able to enlist from time to time the voluntary assistance of organizations and individuals whose services have constituted a very material contribution to the solution of the particular problem in hand.

During the slightly less than the decade of years which have elapsed since the creation of the City Planning Board, it has seen the population figures of Boston show a far from normal increase; it has seen the volume of foreign traffic clearing through New England ports decline steadily from year to year; it has seen the State of Massachusetts fall from fourth to fifth place among the states in the value of its manufactured products, in spite of the fact that the total for the nation was three times as great in 1920 as it was in 1910; and it has seen New England overlooked in a conference conducted in New York by the United States Shipping Board for the formulation of a "sound constructive policy" upon maritime subjects of great importance to which now much attention necessarily is given.

At the same time, it finds that in the last twenty-five years there have been more than an equal number of thoughtful, and in the main scientific, investigations of municipal problems. Some of the best minds in New England have given these matters serious consideration, their conclusions being embodied in printed reports. Formal investigations have been made by state and city departments, special commissions and committees have been appointed, and independent studies have been made by business and civic organizations and by individuals, all involving an expense of probably more than half a million dollars.

A study of this mass of accumulated material, much of it very valuable, together with the fact that Boston at the best is not living up to its potential opportunities, if it is indeed holding its own, has confirmed the City Planning Board in its belief that Boston has been, and is suffering greatly from a lack of co-ordination of facilities and efforts. To offset this condition, the City Planning Board recommends the preparation of a comprehensive city plan, not with the idea that its adoption will prove a panacea for all existent troubles, but with the conviction that it will lend emphasis and direction to future efforts.

Such a city plan would include, among other features, a

1. Major Street Plan.—The criticism has been made repeatedly that Boston has not yet had a really thorough, painstaking, and farsighted study of its street problems in the big way in which other cities have approached the vital part of traffic reform. It is generally conceded that conditions attendant upon vehicular and pedestrian traffic are almost intolerable and yet the fact remains that, aside from certain street widenings which have acted merely as palliatives and in no sense as correctives, the first fundamental step in the adoption of a comprehensive street plan, designed to encourage and stimulate the growth and development of the city, is to be found in the recently authorized widening and extension of Stuart street.

The joint report subbmitted to the City Council, dated October 19, 1921, outlining the advantages of a broad highway paralleling Washington street on the east, between Adams square and Stuart street, together with the widening of Cambridge and Court streets and the extension of Causeway street, as compared with the suggested arcading of Washington street, might also be considered as connecting links in a comprehensive street plan.

Among other plans suggested at different times are various extensions of the one-way street system, a bridge or traffic tunnel to East Boston, a tunnel or ferry between East Boston and South Boston, a tunnel under Boston Common, a highway over the Boston & Albany Railroad tracks from the South Station to Cottage Farm Bridge, and an extension of Dorchester rapid transit facilities. Millions of dollars are involved in these major improvements, irrespective of the requirements of local thoroughfares.

(a.) Parking Facilities.—Such a street plan would take into account the necessity for reasonable parking privileges in the downtown district. Automobiles, although their rapid increase in numbers is appalling under present conditions, are a legitimate means of conveyance, in many cases an actual business asset, and the owners of them are entitled to convenience and protection.

2. Zoning.—In its generally accepted sense, zoning means the adoption of height, area, and use limitations as applied to certain districts. Boston has had in existence since 1904 comprehensive regulations governing the height of buildings. It also has regulations governing to a certain extent the area of occupancy; leaving the use or development of property entirely without regulation or control, outside the police power which is usually an unpleasant influence to invoke. To provide for this feature, the Massachusetts Legislature in 1920 passed an act, chapter 601, based upon Article LX. of the Constitutional Amendments, authorizing cities and towns to limit buildings according to their use or construction to specified districts.

Zoning plans are in effect today, or are in preparation, in more than one hundred cities throughout the United States. These include New York, Philadelphia, Detroit, Chicago, Cincinnati, Cleveland, Pittsburgh, Washington, Los Angeles and Baltimore. Here in Massachusetts might be mentioned Brockton, Cambridge, Fall River, Newton, Brookline, Natick, Attleboro and Springfield.

Some of the arguments which might be advanced in favor of the adoption of a zoning plan are that it

I. Stabilizes and protects property values and investments.

II. Affords a safe district in which industries may be located without fear of protest and with every facility to do business.

III. Insures permanence of character of districts when once established, permitting and encouraging orderly enlargement of business centers and industrial zones, while preventing the scattering and intrusion of any inappropriate and destructive uses of buildings which deteriorate and decrease property values.

IV. Renders possible great economies in installation of public improvements, such as streets, sidewalks, and fire, water, and sewer facilities.

(a.) Residential, Commercial and Industrial Districts.—The adoption of a zoning plan for the City of Boston would mean the division of the city into residential, commercial and industrial districts, each district being protected by regulation from outside encroachments. It would necessitate a block survey of the entire city in order that its results might be permissive rather than restrictive.

(b.) Garages.—The adoption of a zoning plan makes possible the restriction of public garages to areas or zones where their erection will not interfere with the rights or safety of the residents of the immediate neighborhood. This is perhaps the most imperative phase of the zoning situation in Boston today. Garages constitute a component factor in an important industry, and their right to existence should be recognized and encouraged in the proper places. Zoning assures protection to property owner and garage builder alike.

(c.) Billboards.—Another feature which might be provided for in a zoning plan would be the regulation of billboards and other forms of outdoor advertising.

3. Development of Harbor, Port, and Railroad Facilities.—The total expenditures for Boston Harbor, made by the Federal Government, have been more than $12,000,000, while the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, in the sixty-year period ending in 1919, expended more than $18,000,000 in its development and improvement; yet the statement has been recently made that, while port facilities at New York, Philadelphia and Baltimore were crowded, Boston was using only about thirty or forty per cent of what was available on its magnificent waterfront and harbor.

The railroads of the country are in a state of transition today and definite suggestions looking toward their relief have been made to the Interstate Commerce Commission. A city plan such as proposed would include a study of the effect of the consolidation outlined upon local business, as well as definite suggestions for cooperation. It should also include a study of the local railroad situation, so far as the location of terminals and the proper distribution of both passengers and freight are concerned.

4. Municipally Owned Buildings.—The comprehensive plan recently prepared by this Board, showing the location of municipally owned buildings throughout the city, demonstrates the necessity of a carefully thought out plan for future needs.

5. Recreational Facilities.—Boston's Park and Playground system doubtless compares favorably with that of any other city in the country, yet certain of its potentialities are far from fully developed, and provision for future growth should be made.

6. Regional Plan.—A city plan such as proposed would of necessity be studied in the light of Boston's relations with adjoining municipalities. This might mean that a solution could be found for many of the problems hitherto encountered in any attempt at a consolidation or federalization of metropolitan communities.

7. Topographic Survey.—In all probability a topographic survey of the city would be recognized as essential to a city plan. This is a feature which the City Planning Board has recommended on several occasions should be provided for.

The adoption of the city plan is by no means an inovation in municipal life.

The most striking illustration in this country today is found in the city of Washington, D. C., where at the request of George Washington in 1791, Maj. Pierre Charles L'Enfant, a young French engineer, made a comprehensive plan for the development of the National Capitol. A zoning ordinance was accepted August 30, 1920.

Chicago's city plan, prepared in 1909, was introduced into the public schools as a part of the regularly accredited eighth grade curriculum, and is being studied by over 30,000 school children. Projects totalling nearly $250,000,000 in public and private improvements covered in this plan are either actually being constructed or are passing through the stages of legal formalities for early accomplishment. A zoning commission was appointed in July, 1921, and plans are now in preparation.

New York has a comprehensive city plan in accordance with which improvements under way or in contemplation are being developed. The zoning resolution adopted in 1916 has met with a very general popular approval and the opinion has been expressed that no one thing has done more to promote orderly city development.

Philadelphia has an unofficial city plan, prepared in 1911 in accordance with which streets, parks, bridges, railroad agreements, etc., are being carried out. In five years the city has voted $147,000,000 of public bonds for city plan improvements. A zoning ordinance has been prepared and is now under consideration.

Detroit has a comprehensive street and radial thoroughfare plan in conformity with which improvements are being carried out. In one year approximately eighty-six miles of street improvements were put through. A comprehensive zoning ordinance and maps have been prepared.

A comprehensive city plan for Cleveland is now in course of preparation and a tentative zoning ordinance and plans have been prepared.

A comprehensive plan for St. Louis is in preparation and many details in connection with it have already been worked out. A zoning plan was adopted in May, 1918.

Baltimore also has a comprehensive plan and a zoning ordinance.

The City Planning Board of Springfield, Mass., has recently been granted a special appropriation of $20,000 to provide for the services of experts in the preparation of a comprehensive city plan and a zoning ordinance.

The City Planning Board of Boston believes, therefore, that the time has come to take a definite step in the same direction, and to that end requests that a special appropriation be authorized, to be expended under its direction, for the employment of expert consultants who will bring to the work a wider knowledge, based upon actual experience, than has been available heretofore. It has no hesitancy in saying that, in its opinion, it is a work which merits the attention of the best city planning minds in the country.

It would be the duty of this expert consultant to correlate the information already assembled, and with the assistance and cooperation of local public bodies, private organizations and individuals, work out a general plan which shall be definite, comprehensive, and progressive.

In making this recommendation the City Planning Board believes that it is merely voicing a sentiment which is practically general throughout the community and that once the work is under way, under competent and efficient leadership, a vast amount of voluntary assistance will be available from public spirited citizens. The City Planning Board firmly believes, however, that the initiative must, and very properly should, come from the municipality.

The total cost of such a plan would be difficult to estimate at this time. However, in order that the work may be gotten immediately under way, the Board recommends that an appropriation of $10,000 be authorized, to be expended under its direction for the employment of expert assistance in the preparation of a comprehensive city plan as outlined above.

Ordered, That the sum of $10,000 be expended, under the direction of the City Planning Board, for the employment of expert assistance in the preparation of a comprehensive city plan for the City of Boston, said sum to be charged to the Reserve Fund.

Referred to the Executive Committee.

COMPLETION OF COLUMBUS PARK.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, February 27, 1922.

To the City Council:

Gentlemen,—The completion of Columbus Park, which is today Boston's greatest recreational center, is desirable both from the standpoint of public health and public welfare.

The total investment by the City of Boston to date is in excess of two million dollars and the completion of this work would require an additional expenditure of $750,000.

I accordingly recommend the adoption of the accompanying order.

Respectfully,
JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

Ordered, That the sum of $750,000 be and hereby is appropriated for Columbus Park Improvements, and that to meet said appropriation, the City Treasurer be and hereby is authorized to issue, from time to time, upon the request of the Mayor, bonds or certificates of indebtedness of the City to said amount.

Referred to the Committee on Finance.

APPROPRIATION BILL.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, February 27, 1922.

To the City Council:

Gentlemen,—Under the provisions of section 3, chapter 486, of the Acts of 1909, the Mayor is required to submit the budget within thirty days after the beginning of the fiscal year, and I accordingly submit the accompanying budget in lump sum form.

Boston holds the unique position of being the only city in the state which has its limit of appropriating power fixed by the Legislature. Under existing law, the city may raise $6.52 on each one thousand of the average valuation for three years, less abatements, for general municipal purposes, exclusive of schools. For several years past, the Legislature has granted a higher rate operative one year at a time. Last year this rate was $11 on each thousand.

The effect of the present law, and the comparison with last year, is as follows:

Amount available for appropriations inside tax limit 1921-22....	$25,791,276.11
Amount available for appropriations inside tax limit 1922-23....	14,492,622.43
Decrease in appropriating power under present law..........................	$11,298,653.68

No further comment is needed to show the inadequacy of the present law to provide for the needs of the city.

The Legislature is now considering a bill granting the right to Boston to fix its own tax limit. Upon the passage of this bill, or other legislation granting authority to appropriate sufficient funds for the needs of the municipality, I will immediately proceed to prepare and submit at the earliest possible time, the annual budget in full segregated form.

Respectfully,
JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

APPROPRIATIONS AND TAX ORDERS FOR THE FINANCIAL YEAR 1922-1923.

Ordered, That to meet the current expenses payable during the financial year beginning with the first day of February, 1922, of performing the duties and exercising the powers devolved by statute or ordinance, or by vote of the City Council during the year, upon the City of Boston or the County of Suffolk, or the departments or officers thereof, and to meet their respective obligations for interest on debt, sinking fund requirements and maturing debt not provided for by sinking fund, the respective sums of money specified in the tables and schedules hereinafter set out be and the same are hereby appropriated for the several departments and for the objects and purposes hereinafter stated.

Ordered, That the appropriations for Water Service, current expenses, and the payment to the state under the provisions of chapter 488 of the Acts of 1895, and acts in addition or amendment thereto, and for the interest and debt requirements for loans issued for water purposes, be met by the income of said works and any excess over income from taxes; that the appropriation for City Record be met by the income from the publication and any excess over income from taxes; that the other appropriations hereinafter specified be met out of the money remaining in the treasury at the close of business on January 31, 1922, exclusive of the money raised by loan or needed to carry out the requirements of any statute, gift, trust or special appropriation, and by the income of the financial year, beginning February 1, 1922, and taxes to the amount of $18,070,836.72, and that said amount be raised by taxation on the polls and estates in the City of Boston.

Ordered, That all sums of money which form no part of the income of the city, but shall be paid for services rendered or work done by any department or division for any other department or division, or for any person or corporation other than the City of Boston, be paid into the general treasury, and that all contributions made to any appropriation be expended for the objects and purposes directed by the several contributors thereof.

Ordered, That all taxes raised to meet the appropriations of the city and all taxes assessed for meeting the city's proportion of the state tax of the year 1922, or of any other taxes or assessments payable to the Commonwealth, be due and payable on the fifteenth day of October, 1922; that interest shall be charged on all taxes remaining unpaid after the first day of November, 1922, in accordance with the provisions of chapter 460 of the Acts of 1920, until paid, except the taxes assessed upon shares of national banks, which shall bear interest at the rate of twelve per cent per annum from the fifteenth day of October, 1922, until paid; and that all interest which shall have become due on taxes shall be added to and be part of such taxes.

Ordered, That except as the appropriation for any purpose or item shall be increased by additional appropriations or by transfers lawfully made, no money shall be expended by any department for any of the purposes or items designated in the tables and schedules hereinafter set out in excess of the amount set down as appropriated for such specific purpose or item and except as aforesaid, no salaries or wages shall be paid in excess of the rates specified in said tables and schedules.

MUNICIPAL BUILDING, WARD 21.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, February 24, 1922.
To the City Council:

Gentlemen,—In accordance with the request of the City Council on February 13, the Superintendent of Public Buildings has prepared an estimate of the cost of a municipal building and a suitable site in Ward 21, Dorchester. I am transmitting his report herewith.

Respectfully yours,
JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

City of Boston,
Public Buildings Department,
February 20, 1922.
Hon. James M. Curley,
Mayor of Boston:

Dear Sir,—Replying to the inclosed order of the City Council, that the Superintendent of Public Buildings be requested, through his Honor the Mayor, to submit an estimate of the cost of a municipal building and a suitable site in Ward 21, Dorchester, I respectfully report that to procure a suitable site and to put up a building to meet all the requirements of this district would cost approximately $350,000 for the erection of the building and $25,000 for the site.

Respectfully yours,
FRED J. KNEELAND,
Superintendent of Public Buildings.

Placed on file.

CONTINUANCE OF RENT AND HOUSING COMMITTEE.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, February 24, 1922.
To the City Council:

Gentlemen,—The State Commission on Necessaries of Life will cease to function on April 30, 1922, unless legislation is enacted for its continuance.

Under the circumstances I believe it would be advisable, pending action by the state, to extend the life of the Boston Rent and Housing Committee for a period of sixty days, but with a reduction of 50 per cent in the present cost of conducting the activities, as the present amount expended appears to be excessive.

I accordingly recommend the adoption of the accompanying order.

Respectfully,
JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

Ordered, That the Committee on Rent and Housing be and hereby is authorized to expend, under the direction of the Mayor, an additional sum of $1,000, the said amount to be charged to the Reserve Fund.

Referred to the Executive Committee.

SALE OF FIRE HOUSE, SOUTH BOSTON.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, February 25, 1922.
To the City Council:

Gentlemen,—At the present time the City of Boston owns property at the corner of B and Athens streets, South Boston district. The building located on this plot was formerly used as a fire station, but as it was no longer needed, it was turned over to the Superintendent of Public Buildings, and is now in his custody.

As this property is no longer required for public purposes, I believe it would be advisable to have your honorable body grant authority for the city to sell this land and building at auction.

I am transmitting herewith a communication from the Superintendent of Public Buildings, stating that the property is no longer required for public purposes. I therefore recommend the passage of the accompanying order.

Respectfully yours,
JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

City of Boston,
Public Buildings Department,
February 25, 1922.
Hon. James M. Curley,
Mayor of Boston:

Dear Sir,—I wish to advise you that the Public Buildings Department have had the care and custody of the Old Fire House, located at B and Athens streets, South Boston, for some time and now have no further use for same for city purposes.

Respectfully yours,
FRED J. KNEELAND,
Superintendent of Public Buildings.

Ordered, That the Board of Street Commissioners be authorized to sell at public auction at a price not less than twenty-five hundred ($2,500) dollars, the property at the corner of B and Athens streets, South Boston district, formerly used as a fire station, the proceeds to be credited to sales of city property.

Referred to the Executive Committee.

LOAN FOR SEWERAGE WORK.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, February 27, 1922.
To the City Council:

Gentlemen,—I am herewith transmitting a communication from the Commissioner of Public Works requesting the authorization of a loan of $800,000 for sewerage work during the coming year.

I respectfully recommend the passage of the accompanying order.

Respectfully yours,
JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

City of Boston,
Public Works Department,
February 27, 1922.
To the Honorable the Mayor:

I respectfully recommend that the City Council be requested to appropriate the sum of eight hundred thousand dollars ($800,000) for the construction of sewerage works in this city during the present year.

Yours respectfully,
T. F. SULLIVAN,
Commissioner of Public Works.

Ordered, That under the provisions of chapter 426 of the Acts of 1897, as amended by chapter 204 of the Acts of 1908, the sum of $800,000 be and hereby is appropriated, to be expended under the direction of the Commissioner of Public Works for sewerage works, and that to meet said appropriation the City Treasurer, be authorized to issue, from time to time, on the request of the Mayor, bonds or certificates of indebtedness of the city to said amount.

Referred to the Committee on Finance.

PETITIONS REFERRED.

The following petitions were received and referred to the committees named, viz.:

Claims.

Mrs. Ralph L. Bostwick, for compensation for injuries caused by a fall at 90 M street.

MINORS' LICENSES.

President BRICKLEY submitted reports on petitions for minors' licenses for seventeen newsboys and two vendors—recommending that licenses be granted.

Reports accepted; licenses granted on the usual conditions.

SOLDIERS' RELIEF.

Coun. GILBODY, for the Committee on Soldiers' Relief, submitted a report recommending the passage of an order for the payment of aid to soldiers and sailors and their families in the city of Boston for the month of February.

Report accepted; order passed.

CITY CHARTER LEGISLATION.

Coun. WATSON offered the following:

Resolved, That the City Council of Boston is opposed to any change in the city charter without a referendum attached to any such legislation.

Ordered, That a copy of this resolve and order be sent to the President of the Senate and the Speaker of the House of Represntatives.

The question came on the adoption of the resolution.

Coun. WATSON—Mr. President, I am going to ask a suspension of the rule for the passage of this resolution. I want it distinctly understood that in speaking in favor of the resolution I have no personal interest. I am satisfied that whatever the people want they should have. If the people of Boston desire a new method of electing their legislative branch, and so express themselves, even by a majority of one, I consider that that is their desire and their right, and I bow to their will. But in 1920, less thantwo years ago, the same interests that are responsible for the act that is now being considered in the Legislature by the Committee on Metropolitan Affairs, succeeded by logrolling and other methods in having submitted to the people of Boston the identical bill that is now before the Legislature for its consideration, and at that time the sponsor of the bill, Mr. Lomasney of Ward 5, said that the people of Boston demanded a change in the method of electing members to the City Council. The members of the Legislature believed that Mr. Lomasney said what he thought was true, that perhaps he was correct in his assumption; but upon the matter being submitted to the people of Boston, the proposition was defeated by one of the heaviest votes ever cast in Boston—56,000 voted "Yes" and 79,000 voted "No." That was less than two years ago, at one of the largest polls ever cast in Boston. I think, although I may be wrong, that it was the presidential year. I have no objection to Mr. Lomasney, Mr. Innis of Ward 8, or the little man from Ward 16 who presumes to be the leader in Roxbury, taking action which will result in there being elected to this body men whom the people want; but I am against permitting any bosses or leaders to assume to themselves the duties of citizenship, presuming to think and act for the people of any district of the city or of the city as a whole, without the people being permitted to approve or disapprove. I have no quarrel with Mr. Lomasney. He owes me nothing, and our accounts balance—I owe him nothing. I ask him for nothing and he asks me for nothing direct, but he does occasionally through his lieutenant, John I. Fitzgerald. I have no fault to find with Mr. Innis. He is a great, substantial friend, if you are with him. If you play the game as he desires and are subservient to his wishes, requests and demands, when there is something that you want, Mr. Innis will get it for you. He is a powerful factor in city, state and nation. But I don't happen to be on his visiting list, either. Ward 8 has already spoken on this proposition. Ward 8, by a vote of 5,003 against 1,700, a majority of 3,300 votes, voted "No" on the proposed change, because they had Coun. Lane here to protect their interests, as he does protect their interests and that of people in other sections throughout the city. By the way, there are only five wards in Boston, I think, that voted "Yes" on the proposed change in 1920. Ward 1, by a majority of 1,000, voted for the change; Ward 2, by a majority of 1,400, voted for the change; Ward 3 and Ward 4, in Charlestown, each voted for the change by 1,000; and Ward 5 by 2,500; Ward 9, in South Boston, gave a bare sixty-seven vote in favor of the change; Ward 16, the ward that Mr. Adlow represents in part, as best he can, cast a vote of 1,300 against the change, despite his advocating the proposition. I might go down through all the wards, and the result would show the same condition. I do not object now to the question of changing the Council's make-up or to the redistricting of Boston, or a change in the system. I shall be very glad to see a change, provided the people of Boston want it, but this bill in the Legislature is going to be rushed through, and it will be signed by Channing Cox. I believe it will be signed by him, because when Innis says the word Channing Cox does the bidding of Charles H. Innis, fearing otherwise his political future. A strong, powerful Republican leader is Charles H. Innis, strong locally and in national affairs a big man, close to the administration in Washington, a man who had much to do with the removal of Wilson, the prohibition agent of Massachusetts, and who does not hesitate to boast about it. He is powerful, tremendously powerful. I respect his power and I feel it occasionally, but we are friendly, as are Lomasney and myself. But I have been brought up in a different school from those gentlemen. I have been brought up to believe that the constitution guarantees me the right to be one in a community and no more. The constitution provides that each one of our citizens is a king unto himself. We look up to no sovereign, no king, in political affairs or other affairs. That has been my dogma for years, and I am going to pass off this earth, God willing, feeling the same way. The day of bosses and leaders who do not lead, has gone by. The people are asserting themselves, and I will say now that, unless the Republican party keep their hands off Boston and legislate for the public as a whole, stopping the passing of legislation to satisfy their political desires and their own selfish interests, in place of Channing Cox on Beacon Hill as Governor you will have a Democratic Governor, provided the Democrats pick up a man of sufficient calibre. People are watching Beacon Hill. In the past at times it has not been watched quite closely enough. They used to call this the "steel factory" once. Now, this is just an annex compared with the chief "steel" department on Beacon Hill. Where the people's rights are bartered, without thought of their interest, we cannot expect anything except what we see. The public receive no consideration at their hands, except those who are interested in State street, the vested interests, the Edison and the gas companies, the street railways and the steam railroads. The people have no thought given to them by the leaders unless those who are at the head of those great interests speak a word for them, and they seldom do. I hope I have said something that is going to get under the skin of some of the sleepy members of the Legislature from North Adams, Billerica, Topsfield, Barnstable, Scituate and other places, waking them up to the fact that the Hub of the Universe, the capital of New England, Boston, had had its interests jeopardized too much and too often. The people of Boston have confidence in us, they have confidence in his Honor the Mayor. That was proven in the last election. They have shown their confidence in us as in the new members—Gilbody and Walsh—and they certainly showed their confidence in Donoghue, in re-electing him despite tremendous opposition. In the past Lane has been re-elected, Ford has been re-elected, Moriarty has been re-elected, and so has Hagan. I have been re-elected three times to this body. I believe that is some indorsement showing that the people are satisfied with the kind of government they receive at our hands and the hands of the Chief Executive. You, sir (referring to President Brickley), will be a candidate for re-election next year, and in all probability you will be returned. The people get the kind of government they desire, and I believe we have given them the proper kind. I believe in popular representation. I sat right over there, Mr. President, where the reporters' table is, with twelve other members of the body of seventy-five, in 1898 and 1899, and my political dogma then and now are identical. I care not for the leaders of Boston. I take my fights to the people, and they have usually stood by me when I was right, and when they thought I was wrong, they saw fit to vote accordingly. I am not at all satisfied, I might say, with this present form of government. I would like to see a representative board, by districts. But why should Ward 5, Martin Lomasney's ward, have a single member of this body, and why whould Ward 7, Charles H. Innis' ward, a Republican ward, have a single member? Why should Ward 6, at the South End, have a single member, and why should the aristocratic ward you represent, Mr. Lane, have a member by itself? Why should Wards 1 and 2 in East Boston have but one member? Why should all the other twenty-two wards of Boston have only a partial representative, one for each two wards? Why? I know, because Lomasney and Innis want a body of but fifteen members to do their business with here, and that is the way they wish to have it arranged. They do not own any one in this body. They control some pretty nearly. I didn't point at anybody—I merely looked. They do not control one member of this body to the limit. Adlow wants to link up Wards 13 and 16, to get a Republican member of the Legislature. I vote in Ward 13, and if there is an opportunity under this proposition I will lick Adlow or anybody they run in my district, and it is a Republican district. But I can get 90 per cent of the votes against Adlow or anybody they want to run, if this thing goes through. I am not afraid by them. They know me in Roxbury, and they are beginning to know me down here, too. Lomasney and Innis, a fine combination. I appeared at a hearing before the committee, and Martin and I had a little back and forth, as you saw in the papers. He took it good-naturedly, as I did. He said he never asked a favor of me. I say now that he can thank me for one vote that was cast for the occupant of that seat where he now sits, sir, in 1899, for Daniel J. Kiley as president of the Old Common Council. He was a Lomasney man, and I voted for him. The body then consisted of thirty-seven Democrats, twenty-seven Republicans, and Jerry Watson. I was elected as an independent. I was an independent then, and I am an independent now. I told him also that John I. Fitzgerald came to me for favors. He said, "That is not me, Jerry." But where is the difference? John I. Fitzgerald is Martin's president of the Democratic City Committee, Martin's man Friday. Why, of course, he has asked us all to do things. We voted here for the claim of a man named Thomas F. Goode, $5,000. Who lobbied for it? Why, John I. Fitzgerald. They have to look out that they don't scratch me too deep, or I will tell things. Oh, Adlow. Just look at that little fellow.' His good old father, hard working, industrious, was able to acquire some property in Roxbury. His mother, too, was a good, honest, hard-working woman. Both of them came from Russia, and by hard work they succeeded over here. I give them credit for it. The father finally ran a place where he sold baby carriages and second-hand stuff, and he kept things going and finally got up to the point where he was able to send the boy to Harvard College and give him an education. Then what happened? He goes to the Legislature, and when he gets there he forgets his poor old father. He forgets that his poor old father and mother were immigrants from Russia. They came here to get away from a oppression. They came here for freedom, for the right to live out their lives as they saw fit, away from any oligarchy or king. But what becomes of young Adlow? Why, he simply becomes a little snob. Harvard College ruined the son of a good father and mother. He goes to Harvard, gets an education that is paid for by the toil of his father and mother, and comes out a snob. But, never mind. Roxbury will take care of Adlow, I promise you that. I have talked with those who have influence enough to know. If the Republicans nominate a good, clean Republican, we will try hard to get the Democrats to indorse him, and take care of Adlow. Now, I will say one thing, further, and I am through. I want Lomasney to know that there is one member of this body who does not care a snap of his finger for him, politically. Personally, he is all right. Adlow is on the subcommittee appointed on motion of Mr. Lomasney, a subcommittee of the Committee on Metropolitan Affairs, to bring in a draft of a bill. Mr. Lomasney is on that committee, and so is Adlow. Sutherland, Innis's creature from Ward 7, is on it. Thomas Green, the Senator, is on it, and so is Francis, a Democratic member from Charlestown. They do not dare to vote on the floor of the Legislature against a referendum on that measure, although they are recommending it back to the full body committee without a referendum; and I believe, I have been informed today, although I don't know whether it is correct or not, that the bill has been reported. Is that right, Mr. Ford?

Coun. FORD—Yes.

Coun. WATSON—I was told an hour ago, on the phone, by a staunch member of the Good Government Association, that the subcommittee was in favor of a bill under which we would have fifteen representative councilor districts, a bill similar to the one that was defeated two years ago by a majority of 23,000 votes. Well, Mr. President, I would simply say that Democrat Francis, Democrat Green and Democrat Lomasney are against the most important and vital principle that the Democratic party stands for, the referendum on important legislation. Lomasney dares to vote against the referendum, because he holds in the palm of his hand the poor creatures of Ward 5. Sutherland dares to do it, because Charlie Innis holds in the palm of his hand the creatures of Ward 7, although Ward 7 voted by 3,300 majority against such a bill. And yet Sutherland goes to work and suggests submitting it to the Legislature without a referendum. As for Francis and Green, well, they have got their troubles ahead of them if they dare to vote "yes." They will vote that way because they want to go to the City Council from Wards 3 and 4, however. They are not big enough to be elected at large, and they don't dare to run at large. As for Wards 1 and 2, well, I don't know how Ahern will vote, or Cox the Republican, Cashman, or Sullivan of Ward 1. But if they vote against the referendum and for this bill, it is because not one of the four could go through the city and be known outside of their own little dunghill. Now, Mr. President, I have not said much. I have been very mild about it. But I am going to ask for a suspension of the rule in order that this order may go upon its passage at this time. I want to say that I am not opposed to district representation, but let it be proper district representation. I ask you, in conclusion: Is it fair to Coun. Donoghue, Coun. Walsh and Coun. Gilbody, after making a campaign for election and re-election, and being elected for three years to this body, to take two years away from their term because some of the political leaders desire to supplant them with somebody else; I say it is unfair. So far as I am concerned, my term expires this year, and Jerry will take care of himself when the time comes. I am getting rather old, but I have some "pep" left yet. Oh, the old days! I am rather surprised that a few of the other members haven't a speech prepared on this matter. I did not prepare this, but I am satisfied with it. I am going to ask the members to pass this resolution unanimously under the suspension of the rule, by a yea and nay vote, Mr. President.

The rule was suspended and the resolution was passed, yeas 9, nays 0.

COUNTY EMPLOYMENT OFFICE.

Coun. WATSON offered an order, That his Honor the Mayor be requested to consider the advisability of establishing a County Commissioners' office for the employment of people out of work.

Coun. WATSON—Mr. President, I offer this order for what it is worth. It is not my idea. It is an idea suggested by the editor of the Boston Herald. I do not object a particle to having it go to the Executive Committee, and we can then invite Mr. Robert Lincoln O'Brien to come down and tell us what is needed. I think myself that we have enough employment bureaus, and that what we want are jobs. Still, he used my name editorially last Tuesday, and I ask unanimous consent to have this editorial from the Herald printed in our minutes.

The editorial referred to by Coun. Watson is as follows:

"Is Suffolk County Asleep at the Switch?

"We venture to call the attention of the municipal councilmen of Boston, who are ex officio County Commissioners of Suffolk County, to a strange neglect of official propriety on their part. Suffolk County is now maintaining no free employment agency. This is a gross oversight. We shall have only three such institutions operating in Boston when the new Mayor gets his public employment agency into being.

"The state of Massachusetts has for fifteen years maintained a free employment agency, issuing bulletins full of suggestions. It was for many years on Kneeland street, and recently removed to Pearl, to be nearer the business district, incidentally for the greater convenience of its own employees.

"The United States Government, the benevolent mother of us all, maintains a free employment agency in upper Tremont street. It does this in some collaboration with the state agency.

"Mayor Curley is about to start a third agency. Of that we have no criticism. It will certainly give some employment—to those who are employed within its own walls—and that is, after all, the chief utility of such enterprises.

"But where is Suffolk County? Should we not have a county employment agency, when you consider the number of unemployed in Suffolk County? What is the Hon. James A. Watson, at one time president of the municipal council, thinking of to allow so serious a neglect on the part of the county to proper relations to a broad and intelligent citizenship?

"We have no objections to the three employment agencies, soon to function in this city. Our only criticism is the absence of the fourth."

The order was referred to the Executive Committee.

CHANGE IN NAME OF BRIDGE.

Coun. WATSON offered an order—That his Honor the Mayor be requested to consider the advisability of consulting with the officials of the city of Cambridge with the view of changing the name of the West Boston Bridge to Longfellow Bridge.

Referred to the Executive Committee.

WILLIAM J. LALLY SQUARE.

Coun. WALSH offered an order—That the open space at the junction of Cambridge street, Harvard avenue and Franklin street, now known as Allston square, be named William J. Lally square, in memory of William J. Lally, who died in the service of the United States during the World War.

Passed under a suspension of the rule.

RICHARD T. RITCHIE SQUARE.

Coun. WALSH offered an order—That the open space at the junction of Commonwealth avenue and Brighton avenue be named Richard T. Ritchie square, in memory of Richard T. Ritchie who died in the service of the United States in the World War.

Passed under a suspension of the rule.

WILLIAM F. SMALL SQUARE.

Coun. WALSH offered an order—That the open space at the junction of Brighton avenue and Harvard avenue, Brighton, be named William F. Small square, in memory of William F. Small, who died in the service of the United States during the World War.

Passed under a suspension of the rule.

EDWIN M. CUNNINGHAM PARK.

Coun. WALSH offered an order—That the Park Commissioners be requested, through his Honor the Mayor, to name the park at junction of Murdock, Cambridge and Sparhawk streets Edwin M. Cunningham Park, in memory of Edwin M. Cunningham, who was killed in the service of the United States in the Spanish-American War.

Passed under a suspension of the rule.

TRANSFER OF PARK.

Coun. WALSH offered an order—That the Board of Park Commissioners be requested, through his Honor the Mayor, to report to the City Council as to the advisability of transferring the land in Brighton known as "Wilson Park" to the custody of the Public Buildings Department, for the purpose of providing a municipal building site for that district.

Referred to the Executive Committee.

PLAYGROUND, FOREST HILLS.

President BRICKLEY offered an order—That the Park Commissioners be requested, through his Honor the Mayor, to send to the City Council an estimate of the cost of a playground site, and location or locations, in Forest Hills.

Passed under a suspension of the rule.

PENSION FOR MICHAEL BATH.

President BRICKLEY offered the following:

Resolved, That the City Council of Boston favors legislation for a pension for Michael Bath of Charlestown Courthouse.

Referred to the Executive Committee.

HOLIDAY, EVACUATION DAY PARADERS.

President BRICKLEY offered an order—That the heads of departments be authorized to allow all city employees who participate in the Evacuation Day parade, March 17, a half-holiday without loss of pay, in part compensation for their services.

Referred to the Executive Committee.

PENSION FOR RICHARD A. FRIEL.

Coun. DONOGHUE offered the following:

Resolved, That the City Council favors legislation for the pensioning of Richard A. Friel.

Passed under a suspension of the rule.

PRINTING OF DOCUMENT.

Coun. LANE offered an order—That the resolution concerning the opinion of the City Council of Boston, as to the sale of beer and light wines, be printed as a city document, said resolution having been passed in the municipal year of 1921.

Passed under a suspension of the rule.

CORNELIUS T. MAHONEY SQUARE.

Coun. GILBODY offered an order—That the name of Hyde square be changed to that of Cornelius T. Mahoney square, in memory of said Mahoney who died in the service of the United States during the World War.

Passed under a suspension of the rule.

WILLIAM J. MULHERN SQUARE.

Coun. GILBODY offered an order—That the space at the junction of Bowdoin and Quincy streets, Dorchester, be named William J. Mulhern square, in memory of said Mulhern who died in the United States service during the World War, and that said space be suitably marked with signs.

Passed under a suspension of the rule.

LEONCE C. BURKE SQUARE.

Coun. GILBODY offered an order—That the space at the junction of Hendry and Bowdoin streets, Dorchester, be named Leonce C. Burke square, in memory of said Burke who died in the service of the United States during the World War, and that said space be suitably marked with signs.

Passed under a suspension of the rule.

RECESS TAKEN.

The Council voted at 3.48 p. m., on motion of Coun. GILBODY, to take a recess subject to the call of the President.

The members of the Council reassembled in the chamber and were called to order by the President at 6.05 p. m.

COMPLETION OF STRANDWAY.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, February 27, 1922.

To the City Council:

Gentlemen,—I beg to present for the consideration of your honorable body the accompanying orders providing for the rescinding of the order passed August 22, 1921, and one passed January 31, 1922, authorizing the purchase of a site and erection of building for gymnasium in South Boston.

The site has already been purchased and, with the exception of engaging an architect, nothing has been done in the matter of advertising for proposals for the completion of this work. I submit to your honorable body that the most essential and immediate work that should be conducted in the South Boston district is the completion of the Strandway.

The completion of the Strandway will entail an expenditure of $750,000, but will make available for the general public the use of what gives promise of being, on completion, the best salt waterfront park in the United States, if not in the world, and this work, I believe, is more important at the present time than the contemplated gymnasium.

It is my purpose further to provide, at the earliest possible opportunity, for the establishment of a health unit on the site of Station 6, Broadway, and an appropriation for the enlargement and improvement of the M Street Playground.

All three of these improvements being more important and of greater benefit to a larger number of persons, I respectfully recommend the adoption of the accompanying orders.

Respectfully,
James M. Curley, Mayor.

Ordered, That so much of the loan order authorized August 22, 1921, for the purchase of a site and for the erection of building for gymnasium in South Boston, as has not been issued, amounting to $150,000, be and the same is hereby rescinded.

Ordered, That the loan order for $118,000, authorized January 31, 1922, for the purchase of a site and for the erection of building for gymnasium in South Boston, be and the same is hereby rescinded.

The message and the accompanying order was declared referred to the Committee on Finance.

Coun. WATSON—Mr. President, I am going to move a reconsideration of the reference. I thought it was pretty well understood that the plan the Mayor had for the development of the Strandway and finishing of it, according to plans furnished by Arthur Shurtleff, landscape architect, calling for the expenditure of a large sum of money, was agreeable to the whole Council. All were present through the entire talk with his Honor the Mayor, with the exception of Coun. Hagan and myself. Coun. Hagan came rather late. But I did inquire what took place before I arrived. I left before the thing was concluded, but I judged from the tenor of the words of those who stayed there that the Council agreed to the proposition, in view of the fact that it meant employment within sixty days for a large number of veterans of the war and other people who might want work, unskilled labor. Seven hundred and fifty thousand dollars would be the amount to be expended, provided we rescinded this vote which entails an expense of over $200,000 for the public building over there. I think that delay is unnecessary. I think the occasion demands immediate action. The Mayor has already stated that he desires to relieve the unemployment situation, and the president of this body said when he was elected that his duty would be to co-operate with the Mayor in his efforts to do these things. I am satisfied that he intends to do so. We should not delay this one day.

President BRICKLEY—I wish to say, repeating what I heard the Mayor state, that he told us to sleep over it. I am speaking only as one member of the body, and the others can state their position.

Coun. WATSON—I don't know what the Mayor told you, but when I was there he told the gathering that he wanted immediate action on the matter. If he told you that he wanted you to sleep on it, you probably know what it means more than I do. But if he wants action, wants to relieve the situation, days count, minutes count. If the Chair and other members have the demands upon them for employment that I have—and I know they do—they must be aware of the necessity of Boston starting the ball rolling. We have no means of knowing what a delay of seven days may mean. If this is put over to the next meeting, it may mean two weeks' delay, three weeks' delay. Using the words of the councilor opposite (Coun. Gilbody), in speaking about tanks in Dorchester, it would mean murder practically on the part of this body to delay action for one moment. delay that might result in unemployment of those who need employment. There should not be an hour's delay. I think the other councilors here agree with me in their hearts. Why handicap Mayor Curley? I don't think it is the intention of the Council to do that, but you are going to do it if you delay a week. As I say, a delay of a week may mean a delay of two or three weeks, or a month or more. The Mayor said that this would mean getting action within forty days at the earliest and sixty days at the latest. So if we delay action on this Strandway improvement in South Boston, seven days delay making the maximum time sixty-seven days instead of sixty days. I do trust that we will reconsider or rescind the vote referring this matter to the committee, and that we will act upon it today. I trust that the vote of the members of the body will be in the affirmative.

Coun. LANE—Mr. President, I hope the reference will stand. I was present in the Mayor's office. Mr. Watson says that he was not there at the first part of the meeting, and he left before it was over. His Honor the Mayor first spoke of this proposition, and then said he wanted the Council, particularly the two members from South Boston, as they were vitally interested in the building that it had been proposed to erect over there, to have time to consider it. He said, "I want you to listen to the proposition I am about to lay before you, to hear Mr. Shurtleff, and then to sleep on the question and see if you do not agree with me." Now, this question involves $750,000, and I don't think we have a right here in this Council to listen to a thing, even when explained by Mr. Shurtleff, and come here immediately and vote $750,000 without some mature consideration. I sincerely hope and trust that the reference will remain, and that we will act upon the matter at our meeting next Monday

Coun. DONOGHUE—Mr. President, I would like to know just where we are at on this proposition. I have just listened to the wording of the communication, and I don't think that by sleeping on the proposition we are going to be in any better position to make up our minds whether or not this Strandway should be continued. I think we have all agreed for a long time that the Strandway should and ought to be completed. At this particular time, with so many of our citizens out of work, and with the present Mayor of the City of Boston saying that citizens will be given preference on all work let out by the city, I think we have an opportunity to do something constructive to help the citizens of Boston. Delays are dangerous, according to an old axiom that we have listened to from childhood. I don't think we need further time to consider the proposition. We don't have to wait a week in order to be able to vote intelligently in regard to the development of the Strandway. We will know no more about it at the end of the week than we do now. I would like to ask, first, whether another or a separate communication has been sent in on the $750,000 for the Strandway development?

President BRICKLEY—A loan order was sent in and referred to the Committee on Finance before the recess.

Coun. DONOGHUE—That is what I thought. Now, this order relates to an entirely different proposition. While the Mayor has linked the propositions up together, saying he would like the Council to rescind their previous action in regard to the municipal building at the lower end of South Boston, I think he gave some very substantial reasons for his position. This development of the Strandway is a separate proposition, as I view it, and it is in the nature of a loan order. We can act on the $750,000 order for the Strandway, and don't necessarily have to act on this other order that the Mayor wishes us to rescind.

I am perfectly agreeable to allowing the second order, just read, to go to the Committee on Finance, for consideration, but I think the $750,000 appropriation for the Strandway represents a much needed improvement. As they told us in the Mayor's office, both Mr. Shurtleff and the Mayor, they have plans for making that section of South Boston and Dorchester one of the leading beauty spots of the world. The waterfront will be developed in South Boston and Dorchester to such an extent that, in my opinion, there will not be another section of the country that will have such a beautiful landscape and waterfront as Boston will have for its citizens. I would like to move at this time that we rescind or reconsider our action referring the $750,000 loan order to the Committee on Finance, so that we may act upon it at this time.

President BRICKLEY—That motion is out of order until Coun. Watson's motion is acted on.

Coun. WATSON—Mr. President, Mr. Lane spoke about $750,000 being involved. As a matter of fact, there is a large sum involved, but not $750,000 in this particular matter. It amounts to about $268,000. I understand from the Mayor that he proposes to use this $268,000, making up the $750,000 for the Strandway. That is what he wanted it for, and then he was going to try to use some of the Parkman money, some other money, in the matter of the Strandway development. Now, if the other members of this body are satisfied to vote for seven days' delay as a minimum, that is their hunch and not mine. As for the $750,000 that Coun. Lane speaks about, no amount of sleeping or action on our part will change our minds a particle, in my opinion. It is a plain, bald matter of fact. It is proposed to utilize this money for the development of the Strandway according to the plan submitted by Arthur Shurtleff, whom I have met before the Executive Committee some years ago. He is one of the leading landscape architects of the City of Boston, bar none, a protégé of Olmsted Brothers, who are considered at least equal to the best, if not the best in the world. I am willing to take that gentleman's statement concerning this matter, and I want to pay a little tribute to Mr. Shurtleff. He said he did not want to claim all the glory for the plans, that there was enough glory for all. He said that not only the present Mayor but the previous Mayor was entitled to some credit in the matter; that Ralph Cram of the Planning Board, one of the leading architects of the world, had a part in it, and that the Park Commissioners had a part in it. The Street Department had also joined in, as well as the Boston Society of Architects, who praised the development and the plan. They showed us an elaborate lot of drawings, and so on. Why, there was even a quibble about the bath house on the beach. Somebody wanted it in Dorchester, or 100 yards nearer Dorchester, and the people of South Boston wanted it where it was, because it was nearer South Boston. They even quibbled about that. I don't know what they want, next. I want employment for the unemployed. I don't want it half as much as the Mayor does. Anybody who goes to his office can see the hordes of men unemployed, men who were wounded in the war, old men and young men, war veterans and others, women interceding for their husbands, sons or brothers. You would have to have a heart of steel if you stayed one hour there and saw the procession of unemployed coming in, without being strongly affected by it. It may be considered by some serious-minded members here, those with a legal trend of mind or with a one-track mind, perhaps, that there should be delay in this matter. Let those whom the shoes fit wear them. It may be that their jobs don't fit them. I say frankly that I know at least one member of the body who by his action has proven that public office is not a public trust. Let them come in here day in and day out and go through what Moriarty, myself and others go through, instead of hiding behind their office doors and having their secretaries bar out men seeking employment. Their job is a cozy job compared with ours. I say that the public demand, whether they voted for Curley or not, action on the part of the legislative branch of the City Council which shall uphold the hands of the Mayor when he is right. I will be the first man to break with him when he fails to take the right position. But nobody in this body can deny the virtue contained in this proposition of rescinding the previous vote and devoting $750,000 to this purpose, for a great public work, and to help the unemployed, your comrades, your pals, Mr. President, and Coun. Gilbody. They did their duty, and they should not now be compelled to beg employment through you and me. They are men willing to work, and they are demanding work beseeching us for work, men who are compelled to go upstairs and to be put through the third degree in order to receive a little money to help them through, to help them support their loved ones, brothers, sisters and children. What is the use of our quibbling on this matter? Come out in the open. If you don't want Curley to do this, say so; if you don't want to help your comrades who need employment, say so. Seven days' delay may mean fourteen days' delay, and I have seen these things string out time and time again in my experience. I am not a spokesman for Curley, and don't propose to be. I see him less and ask less of him than any member of this body. He owes me nothing. I owe him nothing. But I do owe something to my constituents, and as long as the Mayor of Boston—be he Peters, Curley, or whatever his name—is progressing along lines that commend themselves to me, he will have my support. I proved that during Mayor Peters' term of office I trust now that the vote whereby we voted $268,000 for the municipal building in South Boston, on land already purchased, will be rescinded.

Coun. MORIARTY—Mr. President, I want to say that during my four years as a member of this body I have always been able to come to my own conclusions, and if God alows me to remain on earth I intend to continue to do that in this body for one year more. I understand today that a bill has been reported by a committee of the Legislature to legislate us out of office, so that, if it goes through, will cut off one year from my term. During this next year I am going to do what I have done during my other four years of holding office, come to my own conclusions in my own way. Some year and a half ago the D Street Gymnasium, so called, being on state land, was ordered off by the state. Sometime better than a year ago they started to demolish the D Street Gym, and through an agreement with John N. Cole of the Park Department, brought about by myself, it was agreed to allow that gymnasium to stay there for six months more. The Mayor of Boston, then Andrew J. Peters, promised me that if the D Street Gymnasium on the flats of South Boston was demolished, he would replace the gymnasium in that district for the people of South Boston. I had no more conversation with the Mayor in regard to that building, but he carried out his word, sending in here messages which resulted in the starting of that building. The Street Commissioners made a taking on Broadway, in which I had no part, and if I had had my way as an individual the taking would not have been made. The site of old Station 6 and the Parkman School land, owned by the city, was my selection for the erection of a municipal gymnasium and bath in that district. That was passed with the assistance of the vote of the member who has just taken his seat, on four different occasions, under loan orders. He now comes in here today and criticises anybody for wanting an opportunity to take time. Why link the two propositions together The Mayor did not state downstairs that he was going to spend one cent of the money now appropriated on the Strandway proposition. He said if this was rescinded it would go into the improvement of the N Street Playground. I think the members of this Council ought at least to show as much courtesy to the members of South Boston as the Mayor showed. The Mayor did say, after talking to the Council as a whole, that they desired to give special consideration to the two representatives from South Boston. The Strandway proposition, as an improvement, ought to be nearer and dearer to me than to any other member of the Council, for the reason that the contemplated improvement is near where I live. The bath house site selected, that he says we quibble over, is about at my back door. But I am not selfish in the matter, and would rather have it for the convenience of the people of Dorchester, whom I in part represent, nearer them and farther away from me than it is. So there was no quibbling. The Mayor asked us to come to his office. He asked us there for a purpose. He asked us there to look over the plans that were drawn by this landscape architect, and said that he sent for us to give suggestions. That is what we were there for. There was no quibbling, according to my idea. In so far as unemployment is concerned, if there is anybody who is holding public office today who is not pestered by those who are unemployed, I don't know how he is getting away from it. In so far as the man who has just taken his seat is concerned, I want to say that the Mayor's heart is not any more open, no matter how wide open it may be, for those who are unemployed than mine is. I don't think I would be fair to myself to admit that even the Mayor had any more thought for those who are unemployed than I have. But, of course, I have not the opportunity. No member of the Council has the opportunity to place men at work that the Mayor has. Of course, he may have more people calling upon him in the matter. I have no quarrel with the Mayor. I do not feel that I want to hamper the Mayor in one iota. I want to be with the project that the Mayor has in hand for the next year. But I believe this, as a member of the Council, that I have a right, the same right that the councilor who has just taken his seat reserves for himself, to ask that the order be laid over to the next meeting.

Coun. WATSON—Mr. President.

President BRICKLEY—Does the gentleman yield?

Coun. MORIARTY—I yield, Mr. President.

Coun. WATSON—Mr. President, I thank the councilor for yielding. I wanted to say just one thing about the order that I wanted to lay over for a week, that there was a little bit of principle attached to that. They wanted to permit the Superintendent of Public Buildings to sell at public auction a piece of property owned by the people of the City of Boston for not less than $2,500. There was not a member of the body who could tell me the valuation of the property. The principle is the same, whether it is a million or $2,500. We ought to know whether land we are going to sell is worth more or less than the amount at which it is proposed to sell it. If it is to be sold for less than the assessed valuation, we ought to know why. There is no comparison whatever in the two matters. In fact, several of the councilors agreed with me that my position was correct in that matter.

Coun. MORIARTY—Mr. President, I have always understood in my time that, whether you agreed with a member of the Council or not, courtesy of the body required that when any member of the body required that a matter be laid over that he should be given that courtesy. But I want to say this. When it comes to a question of whether the city is losing money, let me state that the City of Boston has spent in connection with the proposed municipal building in South Boston $40,000 for a site. And that is not all it has spent. There has been an architect hired, and the architect at this time is working on the plans and specifications for that building.

Coun. WATSON—He has been stopped.

Coun. MORIARTY—Well, he may have been stopped. I have not been close enough to the Mayor, even at the present time, to find out that that is so.

Coun. WATSON—The newspapers said so.

Coun. MORIARTY—But I want to say this, that it will be another proposition like Station 2, where another set of plans, paid for by the people's money, will be rolled up and sent the Commissioner of Public Buildings to be placed in the files and to accumulate dust and rot. There has been work done on those plans, a great deal of work, and after drawing up plans they went back and told the Mayor that they would be unable to build a gymnasium unless they received a further appropriation of $118,000. So they must have gone pretty far into the question of the building. His Honor the Mayor said downstairs that he realized that some of the members, and I suppose that expression included the two members from South Boston, were interested in the gymnasium; that, to use his words, they were interested in their pet measures. I want to say, as far as I am concerned, that I am looking for no honor as far as the municipal building in South Boston is concerned, but I do say that there is also a bath proposed to be connected with this municipal building, and I say without fear of contradiction that there are fewer bathtubs in the homes of that district than in any other district of its size in Boston, not excluding the North and West Ends. There is some merit in the question of a municipal building and bath house in South Boston. The Mayor said that the Dover Street Bath House was close to that particular district. Yes, I would say that it is half a mile away, but I would not want to walk over Dover street to go there, and if you should try to walk over there now you would find the bridge closed, as it has been closed for some time. So I am not prepared to vote today. I think I have a right to go back and talk to some of the people who were responsible for sending me here. I think I have a right to go to the people of my district and talk to them in regard to this matter, which has been under consideration for five years. We are told that there is danger in postponement. I don't think so, in this matter, if the story told to us in the Mayor's office is true, because the Mayor told us that he felt like going through with it five years ago, but did not do so. If he had gone through with it then there would not be the argument of unemployment to use in connection with this matter today. But the fact that he did not go through with it then, the fact that there was a postponement, has given an opportunity for that argument at this time. I want to say that I am in favor of the Strandway improvement, and I think it can be carried on, and I think also by some stretching of the line that the municipal bath house in South Boston may also be worked out. I don't think that the councilor who has just taken his seat would desire to injure the people of that district by any action of his which would possibly result in their not getting that gymnasium. I will be prepared to vote upon this matter a week from today. If circumstances compel me to do so, I will vote today, if I am not given an opportunity to get out and find out the views of some of the people of the district. But I would rather not vote today.

Coun. WATSON—Mr. President, will the gentleman permit me to ask him a question?

Coun. MORIARTY—I will answer any question I can.

Coun. WATSON—Mr. President, I would like to ask the councilor opposite, through you, if we do not take any action rescinding this $268,000 order, and the matter goes to the regular committee, as he desires, will he favor recalling from the Committee on Finance the $750,000 for the Strandway improvement?

Coun. MORIARTY—I did not get the trend of the question.

(The reporter repeated the question.)

Coun. MORIARTY—Mr. President, no, and I will state as my reason the fact that, in my opinion, the Mayor in his communication has tacked the recalling or rescinding of action on in the wrong place. I believe in everything he has said with reference to the importance of the Strandway proposition, and I am not going to get caught in between the wheels. In favoring one today, I am favoring both. Because he has attached to the South Boston gymnasium proposition a proviso that if we will go through with the Strandway he will wipe out the gymnasium, I am not prepared to take that vote. I am going to try, if possible, to save both of them, if I can find any way which will enable me to do it. If action is delayed, I am going to ask you members a week from today in committee to see it my way. If I am not able to do that, I may be able to bluff you, as one of the members said I bluffed the Mayor when I got him to send in the appropriation.

Coun. WATSON—Mr. President, do I understand that the gentleman will not vote for $750,000 until he is assured that we will not attempt to rescind the vote on the $268,000?

Coun. MORIARTY—No, sir, I have not made any such statement.

Coun. WATSON—All right.

Coun. MORIARTY—I will say this, to make it plain. I would like a few days to find out. I would like to consult with the people of that district. The people know that I have been interested in this matter. I called a meeting of every man elected in the South Boston district, those holding office and those who had been elected to office but had not been sworn in, in this room, at the time when they tried to demolish the D Street Gymnasium. They came here at my request. Everybody knows of the promise that was made to me, and I feel that I am justified and I think you will agree with me that I am justified—that if there is still an opportunity to go through with the Strandway at $750,000 and also to get a municipal bath in that district—in trying to get them. I want to say just this word in conclusion, that I realize that the appropriation of $750,000 for the Strandway is going to put skilled and unskilled men at work, and it is going to put skilled and unskilled men at work at the same job, laboring, whereas if we had some more building going on some of the men who will otherwise be compelled to go to work on the Strandway as laborers for some of the contractors who will get the job, getting but 30 cents an hour doing laborer's work, will, if there is some mechanical work, get 90 cents an hour.

Coun. WATSON—Not lately.

Coun. MORIARTY—I think I make myself plain, that, on account of men skilled in the building trades, mechanics, not being able to get work they will be compelled to take a pick or shovel on the Strandway, whereas if the municipal building went through we might be able to put them at work at a living wage. We have contractors working for Boston today who are paying very small wages. I have no animosity against the present Mayor, and I have no knowledge of any job that has been let since he took the Mayor's chair, but I do know of contracts that were let under the Mayor who has just left us to contractors who are paying 30 cents an hour to laborers. If that is going to be the situation, it would be better to take the $750,000 and give it to those poor unfortunates without their doing any work, if contractors are to be allowed to take advantage of the unemployment situation to buy men's labor cheap because their wives and children are hungry. This is a big proposition, a really big proposition. We don't know whether the City of Boston is going to do the work itself or is going to let it out by contract. I don't think any member asked the Mayor about that. I am judging as to the position I should take for myself, and am not speaking for anybody else. I believe we have a right to find out in regard to that matter. If the city wants to be fair and if the members of the Council want to be fair, we have enough machinery to put into operation a square deal for the men employed on this proposed work. We have over there an architect who they claim is one of the best in this country. Under his supervision the city can go in there without a contractor and can spread the money around so that, not as a flowery proposition but in a material way, we will help the unfortunates who are out of work.

Coun. WATSON—Mr. President, for the benefit of the councilor who has just been talking, I will say that during the snow storm I had men applying to me seeking employment, and they did not care how much per hour they received, they needed work so badly. I can produce inside of twenty-four hours 2,500 men, some with families and some who are veterans, who need work and who will work for anything that will provide meals for themselves and their families temporarily. I have not been pestered by people seeking employment, but I have been beseeched by people who need employment. I am out in that anteroom three hours every day trying to get employment of any kind for every man who comes to me, and I am getting awfully, awfully disappointed in the result. The councilor (Coun. Moriarty) opposite knows that a laborer cannot get a job on a municipal building as a skilled mechanic, and he also knows that the present Mayor has gone on record as intending to compel contractors to hire only citizens on contract work and to pay them the prevailing rate of wages as laborers, and the prevailing rate of wages, in the opinion of every sensible man, is the rate of wages paid to the city employees for the same kind of work. I have confidence in the Mayor, and I believe the gentleman has; but he is allowing his desire to protect his immediate vicinity to run away with a greater and a bigger proposition, his duty to the entire citizenship of Boston. The State of Massachusetts appropriated a paltry $50,000 to relieve the unemployment situation in the Commonwealth, and a few men went to work two days chopping down trees, and received only $3 per day. Fifty thousand dollars. Well, here is your proposition here. What does it mean? It means fifteen times $50,000. The councilor who has just spoken says he does not propose to be linked up with the two propositions. Well, of course, he is playing safe, and I don't blame him much. But I think he is in error when he attempts to use this $750,000 appropriation as—if I may use the term without any insulting reference—a club to secure a building on some land that the city owns, in order to make good on the gymnasium which he was promised and which he received. He tells about the plans being valueless. We are going to have that land for some little time. The councilor opposite knows that we cannot sell it for within 25 per cent of what the city paid for it, because nobody wants it. It is probably worth what the city paid for it for that particular purpose, but they will not be able to dispose of it by sale within 25 per cent of the price charged. The plans will always remain, and will be probably used on the present site and later on, when we have attended to something feasible, not a dream, because after all the Mayor said he was willing to take the responsibility and that he was not passing the buck; he is the instigator, and the blame, if any, will rest on his shoulders, something can be done in the other matter. The gentleman opposite (Coun. Moriarty) is acting like a good many councilors even under the new charter, under which we were supposed to look out for the city as a whole, in the interest of the particular district where he lives, which is the object of Lomasney's bill. The gentleman is looking out for home, and hades with the rest of the city. I feel that way somtimes, too, but I try to curtail my tendency and not to give my hand away. But that is the way he is acting. Mr. President, I will not press the question here today to a vote. I will not attempt to embarrass anybody. But I think it was agreed upon downstairs with the Mayor that we would move speedily in the matter of the Strandway improvement. However, if the gentleman from South Boston desires delay on that magnificent improvement, six miles from my home and my neighbors, I have no objection. If I lived in South Boston, however, and they were going to give $750,000 to beautify my home and the surroundings of myself and my neighbors I think I would make more speedy effort to help the thing along than they are making. This is a quibble, Mr. President, what is the use of talking? You know as much about the Strandway improvement as you will ever know. It is not a land grab. The city owns the land; nobody is going to hand land that is valueless to the city. I trust that when the vote is taken it will be unanimous.

Coun. MORIARTY—Mr. President, I want to say this, that I am not playing the game. I want to say here and now, whether the new Council bill goes through or not, that I am not a candidate for re-election, and when I say that I mean it. I am not like some other men sitting here in that respect, and nobody here is going to tack anything onto me in this meeting. I want to say to the councilor who has just sat down (Coun. Watson) that I as one man—and I am only going to speak for myself—did not agree to the thing in the Mayor's office, and that it was he who interrupted me from telling the Mayor my story when the Mayor deliberately asked me a question. The member who has just taken his seat butted in and did not give me an opportunity to answer the question that the Mayor asked me. I believe he will admit that that is true.

Coun. WATSON.—Mr. President, I don't know whether I butted in or not, but I said a word, and as soon as Coun. Moriarty expressed himself I left the Mayor's office, walked out, rather than have any discussion.

Coun. MORIARTY—And, to show that he was playing the game for a local district, Mr. President, he said, "We haven't got a municipal building in Roxbury." If that wasn't playing the game, saying that Roxbury has not got a municipal building, I don't know what playing the game is. The councilor from Roxbury, according to his own words, has been re-elected three times to this body. I have only had the honor of being re-elected once. According to his words, I bluffed the Mayor into giving us a municipal building. Well, I never thought I was such a good bluffer, until he told me.

Coun. WATSON.—You are not bad.

Coun. MORIARTY—If I was able to bluff the Mayor into giving South Boston a municipal building costing about $400,000, I am some bluffer, and I think the people of my district, if the district bill does go through, instead of my seeking office, should seek to return me here to do some more bluffing. But I am not playing the game. I don't think I ever played the game here, and I think the councilor opposite will agree that I did not play the game under the last administration.

Coun. WATSON—You are no dummy. I will give you credit for that.

Coun. MORIARTY—No, I will agree that I am not a dummy, because I suppose, outside of yourself, it has cost the city more to print my statements than those of any other member of the Council. I will take off my hat to you in that respect, but outside of you, I will not take off my hat to anybody else, because I think I run second to you. But I want to be sincere in this matter. I don't want anybody to feel from my action today that I am trying to hamper the Mayor one iota, because I wish to be with the Mayor on everything he favors that I think is right. I have got the courage of my convictions to be against him on everything that I think is wrong. I think that is what the people elected me to sit in this body for. I don't feel that I am any saint. It will be nothing new if the newspapers tomorrow quote me as one of the people responsible for holding something up. They have said so at other times since I have been a member of the Council, that I held matters up. That has been said by the Herald and other papers at times. But I did hold certain things up that I thought should not be passed, and I was helped by the hammering they gave me on that point. So perhaps I am looking for some more hammering. I agree that personally I live in South Boston, and I am proud of the fact. The people of South Boston have honored me, and I think I am doing my duty to the people of that district where I live in taking the stand I do here today. I am acting in their behalf in every action I take and in every utterance I have made in this matter. But I am not going to let anybody say that I am playing the game on this proposition, as I don't wish to be hooked up in the minds of the outside public with the idea of playing the political game to keep them out of employment. I want to say this in conclusion. I think perhaps the councilor opposite (Coun. Watson) and myself may today have differed more strongly than I have differed with him in my four years in the Council. I hope to see the time when Coun. Watson or any other member of the Council, or anybody else elected to office, will not have to suffer the spectacle of men coming to them and saying, "My family and myself are in such and such a condition, so that I will go to work for any price." I don't like to see a situation of that kind; that is not my make-up. I want men to get the real price, and perhaps we might be able to get the Mayor to see that it would be better for the city to take over this entire project and do the work itself. Then the men will get a living wage, and we will know that they will do so, because we will have an opportunty to look at the pay rolls. A laborer will get $4 a day because that is a laborer's wage in the city. Everybody knows that any man who goes to work as a laborer, an able-bodied man, is delivering more for $4 today than he ever delivered before in his life, because if he did not deliver it he is afraid every minute that one of the other poor unfortunates who is out of work will be getting his position. So there is merit, I think, in the suggestion I make here, real merit. I trust, as one member of the Council, that I might be able to bluff this Mayor into seeing it from my point of view, so that the city may take over work of this sort and hire the men themselves. We all know the situation. All of us realize it, in the case of our own friends and families, and men who come to us looking for help. Councilors Brickley and Gilbody know the situation that many of their brother veterans are in, perhaps members of their own family, who have to go up here to the top of the building and go through the third degree in order to get assistance.

Coun. WATSON—They do, don't they?

Coun. MORIARTY—Absolutely. Possibly the position I am taking in this matter will not be sustained by the other members, with one exception which would be Coun. Donoghue, because I believe Coun. Donoghue was the only one who went upon the floor and stated that position, that the city should itself do work and hire its own men. He is upon record in that matter, as a means of dealing with the conditions which face us here today. I am stating his position from memory, and I don't think I am wrong. I like to give credit where credit is due. I think Coun. Watson if he knew that it was possible for them to be employed by the city, so that they could work on a job and get $4 a day instead of working for a contractor for 30 cents an hour would gladly welcome it. Perhaps I have had a little bit more experience in some of these matters than other members of the Council. I think the other members will agree that that is so, when it comes to dealings between employers and employees in the matter of wages. There is not one man on the State Board of Labor and Industries who will definitely say what is the prevailing rate of wages for a laborer. They will give it for a mechanic, but not for a laborer. I want to say this, notwithstanding the supposed holding up to the customary and prevailing rate of wages, that today the Transit Commission have got men working on the East Boston tunnel under the prevailing rate of wages of the respective crafts dealing with the different kinds of work.

Coun. WATSON—Laborers.

Coun. MORIARTY—And mechanics.

Coun. WATSON—Laborers, too?

Coun. MORIARTY—Yes—although I won't say about laborers. I think they are getting $4 a day. I think this proposed improvement over in South Boston would be a big proposition for laborers, if they could work for the city. I wish to say just one word more. In the communication that comes from the Mayor he says:

"I beg to present for the consideration of your honorable body the accompanying orders providing for the rescinding of the order passed August 22, 1921, and one passed January 31, 1922, authorizing the purchase of a site and erection of building for gymnasium in South Boston. The site has already been purchased, but, with the exception of engaging an architect nothing has been done in the matter of advertising for proposals for the completion of this work."

I want to say that I had one conference with the architect. This was under the outgoing administration. I know that there had been a lot of work done on it, and that there was still so much work to be done that they had come back through the Park Department and the firm of Newhall & Blevins, the architects, with the information that they needed more money to carry out the proposition. I want to say this, that I was partly responsible for the building, but I was not responsible for picking the architects. So I have no irons in the fire. As far as I am concerned, I did not pick the architects, and I am not going to receive the customary fee of those who do pick architects.

Coun WATSON—How about the land?

Coun. MORIARTY—I will say that I am absolutely not responsible for the site. If I had had my way they would not have picked the site that the building is to go on. The site I favored was the site owned by the city, as old Station 6, and the Parkman School, so that the land would not cost the city any money. So far as the site in South Boston is concerned, I am absolutely not responsible for it. I didn't have anything to do with it, and I wish that they had not bought it.

Coun. FORD—Mr. President, I am going to vote against both motions. I am absolutely in favor of the order for $750,000. Perfect harmony prevailed downstairs. But the President has appointed a Committee on Finance, reference of the matter has been made to that committee, and it should stay there. The chairman of the committee ought to be able to run his own committee. If the Mayor could eliminate self-appointed legislative agents, there would be more harmony and, in the end, more progress.

Coun. WATSON—Mr. President, I don't know what I ought to say in reply to the astute legal representative in the Council. He has referred to self-appointed legislative agents. If he doesn't know what a legislative agent is, I am going to tell him. A legislative agent is one who is not a member of a body, but who does things under cover.

Coun. FORD—I did not make any reference to that at all.

Coun. WATSON—That title, of course, cannot be hung onto me. I am here representing the city in part, with eight other members, and I think I am able to take care of myself. I will make this prediction, that there will be a glowing speech at the next meeting by the councilor who just took his seat (Coun. Ford) in favor of the $750,000 appropriation, and, if possible, he will claim his part of the glory and that of others, if he can.

Coun. DONOGHUE—Mr. President, I have no desire to lengthen the controversy that has taken place here today, but I think when I stood up before I asked if another order had not been sent in by the Mayor, a separate order pertaining alone to the loan for $750,000. The order for the municipal building in South Boston was passed during the previous administration, a loan for $268,000, and that money cannot be used in connection with this Strandway improvement. It is an entirely different proposition. The Mayor, in order to go along with his plans for the development of the Strandway, will have to send a loan order in here for the entire amount of $750,000. I believe he has done so, and I believe that we are taking action today not on the municipal building in South Boston but on the Strandway development. Now, some members of the Council have said that the Mayor wanted them to sleep on the proposition. I say that this is no time for sleep. This is a time for action. People are out of work. We pass resolutions here through the Council looking to have the City of Boston carry out certain projects, so that the city may furnish work to its citizens, and then we see noncitizens of Boston doing the work which is let out by contract. I believe that city employees should be hired, if necessary, for such work, and in that way we will know that they are citizens and that they will receive the prevailing rate of wages. If such work is done by contract, we will have nothing to say as to what rate of wages will be paid, or, in many cases, whether men are citizens or not. This is a matter that will be decided by the Mayor. The Mayor is responsible to the people of the City of Boston. He has just been elected by a very large vote of the citizens of the City of Boston. I feel that they have got confidence in the Mayor and that they have confidence in this proposition that he is submitting, and I cannot see any reason advanced by anybody who has spoken in opposition today for postponing action on the $750,000 for the development of the Strandway. There has been considerable talk against the municipal building proposition. I don't care to pass upon that today. I had just as soon let that go to the Committee on Finance. But, as far as the Strandway proposition is concerned, if there has been any argument advanced for delay, I have not heard it, and I have been listening rather keenly while I have been sitting here. I think we ought to take action on the Strandway development today and that we should not delay further. I should like to see Coun. Watson withdraw his motion on the other proposition and allow me to make a motion to recall the Mayor's loan order for $750,000, that we may act upon it today.

Coun. WATSON—Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to withdraw my motion.

(The motion was withdrawn, with unanimous consent.)

President BRICKLEY—The order stands in the Committee on Finance.

Coun. DONOGHUE—Mr. President, I move that we recall from the Committee on Finance the loan order for $750 000 for the development of the Strandway, submitted by the Mayor.

President BRICKLEY—The question is on Coun. Donoghue's motion, which requires a two thirds vote.

Coun. WATSON—Mr. President, I ask for a roll call.

Coun. FORD—Mr. President, my voting "no" on this does not mean that I am against the order. I am quite in favor of it. But I am voting "no" on the proposition because I am with the chairman of the committee, to which this matter has been referred.

Coun. WATSON—Nevertheless, Mr. President, it means a week's delay.

The motion to recall the matter from the committee was lost, yeas 2, nays 7:

Yeas—Coun. Donoghue, Watson—2

Nays—Coun. Brickley, Ford, Gilbody, Hagan, Lane, Moriarty, Walsh—7.

President BRICKLEY—The order stands referred to the Committee on Finance.

EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE REPORTS.

Coun. FORD, for the Executive Committee, submitted the following, viz.:

1. Report on petition of Thomas Bride (referred today) for retirement under the provisions of chapter 765 of the Acts of 1914—recommending the passage of the following viz.:

Ordered, That the Retirement Board for Laborers be hereby authorized and requested to retire, under the provisions of chapter 765 of the Acts of 1914, as amended by chapter 63 of the Special Acts of 1915, Thomas Bride, employed in the labor service of the City of Boston in the Public Works Department.

Report accepted; order passed.

CONVENTION INVITATION.

Coun. WATSON offered the following:

Resolved, That his Honor the Mayor be requested to invite the United Commercial Travelers of America to hold their convention in Boston, June, 1923.

Passed under a suspension of the rule.

CONFIRMATION OF APPOINTMENTS.

President BRICKLEY called up Nos. 1, 2 and 3, unfinished business, viz.:

Action on appointments submitted by the Mayor February 20, 1922, viz.:

1. James H. Neville, to be a Constable.
2. Patrick J. Monahan, to be a Constable.
3. Anton H. Roth, to be a Constable.

The question came on confirmation. Committee—Coun. Watson and Gilbody. Whole number of ballots cast 9, yeas 9, and the appointments were confirmed.

GENERAL RECONSIDERATION.

Coun. DONOGHUE moved a general reconsideration on all business transacted at the meeting, hoping that the same would not prevail. Lost.

Adjourned at 7.22 o'clock, on motion of Coun. MORIARTY, to meet on Monday, March 6, at two o'clock p. m.

PROCEEDINGS OF CITY COUNCIL.

Monday, March 6, 1922.

Regular meeting of the City Council, held in the Council Chamber, City Hall, at two o'clock p. m., President BRICKLEY in the chair and all the members present.

HISTORY OF BOSTON'S FIRST CENTURY.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, March 3, 1922.

To the City Council:

Gentlemen,—It is desirable that the history of Boston's first century as a city be written, and Mr. John Koren, who has served as chairman of the Statistics Department Trustees for eight years, and who is perhaps one of the best, if not the best, informed on the story of the progress of Boston during the past century, has consented to devote his time to the writing of this work.

I accordingly recommend the adoption of the accompanying order.

Respectfully,
JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

Ordered, That the "Centennial Story of Boston" be printed as a city document, and the expense in connection with same be charged to the appropriation for City Documents.

Referred to the Executive Committee.

APPOINTMENTS BY THE MAYOR.

Subject to confirmation by the City Council the Mayor submitted the following appointments for terms ending April 30, 1922, viz.:

1. Ercole Franchini, 5 Hull street, Ward 5, to the position of Constable of the City of Boston.
2. Joseph F. Goode, 179 Centre street, Roxbury, to the position of Constable of the City of Boston.
3. Harry Nankin, 12 Brighton Abattoir, Boston, to be a Weigher of Beef.
4. Robert E. Sexton, 431 Saratoga street, to the position of Constable of the City of Boston.

Laid over under the law.

VETO—JOHN J. CAREY, LABORER.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, February 21, 1922.

To the City Council:

Gentlemen,—I beg to return herewith, without my approval, the order of your honorable body as passed on February 13, 1922, providing for reinstatement of John J. Carey, a laborer in the Water Service.

The appended communication from Commissioner of Public Works sets forth that John J. Carey, by his action in leaving the city service, at a time when his service was required, without notice, and his failure to display an interest in protecting his civil service rights would make it appear unwise to give favorable consideration to his request at this time.

Respectfully,
JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

City of Boston,
Public Works Department,
February 18, 1922.

To the Honorable the Mayor:

Referring to your memorandum of February 14, regarding the resolve of the City Council favoring the enactment of legislation to authorize the reinstatement of John J. Carey, beg to advise that Carey was a laborer in the Water Division from 1894 to December 21, 1916, when he left the department without notice. The understanding was that he had accepted a position at higher remuneration outside the city service. Not having worked for a period of six months he was dropped, under the civil service rules, on July 1, 1917.

If this legislation is approved it will pave the way for several hundred similar requests from men who left the city service during the war period to engage in higher paid work outside. I would recommend that the Law Department oppose any such requests for reinstatement.

Yours respectfully,
T. F. SULLIVAN,
Commissioner of Public Works.

Placed on file.

PETITIONS REFERRED.

The following petitions were received and referred to the committees named, viz.:

Placed on file.

VETERANS' COMPENSATION.

Coun. GILBODY offered the following:

Whereas, Justice is depriving the World War soldiers, sailors and marines of adjusted compensation, by the inactivity of Congress; and

Whereas, The City Council of Boston is of the opinion that the inactivity and delay seriously affects millions of Americans concerned in this legislation;

Resolved, That the City Council of Boston indorses the legislation known as the "Adjusted Bill for Soldiers, Sailors and Marines for the World War," and urges its immediate passage.

Ordered, That a copy of these preambles and resolutions be sent to the clerks of the Senate and House of Representatives in Washington, D. C., by the City Clerk.

Coun. GILBODY—Mr. President, I believe the resolution is self-explanatory and that every member of this honorable body appreciates the order of its passage at this time. I believe all the members are in hearty sympathy with the resolution and therefore I move a suspension of the rule that it may be placed upon its passage.

Coun. WATSON—Mr. President, there is no doubt that I shall vote for the resolution, but I sincerely request that it be referred to the Executive Committee, in order that I may see what the pending legislation is.

Coun. GILBODY—I have no objection, Mr. President.

The preambles, resolution and order were referred to the Executive Committee.

SANITARY CONDITIONS, ELEVATED RAILWAY.

Coun. WATSON offered an order—That the Health Commissioner be requested, through his Honor the Mayor, to investigate the conditions of the cars of the Boston Elevated system so far as it relates to sanitary conditions, and report his findings to his Honor, the Mayor, and his recommendations, if any, as to what should be done to obviate any unsanitary conditions which may exist.

Coun. WATSON—Mr. President, I appreciate the fact that I take considerable of the time of the body and much of the printers' time, as a result of the discussion here of matters that I consider of importance. I appreciate the fact that perhaps any lengthy remarks of mine at this time might be misconstrued by friends, and certainly misconstrued by those with whom I am not on friendly terms. But, realizing that a bald, plain order says but little, and realizing our helplessness in regard to many things we act upon in this body, because the charter has denied us the right to really be the legislative body of this city, I do feel that some pertinent facts should be stated; that some things should be said which may perhaps by some conservative gentlemen and by the interests affected be construed as radical, and perhaps almost anarchistic. I care not for the opinion in such quarters, gentlemen, because I realize that that is the way in which any proper publicity, any movement for good which opposes the privileged class, is regarded in such quarters. The treatment that is accorded the public by the powers that be in the Boston Elevated Railway Company is on a par with the treatment given to the savages by the controlling monarch of a well regulated empire. It is about time that the people of this city, and of the other cities and towns through which the Elevated road operates, should demand in no uncertain terms treatment a little better than that which is accorded cattle consigned to North, Swift, Squire, or the other food concerns engaged in the slaughtering of pigs and beef in Greater Boston. The law which governs the humane treatment of cattle and other live stock in transport compels the railroads to use these dumb animals far better than the greatest work of the Creator is treated by the Boston Elevated Railway Company. Is it possible that the interests which control the earnings of the Elevated, and which provide a substantial return upon the money invested by absent landlords, think less of the men, women and children who are compelled to depend upon them for transportation service than do the carriers who are engaged in the transportation of animals? Were the trustees of the Boston Elevated designated for the purpose of protecting the dollar of the investor? If that is their only aim and intention, then the sooner the public understands the situation the better. I say without fear of contradiction that there is no worse managed system in the world today than the Boston Elevated Railway under its present Board of Trustees. I am creditably informed that it is the intention of this Board of Trustees to accumulate as large a surplus as possible this year, irrespective of the requirements of the public in the way of improved service. New York City, through its officials, has informed the transit interests that they must serve the people properly regardless of whether they go into bankruptcy or not. If the people who invested their money in these public service corporations—and I have in mind the lighting companies, the steam and street railways, and other public service corporations—did so with the idea that they would forever draw dividends, regardless of the kind of service that was furnished the people, then it is a one-sided proposition. And while I am no lawyer, I believe that the contract, or the so-called Public Trustee Act, is against public policy, that it is not binding, and that it should be annulled at once. It is the treatment which is meted out to the public by arrogant and heartless coporations such as the Boston Elevated Railway company, the Gas company, and the Electric Light Company, that is fast developing in our citizenship the principles of anarchy and revolution. Mr. President, I committed those words to paper in order that there might be no mistake in my language. I am going to conclude in a moment or two, interjecting some caustic remark that may enter the press and get under the calloused skin of the trustees of the Boston Elevated Railroad and the State street interests that operate it, because the trustees of the Boston Elevated Railroad are not serving the public, Mr. President. It is my belief that the only thought they have in mind is to protect vested interests, to protect the dollar of the man, woman or estate who put the money into the Elevated stock and West End stock with their eyes wide open. There is no more reason why the Commonwealth of Massachusetts or any municipality or town should guarantee to investors in the Elevated stock a certain dividend regardless of the earning power of the corporation than there would be why the Legislature of this body should guarantee to the man who runs a cigar store across the street, or a fruit store, or the news boy who sells papers in the street, a profit under any and all circumstances. It is unfortunate that there are few laymen who can determine the questions of law pertaining to public service corporations, because if they could a great deal of common sense would enter into the discussion and decision of the question, as, after all, law is, I understand, based on common sense. Mr. President, this order of mine has been in the making for weeks. I have statistics without limit concerning health and other matters pertaining to the public welfare that are being endangered daily by the conduct of the trustees of the Boston Elevated Railroad. I had the unfortunate experience, in driving an automobile for the concern by whom I am employed, and owned by them, of being struck by a Boston Elevated Railroad surface car in Roxbury, a few days ago. I was 100 per cent blameless, I believe, and I am satisfied that the courts will determine that I was at least 60 per cent blameless in the matter. When I called to their attention the fact that I had been injured, that the car had been practically ruined, they sent down an inspector or claim man to determine the extent of the injury. The two front mud guards were broken, the fender was crushed, the two front wheels were broken, and the radiator and lamps were broken, and the man recommended the payment of $85, when the radiator alone cost my concern $105 to put back, and the concern has spent altogether $400 in fixing up the car. I tried to have them put my car in proper shape, and I wanted to avoid a law suit, trying to protect the poor investor in the Elevated. But I was denied even respectful treatment. I know if the reporters interview them they will say that this order is put in because I have this feeling against them. No, Mr. President, the fact is that I have been quiet in this body too long in regard to the Elevated. I have sat here knowing that the Elevated was conducting its affairs against the public interest and was abusing the health and injuring the pocketbooks and the morals of the community. I was obliged to use their cars for seven days, starting Friday last, and I have been obliged to stand in one crowded car after another, cars so crowded that sometimes I was unable even to get hold of a strap. The other day I was packed in so that for several minutes I was unable even to get my hands up, and my position, it is unfortunate that there are women present, but my position was such that it did not tend to good morals in any particular. I will stop there. I had standing opposite me another day a man who weighed about 110 pounds, who was undoubtedly consumptive, a poor unfortunate, and I had to breathe his breath, and he breathed mine, certainly not conducive to public health. We all know that in crowded cars the noses of the people are often only a few inches apart and that every one is breathing the air exhaled by other people. I believe that they are robbing the people with the 10-cent fare through an act of the Legislature conceived in vice and corruption and passed through the same medium. I make this prediction: If the Elevated does not improve its transportation conditions in Boston, one of these days the public will rise and boycott the Elevated, will walk for a week, and you will then see them improve conditions. Now, Mr. President, I have had my say. I repeat that the trustee act was born in vice and corruption, conceived in the crooked brain of crooked financial interests, born in corruption and fostered ever since by the same corrupt criminal interests. I know what some of my colleagues are saying, "Watson is talking again!" I don't blame them. I ought to apologize to them for it. But somebody has got to stand the gaff, to use the vernacular of the day; somebody has got to be the bell cow, somebody has got to be the goat. I have tried not to be the goat, but when I see nothing being done, and something wrong that should be corrected, I feel that somebody has got to jump in and do something. Sometimes somebody has got to speak the word, when he is endeavoring honestly and sincerely to represent his constituents in an attempt to bring about a remedy for the existing conditions. And sometimes in matters of this sort you get more result by the spoken word, uttered seriously and sincerely by one who is endeavoring to do his duty, than through all the petitions you may send to the law-making body of this Commonwealth. The trustee act was passed through corruption. Corrupt members of the House and Senate received their pound of flesh for tying Boston's hands and feet, and Greater Boston's hands and feet, for ten years. I am not mincing words. It is time that somebody spoke up. It may be claimed that my remarks here are privileged. I say now that I am willing to repeat what I have said, word for word, my utterances here today, in any public hall in Boston, and I invite any kind of prosecution that the crooked interests may desire to bring against me. Mr. President, apologizing to my colleagues for these lengthy remarks, I ask, sir, a suspension of the rule in order that the order may be passed at this time.

Coun. GILBODY—I second it, Mr. President.

Coun. HAGAN—Mr. President, I hope the matter will be referred to the Executive Committee.

Coun. WATSON—I withdraw my motion, Mr. President.

The order was referred to the Executive Committee.

OPPOSITION TO HOUSE BILLS.

Coun. WATSON offered an order—That the Law Department be requested, through his Honor the Mayor, to oppose the passage of House Bills Nos. 134 and 630 relating to public utilities.

Coun. WATSON—Mr. President, I simply want to say that those bills are in line with similar bills that were introduced last year. They are bills filed for the benefit of the Edison Company, and the Law Department has already informed me that it intends to oppose them. I simply offer this order as a matter of record.

The order was referred to the Executive Committee.

EMPLOYEES AT AUTO SHOW.

Coun. WATSON offered an order—That his Honor the Mayor be requested to ask the management of the automobile show beginning March 11, that all the employees be citizens of Boston or of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, or such who have declared their intent to become citizens of the United States.

Coun. WATSON—Mr. President, it may be well for me to explain why I have introduced that order. I was informed by several men last year, prior to the automobile show managed by Mr. Chester I. Campbell, that they were denied an opportunity of employment during the brief time that the automobile show was here, that Mr. Campbell was giving preference to men who were residents of the city of Quincy, where Mr. Campbell lives and of which city he is ex-mayor, a city from which he at the present time in all probability hopes to obtain some advancement along political lines. I don't blame him a bit for that, but we are to be blamed and the Mayor is to be blamed if we permit him to get all the benefit coming from the use of our streets and from our Police Department, which the taxpayers of Boston pay for, the protection that is accorded him here, and for which he does not seem disposed to render an equivalent along this line. Now, Mr. President, we have here a free employment bureau, for which we have already paid $10,000, and I know that that bureau can furnish men of the right caliber, worthy men, such men as are necessary to perform the duties that would be imposed upon them in connection with that show.

The order was referred to the Executive Committee.

LIGHTS, PARSONS STREET.

Coun. WALSH offered an order—That the Commissioner of Public Works be requested, through his Honor the Mayor, to provide a sufficient number of electric lights on Parsons street, Ward 26.

Passed under a suspension of the rule.

LEGISLATION FAVORING WILLIAM SEGAL.

Coun. GILBODY offered the following:

Resolved, That the City Council of Boston favors legislation for the payment of a sum of money to William Segal.

Referred to the Executive Committee.

RECESS TAKEN.

The Council voted at 3 p. m., on motion of Coun. HAGAN, to take a recess subject to the call of the President.

The members reassembled in the Council Chamber and were called to order by the President at 6.26 p. m.

EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE REPORTS.

Coun. FORD, for the Executive Committee, submitted the following, viz.:

1. Report on order (referred today) opposing passage of House Bills Nos. 134 and 630—that the order ought to pass.

Report accepted; order passed.

2. Report on message of Mayor and order (referred today) that the "Centennial Story of Boston" be printed as a city document—that the order ought to pass.

Report accepted; order passed, yeas 9, nays 0.

3. Report on communication from Street Commissioners (referred February 13) of notice of hearings on petitions to keep and sell gasolene—that the same be placed on file.

Report accepted; communication placed on file.

4. Report on order (referred today) favoring legislation for William Segal—that the order ought to pass.

Report accepted; order passed.

5. Report on message of Mayor and order (referred February 27) for sale of land and building at B and Athens streets, South Boston—that the order ought to pass.

Report accepted; order read once and passed, yeas 8, nays 1, Coun. WATSON voting nay.

6. Report on order (referred today) concerning legislation for William Segal—that the order ought to pass.

Report accepted; order passed.

7. Report on order (referred today) concerning employment of people at automobile show—recommending passage of order in the following new draft, viz.:

Ordered, That his Honor the Mayor be requested to ask the management of the automobile show, beginning March 11, to employ first, citizens of Boston; second, citizens of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts; third, citizens of the United States; fourth, those who have declared their intention to become citizens of this country.

Report accepted; order passed.

8. Report on petition of Margaret Sharkey (referred today) for retirement—recommending the passage of the following, viz.:

Ordered, That the Retirement Board for Laborers be hereby authorized and requested to retire, under the provisions of chapter 765 of the Acts of 1914, as amended by chapter 63 of the Special Acts of 1915, Margaret Sharkey, employed in the labor service of the City of Boston in the Hospital Department.

Report accepted; order passed.

9. Report on order (referred today) concerning legislation for soldiers—recommending passage of order in the following new draft, viz.:

Whereas, Justice is denied the World War soldiers, sailors and marines in the matter of adjusted compensation by the inactivity of Congress; and

Whereas, The City Council of Boston is of the opinion that the inactivity and delay seriously affects millions of Americans concerned in this legislation; therefore be it

Resolved, That the City Council of Boston endorses legislation advocated by the American Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars and other veteran organizations, and urges the immediate passage of the bill.

Ordered, That a copy of these preambles and resolutions be sent to the clerks of the Senate and House of Representatives in Washington, D. C.

Report accepted; preambles and order passed.

FINANCE.

Coun. LANE, for the Committee on Finance, submitted the following, viz.:

1. Report on mesage of Mayor and order (referred February 27) for loan of $750,000 for Columbus Park—that the order ought to pass.

The report was accepted and the order was given its first reading and passed, yeas 9, nays 0.

The order will take its final reading not less than fourteen days from date.

2. Report on message of Mayor and order (referred February 27) rescinding loan for gymnasium, South Boston—that the order ought not to pass.

Report accepted; order rejected, yeas 1, nays 8, Coun. WATSON voting yea.

BATHING FACILITIES, EAST BOSTON.

Coun. FORD offered an order—That his Honor the Mayor be requested to provide bathing facilities for the first and second sections, so-called, in East Boston.

Coun. FORD—Mr. President, I understand that there are bathing facilities down in the other parts of East Boston, but none here, and the residents here want to provide the same facilities in their vicinity, Eagle street, that are afforded elsewhere. That can be done with the consent of the state and the Park Department.

The order was referred to the Executive Committee.

GYMNASIUM, WARD 23.

Coun. MORIARTY offered an order—That the sum of $350,000 be and hereby is appropriated for a municipal building and gymnasium in Ward 23, and that to meet said appropriation the City Treasurer be and hereby is authorized to issue, from time to time, bonds or certificates of indebtedness to said amount.

Referred to the Committee on Finance.

CHRISTOPHER J. LEE PLAYGROUND.

Coun. DONOGHUE—Mr. President, without making an extended speech, knowing that we have had this whole matter threshed out before the Committee on Finance, I want to move at this time so that there may in the future be no criticism of my delay in the matter of having action taken on the extension of the Christopher J. Lee Playground to recall from the Committee on Finance the appropriation order of $100,000 for the extension and improvement of the M Street Playground.

The motion to recall the order from the Committee on Finance was declared lost. Coun. Donoghue doubted the vote and asked for the yeas and nays. The motion to recall the order from the committee was lost, yeas 3, nays 6:

Yeas—Coun. Donoghue, Walsh, Watson—3.

Nays—Coun. Brickley, Ford, Gilbody, Hagan, Lane, Moriarty—6.

CONFIRMATION OF APPOINTMENTS.

President BRICKLEY called up unfinished business No. 1, viz.:

1. Action on appointments submitted by the Mayor February 27, 1922, of the following-named persons to be Constables, viz.:

James J. Burns, Robert T. Carey, Thomas J. O'Brien, John F. Gillespie, Patrick A. Grady, Ascher E. Horowitz, William H. Mealey, Michael F. Murphy, William J. O'Connell, Salvador C. Sottile, James J. Sullivan.

The question came on confirmation. Committee—Coun. Donoghue and Ford.

Whole number of ballots cast 8, yeas 8, nays 0, and the appointments were confirmed.

GENERAL RECONSIDERATION.

Coun. LANE moved a general reconsideration on all business transacted at the meeting, hoping that the same would not prevail. Lost.

Leading hose 150,949 feet and suction hose, 2,027 feet; horses, 147; 2-ton fuel wagons, 41; fire alarm boxes, 1,205. In reserve are 18 engines (8 auto) and 3 chemical engines; 18 hose wagons (7 auto); 11 ladder trucks (6 auto); 1 water tower (auto) and 9 officials' cars. Set aside to be sold are 7 horse-drawn chemicals. Total alarms in calendar year 1920, 4,485 or 938 less than in 1919, of which total 530 were needless and 110 were false alarms. Total fires, 3,728 (i. e., 625 less than in 1919), of which 2,373 were in buildings, 1,327 outside buildings and 28 out of city limits. In 10 cases the buildings were totally destroyed, in 64 the damage was considerable and in 1,456 the damage was slight.

The Boston Protective Department (not a City department) reported the total fire losses in 1920 on buildings as $1,045,050 and on contents as $1,952,766, or total of $2,997,816, which is $562,532 more than in 1919 and $175,707 more than in 1918. Of total loss, the amount not covered by insurance was $284,262. The B. P. D. also reported that of the 1,760 fires involving losses, 458 were caused by carelessness with matches, 215 by smoking, 121 by open lights, 101 by stoves, furnaces, etc., 95 by explosions, 93 by sparks from combustion, 83 by electricity, 51 by overheated or defective flues and chimneys, 41 by spontaneous combustion, 35 by hot ashes, etc.

Cost of maintenance for 1920, $3,223,133 (including pensions), or $359,093 more than in 1919 and $1,001,752 in excess of 1918. Value of land and buildings, $2,270,900; of equipment, $1,350,000.

Annual salaries; Commissioner, $7,500; Chief, $5,000; deputy chiefs, $4,000; district chiefs, $3,500; captains, $2,500; lieutenants, $2,300; engineers, $1,900; assistant engineers, $1,800; 1st-year privates, $1,400, with $100 yearly increase until maximum of $1,800 is reached.

By Chapter 4, City Ordinances of 1917, the firemen have one day off in three, dating from February 1, 1918, instead of one in five, as before, which called for an addition of about 170 men to the force.

By Ordinances of 1919, Chapter 2, the Wire Department became the Wire Division of the Fire Department.

New motor apparatus added in 1919 and 1920 costing $350,837, makes the department 70 per cent motorized. Appropriation of $150,000 for more of same in 1921.

BOSTON PUBLIC SCHOOL SYSTEM.

Number of permanent school buildings in use for school purposes, 265, or 216 brick and 49 wooden; portable houses, 160; besides these, 14 rented quarters; day schools contain 3,256 class-rooms and 133,392 sittings; also 101 assembly halls and 15 drill halls and gymnasia; 3,422 teachers in all schools, or 2,883 women and 539 men; evening schools, 20, with 263 regular teachers. Playground teachers, 149, having charge of games, gymnastics, etc., in 54 park and 36 schoolyard playgrounds; school physicians, 47; school nurses, 48; attendance officers, 25. Number of pupils registered in regular day schools year ending June 30, 1920, 123,392; in evening schools, 9,911; Continuation School, 8,705; Day School for Immigrants, 1,312; total registration, 143,320 or 2,020 increase over 1919. Average number belonging in day schools, 109,110 or 2,367 more than in 1919; average number in evening schools, 5,015; in summer review schools, 3,941. Membership in Normal, High and Latin Schools on Sept. 30, 1920, 17,641; in elementary schools, by districts; East Boston, 10,451; Charlestown, 3,594; North End, 5,341; West End, 5,866; City Proper, 4,360; South End, 3,673; South Boston, 8,488; Roxbury, 14,739; Brighton, 4,479; West Roxbury, 7,608; Dorchester, 23,468; Hyde Park, 2,187; in special schools, 967. Total, 112,862, or 1,989 more than in 1919. In 1920, total number of graduates, 7,686. Average number of day-school pupils per teacher in elementary grades, 41.2; in high schools, 27.6; in kindergartens, 26.1. In 1918 the ninth grade or junior high school plan, recently adopted, relieved the high schools of 925 first-year pupils, and in 1919 the number of pupils promoted to these intermediate classes was 1,581. Valuation of school property, $29,188,215 or $27,940,258 for land and buildings and $1,247,957 for equipment. Cost of maintenance for 1920, $9,897,928 or $2,485,296 (i. e., 33.53 per cent) more than in 1919; expenditure for construction of new schools, etc., $910,825, of which all but $50,000 was from Tax Levy. Gross debt outstanding for Schoolhouses and Sites, Feb. 1, 1921, $15,583,500 or $200,500 less than in 1920. Annual maintenance cost per attending pupil in Latin and high schools (day), $109.87; in elementary schools (day), $54.03. The registration of minors, 5 to 15 years, inclusive, also illiterates over 15, April 1, 1920, as directed by Chap. 102, General Acts of 1916, showed a total of 135,052 or 22,562 of 5 and 6 years of age; 89,343 of 7 to 13; 22,612 of 14 and 15, and 435 illiterates 16 years of age and over. Total belonging to public schools, 105,129; to parochial schools, 25,476; other private schools, 4,192; not in any school, 255.

Only 174 in each 1,000 of pupils in Boston are in private schools, while the average for the large cities is 284. The School Centers for educational and social improvement of other than school pupils started in 1912. There are now 13 with 150 leaders and assistants and 30 to 40 study and entertainment clubs in each; total attendance during the 7 months sessions in 1919–20, 463,894. Cost of this "extended use of public schools" in 1919–20, $29,800.

Per capita (of Boston population) cost in 1920 of schools, approximately $13.30 (including special appropriations from taxes, etc., for new schoolhouses), which is $3.09 higher than in 1919, $5.38 ahead of 1915 and $6.61 or nearly 100 per cent more than in 1910.

AREA OF BOSTON.

Area to ward lines (26 wards), 30,598 acres (i. e., 47.81 square miles), 2,843 acres being filled land, 1,143 acres water area and 1,585 acres flats. Land area only, 27,870 acres (i. e., 43.55 square miles). Included in the latter are 138 acres of filled flats added to the land area of South Boston in 1919 and 48 acres to that of East Boston in 1918. Original Boston contained about 780 acres of land. Of the twelve leading American cities, six are larger in land area than Boston, viz., New York (326.9 square miles), Chicago (199.37), Philadelphia (129), Detroit (75.62), Cleveland (56.6) and St. Louis (61.37). The only city in Massachusetts with larger land area is Taunton (50 square miles).

If Boston should expand by annexations as New York, Chicago and Philadelphia have expanded, its total area, in case of including the 39 cities and towns within the 15-mile radius, would exceed the largest, viz., New York, the present land area of "Greater Boston" being 409.5 square miles.

APPROVAL OF PROPOSED PENSION BILL.

The following was offered:—

ORDERED, That this Board hereby expresses its opinion that House B No. 57—An Act Providing Retirement Allowances based on Annuity and Pension Contributions for Employees of the City of Boston or of the County of Suffolk—represents desirable legislation which should include the teachers in the public schools of Boston, and recommends therefore the passage of said bill with such amendment; and with the further amendment that no present pensions or annuities be adversely affected, and that those teachers who are in the service and who desire to retain their present pension and annuity privileges shall not be disturbed therein.

On motion, the foregoing order was amended to read as follows:—

ORDERED, That this Board approves the principle of the legislation as contained in House Bill No. 57, embodying the principle of contributory pensions for teachers in the public schools of the city of Boston; provided, that adequate legislation is also enacted:

1. For continuing the pensions and annuities now paid to retired teachers.
2. For paying at present rates pensions and annuities to all teachers now in the service who do not elect to come under the provisions of this bill.
3. For protecting those who do so elect with reference to their equities in the Boston Teachers' Retirement Fund Association:

And the Chairman of this Board is requested to consult with the proponents of this bill, the Chairman of the Finance Commission, either personally or through such representative as he may appoint as to the matters involved in this order.

The order, as amended, passed by the following vote:

YEAS—Miss Curtis, Mr. Lane and Dr. Scannell—3.

NAYS—Dr. Bogan and Mr. O'Connor —2.

COMPLETION OF FIFTY YEARS OF SERVICE BY J. FREDERICK SAYER.

The following preamble and resolve were presented:

WHEREAS, J. Frederick Sayer has now completed fifty continuous years of service in the administrative offices of successive School Committees of the City of Boston, and

WHEREAS, During this long period he has displayed the highest qualities of faithfulness and devotion to duty and has earned the unqualified respect and esteem of all those with whom he has been associated, it is fitting that some recognition of his long and faithful service should be made a matter of public record.

Since Feb. 21, 1872, when Mr. Sayer was first employed, he has seen School Committees come and go; he has witnessed changes and advancements in the public school system too numerous to recount; and during these many years has cheerfully and unfailingly performed the duties assigned him with unflagging zeal and persistence.

He has been fortunate in the enjoyment of good health, and has never been absent from duty for more than a day or two at a time because of personal illness.

Active and energetic, kindly of disposition, and of untiring industry, he has completed a term of service marked by absolute integrity that is seldom equalled.

RESOLVED, That this Board hereby extends to J. Frederick Sayer its cordial congratulations upon the compleion of this long period of public service; extends to him its best wishes for many future years of health and happiness; and directs that this preamble and resolve be spread upon its records, and that a copy thereof be suitably engrossed and given to Mr. Sayer.

The preamble and resolve were adopted unanimously by a rising vote.

UNFINISHED BUSINESS.

The order laid over at the meeting of Feb. 6, 1922 (see p. 5) making a change in the authorized list of text and supplementary books, was taken up and passed unanimously.

JOSEPH A. ROURKE,
Commissioner of Public Works.
Boston, March 2, 1922. (March 11-18-25.)

BOSTON AS A TOWN.

From its foundation until 1755, or a period of 125 years, Boston was not only the most outstanding but the most populous town in the American colonies. In 1760, Philadelphia's population was ahead, viz. 18,756, Boston's then being 15,631 and New York's about 14,000.

In the last year of town government, viz., 1821, Boston's population was about 45,000 and its public debt $100,000, all incurred for new county buildings.

The history of Boston as a town during a period of nearly two centuries surpasses in civic interest that of Boston as a city because of the untiring zeal and successful efforts of its townsmen to realize more of true democracy than had ever been attained before. Their obligations were held as sacred as their liberties.

MUNICIPAL SERVICE.

Complaints, inquiries or suggestions regarding the work of municipal departments should be made in writing to the officials directly in charge. The failure of such officials to make reply within a reasonable length of time should be brought to the attention of the Mayor. Communications should be directed as follows:

To THE BOARD OF STREET COMMISSIONERS, Room 401, City Hall Annex, for information relative to the laying out, relocation, widening and the discontinuance of highways; the taking of real property for municipal purposes; the assessments of betterments for streets and sewers; the plotting of undeveloped areas for streets and the opening of private ways; the granting of licenses for the storage or sale of merchandise in public streets; the regulation of street traffic; the making of specific repairs in public streets, the naming of public streets, the planting and removal of trees in public ways, the issuing of licenses for the storage of gasolene, oil and other inflammable substances or explosive compounds, the use of the public ways for any permanent or temporary obstruction or projection in, under or over the same, including the location of conduits, poles and posts for telephone, telegraph, street railway or illuminating purposes, signs, marquises, bay windows, coal holes and vaults.

To THE COMMISSIONER OF PUBLIC WORKS, Room 511, City Hall Annex, for information as to the watering, cleaning, lighting and repairing of streets, the construction and care of sewers and catch-basins, the operation of the ferries, the maintenance of bridges and drawbridges and the removal of ashes and offal.

To Room 604, City Hall Annex, for information relative to the supplying or metering of water and the water charges of the city.

To THE HEALTH DEPARTMENT, Room 1107, City Hall Annex, for information relative to the inspection of milk, vinegar, meat, fish and vegetables, the issuance of permits for stables, slaughter houses, etc., smoke nuisances, the existence of contagious diseases or public health nuisances.

To THE BOARD OF PARK COMMISSIONERS, 33 Beacon street, for information as to the care of the Common, Public Garden, Franklin Park, Franklin Field, Commonwealth avenue, Back Bay Fens, Marine Park and the small parks and playgrounds in general throughout the city, and as to the extermination of gypsy moths and the charges made for such service. Application may be made to this department for information regarding the public baths and gymnasiums maintained by the city, and with regard to municipal indoor concerts and band concerts; also information relative to Mount Hope, Evergreen, Fairview and other public cemeteries owned by the City of Boston.

To THE SCHOOL COMMITTEE, 26 Mason street, for information relative to the operation of the schools of the city.

To THE SCHOOLHOUSE COMMISSIONERS, Room 1007, City Hall Annex, for information as to the construction and repair of school buildings.

To THE BOARD OF EXAMINERS, Room 1001, City Hall Annex, for information regarding the licensing of persons having charge or control of the work of construction, alteration, removal or tearing down of buildings.

To THE WIRE DIVISION OF THE FIRE DEPARTMENT, Room 905, City Hall Annex, for all information relative to the erection of poles, the building of conduits, the installation of wires and electrical apparatus. Also to the same office for permits for the installing of wires and electrical apparatus within buildings in the City of Boston, and for the payment of fees incident to the granting of the privileges above named, and which must invariably be paid in advance.

ADDRESS OF HON. EDWARD F. McSWEENEY,

AT HISTORICAL CEREMONIES INCIDENT TO THE OBSERVANCE OF THE 146TH ANNIVERSARY OF THE EVACUATION OF BOSTON BY THE BRITISH FORCES.

UNDER AUSPICES SOUTH BOSTON CITIZENS ASSOCIATION, MUNICIPAL BUILDING, SOUTH BOSTON, MARCH 12, 1921.

It is to the enduring credit of the people of South Boston that their patriotism, energy and persistence have kept alive on March 17 of each year the celebration of Evacuation Day, which Senator Hoar said twenty years ago was "one of the great transactions of history." The expulsion of the British army from Boston has not had, during the past generation in the United States, the notice it deserved; yet its lessons were read to the world by Edmund Burke in England when he said that "Evacuation Day resembled more the emigration of a nation than the breaking up of a camp," and by the genius of Hawthorne in his wonderful story, where he summons the ghosts of the ancient governors of the province to join in the funeral procession of royal authority in New England. One hundred forty-six years ago "royalty went down the harbor, and freedom came in from the country."

Let us face the fact that the celebration of this overwhelming event in the beginning of the Revolutionary outbreak has been obscured, except as far as South Boston is concerned, because it happens to coincide with the celebration of the patron saint of that racial group who, in the mutations of time, have come to be the dominant force in this peninsula.

While Evacuation Day must and will take first place, the secondary celebration on the same day is worthy of acceptance as a factor in the progress of human civilization.

In 1768 the celebration of St. Patrick's Day in Boston was postponed for one day to make it coincide with the second anniversary of the repeal of the Stamp Act.

St. Patrick's Day was celebrated by the Charitable Irish Society in Boston, then an organization of Irish Protestants, in 1737, thirty-nine years before Evacuation Day. Twenty years later it was observed at Fort William Henry, at that time at the head of Lake George, the most northerly outpost of Great Britain in America. These with many other St. Patrick's celebrations were held before 1776, but lack of food and clothing at Valley Forge did not prevent the celebration of the day there in 1778. Washington himself participated and said, "I am a lover of St. Patrick's Day." We can conclude, therefore, that there is ample precedent in American history for observing this day.

It was St. Patrick who developed the culture which taught and inspired the scholars of Europe, who, under the ægis of monastic institutions, were responsible for the ideas of freedom and progress which culminated in the great thirteenth century of art, literature and science.

Trial by jury had existed in Ireland for centuries before Alfred's time. St. Patrick's work was the medium through which the spirit of liberty was cultivated throughout the world, sowing the seed which, in the thirteenth century, almost within the compass of one man's lifetime, produced not alone the Magna Charta which Stephen Langdon wrung from King John at Runnymede, but, equally important, similar charters of freedom in Spain, Hungary, Holland, Florence, Germany and Italy and other parts of the civilized world. A true evaluation of the history the Christian era shows, as Professor Bury, the regius professor of modern history at Cambridge, England, one of the most able and learned of English historians, has said, that the coming of St. Patrick was an important fact in the events by which a new Europe was being formed in the fifth century. He brought a new land into the spiritual federation which has since controlled and directed orderly progress, and as one of the world's greatest colonizers civilization may well take pride in his memory.

George Washington had a proper appreciation of what he was fighting. In a letter to his brother, Augustine, he described the character and contemptible attributes of the Tories, who swarmed Howe's ship when he evacuated Boston, and later bombarded the English Parliament for payment for their losses. Many of them came back to Boston after the war was over, with the reward of their treason in their pockets, and thus they were able financially to secure commercial dominance over the very patriots whom they despised, and against whom they had exerted all the machinery of royal favor to defeat their appeal for freedom. It is a matter of record that General Washington made "St. Patrick" the countersign on the eventful night of March 17, 1776.

A short summary of the events leading up to and following Evacuation Day is necessary, because for more than forty years we have been in the midst of a movement to poison the springs of American patriotism, by changing, obscuring or altogether omitting from our school histories the incidents in our national life and the deeds of our national heroes that may be held to be objectionable to England.

As far as the generation now in the schools is concerned, this has been substantially accomplished until the reasons for continued independent existence of the United States as a sovereign world power are in the minds of many passing away. This is neither the time nor the place to elaborate on this abominable plot, which is so obviously a case of political penetration unprecedented in history. The facts are uncontrovertible. Not even the weakest nation in Europe would for one week tolerate such a campaign as has for years gone on in this country and which until recently has been unopposed.

As far as this propaganda is inspired or encouraged by the government of any foreign power it is an assault on national sovereignty, and when engaged in by citizens of this country it is the essence of disloyalty and treason.

The new histories paint the Revolution as a sort of pink tea. In reality, by tar and feathers and other methods equally effective, the rebels created a reign of terror. The loyalists, one half of the population, prosperous and contented with kingly rule, were ridden and tossed on fences and rails; gagged and bound for days at a time; stoned; fastened in rooms with a fire and the chimney stopped on top; advertised as public enemies to be cut off from trade; bullets were shot into their bedrooms; their horses were stolen or poisoned; their houses and ships were burned; they were compelled to pay the rebel guards who watched them in their houses; they were carted about for the mob to stare at and compelled to pay something in every town. This was indeed not the pretty social event our new historians would make it out. The fact was, the patriots acted as a sovereign people wanting freedom and fighting tyranny have always acted in the history of the world, with violence and determination.

The president of one of the largest universities in the United States has within the year advocated the establishment on June 15 of each year of a new national holiday to be called Magna Charta Day, which would wipe out any source of American freedom but one.

If adopted, this would necessarily weaken the celebration of the Declaration of Independence on the 4th of July, which was the fruit not alone of Magna Charta but of the many like instruments contemporaneous with it, all of which aimed to divide kingly power with the nobility, and though none brought immediate liberty to the common man, they did ultimately open the way for the Act of Abjuration of Holland in the sixteenth century, which was used as a model for the Declaration of Rights in England in the seventeenth century, and came to full glory in the American Declaration of Independence, which brought real liberty into the world and has been an inspiration to struggling peoples ever since.

This movement is intended deliberately to wipe out the main facts of the history of liberty, but particularly to obscure the high lights of the Revolution.

It was only the remembrance of the friendship of France to Washington that justified and made successful the appeal to the United States for assistance in 1917. Costly as this has been it is not regretted, because when France joined our forces in 1778 that alliance and financial assistance put the British on the defensive and prevented aggressive warfare. The story of Beaumarchais is one of the romances of history. The two great surrenders in the Revolutionary period are the evacuation of Boston and the surrender at Yorktown and the latter was effected largely through the presence of the French fleet on our coast. Admiral Chadwick says, "The fact that Washington marched south with but 2,000 Continentals and 4,000 French, alone shows the supreme importance of the French fleet. Without it there had been no American independence."

Our school history books are now teaching our children that the Revolution was a fight against a German king. The Hessians were hired to fight by the British, as was their custom in all their wars. Frederick the Great urged Holland to make war on England. The King of Prussia did the United States a positive service when he prevented the German mercenaries from passing through his kingdom to enter the British service, and the incomparable work of Von Steuben and the German officers and soldiers of the Revolution is now obscured.

Holland paid for its friendship to Washington in the declaration of war against it by England on December 20, 1780. After Yorktown it was the loan from Holland to America of $1,304,000 at a vital moment which helped to decide American independence.

The considerable service of Spain and her colonies during this period deserves the gratitude of the American people.

For half a century at least before the Revolution there was a strong spirit of opposition to England's yoke, born of the distance of the colonies from England, but most of all due to the fact that there was little or no migration from Great Britain after religious persecution of Protestants ceased in 1640. The Americans, descendants of the exiles from this persecution, were natives of the soil, with an inherent love of freedom and self-government; the spirit of liberty was in their souls, and to maintain it was in their veins and fiber.

The Pilgrims, without a charter from the king, and the Puritans with one, did as they pleased until 1692, when the Pioneer Charter with its royal veto became effective. The veto could be circumvented in two ways. Only acts went to the king for royal consent, and they were in force until disapproved. It took about six months for an act to get to London and word of the action to reach New England. The law, whatever it was, usually had accomplished its end in that time. Again a resolve, which was an act in a different form, required no approval, was a Massachusetts means to an end, and up to 1780 a resolve could suspend an act.

As Senator Hoar said, "There was never a time when the mighty power of England was not a menace to our ancestors from 1620 to the Jay Treaty."

The colonies built up a system of self-government, developed the town meeting, abolished primogeniture, "which act," said Daniel Webster, "fixed the form and frame of Democracy." De Tocqueville said, "The law of descent was the final step of equality." Under it every child was free; it brought universal education and broke away from the feudal system in the division of estates. It required the utmost courage, fortitude and steadfastness to maintain the free institutions thus set up against the governments of the Stuarts, Cromwell and the Hanoverians. The self-government of the colonies paved the way for revolution and freedom. The French menace in the north hung like a sword over England's head. The colonists were willing to withhold their demand for extreme privileges and independence until France was removed from the continent; thus France occupied the peculiar position of encouraging the American spirit, and at the same time checking its ultimate development.

Canada being finally conquered and England in possession of it, the colonies and England suddenly found themselves glaring at each other. Each began to pursue its real purpose more directly—England to assert sovereignty and to remodel the colonies, while the patriotic party among the colonists struggled to resist the remodeling, to retain all privileges and to acquire new ones.

Massachusetts, always the most independent of the states, had obtained a liberal charter in 1629, under which she elected her own governor and legislature and did not submit her laws to England for approval. She established her own religion and coined her own money. Writs ceased to be issued in the king's name, and, most drastic step of all, the English oath of allegiance was dropped and a new oath adopted in which public officers and the people swore allegiance not to England but to Massachusetts.

The most conspicuous rejection of British authority was the universal smuggling carried on by the Americans. Under the navigation laws the colonists were obliged to sell most of their products to Europe through England, and in turn buy all foreign commodities at English ports. In this way England obtained "middle man" profit on all goods leaving and entering America, which through control of the seas it is doing to this day, and through the alliances now being urged it hopes permanently to retain. The colonists believed it their right to trade directly with any foreign country and share the profits with none, which accordingly they continued to do, in spite of the fact that England did everything possible to discipline and crush smuggling.

Massachusetts was the only colony which had persistently shown a disloyal spirit to the English Government and to the English Church. Boston had always seemed to be the worst place in America and the most in need of curbing. A people left so long to themselves were not easy to bring under methodical royal discipline, and when, as a further remodeling, England proposed in 1764 a stamp tax on newspapers and all legal and business documents, it was regarded by the colonists as a direct infringement on their rights, all previous contributions to England's revenue having been voluntary and as an internal tax had never been imposed by England. At the suggestion of the Massachusetts Assembly a body of colonists known as the Stamp Act Congress met in New York to deal with this question. The result was an admission that the colonists owed allegiance to the British crown, and "all due subordination to the august body, the parliament of Great Britain," which could tax them at seaports on imports and exports and do everything except tax them internally. This of course was evasive, as a line could not easily be drawn at the point where external products began to be internal products. They refused to accept taxation without representation, and declaring it never to be possible from the nature of things for them to be represented, all subsequent authority of Parliament over them was in fact repudiated. Englishmen were forced to notice that they did not ask for representation, and this definite rejection of Parliament was regarded as a certain sign of the rebel party to break away eventually from England and evidence of insincerity in colonial professions of loyalty.

The Stamp Act went into official effect November, 1765, but it was never executed in America. By unanimous action it was ignored and business and legal matters proceeded without stamps. Between January and November, 1765, a complete boycott was put on all English goods, which threw thousands of English working people and seamen out of work and threatened them with starvation. The question of taxation of the colonies was again raised with such result that the Stamp Act was repealed in 1765. America had advanced a great step on her road to independence, as she had learned the power of united action.

Inspired by what the Tories of that day as of today call the "chimera of patriotism," they were determined to rule themselves, even badly, if they chose to do so, and this as an inalienable right against which no authority of kingly rule, however meritorious, benevolent or venerable, need be respected.

Judges were driven from the bench and the courts were abolished because tyranny has always used the courts as first support. The armed forces of the rebels were irregular, acting under no legitimate or de facto government. Bunker Hill was really a guerrilla battle, formed on the colonial side by fifteen hundred men, mostly farmers, who fortified themselves with breastworks made of fence rails and hay, armed with old Queen Anne muskets, shot and duck guns, who were opposed by 3,000 fully equipped and well armed regulars. What happened has not yet been wholly shut out of all our school histories.

In December, 1774, the colonies had been prohibited further importation of arms and ammunition. Fort William and Mary in Portsmouth was raided by a party under the command of General Sullivan, who successfully obtained a considerable store of ammunition, which after reposing in the cellar of Parson Adams at Durham, N. H., for many years was brought to Charlestown where, at the Battle of Bunker Hill, it enabled the retreat to be cut off and probably saved Stark's and Prescott's men from annihilation or capture. It was a few real guns sent to Dorchester Heights by Allen from Ticonderoga, helped out by a few dummy guns, which in the fog of a March morning looked like the real thing, that threw the British commander into panic and hastened the evacuation.

During all of the summer, fall and winter before the evacuation these New England farmers formed themselves into an army surrounding Boston and shutting in the British. They had really no officers. One writer tells that it was not an uncommon sight to see a colonel shaving his own men, who were constantly going home for a time, while neighbors came to take their places.

During the ensuing years the situation did not change very much. At Valley Forge, when the army was without food and clothes, the British Government, after 1777, was offering to give Washington substantially all the demands of the Declaration of Independence if the rebels would give up the idea of independence. While few colonials had really discovered they wanted independence before the Declaration of Independence was actually made, after it nothing less would satisfy them.

When things were at the worst for his army Washington said, when asked what he would do if he were further pressed, "We must then retire to Augusta County of Virginia. Numbers will repair to us for safety, and then we will try a predatory war. If overpowered, we must cross the Alleghany Mountains."

This was the Washington equivalent of liberty or death. Without his genius, with or without foreign assistance, the Revolution would have failed.

One hundred years ago, when the bicentennial celebration of the Pilgrim settlement was held in Plymouth, the orator was Daniel Webster, and his dominant note was optimism. The only cloud he could see casting its shadow over the liberty of the United States was that of black slavery; otherwise he believed that national progress would be continuous, and this country the asylum for human liberty, with every man free to work out his destiny to the best of his ability.

When he spoke the leaven of Democracy was working all over the world. The O'Connell movement for Catholic emancipation had opened the door for political freedom in England. The Chartist and Repeal movement in England, the Louis Blanc movement in France, the struggle for liberty going on in Italy, Germany, Hungary and other parts of the world, were complete justification for the hope that the seeds of the American Revolution had fallen on fertile ground.

It would be important if time would permit to trace the gradual decline in the principles of liberty in the United States following the Civil War, the abandonment of the United States of its right freely to trade in the markets of the world, which now for fifty years has been denied to our people, and to discuss the causes underlying the Great War, and the pure altruism shown by the United States which entered that struggle solely to ensure for the whole world the freedom fought for and secured by Washington.

When, through American intervention, the war was finally won, the nation was delirious with joy, which, however, has since changed to intense disappointment, regret and apprehension because of the decline in American ideals and pledges given in violation of American principles, due to flattery, intrigue or self-interest.

One hundred years after Daniel Webster preached his doctrine of optimism at Plymouth, the senior senator from Massachusetts was called there, a little more than a year ago, to perform a similar office at the tercentenary. Senator Lodge's pronouncement on this occasion is worthy of the deep and abiding consideration and interest of every American citizen. As contrasted with the optimistic note of Webster, he epitomized the note of pessimism when he repeats Disraeli's statement, "We talk of progress because by the aid of a few scientific discoveries we have established a system which has mistaken comfort for civilization."

The dominant note was expressed by Mr. Lodge when he said that "born of the great war . . . the mental and emotional condition known as pessimism is rising up and calling upon us to face the hard facts of history in the world about us." He quoted a Spanish philosopher who traced the earlier civilizations which had flourished and decayed, and deplored the gross materialism now flooding the world, the restlessness and extravagance of a civilization rotten to the core, and admitting that a new civilization may arise and fall, predicted that the time will come when the people will no longer have the strength to revolt and the nations of Europe will disappear one after another, never to revive until after a long night of barbarism.

Professor Bury, whom I have previously referred to as the author of an epochal life of St. Patrick, was quoted by Senator Lodge as saying that the law of progress believed in by Webster had failed, and that the existence of such a law was wholly disproved. Dr. Inge, the dean of St. Paul's and one of the most distinguished leaders in the Church of England, in his Romance lecture said that "the laws of nature neither promised progress nor forbade it, and that an assured belief in progress was an outworn form of optimism." Senator Lodge concluded that in the months that have slipped by since the war no observant man can deny that there is a growing doubt, a rising tide of pessimism, among those who think and are the first to see and weigh the chances of the future.

What Webster undoubtedly meant in 1820 was that the people of the United States, having conquered the wild beasts, the physical obstacles and the perils of their new land, having overcome nature and destroyed despotism, had succeeded finally in governing themselves; and by the continuance of the principles of the fathers of the nation would establish for the country a law of progress and ensure national success. Against this theory, Senator Lodge, himself the author of a life of Washington, which is now the best argument that he has accepted partisanship as more valuable than patriotism, has brought forward this array of philosophers to prove that the history of institutions is the most pathetic of all records. He paints a world, not going forward to a continuous success, but actuated by expediency, swinging backward and forward between despotism and democracy. Every institution, according to this theory, has within it the seeds of its own destruction, the inevitable inference being that even today we have come through the intermediate step of initial deterioration and are at the threshold of transformation.

If Mr. Lodge's statement is true and progress has failed in the United States, it is only because our people have wandered from their true path. After the passage of the Stamp Act in 1764, Benjamin Franklin wrote a letter to Charles Thompson, an Irishman, secretary of the Continental Congress from its first session to its close. "The sun of liberty has set," Franklin wrote, "and America must now light the lamp of industry and economy." "Be assured," promptly answered Thompson, "we shall light torches of quite another kind."

The principles laid down in Washington's Farewell Address hardly ever apply in their entirety to the precise situation confronting the American people at any particular time, but there is never a crisis in the affairs of this nation but in some part of the Farewell Address can be found a paragraph or paragraphs of common sense and practical philosophy bearing on the principles involved in that particular crisis. Washington was not a theorist; few men were further removed mentally from the habit of abstract reasoning, and where no facts were available to him no reasoning was attempted. Washington had but one idea in composing himself or accepting his associate's thoughts in the Farewell Address, which governed his every public act from the beginning, and that was to speak the truth for the good of his fellow countrymen. This more than anything else made him a great figure, not only in America but in the history of the world. Nowhere can there be found the slightest indication that a thought of his personal fortune ever influenced his decision, and because he forgot himself in his work the world will always remember.

During the last week two of the leading Boston newspapers have editorially expressed the opinion that Washington's Farewell Address is outworn. The attempt underlying these editorials is to convince public opinion that George Washington had no intention of forming a permanent foreign policy for the United States; that he did not know anything about the Pacific Ocean and its problems, and was only speaking for his own time, and that what he said, therefore, has no value in its application to present conditions. The answer is that Washington did understand the problems of the Pacific Ocean. The controversy of Nootka Sound on Vancouver Island created a problem of the Pacific during his administration in 1790. It tested the strength of the Triple Alliance between England, Prussia and the Netherlands; it overthrew the contract between Spain and France and affected the course of the French Revolution as well as it determined the future position of England and Spain on the northwest coast.

England still holds India, from which naval expeditions were equipped to attack the Philippines and Nootka Sound, insular possessions of Spain in the Pacific, off the shore of America and Asia, respectively. The West Indies were the rival insular possessions of Spain, England and France, respectively.

In the French Alliance of 1779 this country guaranteed France in the possession of her West India "insular possessions"—our only entangling alliance, contracted in the period of our direst need, but honorably abandoned after a few years in accordance with the overwhelming public sentiment of the United States.

The Portuguese possession of China, Macao, from which an English colonizing expedition was fitted out in 1790, to detach Nootka Sound from Spain, is still in the hands of England's ally, Portugal.

The Philippines are still within striking distance of India. Today the United States actually seeks to purchase immunity from assault only as Holland, Spain, France and Portugal purchased it in bygone years by acknowledging England's supremacy on the sea.

The answer to the attack on the Farewell Address is that Washington's contact with Europe was very much more intimate than ours has been. His knowledge of European diplomacy was in his day more farseeing than that of any diplomat in our day, and his fidelity to America's future much more conspicuous. Let us ponder over his wisdom and profit by it if we may. What made his work for the American nation strong was that it was built not on the political exigencies of that time but combined the wisdom of all the generations' fight for liberty during the Christian era. The Farewell Address was neither a business nor a political pronouncement—it was fundamentally a moral one.

The Farewell Address was an announcement, after long study by the most gifted group of men ever trusted with the control of government in the world's history, of the Divine purpose as applied to human organization. If we believe, therefore, in God's purpose, we must accept the principles therein laid down, which for more than twelve decades have served us well.

One phase of the campaign is the activity of writers and teachers who are asserting in magazines and class rooms that what Carlyle called the "palpable incredibility and delirious absurdity" of equality is as outworn as Washington's Address.

Dean Inge of St. Paul's, London, in a recent article admitted that the "right of human beings to equal consideration is a fundamental principle of Christianity," and "the best achievement of democracy as a form of state is that it has fostered social equality and broken down the barriers between classes, and that under democratic government the tendency of society to split into castes would disappear."

The unfortunate fact is, however, that during the last quarter-century in the United States, and especially in Massachusetts, the caste principle now being openly advocated has made great progress. The theory is that certain classes of the community are not fitted by birth, education, training or environment to exercise the powers of government, and that, therefore, this should be allowed to rest only in the hands of those fully competent to carry it out. It denies even the right of equality of opportunity.

The subject is introduced here only because it is a part of the attack on Washington's Farewell Address. Caste control is in theory a defence of paganism. It would make Lincoln ineligible for the great office he held. Its insidious poison is permeating the very vitals of our democratic structure. It has already done much harm. It should be brought into the open and demolished with the other heresies now being advocated to break down the national spirit.

The fight today is between the principles of imperialism, which mean the revival of pagan principles, and the democracy of Washington, which means moral purpose, industrial and political freedom, peace and prosperity.

What we are asked to abandon is the principle under which a colony—without an army, navy or established government, without revenue, munitions of war or fortifications—boldly set forth to meet the armies of a proud, powerful and hitherto invincible conquering enemy. On one side was want, poverty and misfortune, supported by the spirit of liberty and guided only by the hand of God, which for eight years sustained on its own soil the weight of a cruel conflict, until in the end the United States was enrolled on the pages of history as a free, sovereign and independent nation, a wise and humane government springing up from the blood that was spilt, shedding the choicest blessings on the oppressed of the earth who, up to the present day, have recognized this land as the only harbor of refuge open in the world.

I believe that the picture painted by Daniel Webster represents the true story of our nation's future. The pessimism expressed by Senator Lodge and the philosophers supporting his view is justified only by accepting as a fact the belief that religion and morals have failed. This is not true—at least as far as a large percentage of the American people are concerned. A people actuated by the Farewell Address and united by the cause of liberty are invincible against those who would enslave or degrade them. God, who raised up Washington and Lincoln to save this nation, will in His infinite wisdom frown on the cause of injustice, and support and sustain those who oppose it.

Bids close Wednesday, March 29, at 12 m.

DEPARTMENT CHANGES.

The following changes in the number, rating and compensation of city employees have been made during the week ending Thursday, March 16.

Assessing Department.

Thomas J. Meldon, Frank J. Mahoney, Albert Soosman, Henry A. Taff, Joseph V. Mahan and Frank J. Williams have been appointed as temporary clerks in the Department for a period beginning April 1, 1922, and ending about May 15, 1922.

The rate of compensation will be $4 per diem or upon piece-work basis at the rate of 1¼ cents per item for the real estate books and 1 cent on corporation work.

Michael V. Desmond has been appointed a temporary clerk in the Department for a period beginning March 10, 1922, and ending about May 15, 1922.

The rate of compensation will be $4 per diem or upon piece-work basis at the rate of 1¼ cents per item for the real estate books and 1 cent on corporation work.

James J. Gallagher has been appointed a temporary clerk in the department, to fill vacancy caused by resignation of Michael V. Desmond, for a period beginning March 14 and ending about May 15, 1922.

The rate of compensation will be $4 per diem, or upon piece-work basis at the rate of 1¼ cents per item for the real estate books and 1 cent on corporation work.

Henry P. Flanagan and Charles P. Mulhall have been appointed as temporary clerks in the department, for a period beginning March 14 and ending about May 15, 1922, to fill vacancies.

The rate of compensation will be $4 per diem, or upon piece-work basis at the rate of 1¼ cents per item for the real estate books and 1 cent on corporation work.

Edward E. McGrath has been appointed provisionally as deputy assessor, at a salary of $4,000 per annum, in place of Jacob Lebowich, resigned.

Auditing Department.

John J. Gateley has been designated to serve as City Auditor at such times as City Auditor Rupert S. Carven may be absent during the ensuing four weeks.

Boston Sanatorium.

Maria Collins, nurse, has been granted full pay during a period of absence resulting from an accident.

Ella Donohue, organist, has been granted full pay during a period of absence caused by illness.

Mary Maguire, assistant bookkeeper, has been granted full pay during a period of absence caused by illness.

Building Department.

James H. Foley has been appointed as gasfitting inspector in the department to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Warren Brooks, at a salary of $1,600 per annum.

Finance Commission.

Madeleine E. Hickey, employed as temporary clerk, has left the employ of the commission.

Fire Department.

Susan Y. Leonard, widow of Capt. Michael C. Leonard, late a member of the Fire Department, has been placed on the pension roll of the department. Mrs. Leonard will receive a pension at the rate of $660 a year.

Gertrude P. Walsh has been appointed as a temporary clerk in the Wire Division of the department at the rate of $1,240 per annum. This employment is to cover a period of three months, during the absence of Timothy L. Connolly who is under treatment at the Naval Hospital, Chelsea, Mass.

Health Department.

William O. Quirk has been appointed to serve as sanitary inspector, without pay, for one year from date of approval. This assignment is made in response to a request of the Division of Rehabilitation of the Veterans' Bureau, and it is understood that no obligation will be placed on the City of Boston to compensate or retain Mr. Quirk in its employ. Mr. Quirk is a veteran of the late war and has incurred a disability which prevents him from giving satisfactory service in any kind of indoor work, and it is for this reason that this training has been requested; also so that he may qualify with experience at the time of the next civil service examination for a position of this kind. While taking this training and until such time as Mr. Quirk is rehabilitated the United States Government will pay Mr. Quirk at the rate of $100 a month.

Dr. Luigi P. Verde has been provisionally appointed as a medical inspector at a salary at the rate of $1,600 a year.

Dr. Verde will take the place of Dr. Gaetano Praino, a medical inspector in the department, who is on a six months' leave of absence without pay, on account of physical disability. Inasmuch as Dr. Praino's district comprises the North End and East Boston sections of the city, it has been considered desirable that he be replaced by a medical inspector of Italian birth or parentage, one who has a knowledge of the customs and who can speak the language of the Italian people, and preferably a man located in the North End of the city.

Institutions Department.

The following appointments have been made:

March 10, 1922.

Hon. James M. Curley,
Mayor of Boston:

Dear Sir,—Authority is requested to renew the upper plank, under plank, and some of the stringers, upon both the draw spans of Dorchester Avenue Bridge, over Fort Point channel, with Bridge Service force, without inviting proposals therefor by advertisement, the estimated cost for labor and material being $2,500.

This is maintenance work and can in my opinion be as advantageously done by day labor methods as any work now necessary.

Joseph A. Rourke,
Commissioner of Public Works.

MAYOR REQUESTS WORK UPON LABOR BASIS.

Mayor Curley addressed a communication to the City Council, upon the 11th instant, declaring that the underground work to be performed by the city at East Boston should be conducted upon a day labor rather than a contract basis.

The letter of Mayor Curley was as follows:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor,
March 11, 1922.

To the City Council:

Gentlemen,—I have this day directed the Boston Transit Commission to construct the necessary underground work at East Boston upon a day labor rather than contract basis.

The work contemplated represents an expenditure of approximately $2,500,000, and the shortest possible time it can be consummated is eighteen months.

In all probability not less than 1,000 men will be employed upon this work, and it is, in my opinion, desirable that the added responsibilities represented by this project receive the entire time and thought of the Transit Commission, and that they receive adequate compensation for services rendered.

It has been my observation that service is invariably rendered in proportion to the wage paid, and that competent and efficient service may be possible upon this work which should provide employment for citizens who in the past have been deprived of the opportunity for work of this nature, I respectfully recommend the adoption of the accompanying order.

Respectfully,
James M. Curley, Mayor.

FERRY DROP REPAIRS.

The Mayor has approved the request of Commissioner of Public Works Rourke, for repair of ferry drops with the day labor force of the Ferry Service, without inviting proposals by advertisement, the estimated cost for labor and material being $1,500.

This is maintenance work of an emergency nature and can be as advantageously done by day labor methods as any work now necessary.

CIRCULARS FROM THE MAYOR.

Circular Letter No. 3.

City of Boston,
Mayor's Office, March 13, 1922.

To the Heads of Departments:

Gentlemen,—I believe it will be possible for the Mayor and department heads to work more effectively if monthly reports of the activities in each department are prepared for the information of the Mayor.

You are therefore directed to send on the first day of April and on the first day of each month thereafter, a report outlining concisely what has been accomplished since the first day of the preceding month; what new work of importance has been undertaken, together with whatever comment may be deemed beneficial.

The monthly reports should be delivered on the date specified to the chief clerk in my office.

Very truly yours,
James M. Curley, Mayor.

Circular Letter No. 4.

City of Boston,
Mayor's Office, March 13, 1922.

To the Heads of Departments:

Gentlemen,—You are hereby directed to forward me a complete list of all vacancies existing on this date in the department or departments under your control.

You are further directed to send immediate notice of any change in the personnel of the department or departments under your control by reason of death, discharge, suspension, resignation or transfer, and no change in or addition to such personnel shall be made without first notifying this office in writing.

In notifying me of change in personnel which creates a vacancy, you should state the name of the person who last held the position vacated, the budget designation of the position, and the salary or wages which attaches to the position.

Very truly yours,
James M. Curley, Mayor.

Circular Letter No. 5.

City of Boston,
Mayor's Office, March 14, 1922.

To the Heads of Departments:

Gentlemen,—The Soldiers' Relief Department at the present time is providing relief for the families of approximately 5,000 soldiers each month, a majority of whom are World War veterans, and who receive aid because of unemployment.

You are hereby directed to notify the Soldiers' Relief Commissioner, Mr. Henry C. McKenna, whenever veterans are appointed in your department and to furnish the names of all veterans appointed since January, 1921.

Respectfully,
James M. Curley, Mayor.

TEMPORARY EMPLOYMENT EXTENDED.

The Mayor has approved the extension of temporary employment of fifty-nine teamsters, who were appointed in December of 1921 for a period of three months in the Sanitary Service in the collection of ashes and offal, for an additional period of two months from date, as the work for which they were appointed will not be completed for at least that period.

WELCOME TO VISITORS.

Joseph Smith, secretary of the Boston Commercial and Industrial Bureau, appeared at the American House at nine o'clock a. m., March 14, 1922, to convey the greetings of Mayor Curley to the New England Optometric Societies holding a convention there. Mr. Smith said:

"I am delegated by Mayor Curley to bring you his cordial welcome to Boston and to offer you the official courtesies of the city during your stay here. The Mayor is an extremely busy person; the calls on his time are too numerous for even the most dynamic personality in Boston to give personal attention to them; hence my presence here as his representative.

"Boston is unreservedly glad to have an important and useful body such as this make the city the meeting place of its conventions, and I hope that you will come to us every year and that other commercial and industrial associations will cultivate the Boston habit, for we want every person and society to realize that Boston is the natural and historic gateway of New England. Some old Greek philosopher—Aristotle, I think, though I did not have the honor of his personal acquaintance—has said that without vision the peoples and the cities perish; and in the light of that utterance it is reasonable to do honor to the New England Optometric Society, which conserves and stabilizes the vision of our people and preserves them from the blindness that obscures and handicaps progress.

"A glance at the exhibition in Convention Hall is a convincing proof of the progressive spirit of this society and of its courage and initiative, for when war cut you off from your European base of supplies you made your commercial isolation the occasion of an industrial declaration of independence and Optometric America became self-sufficient and self-supporting. That is the true New England and American spirit.

"During your stay in Boston I invite you to City Hall and ask you to call on the Commercial and Industrial Bureau, whose courtesies and facilities you are invited to use freely."

COMMITTEE ON DISABLED VETERAN ENTERTAINMENT.

Mayor Curley has approved reorganization of the City of Boston committee for the entertainment of disabled veterans as follows:

Peter F. Costello of Dorchester, reappointed chairman; Joseph P. Donahue, 249 Park street, Dorchester, vice chairman; Miss Louise McCloskey, 45 Ridgemont street, Allston, secretary; Thomas E. Lydon, 213 Main street, Charlestown; Frank Silva, 37 Faywood street, East Boston; Joseph Normile, 126 Calumet street, Roxbury, and Frank Scott, 517 East Sixth street, South Boston.

The committee is now arranging a spring and summer program of outings for the veterans, which will include theater, boxing, picnic, baseball and auto parties.

EXTENSION OF CONTRACT.

The Mayor has approved an extension of the contract of W. S. Rendle for repairing fender piers of Charlestown and Warren Bridges, from March 6, 1922, to April 1, 1922.

MAYOR FAVORS AIRPORT LEGISLATION.

Mayor Curley addressed a communication to Governor Cox upon the 11th instant, strongly favoring the establishment of an airport in Boston.

The letter of Mayor Curley was as follows:

CITY OF BOSTON,
OFFICE OF THE MAYOR,
March 11, 1922.

HON. CHANNING H. COX, Governor of the Commonwealth, State House, Boston:

YOUR EXCELLENCY,—The Boston Commercial and Industrial Bureau has investigated the matter of the establishment of an airport and are of the opinion that you should lend your efforts to the immediate enactment of House Bill No. 831.

I beg to say that, in the event of the enactment of this legislation, which will entail an expenditure of not in excess of $35,000, the City of Boston will be required to pay about 40 per cent of the total amount to be expended. We are prepared to assume the obligation and are desirous that favorable action be taken at this session of the Legislature.

I recognize that it is needless to direct your attention to certain important facts which have a bearing upon the question of the establishment of an airport, namely, the adoption by the Federal Government of the ship subsidy, which must inevitably tend to the development of a great merchant marine and which merchant marine, in the event of war, can best be protected through the service rendered by aircraft.

The indications are that the four-power treaty will, in all probability, be accepted and, regardless of perfecting amendments which may tend to make for peace, the conclusion is justified that there will shortly be intense activity upon the part of the leading powers of the world in the matter of aircraft development.

All things considered, I believe the pending bill of sufficient importance to urge that your influence be exercised to ensure its enactment.

Respectfully,

JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

FAIL TO CO-OPERATE.

Tenants who have been the victims of profiteering landlords are failing to co-operate with Mayor Curley in his campaign to increase the valuation of all buildings and property where there has been unjust rental increases the past year, for the purpose of making the "rent hog" pay.

Edward T. Kelly, chairman of the Board of Assessors, has announced that despite the Mayor's request that all residents of Boston report instances of unjust rental increases to the Assessing Department, but 200 such complaints have been received to date.

Mr. Kelly has announced his staff for this season. The assignments follow: Ward 1, Michael J. Toumey; Ward 2, Lucian J. Priest; Ward 3, John Marno; Ward 4, William A. Creney; Ward 5, Thomas H. Bond, Jacob Rosenberg, Matthew Binney, Harry C. Byrne, Edwin R. Spinney, William N. Goodwin, Fred W. Burleigh, Warren F. Freeman, Alexander P. Brown, Henry J. Ireland; Ward 6, John M. Hayes; Ward 7, Edward L. Hopkins, Charles A. Murphy; Ward 8, Augustus D. McLennan, James I. Moore, William H. Allen; Ward 9, Thomas O. McEnaney, Arthur W. Smith; Ward 10, Frederick F. O'Doherty; Ward 11, Michael J. Carr; Ward 12, John S. McDonough; Ward 13, Frederick F. Smith; Ward 14, James P. Fox; Ward 15, John J. Butler; Ward 16, Arthur C. Quincy; Ward 17, John H. WHITE COMMITTEE ORGANIZED.

A meeting of the George R. White Committee was held at the Mayor's office, City Hall, upon Thursday, 16th instant.

Mayor Curley was elected permanent chairman of the committee. Rupert S. Carven was elected secretary. In compliance with the terms of the late Mr. White's will, the committee requested the Park Commissioners to determine a site for a bronze memorial to the testator at a cost of $50,000. The site will be either upon the Public Garden or Boston Common.

The committee unanimously voted to tender the position of manager of the George R. White estate to George E. Phelan, director of the John Mason Little estate, and his compensation for services will be determined in harmony with the rules and regulations of the Massachusetts Real Estate Exchange.

TRANSFER OF WILSON PARK.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, March 13, 1922.
To the City Council:

Gentlemen,—In response to your request of February 27 I beg to transmit herewith the report of the Park Commissioners relative to the transfer of land in Brighton known as "Wilson Park."

Respectfully yours,
James M. Curley, Mayor.

City of Boston,
Park Department, March 9, 1922.
Hon. James M. Curley,
Mayor of Boston:

Dear Sir,—I have your memorandum of March 2, 1922, with enclosure, order of the City Council, relative to the advisability of transferring land in Brighton known as "Wilson Park" to the custody of the Public Buildings Department for the purpose of providing a municipal building site for that district. In reply I respectfully beg to state that the Board approves of the transfer of this land for the purpose mentioned.

Very respectfully yours,
James B. Shea,
Chairman.

Placed on file.

VETO—PLAYGROUND APPROPRIATION, MATTAPAN.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, March 7, 1922.
To the City Council:

Gentlemen,—I return herewith, without my approval, the order passed by your honorable body on February 20, 1922, providing for an appropriation of $50,000 for a playground in the Mattapan district.

On September 27, 1913, the City Council authorized an appropriation of $25,000 for a playground in Mattapan and this money is still available.

In my opinion, for the present, the sum now available is ample and the reduced borrowing capacity of the city, coupled with the more important needs of the city, does not justify an expenditure in the sum approved by your honorable body at the present time.

Respectfully,
James M. Curley, Mayor.

Placed on file.

VETO—BURKE AND MULHERN SQUARES.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, March 2, 1922.
To the City Council:

Gentlemen,—I am returning herewith, without my approval, orders of your Board for the renaming of public squares in memory of Leonce C .Burke and William J. Mulhern. Personally, I can see no objection to the naming of a public square in honor of a citizen who has served and made the supreme sacrifice for the preservation of American honor and the perpetuation of American institutions, but both logic and justice are disregarded when a square bearing the name of an American who has honored his city and nation in earlier days is replaced by one who honors in later days, while the giving of two distinctive names to one square is impossible to justify. The custom that has grown up in the last two years of naming street intersections where no square exists, as a square in honor of some World War hero, is an injustice to those who served, and a practice that if continued will leave the city government open to the charge of playing cheap politics with heroes of the World War solely for political capital. Personally, I believe that every man who served should have his name perpetuated, and after all, those who are undergoing a living death, the victims of shell shock, who are sound in body but whose minds are a blank, are as much entitled to the honor of having a square named after them as those who were more fortunate and who died on the field of battle.

In my opinion, the best solution of the entire problem, in order that no man may be done an injustice, will be to present a bill to the Legislature requiring the state to place on an enduring bronze in the State Armory the names of all who served, and all who have been wounded or suffered loss of mentality, or died.

Respectfully yours,
James M. Curley, Mayor.

PLAYGROUND, EAST COTTAGE STREET.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, March 9, 1922.
To the City Council:

Gentlemen,—In accordance with the request of the City Council on February 4, the chairman of the Board of Park Commissioners has submitted a report on the advisability of converting the land on East Cottage street, upon which the hot houses are located, and which are no longer used, into a park or playground, and the cost of said playground.

I am transmitting his report herewith.

Respectfully yours,
James M. Curley, Mayor.

City of Boston,
Park Department, March 3, 1922.
Hon. James M. Curley,
Mayor of Boston:

Dear Sir,—I have your memorandum of February 8 with inclosure from Assistant City Clerk Doyle with the order that the Park Commissioners be requested, through his Honor the Mayor, to consider and report upon the advisability of converting the land on East Cottage street, upon which the hot houses are located, and which are no longer used, into a park or playground, and as to the cost of said park or playground.

In reply would say that the land owned by the city contains, approximately, 100,000 feet. This is not large enough for a playground for adults, and such a playground is not necessary at this point, as it is midway between the Strandway and the William Eustis Playground on Norfolk avenue, both of which would be admirably fitted for athletic games. The latter place might be improved by adding to its area.

So far as the necessity of a children's playground is concerned, it would be far better to use Richardson Park on Columbia road, in close proximity to the two large schools, the William E. Russell School and the parochial school connected with St. Margaret's parish.

A simple athletic apparatus for the use of children could be placed on this park, and it would be more central and, from the safety standpoint, far better for the children than the location at the East Cottage street grounds.

As to the cost of the development of the proposed park, I would say that the grading, fencing, and planting, erection of apparatus, etc., would mean an expenditure of $30,000, and a sanitary and locker building would cost $20,000. The Board believes that this money could be expended to better purpose in increasing the facilities at William Eustis Playground, Richardson Park, and other playgrounds in that immediate neighborhood.

Respectfully,
James B. Shea, Chairman.

Placed on file.

ORDINANCE CONCERNING TRANSIT COMMISSION.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, March 11, 1922.
To the City Council:

Gentlemen,—I have this day directed the Boston Transit Commission to construct the necessary underground work at East Boston upon a day labor rather than contract basis.

The work contemplated represents an expenditure of approximately $2,500,000, and the shortest possible time it can be consummated is eighteen months.

In all probability not less than 1,000 men will be employed upon this work, and it is, in my opinion, desirable that the added responsibilities represented by this project receive the entire time and thought of the Transit Commission and that they receive adequate compensation for services rendered.

It has been my observation that service is invariably rendered in proportion to the wage paid, and that competent and efficient service may be possible upon this work, which should provide employment for citizens who in the past have been deprived of the opportunity for work of this nature, I respectfully recommend the adoption of the accompanying ordinance.

Respectfully,
James M. Curley, Mayor.

City of Boston.
In the Year Nineteen Hundred and Twenty-Two.
An Ordinance Concerning the Transit Department of the City of Boston.

Be it ordained by the City Council of Boston, as follows:

Section 1. Chapter three of the ordinances of nineteen hundred and eighteen is hereby amended by striking out section one and substituting therefor the following new section:—Section 1. The transit department shall be under the charge of a board of three commissioners, appointed by the mayor, for the term of one year each, one of whom he shall designate as chairman. The chairman shall receive a salary of seven thousand five hundred dollars a year; the other members shall receive each a salary of five thousand dollars a year. The board shall appoint a secretary, engineers, subordinates and employees, define their powers and duties, and fix the amount of their compensation.

Referred to the Committee on Ordinances.

APPROPRIATION FOR HIGHWAYS, MAKING OF.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, March 10, 1922.
To the City Council:

Gentlemen,—It is desirable that the Board of Street Commissioners be provided, at the earliest date, with funds for the laying out, widening and construction of public thoroughfares, and I accordingly recommend the adoption of the accompanying order by your honorable body.

Respectfully yours,
James M. Curley, Mayor.

Ordered, That the sum of $500,000 be and hereby is appropriated for highways, making of, under the provisions of chapter 393 of the Acts of 1905, and that to meet said appropriation the City Treasurer be and hereby is authorized to issue, from time to time, upon the request of the Mayor, bonds or certificates of indebtedness of the city to said amount.

Referred to the Committee on Finance.

INVESTIGATION OF EDISON ELECTRIC COMPANY.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, March 13, 1922.
To the City Council:

Gentlemen,—Investigation of the Edison Electric Illuminating Company, which has been in progress for some time, should in my opinion be continued until a decision is reached, and I accordingly recommend the adoption of the accompanying order.

Respectfully,
James M. Curley, Mayor.

Ordered, That an additional sum not exceeding $20,000 be authorized to be expended for the purpose of meeting charges for expert services, stenographic services, additional legal assistance and other necessary and proper expenditures in connection with the hearings on the request for arbitration under the street lighting contract between the City of Boston and the Edison Electric Illuminating Company, dated December 7, 1914, and under the petition for a reduction in the price of electricity filed by the Mayor with the Public Utilities Commission, said amount to be charged to the Reserve Fund. All expenditures shall be subject to the written approval of the Mayor and the Corporation Counsel.

Referred to the Executive Committee.

CONDITION OF BEACON STREET BRIDGE.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, March 13, 1922.
To the City Council:

Gentlemen,—I beg to submit herewith the report of the former Commissioner of Public Works with reference to the condition of the Beacon Street Bridge over the Boston & Albany Railroad, west of Commonwealth avenue, and respectfully recommend the adoption of the accompanying order.

Respectfully,
JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

City of Boston,
Public Works Department,
February 27, 1922.

To the Honorable the Mayor:

I respectfully call your attention to the condition of Beacon Street Bridge, over the Boston & Albany Railroad, west of Commonwealth avenue. This bridge was completed in 1885. On December 28, 1921, the Public Utilities Commission passed an order providing for the rebuilding of this structure. The plans for the new bridge provide for the replacing of the water pipes under the tracks, and it is of great importance that this work be commenced immediately.

I respectfully recommend that a loan appropriation of $175,000 be made for providing a plate girder structure with a steel floor encased in concrete.

Yours respectfully,
T. F. SULLIVAN,
Commissioner of Public Works.

Ordered, That the sum of $175,000 be appropriated, to be expended by the Commissioner of Public Works, for rebuilding Beacon Street Bridge, and that to meet said appropriation the City Treasurer be authorized to issue, from time to time, on the request of the Mayor, bonds or certificates of indebtedness of the City of Boston to said amount.

Referred to the Committee on Finance.

CONDITION OF CAMBRIDGE STREET BRIDGE.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, March 13, 1922.

To the City Council:

Gentlemen,—I beg to submit herewith report from the former Commissioner of Public Works, with reference to the condition of the Cambridge Street Bridge, over the Boston & Albany Railroad, Allston, and respectfully recommend the adoption of the accompanying order.

Respectfully,
JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

City of Boston,
Public Works Department,
February 27, 1922.

To the Honorable the Mayor:

I respectfully request that a loan appropriation of $160,000 be made for rebuilding the bridge structure on Cambridge street, Allston, over the tracks of the Boston & Albany Railroad.

This bridge was closed to car traffic in October of 1920, on account of its unsafe condition, and since that time it has been necessary to transfer passengers in the open across the bridge. The necessary legal formalities have been complied with, and it is essential that the work be commenced at the earliest possible time.

Yours respectfully,
T. F. SULLIVAN,
Commissioner of Public Works.

Ordered, That the sum of $160,000 be appropriated, to be expended by the Commissioner of Public Works, for rebuilding Cambridge Street Bridge, and that to meet said appropriation the City Treasurer be authorized to issue, from time to time, on the request of the Mayor, bonds or certificates of indebtedness of the City of Boston to said amount.

Referred to the Committee on Finance.

ACCEPTANCE OF GEORGE R. WHITE BEQUEST.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, March 11, 1922.

Gentlemen of the City Council:

In submitting for the consideration of your Board the order providing for the acceptance of the George R. White bequest, I believe it fitting that the City of Boston should officially pay tribute to this most generous citizen.

A gifted poet once wrote, "A nation's greatness lies in men, not acres; one master mind is worth a million hands," and when we consider the contribution of service to humanity made possible by the generosity and thought of Boston men, we disc the true story of Boston's greatness. The real test of character is service and devotion to the interest of one's fellow man, and to this test George R. White contributed in the fullest degree and measured up to the highest standard. George R. White was respected and loved while living because of those traits which mark a truly great man—modesty, ability and absolute unselfishness.

While we mourn the departure from our midst of one whom in life we respected, we rejoice that in his death we may be permitted to honor his memory because of the perpetual character of useful service to humanity which his great generosity has made possible. May Almighty God direct the course of those charged with the commission of his last wish, to the end that a great trust may be honorably and efficiently administered for the good of all our citizenship and the perpetuation of the memory of a truly great citizen of Boston.

Respectfully,
JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

City of Boston,
In City Council.

Whereas, George R. White, late of Boston, died leaving a will which was duly allowed by the Probate Court for the County of Suffolk on the second day of March, 1922; and

Whereas, Said will contains devises and bequests to the City of Boston upon certain terms and conditions, copies of which devises and bequests are as follows:

"Article Ninth: To the City of Boston I give the sum of Fifty Thousand ($50,000) Dollars for the erection on Boston Common or on the Public Garden of a work of art in bronze, to be inscribed in memory of myself.

. . . .

"Article Fourteenth: Whereas my sister Mary E. Sullivan has died, and I have otherwise provided for my sister Harriet J. Bradbury, I do now carry out by immediate gift my public charitable purpose which in previous wills I had provided for in remainder, and I do now give all the rest and residue of my property of every nature to the City of Boston, the same to be held as a permanent charitable trust fund to be known as the George Robert White Fund, and the net income only to be used for creating works of public utility and beauty, for the use and enjoyment of the inhabitants of the City of Boston. It is my intention that no part of said income, however, shall be used for a religious, political, educational or any purpose which it shall be the duty of the City in the ordinary course of events to provide.

"The control and management of said Fund and the disbursement of the income shall be in the hands of a board of five trustees to consist of the Mayor, who shall be its chairman, the President of the City Council, the City Auditor, the President of the Chamber of Commerce and the President of the Bar Association of the City of Boston. If by the reason of the abolition of any one or more of these offices or the declination or resignation of any one or more of the persons holding them for the time being a vacancy or vacancies shall occur, I direct that such vacancies shall be filled by the remaining members of the board, by the election of the persons whose respective positions and duties shall in the opinion of the board most nearly correspond therewith. As this is a public charitable gift to the City of Boston, it is my intention that the City shall at all times be officially represented by a majority of the board of trustees charged with its management.

"The business of the Fund shall be transacted through the regular departments of the City, viz. the Treasurer, Auditor, Corporation Counsel, etc., and a suitable office or offices for the trustees shall be provided for them by the City in the City Hall or elsewhere, in which shall be kept all books and records of every nature relating to the management of the Fund, properly indexed and readily accessible during business hours for the reasonable inspection of citizens, so that all who desire may have full knowledge of the conduct of the business of the Fund. I direct that said income shall not be anticipated or pledged beyong the amount actually in hand, but it may be accumulated for any purpose within the scope of the gift, and successive accumulations may be applied to the same object. Any work or works established from the Fund may be improved, extended, enlarged or added to from time to time, but the current expense of their care and maintenance shall be borne by the City. I also direct that no part of said income shall be mingled with other funds or applied in joint undertakings, but that each work established under this gift shall be separate and distinct, and shall always bear in a conspicuous place a suitable inscription identifying it as erected or established from the said George White Fund. If for any reason the principal of said Fund shall at any time become impaired, the income shall be allowed to accumulate until such impairment shall have been made good.

"Inasmuch as I believe an enlightened public opinion to be the most effective safeguard for the preservation and maintenance of such a charitable fund and the best guide to its effective use, I direct that at least once a year the trustees shall cause to be published in most if not all the daily newspapers of general circulation in Boston a full and comprehensive report, duly audited, and signed and sworn to by at least three of their members, setting forth the receipts, disbursements and investments of the Fund and a copy of this fourteenth article of my will establishing it.

"In order to diminish the chance of hasty or unconsidered action in the expenditure of income, I believe that no substantial expenditure should be made for any purpose until it shall have been under consideration by the trustees for at least three months.

"As it is probable that the said Fund will consist in greater part of real estate centrally situated in the City of Boston which is reasonably sure to increase in value, I urgently recommend that such real estate be not sold for a period of at least one hundred (100) years, that leases of the same shall be subject to revaluation as a basis of rentals every ten years and where necessary shall provide for the rebuilding by the lessees, that the real estate shall not be mortgaged, and the buildings thereon shall be kept fully insured.

"If any clause or provision of the foregoing charitable gift shall be found to be invalid in law, it shall not invalidate the gift as a whole but so far as possible be construed as an expression of my general intent.

"While I think that Boston has now few, if any, superiors in beauty and in the many privileges it affords to its citizens, yet I believe it has greater possibilities for the future, and there are several public blessings among those afforded by other cities,—such as a zoological garden and handsome buildings therefor, an aquarium, a forum of substantial proportions for public gatherings, etc.,—which we do not possess. It is with such things as these in mind that I have established the foregoing trust fund.

"I can conceive that pressure might be brought to bear to use the income of this Fund for small and comparatively unimportant needs, which might be equally deserving and technically within the general scope of the trust as heretofore expressed. A use of it for such purposes to any substantial extent would be contrary to my intention, which is that its income, accumulated if need be for a time long enough to make it sufficient, should be used only for important civic improvements.

"I suggest that printed copies, in convenient pamphlet form of this fourteenth article of my will to be kept at the office of the trustees of the Fund for free distribution to citizens of Boston.

"I request that the trustees named in this article annually designate one of their number who shall visit and inspect my lot in Forest Hills Cemetery in the months of April and September of each year, and report to the board any neglect or failure to comply with the provisions of the contract for perpetual care, as well as Article first of this my will, in regard to the care of said lot, and it shall be the duty of said trustees to see that such neglect or lack of care be remedied without delay."

Ordered, That the same be and hereby are accepted in the name and behalf of the City of Boston in accordance with the terms and conditions imposed in said bequests and devises, and that his Honor the Mayor notify the executors under said will of said acceptance and file or cause to be filed forthwith in the records of the Registry of Probate for the County of Suffolk a copy yof this order certified by the City Clerk of the City of Boston.

Referred to the Executive Committee.

MUNICIPAL BUILDING, ROXBURY CROSSING.

Coun. WATSON offered an order—That his Honor the Mayor be requested to send to the City Council a loan order for a sum sufficient to select a location and erect thereon a municipal building in the vicinity of Roxbury Crossing for the use of the inhabitants of Wards 13, 14 and 15.

Coun. WATSON—Mr. President, I desire to take a moment or two of the Council's time to explain the necessity of such a loan. I have endeavored for seven years to bring about the establishment of a municipal building in each of the three wards mentioned, but have been perfectly willing to compromise on one in the center of Roxbury to take care of the three wards. I am satisfied that at the present time to ask for a municipal building for each of the wards would be asking too much, although the population of each ward is as great as the population of any one of the South Boston wards, or of Ward 6, which has a new building, or Ward 12, which has one. The total population of the three wards—13, 14 and 15—is as great as, if not greater than, that of any other three wards physically connected in the City of Boston. The total population of Wards 13, 14 and 15 is 78,000. There is not a public building in any one of the wards in which there could be held a public meeting of any size, nor is there a public building within the boundaries of those three wards that has the accommodation or conveniences necessary for the comfort of those who might attend. There are private civic centers. There is the Eliot Square civic center, the old Norfolk House, run by private subscription, which affords much in the way of comfort, pleasure and convenience for the people in the Wards 13 and 15 section, as the wards join at that particular spot. But that is run under private control. Many people embrace the opportunity to enjoy there the privileges afforded by private subscription, and they are private in every particular. There is an assessment made each time when something of importance goes on, and those who attend must pay. There is afforded, aside from that, without expense, an opportunity for the rehearsal of plays and for playing whist games and doing other things of the sort, free of charge. But it is under private control. Then, at Elmwood street, there is what was formerly a ward room, where meetings can be held, but a place where very few can be gathered. Then, at the Lowell School, almost on the line of Ward 22, at the other end of the ward, meetings can be held by payment to and through the courtesy of the School Committee, but the place there is at the top of the Lowell School. The only other place I know of in the district where a public meeting might be held, which is at all convenient, is at the Cummings School, at the corner of Parker and Tremont streets, near Roxbury Crossing. But the building is a fire trap and the meetings are held at the top of it. I saw 400 people crowded into the room there at one of Mayor Curley's meetings, and four or five times as many outside trying to get in. We haven't a single public building in which people can congregate to consider matters of civic welfare. I realize that perhaps I am belated and that my critics can truthfully say so,—that I am late in my endeavors to secure a public building in any ward of the three where the people can congregate. But I have a good reason for that. I have made the request of three Mayors—of Mayor Fitzgerald, Mayor Peters, and I think Mayor Curley originally,—but conditions were not right for putting the thing through at the time when I requested. Therefore, I had no desire to go ahead and shove an order through here that meant nothing. I am now reasonably certain that something will be done, not because of any guaranty given me by the Chief Executive, but by his conduct. Today, when the matter was broached to him, he did not show any antagonistic disposition towards the proposition, and I think there is a pretty good chance of getting an even break with him in this way, securing in this way a much needed improvement, which can be centrally located so as to accommodate the three wards, and which will be of great benefit to the people of Roxbury. Wards 13, 14 and 15 have 78,000 population, and, according to the municipal register, counting by acres, have 56 plus people to each acre. That is pretty congested, Mr. President. Wards 9 and 10, South Boston, with a population of 53,000, have a public building, and a grand one,—and I voted for it; and Ward 11, by itself, with 26,000 population, has a public building,—and I helped by my vote, as far as I could, to bring that about. The three wards of South Boston,—Wards 9, 10 and 11,—with 79,000 population, have two public buildings, and the number of people per acre in those three wards is 44, 12 less people per acre than there are in Wards 13, 14 and 15, with no public building. On the other hand, Ward 12, his Honor the Mayor's former home ward, with 28,000 population, has had a municipal building for a long time, with a gymnasium, baths, and a large auditorium. There is also Ward 6, with a population of 35,000, for which last year we passed an order concluding our part of the work of giving a $400,000 municipal civic center to Ward 6. Wards 13, 14 and 15 are not the only sections of Boston that have been neglected. There is Brighton, for which Coun. Walsh is endeavoring to get a public building, and it should have one. Such buildings are assets to the city rather than liabilities. There is Ward 5, Martin Lomasney's ward, which needs a public building more than any section of Boston,—and I stand ready to vote any necessary sum of money for that purpose, not for Martin's sake but for the people who live in the ward. I trust that before the meeting closes that an order covering that particular matter will be introduced, and I will gladly vote for it now and every time when I am given an opportunity to do so. I hope I have given strong reasons and convincing arguments, if not in words in facts and figures, showing the necessity of a public building for that section of Roxbury which now has nothing except me,—and I am not much. Mr. President, I ask the cooperation of all my efforts, great or little, to bring about this proposition. I voted for a similar proposition for your district, sir (indicating Coun. Donoghue), and for yours, sir (indicating Coun. Moriarty).

Coun. MORIARTY—But you also voted to take it away. After voting twice to give it, you also voted at the last meeting to take it away.

Coun. WATSON—That was not a public building. That was a gymnasium. I am referring to your South Boston public building, the municipal building up on Broadway, between Dorchester and Emerson streets. Yes, I voted to rescind our vote on the other matter, and I stand prepared to vote again the same way. I thank you for the correction, and you ought to thank me for mine. I ask the other members to be with me in this matter. As for you, Mr. President (Coun. Brickley), I voted to bring to a successful conclusion your magnificent municipal building in West Roxbury, and I am prepared to vote today for an order offered by Coun. Hagan for one for his ward, Ward 5,—I mean the order that you propose to introduce, not for your own ward. But you always get the votes there, Henry. The only part of the city neglected is Ward 8, and I am not worrying about that. That is Coun. Lane's ward. They have their own way of doing things up there; why, they even keep the traffic off some of the streets for fear that people living in the neighborhood will be waked up. I think that is true of Marlborough street, that there is no traffic allowed there at certain hours. So you ought to be satisfied, Councilor. I ask your co-operation in this matter, because you must remember that you represent Roxbury as well as I do. That is a part of your constituency. We have been liberal in the matter of orders for Coun. Lane's district; we have not been niggardly with Wards 1 and 2, in East Boston; we have not been niggardly with Charlestown. Districts that have not had representatives here have, nevertheless, been well taken care of. Next year we will have district councilors. The new system will not take anything away from me, because I do not lose two years, as some of the members here do. I sincerely trust that I will have the co-operation of my colleagues in bringing about what is needed in Roxbury.

Coun. MORIARTY—Mr. President, I thought we were a municipal Council until I heard my colleague on the other side. I have yet to see wherein I could thank him for his correction. I still feel that the gymnasium in South Boston is a municipal building; if it was not a municipal building we would have no right to appropriate money for its erection. I don't feel that he has corrected me. But, notwithstanding what the member from Roxbury has said, I stand ready to vote for his appropriation.

Coun. WATSON—Mr. President, I stand corrected. I was in error. I beg your pardon.

Coun. MORIARTY—Mr. President, I stand ready to vote for his order for an appropriation for a municipal building in Roxbury, and I am not going to vote later, after voting to appropriate the money, at any future time to take it away.

Coun. WATSON—Very kind of you. I appreciate it.

The order was passed under suspension of the rule.

MUNICIPAL BUILDING, WEST END.

Coun. HAGAN offered an order—That the Superintendent of Public Buildings be requested, through his Honor the Mayor, to furnish the City Council with a list of sites available for a municipal building in the West End, and the cost of same, said building to contain a hall, bathing facilities, etc.

Coun. HAGAN—Mr. President, I am going to ask a suspension of the rule for the passage of the order at this time. I hardly think that I need make any argument in behalf of the order, as the argument was made by the gentleman who preceded me.

The order was passed under suspension of the rule, Coun. WATSON called for the yeas and nays, yeas 9, nays 0.

PAYMENT TO MRS. McGILL.

Coun. FORD offered an order—That the City Council of Boston hereby accepts chapter 70 of the Acts of 1922, entitled "An Act Authorizing the City of Boston to pay a sum of money to the mother of Arthur B. McGill."

Referred to the Executive Committee.

BATH HOUSE, JEFFRIES POINT.

Coun. FORD offered an order—That his Honor the Mayor be requested to send to the City Council a loan order for $300,000 for taking of land and erection of bath house at Jeffries Point, East Boston.

Referred to the Committee on Finance.

JOSEPH C. CROWLEY SQUARE.

Coun. FORD offered an order—That the space at the junction of Rutherford avenue and Devens street, Charlestown, be named and known as Joseph C. Crowley square, in honor of the memory of said Joseph C. Crowley, who lost his life in the World War, and that suitable signs be placed thereon to designate the same.

Passed under a suspension of the rule.

BATHING BEACH, BRIGHTON.

Coun. WALSH offered an order—That his Honor the Mayor be requested to consult with the Metropolitan District Commissioners for the purpose of obtaining a location for and permission to maintain a bathing beach on the Charles River Reservation, Brighton, in the vicinity of the western end of Soldiers' Field road.

Passed under a suspension of the rule.

REINSTATEMENT OF DANIEL J. O'SULLIVAN.

Coun. WALSH offered the following:

Resolved, That the City Council of Boston favors legislation for the reinstatement of Daniel J. O'Sullivan as inspector in the Public Works Department.

Referred to the Executive Committee.

MUNICIPAL BUILDING, BRIGHTON.

Coun. WALSH offered an order—That there be appropriated the sum of $350,000 for the construction of a municipal building in Brighton under the direction of the Superintendent of Public Buildings, and that to meet said appropriation the City Treasurer be authorized to issue, from time to time, upon request of the Mayor, bonds or certificates of indebtedness of the city to said amount.

Referred to the Committee on Finance.

RE-EMPLOYMENT OF JAMES KELLY.

Coun. MORIARTY offered the following:

Resolved, That the City Council of Boston favors legislation for the re-employment of James Kelly in the Institutions Department of the city.

Referred to the Executive Committee.

RECESS TAKEN.

The Council voted at 3.24 p. m., on motion of Coun. WALSH, to take a recess subject to the call of the President.

The members of the Council reassembled in the chamber and were called to order by the President at 4.58 p. m.

FINANCE.

Coun. LANE, for the Committee on Finance, submitted the following, viz.:

1. Report on message of Mayor and order (referred February 27) for loan of $800,000 for sewerage works—that the order ought to pass.

The report was accepted and the order was given its first reading and passed, yeas 9, nays 0.

2. Report on message of Mayor and order (referred today) for loan of $160,000 for rebuilding Cambridge Street Bridge—that the order ought to pass.

The report was accepted and the order was given its first reading and passed, yeas 9, nays 0.

3. Report on message of Mayor and order (referred today) for loan of $175,000 for rebuilding Beacon Street Bridge—that the order ought to pass.

The report was accepted and the order was given its first reading and passed, yeas 9, nays 0.

4. Report on message of Mayor and order (referred today) for loan of $500,000 for Highways, Making of—that the order ought to pass.

The report was accepted and the order was given its first reading and passed, yeas 9, nays 0.

5. Report on message of Mayor and order (referred today) for loan of $800,000 for sewerage works—that the order ought to pass.

The order was given its first reading and passed, yeas 9, nays 0.

(All the above loan orders will take their final readings not less than fourteen days from date).

6. Report on order (referred October 10) for loan of $150,000 for extension and improvement of Christopher J. Lee Playground, South Boston—recommending its passage in the following new draft, viz.:

Ordered, That the sum of $100,000 be appropriated for the extension and improvement of the Christopher J. Lee Playground, South Boston, and that to meet said expenditure the City Treasurer be authorized to issue, from time to time, on the request of the Mayor, bonds or certificates of indebtedness of the city to said amount.

The report was accepted and the order was passed, yeas 9, nays 0.

The order will take its second reading not later than fourteen days from date.

EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE REPORTS.

Coun. FORD for the Executive Committee, submitted the following, viz.:

1. Reports on petitions (referred today) for permits to sell, rent or lease firearms—that permits be granted, viz.:

J. H. Shindler, 313 Tremont street, Ward 8.
S. Robinson, 287 Tremont street, Ward 8.

Reports accepted; permits granted on the usual conditions, yeas 8, nays 1, Coun. MORIARTY voting nay.

2. Report on petition of Mabel Lyman (referred today) for permit for children to appear at Jordan Hall, March 18—that permit be granted.

Report accepted; permit granted on the usual conditions.

3. Report on communication from Board of Street Commissioners (referred February 20) giving notice of hearing on license to store gasolene—that the same be placed on file.

Report accepted; communication placed on file.

4. Report on order (referred February 27) for County Commissioners Employment Office—that no further action is necessary.

Coun. WATSON—Mr. President, in order that we may have the record complete, I want it known that I introduced that order at the suggestion of an editorial, I presume written by Robert Lincoln O'Brien of the Boston Herald, in which he referred to the fact that there was a free state employment bereau, that the Mayor was to have one, that he felt that James A. Watson should have one. In the Executive Committee I suggested that our Clerk, Mr. Baldwin, write to Robert Lincoln O'Brien, the editor of the Herald, and ask him to come down to a Council meeting and give us his views concerning the matter. Subsequently a letter was received from Mr. O'Brien, which I want to have made a part of the record. In view of the fact that Mr. O'Brien did not come down and give us the benefit of his presumed intelligence or any valuable suggestions with reference to the matter of additional employment bureaus and ways of meeting the unemployment situation, while I acquiesce in the report of the committee, I do feel that Mr. O'Brien's letter should be made a part of the record.

The letter referred to by Coun. Watson is as follows:

Boston, March 8, 1922.

John E. Baldwin, Esq.,
Clerk of Committees, City Hall, Boston:

My dear Sir,—I am in receipt of your letter of March 8, inviting me to attend a meeting of the City Council on Monday next relative to an order introduced by Councilor Watson as to the advisability of establishing a county commissioners office for the employment of people out of work.

I regret that my appointments are such that it will be impossible for me to be present.

With kind regards,

Sincerely yours,
Robert L. O'Brien.

The report was accepted.

5. Report on order (referred today) favoring legislation for the reinstatement of Daniel J. O'Sullivan in the Public Works Department—that the order ought to pass.

Report accepted; order passed.

6. Report on order (referred today) favoring legislation for re-employment of James Kelly in the Institutions Department—that the order ought to pass.

Report accepted; order passed.

7. Report on message of Mayor and order (referred today) that an additional sum of $20,000 be expended in connection with hearings on street lighting contract—that the order ought to pass.

The report was accepted, and the question came on the passage of the order.

Coun. WATSON—Mr. President, this is another link in the chain that we are slowly but surely forging around the Edison Company, to compel them to reduce the price of electricity to the general consumers and also to the city. Up to date there has been for a year a diligent and hard fight on the part of this body to compel, through public sentiment, action which would result in a reduction of charges to the public for electricity by the Edison Company. The city has already, through its accredited representative in the Law Department, and through its activity before the Public Utilities Commission, compelled the Edison Company to reduce the price of electricity to 10 cents per kilowatt hour and to eliminate the coal charges. Prior to the agitation started by this body the Edison Company was charging consumers 11 cents per kilowatt hour, plus the charge for coal and a 5 per cent charge. The price has been reduced to 10 cents per kilowatt hour, eliminating the coal charges and the 5 per cent charge, as of a certain date. As a result of Mayor Peters during his term, together with the Boston American, through its attorney, Grenville S. MacFarland, prosecuting the Edison Company before the Public Utilities Commission for a reduction in price, I am satisfied from information that I have at first hand from those active in the matter that the Public Utilities Commission, on the evidence submitted by the Edison Company through its officials and employees, without any evidence on the part of the city, cannot help reporting back, telling the Edison Company to reduce the price of electricity to 8 cents per kilowatt hour. I believe after the city has finished its case, as it will be enabled to do through our assistance in the matter of providing funds, the consumer of electricity in Boston, the ordinary business man and the householder, will be paying not more than 7 cents per kilowatt hour, meaning a reduction of practically two-fifths as compared with the original price of 11 cents. Mayor Curley has shown a very magnanimous spirit in the matter. It has been rumored, evidently without being based on fact, that he did not intend to continue the prosecution of the Edison Company for lower rates before the Public Utilities Commission; that he intended to take the matter out of the hands of Arthur D. Hill, former corporation counsel, and Grenville S. MacFarland, of the Boston American, and their assistants and staff, and so far as the city officially was concerned, to discontinue the contest. He has magnanimously decided to go through, to use the vernacular of the street, with the case against the Edison Company and to give those appointed by Mayor Peters to prosecute the case free hand. He intends to uphold their hands all the way through, and he has shown a magnanimous spirit that the public should appreciate. When you stop to think of the reduction in the charge of 11 cents per kilowatt hour by the Edison Company down to around 7 cents it will mean a saving to every user of electricity in Boston of two-fifths of the price now paid. Furthermore, Mr. Arthur D. Hill, representing the City of Boston, is prosecuting before the courts an appeal to compel the Edison Company to restore to the citizens of Boston and the city every dollar received by them under the coal clause since a certain date. I am glad that this matter is now before us in this form. I knew that Mayor Curley would go through with the proposition. I knew that he intended to make his administration one that he might be proud of. I knew that he intended to compel every public service corporation—the Edison Company, the gas company, the railroads and others—to do the right thing by the people who give them an opportunity to exist and to pay to their directors and investors a large return on their money. I cannot help at this time paying a tribute to him for his position, and saying that he has not only done the proper thing, but has done the wise thing.

The order was passed, yeas 9, nays 0.

8. Report on message of Mayor and preamble and order (referred today) accepting the George R. White bequest—that the order ought to pass.

Report accepted; preambles and order passed.

ORDINANCES.

Coun. HAGAN, for the Committee on Ordinances, submitted a report on message of Mayor, and ordinance (referred today) altering the personnel of the Transit Department of the city—that the ordinance ought to pass.

Report accepted; ordinance passed. In connection with the report Coun. DONOGHUE offered the following:

Resolved, That the City Council hereby requests his Honor the Mayor to ask the Transit Commission to give citizens of Boston the preference in the matter of employment.

Adopted.

CONFIRMATION OF APPOINTMENTS.

President BRICKLEY called up unfinished business, Nos. 1 to 4, inclusive, viz.:

Action on appointments submitted by the Mayor March 6, 1922, viz.:

1. Robert E. Sexton, to be a Constable.
2. Ercole Franchini, to be a Constable.
3. Joseph F. Goode, to be a Constable.
4. Harry Nankin, to be a Weigher of Beef.

The question came on confirmation. Committee—Coun. Ford and Watson. Whole number of ballots cast 8, yeas 8, and the appointments were confirmed.

PLAYGROUND, WARD 13.

Coun. WATSON offered an order—That his Honor the Mayor be requested to establish a playground in the upper section of Ward 13 and that his Honor be requested to send in a loan order for the cost of the same.

Passed.

IMPROVEMENT OF GIBSON STREET PLAYGROUND.

Coun. GILBODY offered an order—That the sum of $100,000 be and hereby is appropriated for the extension and improvement of Gibson Street Playground, Dorchester, and that to meet said appropriation the City Treasurer be authorized to issue, from time to time, on the request of the Mayor, bonds or certificates of indebtedness of the city to said amount.

Referred to the Committee on Finance.

GENERAL RECONSIDERATION.

Coun. WATSON moved a general reconsideration on all business transacted at the meeting, hoping that the same would not prevail. Lost.

Adjourned at 5.13 p. m., on motion of Coun. MORIARTY, to meet on Monday, March 20, at two o'clock p. m.

MASSACHUSETTS CIVIL SERVICE EXAMINATIONS.

The Massachusetts Civil Service Commission announce examinations for desirable positions.

Ambulance Chauffeur and Repairman, at Boston City Hospital, April 12, 1922.

The salary is $27 per week. Ambulance chauffeurs at the hospital are required to work eight hours a day, six days a week, and are expected to do minor repairs on cars, the type of car used at present being the White, three to four-ton truck. They are also required to work on Sunday, except on their Sunday off.

The examination will consist of a sworn statement of training and experience, the possession of a chauffeur's license, and a physical examination.

The date given above is not the examination date, but the date on or before which application blanks must be filed. Experience sheets will then be mailed to applicants and those who receive a mark of at least 65 per cent in experience and possess the requisite license will subsequently be notified for the physical examination.

Reconstruction Aide in Physiotherapy, Boston City Hospital, April 12, 1922.

This examination is open to men and women. There are several vacancies at present at a salary of $14 per week, half-time service. The duties of the position will consist of administering physiotherapeutic treatment in its several branches, such as massage, electrotherapy, hydrotherapy, mechanotherapy, active, passive and assistive exercises, and muscle re-education. Special stress will be laid on electrotherapy. Applicants must have had training and experience in physiotherapeutic work.

The subjects of examination with their respective weights will be as follows: Training and experience, 6; practical questions to test applicants' knowledge and ability to perform duties of the position as outlined above, 4; total, 10.

Applicants will be required to obtain at least 65 per cent in each subject.

Successful applicants will also be given a physical examination.

Stenographic Service April 15 and April 29, 1922.

This examination is for the service of the state and of all cities, and of such towns in the state as are classified under civil service. On April 15 the examination will be held in Boston and all persons who reside within commuting distance will be notified for that day. Applicants residing in other places will be examined on April 29 at certain centrally located cities throughout the state.

Stenographers and Typists.

Grade I.—Annual compensation not more than $780 a year. This grade includes persons who obtain a mark of at least 60 per cent in accuracy of transcription with a general average in the entire examination of less than 80 per cent.

Grade II.—Annual compensation more than $780 and not more than $1,200 a year. This grade includes persons who obtain a mark of at least 60 per cent in accuracy of transcription with a general average in the entire examination of 80 per cent or better, but less than 85 per cent.

Stenographers, Secretaries, Office Correspondents, Office and Executive Assistants.

Grade III.—Annual compensation more than $1,200 a year. Applicants who receive a mark of at least 60 per cent in accuracy of transcription and a general average in the entire examination of 85 per cent or over will have their experience rated, and their general average computed on the following basis: Written examination, 7; experience, 3; total, 10. They will not be placed upon the Grade III. eligible list unless they receive a mark of at least 65 per cent in experience.

Applicants who pass the examination for Grade II. or Grade III. will be certified for positions in lower grades if they are willing to accept the salaries offered.

The same tests will be given for city service as for Commonwealth service, and persons qualifying in this examination may have their names placed on the state list as well as on the list for any city or town.

The subjects of examination with their respective weights are as follows: Stenography, 5; rough draft, 2; plain copying, 1; business correspondence, 2; total, 10. The dictation is given at the following rates of speed per minute: 80, 100, 120, and 140, the dictation at each rate of speed consisting of a letter of from 300 to 350 words in length. Each applicant elects any two of the four speed tests for transcription, and is obliged to obtain at least 60 per cent. in the transcription of one of these speed tests.

Specimen examinations may be secured from the civil service office, State House.

SETTLEMENT OF BOSTON.

Boston was settled in the latter part of August, 1630, by Puritan colonists under Governor John Winthrop. The name of the original settlement was changed to Boston from Trimountaine by order of the Court of Assistants on September 7 (O. S.), 1630. This date was moved forward by the New Style calendar in 1752 to September 17, the recognized date of the founding of Boston. The name, Trimountaine, had been given because of the three peaks of the most prominent hill, afterward called Beacon Hill, much higher than now. By the Indians the place was called Shawmut. The name, Boston, was derived from the English town of Boston in Lincolnshire, the home of some of the leading colonists and promoters of the enterprise.

PUBLIC STREETS OF BOSTON.

Total length of the 2,447 paved (accepted) streets, February 1, 1921, 604.80 miles; total area, 11,410,829 square yards, or 8.46 per cent of the City's total land area. This is exclusive of the private streets (not accepted), numbering about 2,870. 375.28 miles, or 62.05 per cent, are paved with macadam (including 121.21 miles bituminous macadam); 105.23 miles with granite block; 43.88 miles with asphalt; 30.38 miles with gravel; 27.68 miles with asphalt concrete (17.32 m. being bitulithic and 10.28 m. Topeka); 11.06 miles with wood block; 5:39 miles with brick. Old macadam pavement is gradually being replaced with more satisfactory and durable kinds, such as bitulithic, concrete, granite block, etc., over $4,000,000 having been expended during the past three years in resurfacing about 300 streets and parts of streets or total area of 1,350,000 square yards. Granolithic sidewalks laid in 1920, 76,201 square yards or 16 miles, averaging about 8 feet wide, 50 per cent of cost assessed on estates benefited.

New highway construction completed in period 1917-1920 includes 6 streets in Boston Proper; 32 in Dorchester; 31 in West Roxbury; 13 in Roxbury; 19 in Brighton; 6 in East Boston; 2 in Hyde Park; 4 in South Boston, and 1 in Charlestown, roadway pavement bitulithic or asphalt surface on concrete, and bituminous macadam. Gross debt outstanding February 1, 1921, for all street construction, including damages, $21,341,441 or $267,080, less than in 1920.

NET DEBT PER CAPITA IN LEADING CITIES (BY RANK).

New York, $183.87; Cincinnati, $169.13; New Orleans, $117.56; Boston, $113.72 (i. e. with population wrongly estimated at 738,901. Should be $106.39 with population estimated at 789,817 on Feb. 1, 1919); Baltimore, $100.54; Cleveland, $95.75; Pittsburgh, $91.44; Los Angeles, $87.61; San Francisco, $86.24; Philadelphia, $79.60. Figures are approximate, as population had to be estimated. (See U. S. Census Bureau's Financial Statistics of Cities, 1919, page 297.)

The per capita figures are high for New York, Boston and Cincinnati, as compared with other cities, because of their extensive investments in public service enterprises. Boston's debt for subways and tunnels being 38 per cent of the whole debt and the interest and sinking-fund dues payable from the revenue earned, it should be classed as investment-debt and kept separate from the debt for non-productive outlays met by taxation. Hence the per capita net general debt of Boston in 1919 was $67.32, not $106.39, assuming that the population was 789,817 on Feb. 1.

Proposals for Furnishing Milk.

The Supply Department of the City of Boston will receive sealed proposals for a supply of milk for the Hospital Department, to be delivered during the period from April 2, 1922, to October 1, 1922, inclusive. The supplies include delivery at the hospital proper, 818 Harrison avenue; the South Department, 745 Massachusetts avenue; Haymarket Square Relief Station, Haymarket square; East Boston Relief Station, 14 Porter street, East Boston; the Convalescent Home, 2150 Dorchester avenue, Dorchester, and the West Department, Spring street, West Roxbury, Mass. The bidder must leave his proposal at Room 801, City Hall Annex, with a certified check for $300, payable to and to become the property of the City of Boston if the proposal is not carried out. The quantity of milk desired for all departments will vary from 900 to 1,200 quarts per day, more or less, according to requirements of the season and the number of patients. Each receptacle must be clean and particularly free from dents, must bear the name of the dairy from which the milk comes, have the name of the contractor and "Boston City Hospital" plainly and indelibly marked thereon, and be sealed when it leaves the dairy. The milk is to be transported in coolers with a capacity of about twenty quarts. The coolers are to be used exclusively for the City Hospital. The contractors will be required to furnish the Trustees a list of the dairies from which the milk supply for the hospital will be taken, to comprise not more than six dairies at any one time. In each case the product and the premises will be subject to the approval of the inspector appointed by the Trustees. The employees must be also subject to an examination by this inspector. The contract calls for pure dairy milk, neither skimmed, topped nor watered, and which, when subject to analysis, shall be shown to have none of its natural constituents removed and nothing added thereto. Said milk to be of the quality required by the laws of the Commonwealth. The bacterial count of the raw milk shall not exceed 100,000 per cubic centimeter. The milk should be pasteurized at 145 degrees Fahrenheit for thirty minutes in City Hospital receptacles, with seals intact, and the bacterial count on delivery shall not exxceed 10,000 per cubic centimeter. If the dairies are situated outside the Commonwealth, the right is reserved to have them inspected by an officer of the State Board of Health, as well as by an inspector appointed by the Trustees. The successful bidder must furnish a bond for $1,000 with a surety company authorized to do business in Massachusetts for the faithful performance of the contract. Milk must be delivered at the hospital before 4 p. m. on each day and must not be more than twenty-four hours old. Price quoted to be per quart. The contractor is to be responsible for the cleanliness of the coolers. Proposals to be obtained at the office of the Supply Department, Room 801, City Hall Annex, until 12 m., Monday, March 27, 1922, at which time and place they will be publicly opened and read. A duplicate copy, without check, must be filed with the City Auditor before 12 m. on the date given above for receiving proposals. The Superintendent reserves the right to accept or reject any or all proposals, and to award the contract as he deems for the best interests of the City.

BOSTON NOTES.

METROPOLITAN DISTRICT OR "GREATER BOSTON."

Consists in the most inclusive sense of 40 municipalities, including Boston, or 14 cities and 26 towns, all within 15 miles of the State House. The 7 cities in the first zone, i. e., adjacent to Boston, are these, viz., Cambridge, Chelsea, Everett, Newton, Quincy, Revere and Somerville; the 6 cities in the second zone, not adjacent, are Lynn, Malden, Medford, Melrose, Waltham and Woburn. The 6 adjacent towns are Brookline, Dedham, Milton, Needham, Watertown and Winthrop; the 20 other towns are Arlington, Belmont, Braintree, Canton, Cohasset, Dover, Hingham, Hull, Lexington, Nahant, Reading, Saugus, Stoneham, Swampscott, Wakefield, Wellesley, Weston, Westwood, Weymouth and Winchester. North and northwest of Boston are situated 11 of the cities and 12 of the towns; south and southwest, 2 cities and 14 towns. Area of Northern Division, 150.8 sq. miles and population in 1920, 699,685, or a density of 4,619 per sq. m.; Southern Division, 214.8 sq. miles and 211,191 population, or density of only 983 per sq. m.; in the whole Metropolitan District, 4,051 per sq. m. In percentages Boston shows 10.5 p. c. of District's area and 45.09 p. c. of population; Northern Division, 36.2 of area and 42.18 of population; Southern Division, 53.3 of area and 12.73 of population. In the period 1915–1920, increase of population 34,798 larger in Northern than in Southern Division.

Total land area of District, 409.5 square miles; population by census of 1920, 1,658,936 or 4.08 per cent increase over that of 1915. Of the total population of the State, "Greater Boston" has 43.06 per cent; of total valuation, 51.23 per cent; of total value of manufactures, 32.21 per cent.

Total valuation of taxable property in District on April 1, 1920, $2,737,589,002, i. e., for realty and tangible personalty, including bank stock, intangible personalty being exempt from taxation (except income therefrom) in 1917 and thereafter. The said total exceeds the 1919 valuation by $130,698,130, a gain of 5.01 per cent. Of said total 57.57 per cent was in Boston and 42.43 per cent outside. The four organized Metropolitan Districts existing for the purpose of constructing and maintaining certain extensive systems of public works under State control are as follows: Metropolitan Park District, established by chapter 407, Acts of 1893, including all the cities and towns except Lexington, and managed by a State Board of five commissioners; Metropolitan Water District, established by chapter 488, Acts of 1895, including 10 cities and 9 towns, and covering an area of 175 square miles; Metropolitan Sewerage District, established by chapter 439, Acts of 1889, consisting of the North System and South System, including 17 cities and towns in the former system and 8 in the latter, and covering an area of 225 square miles; the last two districts managed by a single State board of three commissioners; Charles River Basin District, established by chapter 465, Acts of 1903, including all the cities and towns except Cohasset and Lexington, and in charge of the Metropolitan Park Commission. By Chap. 350, General Acts of 1919, the two Metropolitan boards were abolished and a single Metropolitan Commission of five members was established.

Another Metropolitan District, viz., the Fire Prevention District, was organized in 1914 by the enactment of chapter 795. In this district are the 14 cities of "Greater Boston," but only 10 of the towns, to which were added Reading and Rockland, a total of 26 municipalities. The District is in charge of a single commissioner, assisted by a deputy commissioner, both appointed for a term of three years. This office was also abolished by said Chap. 350, the work of same being transferred to Dept. of Public Safety.

Total gross Metropolitan debt for water, parks, sewers and Charles River Basin improvements on July 1, 1920, $77,292,543; sinking funds, $27,263,179; net debt, $50,029,364 or $1,796,817 less than in 1919. The division of this net debt was Water supply, $26,399,132; sewers, $12,301,741; parks, boulevards, etc., $8,044,420; Charles River Basin, $3,284,071. Of the latter, $1,106,345 is payable by Boston alone, i. e., $640,884 for Boston Embankment, and $465,461 for Charles River Bridge. Of 1920 tax rates, the highest of all the cities was Quincy's ($32.20) and the highest among the towns, Saugus's ($35.95); the lowest among the cities was Boston's ($24.10) and among the towns, Dover's ($9.00). Mean tax rate of the 13 cities in the District outside of Boston, $29.10 or $3.29 more than in 1919. Mean tax rate of the 26 towns, $24.61 or $3.87 more than in 1919. There were in the District in 1918, 4,319 manufacturing establishments, value of product, $1,240,496,193; capital invested, $672,377,072; value of stock and materials used, $737,506,555; total wages paid, $210,781,794; average number of wage earners, 212,629 (maximum number 251,867); increase over 1917 product, 30.87 per cent. Rank, 1 to 12, in value of product: Boston, $522,646,032; Lynn, $130,386,667; Cambridge, $130,022,595; Somerville, $107,572,650; Quincy, $85,248,312; Watertown, $53,131,801; Everett, $34,366,419; Chelsea, $31,492,524; Malden, $20,583,671; Woburn, $18,786,306; Waltham, $17,608,720; Newton, $14,817,126. Boston's total product value was 42.13 per cent of the Metropolitan District's.

PORT OF BOSTON.

Best of natural harbors, sheltered, spacious for anchorage, main ship channel 35 feet in depth at low tide, near open sea, area about 6,300 acres; waterfront (i. e., lineal pier space) 40 miles, 6 miles fronting on 30 feet depth at low water. A 45-foot channel from entrance of harbor to President Roads, and 40-foot from there to wharves will be dredged in the near future. New Commonwealth Pier No. 5, South Boston, 1,200 feet long, 400 feet wide, accommodating five 600-foot ships at one time, 40 feet depth at mean low water on both sides, with three 2-story fireproof buildings of steel and concrete construction, containing 900,000 square feet of floor space; total cost of this enterprise to State, $4,500,000. Commonwealth Pier No. 6, South Boston (Fish Pier), buildings on same erected by lessee, Boston Fish Market Corporation, cost to State, $1,487,361. New Commonwealth Pier No. 1, East Boston, 900 feet long, costing State $764,600 for site and about $345,000 for construction. New dry dock at South Boston (probably the largest in world), completed in 1919, 1,200 feet long and 120 wide, costing over $3,000,000 and taken by U. S. Government at total cost of same to State. Islands in Boston Harbor over 3 acres in area, 17, with total area of 965 acres; Long Island the largest, or 215.5 acres. Owned by United States, 392 acres; by City of Boston, 334 acres. Number of wharves, 146, of which 8 are owned by the City. There are 24 foreign steamship lines. In 1915 a revision of the harbor lines was made and the project undertaken whereby 600 acres of flats between Governor's Island and Jeffries Point, East Boston, will be filled in and used for extensive commercial development under State control.

In April, 1918, the Government decided to establish its Army Supply Base on a portion of the Commonwealth lands in South Boston. About 57.6 acres were purchased of the State, the price being $1,317,510, quickly followed by the construction of two pier sheds, each 920 feet long, a wharf shed and other buildings, including one of the largest storehouses in the world, built of reinforced concrete, eight stories high, 1,638 feet long, 126 feet wide and with floor space of over 1,650,000 square feet. The total outlay for the plant was about $26,000,000.

Total Federal expenditure for improvement of Boston Harbor from 1790 to June 30, 1918, $12,525,981; total expended and provided for by State, $18,364,947 since 1859.

HOW THE CITY DOLLAR WAS SPENT DURING THE LAST FINANCIAL YEAR.

For Public Schools, $0.23 cents (if the total amount appropriated had been expended, the correct figure would be 0.262); Public Works, 0.176; State Tax and Assessments, 0.133; Debt Requirements, 0.12; Police Dept., 0.08; Fire Dept., 0.07; Institutions and Poor Relief, 0.039; Hospitals and Health, 0.038; General Government, 0.037; County Courts, etc., 0.037; Public Recreation, 0.027; Public Library, 0.013, making a total of 100 cents. This excludes all expenditures from loans, etc., but includes Special Appropriations from Tax Levy and other General Income.

The revenue of the departments amounted to 16 per cent of their gross expenditures. The revenue of Public Service Enterprises alone (including Water Service, Markets, etc.) amounted to $3,997,166 or $234,117 more than their total expenditures. The fractions of the dollar above stated represent net expenditure, computed after deducting department revenue.

Revenue from another class of public $19,979.55 more than the interest and sinking-fund requirements of the Rapid service enterprise, i. e., Rapid Transit subways and tunnels, $1,446,516.75 or Transit debt in 1920.

INCORPORATION OF BOSTON.

Boston was incorporated as a city February 23, 1822, this being the date when the Act of incorporation was passed by the Legislature. On March 4 following, the voters of Boston accepted said Act, viz. Chap. 110, 1821-22, as its first City Charter by a majority of 916 in a total vote of 4,678. Ten futile attempts had previously been made to incorporate as a city, viz., in 1650, 1659, 1667, 1708, 1744, 1762, 1784, 1791, 1804 and 1815. Revised charter adopted in 1854. Charter again revised in 1885 and amended in 1909.

MUNICIPAL SERVICE.

Complaints, inquiries or suggestions regarding the work of municipal departments should be made in writing to the officials directly in charge. The failure of such officials to make reply within a reasonable length of time should be brought to the attention of the Mayor. Communications should be directed as follows:

To THE BOARD OF STREET COMMISSIONERS, Room 401, City Hall Annex, for information relative to the laying out, relocation, widening and the discontinuance of highways; the taking of real property for municipal purposes; the assessments of betterments for streets and sewers; the plotting of undeveloped areas for streets and the opening of private ways; the granting of licenses for the storage or sale of merchandise in public streets; the regulation of street traffic; the making of specific repairs in public streets, the naming of public streets, the planting and removal of trees in public ways, the issuing of licenses for the storage of gasolene, oil and other inflammable substances or explosive compounds, the use of the public ways for any permanent or temporary obstruction or projection in, under or over the same, including the location of conduits, poles and posts for telephone, telegraph, street railway or illuminating purposes, signs, marquises, bay windows, coal holes and vaults.

To THE COMMISSIONER OF PUBLIC WORKS, Room 511, City Hall Annex, for information as to the watering, cleaning, lighting and repairing of streets, the construction and care of sewers and catch-basins, the operation of the ferries, the maintenance of bridges and drawbridges and the removal of ashes and offal.

To Room 604, City Hall Annex, for information relative to the supplying or metering of water and the water charges of the city.

To THE HEALTH DEPARTMENT, Room 1107, City Hall Annex, for information relative to the inspection of milk, vinegar, meat, fish and vegetables, the issuance of permits for stables, slaughter houses, etc., smoke nuisances, the existence of contagious diseases or public health nuisances.

To THE BOARD OF PARK COMMISSIONERS, 33 Beacon street, for information as to the care of the Common, Public Garden, Franklin Park, Franklin Field, Commonwealth avenue, Back Bay Fens, Marine Park and the small parks and playgrounds in general throughout the city, and as to the extermination of gypsy moths and the charges made for such service. Application may be made to this department for information regarding the public baths and gymnasiums maintained by the city, and with regard to municipal indoor concerts and band concerts; also information relative to Mount Hope, Evergreen, Fairview and other public cemeteries owned by the City of Boston.

To THE SCHOOL COMMITTEE, 26 Mason street, for information relative to the operation of the schools of the city.

To THE SCHOOLHOUSE COMMISSIONERS, Room 1007, City Hall Annex, for information as to the construction and repair of school buildings.

To THE BOARD OF EXAMINERS, Room 1001, City Hall Annex, for information regarding the licensing of persons having charge or control of the work of construction, alteration, removal or tearing down of buildings.

To THE WIRE DIVISION OF THE FIRE DEPARTMENT, Room 905, City Hall Annex, for all information relative to the erection of poles, the building of conduits, the installation of wires and electrical apparatus. Also to the same office for permits for the installing of wires and electrical apparatus within buildings in the City of Boston, and for the payment of fees incident to the granting of the privileges above named, and which must invariably be paid in advance.

THE MESSAGE OF EVACUATION DAY.

ADDRESS OF HONORABLE A. OWSLEY STANLEY, UNITED STATES SENATOR OF KENTUCKY.

UNDER THE AUSPICES OF THE CITY OF BOSTON AND THE SOUTH BOSTON CITIZENS' ASSOCIATION, MUNICIPAL BUILDING, SOUTH BOSTON, MARCH 16, 1922.

With hearts filled tonight with a strange mingling of exaltation and humility, of pride and regret, we invoke the spirit of '76. We are standing upon sacred soil, for about us, assembled freedom's first defenders, here they fought and fell. Now our humble tribute of love and adoration can add naught to their glory. "Beyond the ever and the never," they are immortal.

May future ages behold our children and our children's children at this spot and upon the anniversary of this auspicious day, still the proud, free, grateful heirs of the inestimable heritage purchased by their valor and their blood. When we and they and the lofty monuments about us all are dust, their deeds and daring shall abide, brilliant, deathless and enduring as the stars.

At this solemn hour, by doubts and dangers encompassed about, we meet to more than commemorate an ever-memorable day. It is a time for consecration. We need now, O God of nations and of battles, as never before, the stout and self-reliant spirit of the dauntless saviors of their beleaguered city.

May the mighty spirit of "those dead but sceptered sovereigns who still rule our spirits from their urns" still guide our councils and inspire our courage.

Let us vividly recall that they were men of flesh and blood, yea, of our flesh and of our blood. Let us climb with them the little mountain's sloping sides and, by the moonbeam's flickering light and in the silence of the night, erect again the rude redoubt. And with them at dawn behold below the little city with its scarce fifteen thousand souls, still asleep in their quaint wooden houses, see the dismayed and discomfited British admiral and his terror-stricken hosts. There they stand, the ragged Continentals, accoutred in motley and humble garb, armed with flint locks without bayonets, without ordnance or mills or means to secure it, dependent upon an insolent foe for the very means of its destruction (for such cannon as they possessed were secured by privateers or dragged overland from the captured fort of Ticonderoga), and scarce nine thousand men with a hundred barrels of powder. One of Howe's supply ships, subsequently taken in Boston Harbor, furnished more of such munitions than Washington had in his entire army. Yet, there they stood, undismayed and fearful only that a timorous English admiral would cheat them of the chance "to drink delight of battle."

The England of '76.

Whom did they face? Not Howe and a few thousand Redcoats crowded like sheep into the hulls of his departing transports; it was to the British King and to the British Empire they breathed serene defiance, to the England of 1776, spreading its imperial sway from the Occident to the Orient, which had subdued India, conquered Canada and belted the world with its dominions. Within a century they and their fathers had seen this puissant and all-conquering power humble the pride of the prondest of monarchs, routing "horse, foot and dragon" the embattled hosts of five field marshals of France.

Reviewing a thousand years of dominion, England reached the highest peak of achievement in letters, in eloquence, in art and arms in that era comprising Marlborough, Hastings and Clive, Grattan and Fox, Chatham and Burke. This England they faced undaunted by the wealth and the resources of an empire unconquered upon the land and the acknowledged mistress of the seas.

When we compare the wealth and the might and the martial achievement of their grim adversary with the slender resources and the hopeless poverty of this handful of heroes, our admiration is lost in the utter amazement, not so much what they did, as at their unalterable faith that they could and that they would accomplish it.

It is well to drink deep tonight in the fountain of their inspiration and to search to find, to know, and, if humanly possible, to reincarnate, their intrepid spirit, more precious far than all the luxury and all the wealth and all the splendor of the boasted civilization of this hour.

They were in their very genesis the elect of the free. They were unlike any other colonies ever established in the history of mankind. They were not expatriated by crime, exiled by avarice or lured by the lust of plunder or of conquest.

"The settlers who established themselves on the shores of New England all belonged to the more independent classes of their native country. Their union on the soil of America at once presented the singular phenomenon of a society containing neither lords nor common people, neither rich or poor. These men possessed in proportion to their number a greater mass of intelligence than is to be found in any European nation of our own time. All, without a single exception, had received a good education, and many of them were known in Europe for their acquirements. . . . They had not been obliged by necessity to leave their country; the social position they abandoned was one to be regretted, and their means of subsistence were certain. Nor did they cross the Atlantic to improve their situation or to increase their wealth; the call which summoned them from the comforts of their homes was purely intellectual and in facing the inevitable sufferings of exile their object was the triumph of an idea."

The Triumph of an Idea.

This "idea" of which De Tocqueville so eloquently speaks was a definite, an intelligent conception of their personal rights. To property rights they were comparatively indifferent, abandoning ease, comfort and distinction when purchased at the price of servitude. To escape every form of oppression, for the assured enjoyment of freedom of conscience, of speech and of action, they welcomed without hesitancy or regret, exile, penury, pestilence and death.

Alternate Despotisms of England.

Thrust by alternating despotisms from the pitiless breast of the mother country, the Puritan and the Cavalier peopled the western world from Massachusetts to the Carolinas with the finest spirits who ever sought or secured their independence by and at the cost of every form of suffering and of sacrifice.

Patient of labor, indifferent to danger, alert, intelligent and enterprising, in a century and a half they became the undisputed masters of a continent and transformed a wilderness, lately peopled only by savage beasts and still more savage men, into Liberty's very Eden, a rich garden of the Lord in which wealth and peace, culture and content cast their mingled delights about the most sanguine and the most prosperous of all children of men.

Colonial Industry.

When I think of this superb and self-reliant race driven beyond the seas by persecution and oppression, neglected or forgotten, when I think of what they accomplished without federal aid and in the teeth of royal oppression, I am tempted to view with pity or disgust this present plea for offical pap and governmental assistance, from every class and clan and on every conceivable occasion. Billions squandered for ships, and now not a vessel can leave its dock without the sustaining power of a federal subsidy.

Great railroad systems, dependent upon the national treasury as their only salvation from anticipated bankruptcy.

From field and factory comes the cry for "governmental regulation, governmental control and above all governmental bounty."

We need again the spirit of men who built enterprises upon the rocks of New England and who felled the primeval forests of Virginia and conquered the plains and swamps of the Carolinas without the aid of a federal dollar or the direction of a federal inspector.

"When I contemplate these things" said Burke, "when I know that the colonies owe little or nothing to any care of ours, and that they are not squeezed into this happy form by the constraints by watchful and suspicious government, but, through a wise and salutary neglect, a generous nature has been suffered to take her own way to perfection—and pray, sir, what in the world is equal to it? Pass by the other parts and look at the manner in which the people of New England have of late carried on the whale fishery. Whilst we follow them among the stumbling mountains of ice, and behold them penetrating into the deepest frozen recesses of Hudson's bay and Davis's strait, whilst we are looking for them beneath the artic circle, we hear that they have pierced into the opposite region of polar cold, that they are at the antipodes, and engaged with the frozen serpent of the South. Falkland Island, which seemed too remote and romantic an object for the grasp of national ambition, is but a stage and resting place in the progress of their victorious industry. Nor is the equinoctinal heat more discouraging to them than the accumulated winter of both the poles. We know that, whilst some of them draw the line and strike the harpoon on the coast of Africa, others run the longitude and pursue their gigantic game along the coast of Brazil. No sea but what is vexed by their fisheries. No climate that is not witness to their toils. Neither the perseverance of Holland, nor the activity of France, nor the dexterous and firm sagacity of English enterprise, ever carried this most perilous mode of hand industry to the extent it has been pushed by this recent people; and people who are still, as it were, but in the gristle, and not yet hardened into the bone of manhood."

American enterprise, its mighty limbs bound by the departmental red tape of a well-meaning but misguided paternalism, subtle, suffocating, and resistless as the coils of a boa constrictor, knows too well the baneful effects of being squeezed by the constraints "of a watchful and suspicious government." They well may envy the indifference or that "wise and salutary neglect" which suffered the generous nature of our forefathers to reach that high degree of prosperity and happiness upon the land and upon the sea.

Industrial progress and personal independence alike demand at this hour that for which the Continentals upon Dorchester Heights stood just one hundred and forty-six years ago—the right to be the masters of their own destiny, to attend to their own business, to look to their own industry and their own enterprise for their material prosperity, and to be responsible to God and to God alone for their religious opinions and their personal conduct in so far as that conduct effected themselves alone and inflicted no tangible injury upon society.

The Colonists thoroughly understood that in agriculture, fisheries and shipping rested the sole source of their maintenance in the future as they had formed the basis of their prosperity in the past. The indigo and rice of the Carolinas, the tobacco and grain of Virginia, the maritime enterprises of New England were all at the mercy of British markets and of British might. Whatever the issue of battle, war for them meant certain want and destrucution.

Bancroft has graphically portrayed the ruin which followed in the wake of the invader:

"On the first day of June, as the plot clock in the Boston belfries finished striking twelve, the blockage of the harbor began. The inhabitants of the town were chiefly traders, shipwrights and sailors; and, since no anchor could be weighed, no sail unfurled, so much as launched from the stocks, their cheerful industry was at an end. No more are they to lay the keel of the fleet merchantman, or shape the rib symmetrically for its frame, or strengthen the graceful hull by knees of oak, or rig the well proportioned masts, or bend the sails to the yards. The king of that country has changed the busy workshops into scenes of compulsory idleness; and the most skillful naval artisans in the world, with the keenest eye for forms of beauty and speed, are forced by act of parliament to fold their hands. Want scowled on the laborer, as he sat with his wife and children at his board. The sailor roamed the streets listlessly without hope of employment. "My little property," rejoined Franklin, "consists of houses in those towns; make bonfires of them whenever you please; the fear of losing them will never alter my resolution to resist to the last the claim of Parliament."

"Be not dismayed or disheartened," says William Prescott "in this day of great trials. We consider we are all embarked on one bottom, and must sink or swim together. Our forefathers passed the vast Atlantic, spent their blood and treasure that they might enjoy their liberties, both civil and religious and transmit them to posterity. Their children have waded through seas of difficulty to leave us free and happy in the enjoyment of English privileges. Now if we should give them up can our children raise up and call us blessed? Is a glorious death in defence of our liberties better than a short infamous life, and our memories to be had in a detestation to the latest posterity?"

To what did these men dedicate their lives, their fortunes and their sacred honor? Did they resist to secure severance from or independence under the British crown?

At the closing of Boston Harbor and the investment of the city by Gage's army, no patriot dreamed of independence or desired it.

At this time Franklin declared to Chatham, "I never heard from any person the least expression of a wish for a separation."

In October, 1774, Washington wrote: "No such thing as independence is desired by any thinking man in America."

"Before the nineteenth of April, 1775," relates Jefferson, "I never heard a whisper of a disposition to separate from Great Britain."

John Adams declared: "That if there are any who pant after independence, it is the greatest slander on the province."

They believed the English Constitution the most perfect in the history of human liberty and happiness. They understood the rights of Englishmen and as Englishmen they demanded those rights. They were the rights guaranteed by Magna Charta, by the Petition of Rights, and the Bill of Rights, tangible things of which they know the very weight, length and breadth and thickness. Freedom of conscience, of speech and of press, immunity of their persons and property from unreasonable search and seizure, the right to trial by jury, the eternal protection of the writ of "habeas corpus," immunity from taxation without representation and from unreasonable fines or forfeitures or unusual punishments inflicted by any power on earth, these were the concrete things for which they stood, for which they were ready to sacrifice their lives and their all. In the midst of the primeval wilderness they erected their civil institutions based upon this simple and sublime foundation and here they mastered the art of government, of local self-government as it had never been known or practised at any time or by any people in all the history of the world.

"We will," swore the minute-men, "to the utmost of our power and abilities, defend all and every of our charter rights, liberties and privileges; and will hold ourselves in readiness at a minute's warning, with arms and ammunition thus to do."

This capacity of the smallest community to exercise the highest functions of government, their absolute and perfect independence of national intervention or assistance, was graphically demonstrated in the seige of Boston.

On the 6th of August, 1774, under authority of Parliament, Governor Gage was invested with authority, "without consulting his council, to appoint and to remove all judges of the inferior courts, justices of the peace, and all officers belonging to the council and the courts of justice. . . . That nothing might be wanting to executive power, the right of selecting juries was taken from the inhabitants, and freeholders of the towns and conferred on the sheriffs of the several counties within the province."

From August, 1774, until the 16th of March, 1776, nineteen months and sixteen days, the Colonists, making no claim to independence, could institute no courts of their own and they refused to recognize or obey or even tolerate the courts of the crown, or to permit its exercise of any authority whatsoever, legislative, executive or judicial. Judges were forbidden to sit and jurors refused to qualify. The only governmental agencies left were the municipal councils of New England.

"The town" said Frence, proceeded with its open discussion of all public questions. The town was an entity. And all New England was filled with towns whose feelings on all essential points were one and the same.

"These wards," said Jefferson, "called townships in New England, are the vital principle of their governments, and have proved themselves the wisest invention ever devised by the wit of man for the perfect exercise of self-government and or its preservation."

The Continental Congress, prior to the Declaration of Independence, without the power to levy taxes, or to raise or equip armies or navies, was a debating society, exercising only the moral force of government; and yet, sustained and supported by these municipal governments, armies were raised, battles fought and on the anniversary of this memorable day, an English admiral and his army driven into disastrous and ignominious retreat and the beleaguered City of Boston restored to its ancient rights and independence.

In contemplating the war between the states, that unnecessary and fratricidal struggle, Faith sits with her finger upon her lips, above the new-made graves of half a million devoted and heroic souls. Why the issue could not have been determined by the wisdom of sages and patriots rather than by the valor and the blood of our devoted sons, God alone can tell.

We have no such regret in contemplating the Revolution. Without the folly and the wanton oppression of a stupid British bigot and his blind and subservient ministers, no Washington would have drawn the sword; no Franklin, Jefferson or Hamilton dreamed of independence of the new nation and of new institutions forever and eternally divorced from kings and kingdoms. Lexington and Bunker Hill and the rude redoubt on Dorchester Heights rendered reconciliation impossible. They were left to no choice between independence and submission. Fate at last opened wide the vista to freedom and a future of which patriots and sages had not dreamed.

It was worth the eight long years of privation and suffering and heroism. It was worth the great price of the wounded and the dead from Bunker Hill to Yorktown, as the richest reward ever paid by God or destiny to victorious valor.

The framers of the Constitution were concerned not so much with the form of government as with the substance of liberty. They sought first in the Constitution, and more important still and above all else, in the Bill of Rights, to preserve against every form of governmental interference those rights for which their sturdy ancestors had stood since the days of Magna Charta.

They incorporated into a written Constitution every privilege, every right, every immunity, wrung in a thousand years from the stubborn grasp of a British monarch and preserved in a royal charter, and they did more. They forever divorced this foeman, vested with all the rights of his English ancestors, from the dominion of kings and princes with their Stars and Garters and titles of nobility; they made all officials from the highest to the lowest the responsible servants of the people in whom they vested powers not conferred upon the states or delegated by them to the Federal government.

For more than a hundred years every political party and every party leader adhered to the basic principles of the author of the Declaration of Independence and the framers of the Constitution of the United States; no man doubted or doubting dared not deny that all men "are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain inalienable rights, that among them are life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness. That to secure these rights, governments were instituted among men deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed." And for greater certainty, they incorporated into the Bill of Rights the most vital part of the Constitution itself, a specific and detailed enumeration of those inalienable rights with which all men are endowed by their Creator and for the maintenance of which governments were instituted among men. Freedom of conscience, of speech and of the press; the right to keep and bear arms and to be secure in "their persons, houses, papers and effects" against unreasonable searches and seizures; no man shall twice be put in jeopardy, or compelled to bear witness against himself or be deprived of the right of trial by jury. Excessive bail shall never be required or excessive fines or forfeitures imposed nor unusual punishment inflicted, and above all, "the enumeration in the Constitution of certain rights shall not be construed to deny or disparage others retained by the people, and the powers not delegated to the United States by the Constitution nor prohibited by it to the states, are reserved to the states respectively or to the people."

The supreme law officer of the government, the Attorney General of the United States, in a recent address, or more accurately a stump speech, in the city of Cincinnati, intimates that we have outgrown these wise and well-considered limitations upon governmental authority. An ambassador from a sovereign state, upon the floor of the Senate, has announced in effect that there is no limitation upon the unrestrained will of the majority and that there is no such thing as personal liberty in a republic.

It is enough to make the Continentals turn in their graves and to cause the shadows of Franklin and Jefferson to rise in protest against these iniquitous utterances.

We are admonished that this government has outgrown all constitutional limitations and should in the future direct all the activities of the citizen; that we are henceforth to be under the tutelage of a sort of federal parent and preceptor from birth till death. I commend to the serious consideration of these new champions of an old and discarded despotism, the wise and well considered warning of the greatest of all critics of American institutions, one who surveyed them free from suspicion of partisan prejudice or political bias. His vivid picture of the national degeneracy, the inevitable result of paternalism, may well command the serious consideration of freemen and patriots at this fateful hour.

"I had remarked," declares de Tocqueville, "during my stay in the United States, that a democratic state of society, similar to that of the Americans, might offer singular facilities for the establishment of a despotism. . . . I trace the novel features under which despotism may appear in the world. . . . Above this race of men stands an immense and tutelary power, which takes upon itself alone to secure their gratifications, and to watch over their fate. That power is absolute, minute, regular provident, and mild. It would be like the authority of a parent, if, like that authority, its object was to prepare men for manhood; but it seeks on the contrary to keep them in perpetual childhood. . . . for their happiness such a government willingly labors, but it chooses to be the sole agent and the only arbiter of that happiness; it provides for their security, foresees and supplies their necessities, facilitates their pleasures, manages their principal concerns, directs their industry, regulates the descent of property, and subdivides their inheritances, what remains, but to spare them all the care of thinking and all the trouble of living. . . . I have always thought that servitude of the regular, quiet and gentle kind which I have just described might be combined more easily than is commonly believed with some of the outward forms of freedom; and that it might even establish itself under the wing of the sovereignty of the people. . . . They devise a sole, tutelary, and all-powerful form of government, but elected by the people. They combine the principle of centralization and that of popular sovereignty; this gives them a respite; they console themselves for being in tutelage by the reflection that they have chosen their own guardians. Every man allows himself to be put in leading strings, because he sees that it is not a person or a class of persons, but the people at large that holds the end of his chain."

From this insidious and deadly sophistry let us return to the simple faith and sublime courage of the saviors of Boston who peopled Dorchester Heights on this memorable night. Let us dedicate ourselves anew to the eternal principle that "all men are created equal and are endowed by their Creator with certain inalienable rights," that they owe their independence and their liberties not to governments but to God, that it is the province of government, whether by a majority or a monarch, to safeguard those rights and not to usurp them, that no free government by the ukase of a czar or the clamor of a majority, can ever invade the inalienable rights of the humblest citizen to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness, rights no government can create or no government should destroy.

Let us remember that whenever any political organization becomes the deliberate despoiler of these "inalienable rights" it becomes the instrument not of liberty but of oppression and deserves the condemnation and the abhorence of all the heirs of those who fell, from Bunker Hill to Yorktown.

In his first inaugural, the greatest champion of human liberty who ever spoke the English tongue, Thomas Jefferson, discerning even then the first symptoms of a departure from the eternal principles upon which English liberties were founded and for a thousand years maintained, thus pleads with his hearers: "Let us hasten to retrace our steps and to regain the road which alone leads to peace, liberty and safety."

Let us retrace our steps, Oh, my countrymen, to the beaten paths once trod by the feet of Jefferson and Jackson, Madison, Monroe and Tilden. Let us stand as they stood upon Dorchester Heights for the simple and inalienable rights of men, for the personal liberty of the citizen, answerable to civil government only for ascertainable wrongs, and for all else amenable to God alone.

THE CLEAN-UP CAMPAIGN.

Mayor Curley, through his Commercial and Industrial Bureau, has called upon all citizens of Boston, young and old, men, women and children, to inaugurate a "clean-up and paint-up" campaign with the arrival of open weather, to continue until May 1, when Boston has her formal centennial celebration and feels assured there will be no cleaner community in the universe.

"Dame Boston," says the Mayor, "is known all over the world for her thrift and cleanliness and it is for her citizens to live up to that reputation. With the coming of spring there will be many conventions and gatherings from other sections of the country assembling in this city and we want the impression of neatness and cleanliness to be what will strike the visitors immediately. First impressions are lasting ones and we want all who visit us to have a lasting good impression.

"Besides, it ought to be a matter of pride to every one of us that our city is clean and wholesome all the year round. During the winter months there are many accumulations of dirt and refuse in cellars, houses, rear yards and open spaces that weather prevents removing. Now is the time to attack such refuse matter before warm weather makes it unhealthful, disease and epidemic bearing and a menace.

"It is also a good way for citizens who have any loyalty and patriotism in their make-up to demonstrate it and relieve at least partially the present very serious unemployment situation. There are many thousand persons in the city, including members of the American Legion and other World War veterans, out of employment and by using these men, or as many as possible in cleaning up yards, cellars and houses, much of the present suffering will be relieved and we shall have accomplished a double object.

"Let us clean up and paint up Boston so that she will radiate hope, happiness and optimism throughout this year and whoever comes to our city will see a smiling, bright, wholesome, cheerful city. That will be one of the greatest advertising assets the city can secure."

WITHOUT ADVERTISING.

The Mayor has approved the following contracts awarded without advertising; requests of heads of departments to do work with the department forces without advertising; additions to and deductions from contracts.

Fire Department.

Upon March 17 the Mayor approved a contract with the Wedlake-Lamson Company for repairing five Christie motors. A communication from Acting Fire Commissioner Joseph P. Manning was as follows:

City of Boston,
Fire Department, March 16, 1922.

Hon. James M. Curley,
Mayor of Boston:

Dear Sir,—I have received a proposal from the Wedlake-Lamson Company of Hoboken, N. J., quoting a figure of two hundred and fifty (250) dollars each to repair five (5) Christie motors. This price includes transportation charges, new bushings and minor parts in order to place the motors in first-class condition. The company will guarantee these motors for one year after repairing.

The price quoted by this company is approximately 45 per cent lower than that which we have been paying to local concerns for the same type of work. The company also agrees to return the motors within five weeks of the date of our shipment.

The Wedlake-Lamson Company succeeded the Front Drive Motor Company, builders of Christie tractors, and is in a position to furnish better service at a much lower price than any other outside concern on this particular work.

In view of the price and the accompanying guaranty, I request permission to award the contract for repairing five Christie motors to the Wedlake-Lamson Company at $250 each, or a total of $1,250.

Yours very truly,

Joseph P. Manning,
Acting Fire Commissioner.

Public Buildings Department.

Upon March 18 the Mayor approved a contract with the A. D. Howlett Company for cleaning and painting at City Hall. A communication from Superintendent Fred J. Kneeland of the Public Buildings Department was as follows:

City of Boston,
Public Buildings Department,
March 8, 1922.

Hon. James M. Curley,
Mayor of Boston:

Dear Sir,—I respectfully request your permission to award, without advertising, a contract for washing and whitening ceilings in the corridors and stairways from basement to the fifth floor of City Hall; washing and painting the walls and dadoes; washing and painting the woodwork; washing and refinishing balustrades and rails; painting elevator cars and elevator wells; work to be done outside working hours, for the sum of $2,414, to the A. D. Howlett Company.

My reasons for requesting your permission are that the contractors are now doing the work of painting your suite of offices. This contract was awarded for the sum of $657, and at the time it was awarded I did not intend to have any further work done, but upon examination of the condition of the corridors, stairways and elevators, I considered it necessary to at once have the additional painting done as covered by this new contract, and as the contractors have their men and equipment on the premises and have given me the above stated price, which I consider as low as could be obtained by advertising, in my opinion the best interests of the city will be served by permitting this firm to do the work.

Fred J. Kneeland,
Superintendent of Public Buildings.

Public Works Department.

Upon March 18 the Mayor approved a contract with the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad for labor iniident to the laying of water pipes in Dorchester. A communication from Commissioner Joseph A. Rourke of the Public Works Department was as follows:

City of Boston,
Public Works Department,
March 16, 1922.

Hon. James M. Curley,
Mayor of Boston:

Dear Sir,—The entire territory on the south side of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad in the vicinity of Butler and Medway streets, Dorchester, depends now upon a single water supply through a 10-inch pipe in Medway street. This pipe is located in the roadway of a narrow bridge crossing the railroad. The bridge, which is owned by the railroad company, is about to be rebuilt, and while this work is in progress this department will relocate the water pipe outside of the roadway.

In order to strengthen the supply for this section, for domestic as well as fire purposes, it is advisable to lay an 8-inch water pipe in Butler street, from Huntoon street to Bearse avenue, a part of which will be under the tracks. The necessary permission to lay and maintain this pipe under the tracks has been secured from the railroad company, and the company has agreed to timber and support its tracks while the pipe is being laid. The city will have to assume the cost of this work, which will amount to approximately $1,510. I respectfully request that you authorize this expenditure.

Yours respectfully,

Joseph A. Rourke,
Commissioner of Public Works.

Upon March 24 the Mayor approved a contract with the Rowe Contracting Company for the construction of artificial stone sidewalks.

A communication from Commissioner Joseph A. Rourke of the Public Works Department was as follows:

Boston, March 17, 1922.

Hon. James M. Curley,
Mayor of Boston:

Dear Sir,—Permission to award a contract for the construction of artificial stone sidewalks in the public streets, without advertising, to Rowe Contracting Company, Chestnut Hill avenue, Brighton, is hereby requested on the ground that this contractor is not selected by the city in the first instance but by the abutters, and secondly the expense of construction being divided by the city and abutters; also because such contracts vary greatly in amounts and seldom involve one thousand (1,000) dollars.

Respectfully yours,

Joseph A. Rourke,
Commissioner of Public Works.

Upon March 24 the Mayor approved a contract with Daniel J. Reardon for the construction of artificial stone sidewalks.

A communication from Commissioner Joseph A. Rourke of the Public Works Department was as follows:

Boston, March 13, 1922.

Hon. James M. Curley,
Mayor of Boston:

Dear Sir,—Permission to award contracts for the construction of artificial stone sidewalks in the public streets, without advertising, to Daniel J. Reardon, 900 Dorchester avenue, Dorchester, is hereby requested on the ground that this contractor is not selected by the city in the first instance but by the abutters, and secondly the expense of construction being divided by the city and abutters; also because such contracts vary greatly in amounts and seldom involve one thousand (1,000) dollars.

Respectfully yours,

Joseph A. Rourke,
Commissioner of Public Works.

Upon March 24 the Mayor approved a contract with Simpson Brothers Corporation for the construction of artificial stone sidewalks.

A communication from Commissioner Joseph A. Rourke of the Public Works Department was as follows:

Boston, March 17, 1922.

Hon. James M. Curley,
Mayor of Boston:

Dear Sir,—Permission to award a contract for the construction of artificial stone sidewalks in the public streets, without advertising, to Simpson Brothers Corporation, 166 Devonshire street, city, is hereby requested on the ground that this contractor is not selected by the city in the first instance but by the abutters, and secondly the expense of construction being divided by the city and abutters; also because such contracts vary greatly in amounts and seldom involve one thousand (1,000) dollars.

Respectfully yours,

Joseph A. Rourke,
Commissioner of Public Works.

Upon March 24 the Mayor approved a contract with Patrick J. Duffy for the construction of artificial stone sidewalks.

A communication from Commissioner Joseph A. Rourke of the Public Works Department was as follows:

Boston, March 17, 1922.

Hon. James M. Curley,
Mayor of Boston:

Dear Sir,—Permission to award a contract for the construction of artificial stone sidewalks in the public streets, without advertising, to Patrick J. Duffy, 38 Norwell street, Dorchester, is hereby requested on the ground that this contractor is not selected by the city in the first instance but by the abutters, and secondly the expense of construction being divided by the city and abutters; also because such contracts vary greatly in amounts and seldom involve one thousand (1,000) dollars.

Respectfully yours,

Joseph A. Rourke,
Commissioner of Public Works.

Upon March 24 the Mayor approved a contract with W. A. Murtfeldt Company for the construction of artificial stone sidewalks.

A communication from Commissioner Joseph A. Rourke of the Public Works Department was as follows:

Boston, March 17, 1922.

Hon. James M. Curley,
Mayor of Boston:

Dear Sir,—Permission to award a contract for the construction of artificial stone sidewalks in the public streets, without advertising, to W. A. Murtfeldt Company, 77 Summer street, city, is hereby requested on the ground that this contractor is not selected by the city in the first instance but by the abutters, and secondly the expense of construction being divided by the city and abutters; also because such contracts vary greatly in amounts and seldom involve one thousand (1,000) dollars.

Respectfully yours,

Joseph A. Rourke,
Commissioner of Public Works.

MAYOR INDORSES LEGION DRIVE.

Mayor Curley issued a proclamation in behalf of the American Legion, and heartily indorsing the movement to devise ways and means for relieving the present condition of unemployment among veterans of the World War who are today idle in the City of Boston.

The proclamation of Mayor Curley was as follows:

AMERICAN LEGION EMPLOYMENT DAY PROCLAMATION.

To the Citizens of the City of Boston:

The unemployment situation growing out of industrial depression, confronting the nation today, is serious and calls for the thought, effort and attention of every patriotic American to the end that the suffering it entails may be ameliorated, and, that the gravity of existing conditions may be lightened and their evils remedied, the sympathetic aid and co-operation of all good citizens are needed.

As Mayor of this city the situation has been engaging my thought and energy since I entered upon my administration, and, while I have taken measures to secure funds to begin a number of necessary constructive works which will put many idle men to work and measurably relieve the acuteness of the unemployment problem, it is essential that the official efforts of the municipal government should be supplemented by those of every private enterprise and employer in the community. In all cases I have ordered that preference in employment be given to veterans of the European War who were called upon to make, and did make, sacrifices for the protection of our country, the defence of our national honor and the safeguarding of American government, principles and democracy.

The men and their dependents call to us now. They were first in our hearts when they faced danger and death in the disease and disaster of war. They should be first in our thought today and command our assistance and sympathy when they are facing the trying difficulties that unemployment brings to them and their families.

America and Americans owe these gallant veterans a debt of gratitude; it cannot be redeemed in mere words; it should be paid in practical fashion in providing them with work and wages that will relieve their difficulties, maintain their self-respect and bring home to them the knowledge that we do not forget in peace the pledges made in war.

Now, therefore, as Mayor of the City of Boston, I call upon all the inhabitants of this proud and ancient city to unite with the municipal administration, the American Legion and with one another in taking prompt and practical measures to remedy the unemployment situation and in making Monday, March 20, 1922, the American Legion Employment Day in order that the problem may be solved.

James M. Curley, Mayor.

STUDY COURSES.

The Franklin Union Trustees announce the spring courses for 1922 in surveying, field practice, railroad curves and earth work, mechanical (machine) drawing, automobile engines, elementary, self starting and lighting, automobile driving, mathematics, industrial chemistry, Berkeley and Appleton streets, Boston.

Surveying, Field Practice.

Elementary, CE-4. Saturdays, 1.45 p. m. to 5.30 p. m. Nine afternoons. Registration fee, $10. Opens March 25, 1922, closes May 20. Use and adjustment of instruments. Practical surveying problems.

Arithmetic, 7.15 to 8.15. Elementary applied arithmetic, with plenty of practical problems pertaining to shop work. Mensuration, 8.15 to 9.15. The practical calculations of lengths, areas, volumes and weights of various objects. Algebra, 7.15 to 8.15. Elementary algebra, commencing at the beginning and going as far as time will permit. Plane Geometry, 8.15 to 9.15. This will be the type necessary for entrance examinations, and will cover the fundamentals. Logarithms and slide rule, 815 to 9.15. The use of the tables and the manipulation of the rule as well as applied to practical problems. Trigonometry, 7.15 to 8.15. A study of the fundamental tools of the subject and their application to all types of calculation.

The following combinations of the above subjects may be taken:

Algebra and logarithms with slide rule.

Algebra and geometry.

Trigonometry and logarithms with slide rule.

Arithmetic and mensuration.

Geomerty, physics, logarithms, with slide rule, and a continuation of algebra may be taken by men who have had algebra through factoring, with the second term of the Lowell preparatory course, P-2A. Registration fee, $20. Closing August 17.

Trigonometry, and a continuation of algebra, geometry and physics may be taken by men who have had algebra through fractions, some geometry, physics and logarithms with the Lowell preparatory course, P-2. Registration fee, $15. Closing May 25.

Industrial Chemistry.

Monday, Tuesday and Thursday. Twenty-four evenings, 7.15 to 9.15. Registration fee, $12. Opens April 3, closes May 25. General chemistry, C-1. Lectures and recitations; laboratory. An intensive course in general chemistry and analytical chemistry combined. This course will comprise the principles of general chemistry illustrated in the laboratory by the reactions of qualitative and quantitative analysis. Qualitative analysis, C-2. Lectures and recitations; laboratory. Quantitative analysis, C-3. Lectures and recitations; laboratory. Organic preparations, C-4. Special work to suit the individual student. Special work in industrial analysis, or industrial investigation to suit the individual student, C-5. An intensive course in volumetric analysis with special reference to standard solutions and chemical calculations. Courses 1, 2 and 3, are given for any students desiring additional preparation in the respective courses, and to economize time for those desiring to enter advanced courses starting in September. Courses will be given Saturday afternoon if the demand is sufficient.

Students will be held personally responsible for breakage or waste in laboratories.

The land taken by the order of the Street Commissioners is bounded and described as follows:

A parcel of land, in Boston, supposed to belong to Clifford M. Mowatt, City of Boston Tax Title, bounded on:

Northwest by Centre street, one hundred thirty-two feet; northeast by land supposed to belong to Kenny, one hundred eight and 43/100 feet; southeast by land of the City of Boston, one hundred thirty-two and 3/100 feet, southwest by the same, one hundred eight and 39/100 feet; containing fourteen thousand three hundred and twelve square feet, more or less.

NET DEBT PER CAPITA IN LEADING CITIES (BY RANK).

New York, $183.87; Cincinnati, $169.13; New Orleans, $117.56; Boston, $113.72 (i. e. with population wrongly estimated at 738,901. Should be $106.39 with population estimated at 789,817 on Feb. 1, 1919); Baltimore, $100.54; Cleveland, $95.75; Pittsburgh, $91.44; Los Angeles, $87.61; San Francisco, $86.24; Philadelphia, $79.60. Figures are approximate, as population had to be estimated. (See U. S. Census Bureau's Financial Statistics of Cities, 1919, page 297.)

The per capita figures are high for New York, Boston and Cincinnati, as compared with other cities, because of their extensive investments in public service enterprises. Boston's debt for subways and tunnels being 38 per cent of the whole debt and the interest and sinking-fund dues payable from the revenue earned, it should be classed as investment-debt and kept separate from the debt for non-productive outlays met by taxation. Hence the per capita net general debt of Boston in 1919 was $67.32, not $106.39, assuming that the population was 789,817 on Feb. 1.

MUNICIPALLY-OWNED WATER SUPPLY SYSTEMS.

The Department of Commerce, through the Bureau of the Census, has issued a statement showing for the water supply systems municipally owned in cities having a population of 500,000 and over in 1920, the total and per capita revenue receipts from earnings, and the total and per capita payments for expenses and outlays.

The revenue receipts include the ordinary receipts from water rates, fees and charges for services, rents of real property, and minor sales of the water supply system. The payments for outlays include the costs of land and other properties and public improvements more or less permanent in character, the extension of mains, and similar payments.

HONORS TO JOHN DREW.

At a luncheon given to Mr. John Drew, the famous actor, at the City Club on March 20, Joseph Smith of the Boston Commercial and Industrial Bureau, acting as the representative of his Honor, Mayor Curley, said:

"I come to this pleasant occasion in several capacities, in my private and personal capacity of one who has had the pleasant privilege of Mr. Drew's friendship for many years; as one who has sat out in front to enjoy the perfect art of a perfect artist, as one who believes in the high purposes and splendid possibilities of the theater as an agency for the betterment of our life and civilization when it lives up to its ideals, and lastly as the representative of the Mayor of this proud and ancient city who has delegated me to bear to the guest of this occasion his welcome and good wishes and to express to him his high appreciation of a player whose character, conduct and conception of his art have constituted one of the glories of the American stage.

"Mr. Drew is the wearer of a name that has been high and honorable in the annals of the American stage for three generations; its escutcheon is without a blot or a blemish; and while I am neither a prophet, nor the son of a prophet, the generations that come after us will be sitting at the feet of the generations that come after him, bearing the clean name, carrying the clean blood, and living according to the clean standards that have distinguished all the Drews in all the years."

SOUTH AMERICAN TRADE ASSURED.

As the result of a conference between representative manufacturers of New England and officials of the Manufacturers Export Company, Ltd., held in the office of the Boston Commercial and Industrial Bureau at City Hall, Dr. Bernhard Alter, representative and field director of the exporting concern, leaves this city for Buenos Aires, taking with him samples of various manufactured products of twenty New England industries.

Contracts of ten other concerns to do business through this firm are in the process of being signed and John P. Gray, president of the Manufacturers Export Company, Ltd., will leave for South America about the middle of April, when the actual business between Boston and New England concerns and South American cities will begin.

The business to be carried on by these thirty manufacturing concerns will mean much for the port of Boston in the way of direct shipments between this port and South American cities, particularly Buenos Aires, since the goods will be shipped from Boston and not New York.

The Manufacturers Export Company, Ltd., plans to establish branches in all parts of South America and carry American, particularly New England, made goods into hitherto untouched mercantile parts of South America. On return trips South American products will be brought into Boston and New England.

MAYOR APPEALS FOR VETERANS.

Mayor Curley appealed to Chairman Payson Dana of the Massachusetts Civil Service Commission, State House, Boston, in behalf of the unemployed veterans of the World War who desire an opportunity for employment under the Transit Commission at East Boston, upon the 18th instant.

The communication of Mayor Curley was as follows:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor,
March 18, 1922.

Payson Dana, Chairman Civil Service Commission, State House, Boston, Mass.:

My dear Commissioner,— The bearer, Mr. Luke Shields, in charge of the Municipal Employment Bureau for the City of Boston, reports to me that he has canvassed the list of World War veterans who are receiving monthly allotments from the city treasury and finds that there are 300 who are not only eligible but willing to work provided employment can be found for them.

The City of Boston is at present expending $2,500,000 in rapid transit improvements at East Boston. The work is to be performed on the day labor basis and, in all probability, will require the employment of 1,000 men, all of whom, under the law, must be drawn from the civil service list.

Provided arrangements can be made for the granting of preference to those men who are now on the rolls of the Soldiers' Relief Department, and who are willing to accept this or any other character of employment, it is possible for your commission to render a service to the city that should represent a saving of approximately $15,000 per month.

Trusting that you will find it possible to assist the city in this particular instance, I beg to remain,

Respectfully yours,

James M. Curley, Mayor.

GREETING CARDS FOR VISITORS.

Mayor Curley has arranged with the directors of the Boston hotels that cards extending the welcome of the City of Boston may be distributed to business men who are temporarily in Boston, and further that the courtesies of the rooms of the Boston Commercial and Industrial Bureau in the Old Aldermanic Chamber at City Hall may be placed at their disposal.

The card of Mayor Curley is as follows:

[seal] 1822-1922.

To the Stranger Within Our Gates, Welcome.

This year of 1922 finds Boston starting on her second century as an incorporated city.

On behalf of our citizens I extend to you a cordial welcome.

In order that your stay may be agreeable, and that you may carry away from the city only the most pleasant memories, I invite you to make free use of the Boston Commercial and Industrial Bureau at City Hall, directly connected with the Mayor's office.

Yours most cordially,

James M. Curley, Mayor.

FIRE DEPARTMENT ORDERS.

General Order No. 21.

I. William J. Hennessey.

The Acting Fire Commissioner regrets to announce the death on Tuesday, March 14, 1922, of Hoseman William J. Hennessey of Engine Company 2. Hoseman Hennessey was appointed to this department February 1, 1918.

The funeral was held from his late residence, 807 East Third street, South Boston, Friday, March 17, 1922, at 8 a. m., followed by services at St. Eulalia's Church at 9 a. m. A detail of sixteen men, under command of District Chief James J. Caine, acted as a funeral escort. Engine Company 2 was excused from duty in order to participate in the funeral.

General Order No. 22.

II. Hearing.

A hearing was held March 20, 1922, on a charge preferred by Lieut. Patrick F. McLeavey of Engine Company 11 against Ladderman John F. Lynch of Ladder Company 21 and Hoseman Martin J. Flaherty of Engine Company 11.

Charge: Conduct prejudicial to good order and discipline.

Specification: At 2.15 p. m., March 10, 1922, while the members of Engine Company 11 and Ladder Company 21 were hoisting ashes from the cellar, Ladderman Lynch and Hoseman Flaherty got into an argument and assaulted each other. As a result both were injured.

Finding: To charge against Ladderman John F. Lynch, guilty.

To charge against Hoseman Martin J. Flaherty, guilty.

Sentence: Ladderman John F. Lynch and Hoseman Martin J. Flaherty will be suspended from duty indefinitely to take effect at 9 a. m. Wednesday, March 22, 1922.

By order of the Acting Fire Commissioner,

John O. Taber,
Chief of Department.

LAND-TAKING IN EAST BOSTON.

The Mayor has approved an order of the Board of Street Commissioners for the taking of land in East Boston for sewerage works. The property so taken is bounded and described as follows:

A parcel of land, supposed to belong to the Boston Elevated Railway Company, bounded:

South by Condor street, ten feet; west by land supposed to belong to George T. Rendle Company, one hundred and forty feet; north by other land of said Boston Elevated Railway Company, ten feet; and east by the same, one hundred and forty feet; containing fourteen hundred square feet, more or less.

The sewerage works to be constructed are as follows: 87 linear feet of 24-inch earthen pipe, to serve as an overflow, in the above-described premises, being private land on Condor street, opposite Glendon street.

This Board determines that no person sustains damages in his estate by the taking of the aforesaid easement and construction of said sewerage works and awards no damages therefor.

PLUMBING PERMITS ISSUED MARCH 16 TO MARCH 22.

REPORT OF EDUCATIONAL CONVENTION.

Arthur W. Kallom, Assistant Director of Educational Investigation and Measurement of the Boston Public Schools, reports upon his attendance at the convention of the National Education Association held at Chicago from February 27 to March 3, 1922, as follows:

The value of attending the meeting of the Department of Superintendence of the National Education Association has been emphasized this year and previous years. I can only add that the statements made have not been exaggerated. The inspiration which comes from meeting people from all parts of the country in your own line of work cannot yet be measured and put down as bearing a certain ratio to a standard. To me it was particularly valuable to meet such a large number of directors of research with whom I have been corresponding for the last seven years.

I think the convention can safely be called a measurement convention. More than twenty-five per cent of all the papers given dealt with some phase of educational investigation. Members of the Association of Directors of Educational Research used three afternoons. The National Society for the Study of Education prepared their year book dealing with intelligence tests, and gave two meetings to their discussion. The National Society of College Teachers used one afternoon. Besides these special programs individual papers here and there dealt with various phases of this vital question.

The important thing about most of these papers was the emphasis placed on the use of these tests in the school room rather than on the necessity of collecting data. This phase was emphatically indorsed by the Boston department with the statement that, unless educational measurement can be made of use to the schoolteacher in the schoolroom, educational measurement as a part of a city school system is ended, and ought to be.

The four days of the convention were taken up very largely with attending meetings and conferring with various members of the departments of research.

It is well for us to know that the plan of handling fractions, which was worked out by Boston teachers, has received and is receiving a great deal of comment by teachers throughout the country.

There are at present a number of plans started on the analysis of problems.

Emphasis is gradually being placed on the need for analyzing the work in the various subjects of the curriculum through the study of errors.

I wish to extend to the School Board my sincere gratitude for the privilege of attending the convention. I hope I may prove by the kind of work done that it is worth while for the city to send representatives to such a convention.

Charles M. Lamprey, master, Martin District, reports as follows:

The value of such an excursion into new territory is hardly realized unless one gets a personal contact with the business, industrial and social life of the community visited.

In order to fully avail myself of the opportunity to do this I left Boston Thursday night, February 23, and arrived in Boston, returning, on Sunday, March 5. Of the ten days consumed in this trip seven are properly chargeable to convention activities and the journey out and back. The rest of the time was spent at my own expense. I cannot express too strongly my belief in the wisdom shown by the School Committee in appropriating money for representation at educational conventions. It is possible that in time the broadening influence of such experiences may enable us here in Boston to avail ourselves of the full value of the experiences and ideas brought back by our delegates.

I have, for example, obtained ample confirmation of the soundness of the method of handling the subject of spelling worked out in the Model School seven years ago.

There is no reason why Boston should not follow the example of Chicago and other cities and produce a really worth while word list and an essentially sound method in place of the makeshift procedure that has characterized the handling of spelling for several years past.

The best meeting that I attended was the Saturday night meeting of the National Society for the Study of Education, devoted to the discussion of intelligence tests. From this and other meetings and from other sources I conclude:

1. The general intelligence test has yet to be perfected as a scientific and reliable measure of individual capacity to learn.

2. That at best it measures "intelligence" only indirectly, and does not measure or give any reliable indication of many of the most significant mental characteristics.

3. Achievement tests in specific subjects show better correlation than ordinary class room examinations, but are not reliable for rating individuals unless repeated in three or more different forms. (Probably a still greater number of repetitions is needed.)

4. (a.) That both kinds of mental tests should be given under the immediate supervision of experts; (b) that teachers should not take much of any time from teaching to give or to mark these tests; (c) that conclusions should be drawn only after expert study and careful comparison; (d) that in the main it is not profitable to put much time into intelligence testing unless there is a definite plan for having it function in administrative procedure.

The present value of such tests is probably exaggerated. They undoubtedly have definite and significant possibilities.

Along with this discussion of mental tests runs the corollary of a more definite statement of the aims of teaching. Courses of study often tend to overstate the aims in view, or to state them in too flowery and indefinite a way. The most interesting illustration of a definite statement of aims that came to my attention was contained in the goal books of the public schools of Winnetka, Ill., and the instruction sheets issued to accompany them. These together constituted a very interesting body of material for self-instruction or individual instruction. I visited the Winnetka schools, talked with the teachers, and later had a conference with the superintendent, Carleton B. Washburne.

I conclude that in the "Individualized School" they have a valuable idea which is not suitable for general adoption in its present form but which ought to modify our practice with reference to such formal subjects as spelling and drill work in number, and also as to certain parts of other subjects. It would be greatly to everybody's advantage if the foundation facts around which the thought processes are developed were more clearly stated.

I attended all the meetings of the Department of Elementary School Principals and found a strong desire to increase the participation of principals in educational discussion. Generally speaking school principals, because of their failure to fit themselves by broad professional studies and by real educational discussions, have failed to influence the development of education as they should. The new department will serve to emphasize the need and suggest the mode of a fuller participation by school principals in not only the conventional duties within their school districts, but in the determination of the policies they are supposed to apply, and in the origination of better kinds of procedure, supervisory, administrative and broadly constructive.

I have selected only two or three ideas for very brief discussion because I understand that the School Committee does not expect or desire a complete report of all that we learned or thought as a result of the convention meetings.

CLOSE OF THIRTEENTH SEASON AT FRANKLIN UNION.

Sixty certificates in two and three year evening courses were awarded Franklin Union evening students by President Nathan Matthews on last Thursday. Evening registration, which follows closely the industrial situation, is at present about fifteen per cent lower than last season but is steadily increasing, as shown by the courses starting in January of this year.

A new Saturday afternoon course in metallography has been conducted in co-operation with the American Society for Steel Treating. This training has never before been available in Boston outside of the regular four-year engineering day courses. This work has been handled by Mr. Victor Homerberg of the Technology staff. In response to an urgent demand a course in building construction superintendence was organized in order to supply experienced carpenters and masons with a knowledge of the building code sufficient to qualify for the various forms of building construction licenses. Many men of proven experience find themselves lacking in details of methods of procedure which modern city practice and the building code require. The starting of the course in acoustics and sound proofing, conducted by Dr. Hawley O. Taylor, has for the first time made available to architects and builders definite information on that elusive subject. Dr. Taylor, formerly with Thomas A. Edison, and more recently with the United States Bureau of Standards, is probably the best authority in this subject in the United States. This course will be repeated in the fall.

Franklin Union has continued retraining returned, disabled soldiers and sailors for the United States government, and also a number of industrial cases for the Commonwealth. The work is proceeding satisfactorily and men are daily being placed in positions ready to "carry on" successfully. Six government employees have headquarters at the Franklin Union Building, which has made possible a close co-operation in the handling of this difficult problem. The building at 66 Berkeley street, corner of Chandler, is being used for drafting and electric wiring classes.

The engineering library has been entirely recatalogued by Miss Dorothea Clapp who previously installed the cataloguing system at the Harvard School of Engineering.

On Monday evening, March 27, from 8 to 10.30 p. m., the Franklin Union Building and the wiring shop at 66 Berkeley street, will be open for inspection. The public is cordially invited to attend. A wireless telephone demonstration will be given at Franklin Union Hall, which will show the latest phases of this most interesting phenomonon. It is expected that a course in wireless installation for householders will be conducted in the fall.

Certificates Awarded to Franklin Union Evening Classes March 23, 1922.

Certificates, Three Year Courses.—Industrial chemistry, Leo. P. Bresnahan, Philip M. Brown, Charles A. Pilling, John McKenzie, Joseph Warren Donahue. Industrial electricity, Americo L. Becky Ginsberg, 19 and 21 Devon street, Ward 16, two cars.

Phillip Silberstein, 72 Hutchins street, Ward 17, two cars.

Joseph M. Snyder, 229 Columbia road, Ward 18, two cars.

Luigi Poto, 40 Bremen street, Ward 2, four cars.

James H. White, 35 O street, Ward 9, six cars.

Fanny Davis, 9 High street, Ward 18, additional garage, one car.

Vincenzo DiNucci, 116 Orleans street, Ward 2, garage and repair shop, nine cars.

A. S. Wilson & Sons, Inc., 74 West Second street, Ward 9, alcohol.

M. H. Meyers, 5-9 Compton street, Ward 6, gasolene.

REJECTION OF CLAIMS.

Hon. E. Mark Sullivan, the Corporation Counsel, states the Law Department has disapproved forty-five claims against the city, in thirty-seven of which no amounts were specified, and the other eight aggregated $1,224.42, and are classified as follows:

Against the Park and Recreation Department, three, in two of which no amounts were specified, and the other one amounted to $89.25; against the Police Department, two, in which no amounts were specified; against the Public Buildings Department, one, in which no amount was specified; against the Public Works Department, thirty-eight, in thirty-one of which no amounts were specified, and the other seven amounted to $1,135.17; against the Schoolhouse Department, one, in which no amount was specified.

All these claims have been disapproved for the reason that there appeared to be no legal liability on the part of the city.

CONFERENCE UPON DIFFERENTIALS.

More than one hundred men prominent in the commercial and industrial life of Boston and Massachusetts were in attendance at the conference and dinner for the completion of plans of Mayor Curley and Governor Cox for the purpose of hastening action by the Interstate Commerce Commission on the discrimination differential by which the Port of Boston and all New England have been injured commercially to the advantage of other ports of the country.

The delegation from Massachusetts was joined in Washington by delegations from other New England States, New York and New Jersey. Following conferences a New England Bloc was formed and a dinner was given at the New Willard Hotel at which Senator Lodge and several Congressmen were speakers.

Besides Governor Cox and Mayor Curley, there were present Ex-Gov. John H. Bartlett of New Hampshire; Senators David I. Walsh; Bert M. Fernald and Frederick Hale of Maine; George H. Moses of New Hampshire; Congressmen Treadway, Gillett, Paige, Winslow, Rodgers, Maloney, Dallinger, Underhill, Tague, Tinkham, Frothingham, Gallivan, Andrew, Greene and Joseph Walsh of Massachusetts; Congressmen Burroughs and Wason of New Hampshire; Greene and Dale of Vermont; Burdick of Rhode Island; Hart and Tilson of Connecticut.

Among the business men who left last night were Galen L. Stone, Horace A. Carter, L. A. Coolidge, Eben Keith, E. C. Southwick, J. P. Miller, Jr., Edward E. Blodgett, George W. Eddy, William R. Hedge, Sidney J. Jackson, William P. Libby, Charles H. Maynard, Frank P. McQueston, Capt. E. E. O'Donnell, Charles E. Spencer, Jr., Charles Stewart, Louis K. Thurlow, George H. Wooley, Benjamin Campbell, Arthur P. Russell, Frank S. Davis, C. P. McSorley, Waldo E. Clark, James J. Culnac, A. B. Jenks of New Hampshire, A. P. Lane, Henry F. Merrill of Maine, Gen. Abbot P. Smith, Edmund Wood, Harry H. Wiggin, Calvin Austin, President of the Eastern Steamship Lines, Inc., Addison C. Winship and Lee Ellmaker, Edward C. Plummer, Commissioner United States Shipping Board, Thomas O. Marvin, United States Tariff Commissioner, Wilbur LaRoe, Jr., Washington.

Mayor Curley, in his address at Washington before the Maritime Association of the Boston Chamber of Commerce, strongly indorsed Senator Lodge's stand in favor of a subsidized merchant marine.

The Mayor further declared:

"There is more unemployment in New England than in any other section of the country. We cannot revive New England industries without restoring New England's commerce.

"We cannot maintain an American merchant marine without a subsidy. The "Lusitania" and the "Mauritania" received a greater subsidy from the English than all the American merchant marine put together.

"All we are asking of the government in rate differentials is to recognize the right of all the people to get equal justice under the law. I don't care whether Boston leads or Portland, Providence or New London. I want New England as a whole to get justice. Then we can fight it out ourselves.

"The only thing necessary now to completely obliterate New England as a commercial and industrial entity would be this St. Lawrence project.

"The scheme is ostensibly fostered by the organization known as the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence Tidewater Association, an organization composed of Canadians or men of Canadian nativity, who have come over into the United States for the purpose of carrying on this propaganda with the idea of involving the United States in a scheme that is almost wholly beneficial to that country.

"The lure held out to the West and which has been gobbled up as a hungry fish gobbles up bait is that chimerical scheme by which ocean vessels will be permitted, when the canalization scheme is finished, to come to their very doors, take their grain and goods and their passengers and land them at any port in the world without further ado.

"And what does this mean to Boston and New England? It means that Montreal, Toronto and Quebec, in anticipation of this great waterway opening ocean traffic to them, are enlarging their port facilities, building huge storehouses in which to keep their products during the ice season when the St. Lawrence will be frozen over until the next year when shipments can be resumed. All this means stagnation and death for Boston and New England.

"Here in the east the propaganda works under the guise of offering to manufacturing interests cheap power with which to manufacture goods. This is the nub of the whole scheme. It is a power scheme pure and simple with all else offered as blinds. The scheme is fostered by interests such as the General Electric Company, the Aluminum Trust and its allied DuPont interests.

"These interests have pooled a fund of more than $2,000,000 with which to hoodwink the country by specious and illusive advertisements, create false sentiment in favor of the proposition, pay a large staff of experts and hire a staff of trained speakers to visit all sorts of organizations, painting in glorious word pictures, for those of each section of the country, pictures of the vast advantages to be gained by forcing their representatives in Congress to vote for the scheme.

"The scheme is one to enrich Canada at the expense of the United States, particularly New England and New York. Almost all the improvements contemplated are on the Canadian side and wholly in British territory, where, if a clash should be between the two countries, the project would be of absolute advantage to Canada and of decided disadvantage to the United States.

"In New England the scheme is fostered by the New England Power Company of Boston, whose officials have been urging the adoption of the plan on the plea that power would be furnished to New England industry at $5 per horse power. On the testimony of Chief Engineer Wilson, of the Montreal Light, Heat and Power Company, on the St. Lawrence developments the cost of power at the generating station runs to $40 per horse power and could not be marketed for less than from $60 to $70 per horse power.

"If the United States wants to invest in any power schemes let her use her money on her own water power possibilities where this country will be benefited and not dip into that of any foreign country, even though that country be a next-door neighbor.

"The scheme has gone so far, however, that New England and New York will have to fight with all the power they have if they are to prevent themselves being sold out and killed by that octupus which is trying to throttle us, the 'Power Ring' composed of the Aluminum Trust, the General Electric Company and the DuPont interests."

MASSACHUSETTS CIVIL SERVICE EXAMINATIONS.

The Massachusetts Civil Service Commission announce examinations for desirable positions.

Ambulance Chauffeur and Repairman, at Boston City Hospital, April 12, 1922.

The salary is $27 per week. Ambulance chauffeurs at the hospital are required to work eight hours a day, six days a week, and are expected to do minor repairs on cars, the type of car used at present being the White, three to four-ton truck. They are also required to work on Sunday, except on their Sunday off.

The examination will consist of a sworn statement of training and experience, the possession of a chauffeur's license, and a physical examination.

The date given above is not the examination date, but the date on or before which application blanks must be filed. Experience sheets will then be mailed to applicants and those who receive a mark of at least 65 per cent in experience and possess the requisite license will subsequently be notified for the physical examination.

Reconstruction Aide in Physiotherapy, Boston City Hospital, April 12, 1922.

This examination is open to men and women. There are several vacancies at present at a salary of $14 per week, half-time service. The duties of the position will consist of administering physiotherapeutic treatment in its several branches, such as massage, electrotherapy, hydrotherapy, mechanotherapy, active, passive and assistive exercises, and muscle re-education. Special stress will be laid on electrotherapy. Applicants must have had training and experience in physiotherapeutic work.

The subjects of examination with their respective weights will be as follows: Training and experience, 6; practical questions to test applicants' knowledge and ability to perform duties of the position as outlined above, 4; total, 10.

Applicants will be required to obtain at least 65 per cent in each subject.

Successful applicants will also be given a physical examination.

Stenographic Service April 15 and April 29, 1922.

This examination is for the service of the state and of all cities, and of such towns in the state as are classified under civil service. On April 15 the examination will be held in Boston and all persons who reside within commuting distance will be notified for that day. Applicants residing in other places will be examined on April 29 at certain centrally located cities throughout the state.

Stenographers and Typists.

Grade I.—Annual compensation not more than $780 a year. This grade includes persons who obtain a mark of at least 60 per cent in accuracy of transcription with a general average in the entire examination of less than 80 per cent.

Grade II.—Annual compensation more than $780 and not more than $1,200 a year. This grade includes persons who obtain a mark of at least 60 per cent in accuracy of transcription with a general average in the entire examination of 80 per cent or better, but less than 85 per cent.

To Electrical Contractors.

The Schoolhouse Commissioners of the City of Boston invite sealed proposals to install and complete the electrical and gas systems in the elementary school, Prince District, St. Mary's and Mountfort streets, Boston, Mass., giving bond of a surety company approved by the Commissioners in the sum of 45 per cent of the entire contract price. Only proposals obtained at the office of the Commissioners, Room 1007, City Hall Annex, signed by the bidder and left before 12 o'clock m. of Tuesday, April 4, 1922, at said office, with a certified check for $1,000, payable to the city if the proposal is not carried out, will then and there be publicly opened and read. The proposal shall be made in duplicate, the one with the check to be submitted as indicated above and the other to be deposited with the City Auditor, City Hall, previous to the time named for opening proposals. The Commissioners reserve the right to reject any or all proposals. A deposit of $15 in cash or by certified check will be required for a complete set of plans and specifications, said sum to be refunded on return of plans and specifications. Mutilation of the plans or specifications will be deemed sufficient cause for the forfeiture of the said deposit.

Thomas P. Glynn,
James J. Mahar,
Commissioners.
John H. Dunn,
(March 25.) Acting Commissioner.

Leading hose 150,949 feet and suction hose, 2,027 feet; horses, 147; 2-ton fuel wagons, 41; fire alarm boxes, 1,205. In reserve are 18 engines (8 auto) and 3 chemical engines; 18 hose wagons (7 auto); 11 ladder trucks (6 auto); 1 water tower (auto) and 9 officials' cars. Set aside to be sold are 7 horse-drawn chemicals. Total alarms in calendar year 1920, 4,485 or 938 less than in 1919, of which total 530 were needless and 110 were false alarms. Total fires, 3,728 (i. e., 625 less than in 1919), of which 2,373 were in buildings, 1,327 outside buildings and 28 out of city limits. In 10 cases the buildings were totally destroyed, in 64 the damage was considerable and in 1,456 the damage was slight.

The Boston Protective Department (not a City department) reported the total fire losses in 1920 on buildings as $1,045,050 and on contents as $1,952,766, or total of $2,997,816, which is $562,532 more than in 1919 and $175,707 more than in 1918. Of total loss, the amount not covered by insurance was $284,262. The B. P. D. also reported that of the 1,760 fires involving losses, 458 were caused by carelessness with matches, 215 by smoking, 121 by open lights, 101 by stoves, furnaces, etc., 95 by explosions, 93 by sparks from combustion, 83 by electricity, 51 by overheated or defective flues and chimneys, 41 by spontaneous combustion, 35 by hot ashes, etc.

Annual salaries; Commissioner, $7,500; Chief, $5,000; deputy chiefs, $4,000; district chiefs, $3,500; captains, $2,500; lieutenants, $2,300; engineers, $1,900; assistant engineers, $1,800; 1st-year privates, $1,400, with $100 yearly increase until maximum of $1,800 is reached.

By Chapter 4, City Ordinances of 1917, the firemen have one day off in three, dating from February 1, 1918, instead of one in five, as before, which called for an addition of about 170 men to the force.

By Ordinances of 1919, Chapter 2, the Wire Department became the Wire Division of the Fire Department.

New motor apparatus added in 1919 and 1920 costing $350,837, makes the department 70 per cent motorized. Appropriation of $150,000 for more of same in 1921.

BOSTON PUBLIC SCHOOL SYSTEM.

Number of permanent school buildings in use for school purposes, 265, or 216 brick and 49 wooden; portable houses, 160; besides these, 14 rented quarters; day schools contain 3,256 class-rooms and 133,392 sittings; also 101 assembly halls and 15 drill halls and gymnasia; 3,422 teachers in all schools, or 2,883 women and 539 men; evening schools, 20, with 263 regular teachers. Playground teachers, 149, having charge of games, gymnastics, etc., in 54 park and 36 schoolyard playgrounds; school physicians, 47; school nurses, 48; attendance officers, 25. Number of pupils registered in regular day schools year ending June 30, 1920, 123,392; in evening schools, 9,911; Continuation School, 8,705; Day School for Immigrants, 1,312; total registration, 143,320 or 2,020 increase over 1919. Average number belonging in day schools, 109,110 or 2,367 more than in 1919; average number in evening schools, 5,015; in summer review schools, 3,941. Membership in Normal, High and Latin Schools on Sept. 30, 1920, 17,641; in elementary schools, by districts; East Boston, 10,451; Charlestown, 3,594; North End, 5,341; West End, 5,866; City Proper, 4,360; South End, 3,673; South Boston, 8,488; Roxbury, 14,739; Brighton, 4,479; West Roxbury, 7,608; Dorchester, 23,468; Hyde Park, 2,187; in special schools, 967. Total, 112,862, or 1,989 more than in 1919. In 1920, total number of graduates, 7,686. Average number of day-school pupils per teacher in elementary grades, 41.2; in high schools, 27.6; in kindergartens, 26.1. In 1918 the ninth grade or junior high school plan, recently adopted, relieved the high schools of 925 first-year pupils, and in 1919 the number of pupils promoted to these intermediate classes was 1,581. Valuation of school property, $29,188,215 or $27,940,258 for land and buildings and $1,247,957 for equipment. Cost of maintenance for 1920, $9,897,928 or $2,485,296 (i. e., 33.53 per cent) more than in 1919; expenditure for construction of new schools, etc., $910,825, of which all but $50,000 was from Tax Levy. Gross debt outstanding for Schoolhouses and Sites, Feb. 1, 1921, $15,583,500 or $200,500 less than in 1920. Annual maintenance cost per attending pupil in Latin and high schools (day), $109.87; in elementary schools (day), $54.03. The registration of minors, 5 to 15 years, inclusive, also illiterates over 15, April 1, 1920, as directed by Chap. 102, General Acts of 1916, showed a total of 135,052 or 22,562 of 5 and 6 years of age; 89,343 of 7 to 13; 22,612 of 14 and 15, and 435 illiterates 16 years of age and over. Total belonging to public schools, 105,129; to parochial schools, 25,476; other private schools, 4,192; not in any school, 255.

Only 174 in each 1,000 of pupils in Boston are in private schools, while the average for the large cities is 284. The School Centers for educational and social improvement of other than school pupils started in 1912. There are now 13 with 150 leaders and assistants and 30 to 40 study and entertainment clubs in each; total attendance during the 7 months sessions in 1919–20, 463,894. Cost of this "extended use of public schools" in 1919–20, $29,800.

Per capita (of Boston population) cost in 1920 of schools, approximately $13.30 (including special appropriations from taxes, etc., for new schoolhouses), which is $3.09 higher than in 1919, $5.38 ahead of 1915 and $6.61 or nearly 100 per cent more than in 1910.

AREA OF BOSTON.

Area to ward lines (26 wards), 30,598 acres (i. e., 47.81 square miles), 2,843 acres being filled land, 1,143 acres water area and 1,585 acres flats. Land area only, 27,870 acres (i. e., 43.55 square miles). Included in the latter are 138 acres of filled flats added to the land area of South Boston in 1919 and 48 acres to that of East Boston in 1918. Original Boston contained about 780 acres of land. Of the twelve leading American cities, six are larger in land area than Boston, viz., New York (326.9 square miles), Chicago (199.37), Philadelphia (129), Detroit (75.62), Cleveland (56.6) and St. Louis (61.37). The only city in Massachusetts with larger land area is Taunton (50 square miles).

If Boston should expand by annexations as New York, Chicago and Philadelphia have expanded, its total area, in case of including the 39 cities and towns within the 15-mile radius, would exceed the largest, viz., New York, the present land area of "Greater Boston" being 409.5 square miles.

MUNICIPAL SERVICE.

Complaints, inquiries or suggestions regarding the work of municipal departments should be made in writing to the officials directly in charge. The failure of such officials to make reply within a reasonable length of time should be brought to the attention of the Mayor. Communications should be directed as follows:

To the Board of Street Commissioners, Room 401, City Hall Annex, for information relative to the laying out, relocation, widening and the discontinuance of highways; the taking of real property for municipal purposes; the assessments of betterments for streets and sewers; the plotting of undeveloped areas for streets and the opening of private ways; the granting of licenses for the storage or sale of merchandise in public streets; the regulation of street traffic; the making of specific repairs in public streets, the naming of public streets, the planting and removal of trees in public ways, the issuing of licenses for the storage of gasolene, oil and other inflammable substances or explosive compounds, the use of the public ways for any permanent or temporary obstruction or projection in, under or over the same, including the location of conduits, poles and posts for telephone, telegraph, street railway or illuminating purposes, signs, marquises, bay windows, coal holes and vaults.

To the Commissioner of Public Works, Room 511, City Hall Annex, for information as to the watering, cleaning, lighting and repairing of streets, the construction and care of sewers and catch-basins, the operation of the ferries, the maintenance of bridges and drawbridges and the removal of ashes and offal.

To Room 604, City Hall Annex, for information relative to the supplying or metering of water and the water charges of the city.

To the Health Department, Room 1107, City Hall Annex, for information relative to the inspection of milk, vinegar, meat, fish and vegetables, the issuance of permits for stables, slaughter houses, etc., smoke nuisances, the existence of contagious diseases or public health nuisances.

To the Board of Park Commissioners, 33 Beacon street, for information as to the care of the Common, Public Garden, Franklin Park, Franklin Field, Commonwealth avenue, Back Bay Fens, Marine Park and the small parks and playgrounds in general throughout the city, and as to the extermination of gypsy moths and the charges made for such service. Application may be made to this department for information regarding the public baths and gymnasiums maintained by the city, and with regard to municipal indoor concerts and band concerts; also information relative to Mount Hope, Evergreen, Fairview and other public cemeteries owned by the City of Boston.

To the School Committee, 26 Mason street, for information relative to the operation of the schools of the city.

To the Schoolhouse Commissioners, Room 1007, City Hall Annex, for information as to the construction and repair of school buildings.

To the Board of Examiners, Room 1001, City Hall Annex, for information regarding the licensing of persons having charge or control of the work of construction, alteration, removal or tearing down of buildings.

To the Wire Division of the Fire Department, Room 905, City Hall Annex, for all information relative to the erection of poles, the building of conduits, the installation of wires and electrical apparatus. Also to the same office for permits for the installing of wires and electrical apparatus within buildings in the City of Boston, and for the payment of fees incident to the granting of the privileges above named, and which must invariably be paid in advance.

MUNICIPAL CALENDAR.

Meeting of the City Council, Monday, April 3, at 2 p. m.

A regular meeting of the School Committee will be held Monday, April 3, at 6.30 p. m.

Meetings of the Transit Department are held Wednesday of each week at 2.30 p. m.

NOTICE.

Auction Sale.

Edward W. Foye, Municipal Auctioneer, announces the sale, at public auction, upon the premises, of the land with building at the corner of B and Athens streets, South Boston, upon Wednesday, April 5, 1922, at 3 p. m. A stipulated price of $2,500 will be required, with a deposit, by certified check or cash payment, in the amount of $300, at the time of sale, balance of purchase price to be paid within fifteen days.

Assessing Department.

The Board of Assessors of the City of Boston call particular attention to the necessity of making returns upon property, subject to taxation, which should be filed not later than May 15, 1922. Blank forms may be had at the assessors' office, or will be mailed upon request by Joseph G. O'Malley, secretary assessors' office, City Hall Annex, Boston.

PROPOSALS ADVERTISED.

Bids have been asked for by advertisements in the City Record for the following departments. The attention of contractors and others is specially called to the closing time for the receipt of such proposals. This will be published weekly.

Election Department.

The Board of Election Commissioners advertises for proposals for the sale of one wooden voting booth, located at Blue Hill avenue, opposite Morton street, Dorchester. The booth is 20 feet deep and 18 feet front, and is without election furniture or fittings. Full information and key to booth may be obtained at the office of the Election Commissioners, 111 City Hall Annex, Boston.

EXTENSION OF CONTRACT.

The Mayor has approved an extension of the contract of the John Kelly Company for asphalt concrete pavement in North Beacon street, from Market street to beyond Parsons street, Brighton, to May 1, 1922.

CONTRACTS AWARDED.

Permission to award contracts for work, materials and supplies, in accordance with recommendation of department heads, has been approved by the Mayor.

Public Works Department (Bridge Service).

Upon March 24 the Mayor approved a contract with the General Construction Company for repairing New Allen Street Bridge, Hyde Park.

In conformity with chapter 9 of the Ordinances of 1921, M. De Matteo, the lowest bidder, who is an alien, is not eligible to engage in this contract with the city, and for that reason his bid was rejected. Bids for the work, opened March 9, were as follows:

M. De Matteo, $1,524.45; General Construction Company, Inc., $1,877; Antony Cefalo, $1,929.50; Rendle Stoddard Company, $1,931.30; John McCourt Company, $1,958.50; W. H. Ellis & Son Company, $2,274.70; Michael H. Loonie, $2,428; John P. Cavanagh Company, $2,459.50; Lawler Brothers, $2,500.50; Wm. L. Miller Company, $2,794; Rocco Del Zoppo, $17,853.37.

Purlic Works Department (Paving Service).

Upon March 25 the Mayor approved a contract with the Central Construction Company for repairing bituminous pavement in any street not under guaranty. Bids for the work, opened March 24, were as follows:

Central Construction Company, $41,200; Bermudez Company, $44,510; Warren Brothers Company, $62,650.

Schoolhouse Department.

Upon March 25 the Mayor approved a contract for installing and completing a heating and ventilating system in the Prince District elementary school. Bids for the work, opened on March 10, were as follows:

J. J. Hurley & Co., $10,639; Acme Heating and Ventilating Company, $10,874; Reardon Brothers Company, $11,174; Power, Heating and Ventilating Company, $11,600; Eastern Power and Heating Corporation, $11,965; J. P. Dwyer Company, $12,112; Massachusetts Sprinkler, Power and Sanitary Engineering Company, $13,972.

Supply Department.

Upon March 25 the Mayor approved contracts with the American Oil Company for supplying gasolene, at a price of 2.1 cents less than the current tank wagon price, and a contract for furnishing kerosene to the various city departments to the Richdale Oil Corporation, at a price of 3 cents per gallon under the current tank wagon price.

Bids for the supply, opened March 14, were as follows:

Twenty-eight Thousand Gallons Gasolene (per Gallon less than Current Tank Wagon Price).—American Oil Company, 2.1 cents; Boston Harbor Oil Company, 1.5 cents (22½ cents per gallon); Richdale Oil Corporation, 1 cent; The Texas Company, 2 cents; Gulf Refining Company, current price; United Oil Products Company, 1 cent (23 cents per gallon); Tide Water Oil Sales Corporation, 2 cents.

Six Thousand Gallons C. Q. Kerosene (per Gallon less than Tank Wagon Price).—American Oil Company, 2.5 cents; Boston Harbor Oil Company, 1 cent (14 cents per gallon); Richdale Oil Corporation, 3 cents; The Texas Company, 2 cents; Gulf Refining Company, 1 cent; Tide Water Oil Sales Corporation, 2 cents.

J., 4.33 cents per pound*; City Iron Foundry Company, Inc., 4.9 cents per pound; Mechanics Iron Foundry Company, 6.4 cents per pound.

* Rejected on account of cost of inspection to city.

Upon March 29 the Mayor approved a contract with C. Edward Murray, Jr., and Arthur H. Wood, receivers for the Empire Tire and Rubber Company, for furnishing 3,000 feet of 2½-inch double jacket fire hose, with couplings, to the Fire Department. Bids for the supply, opened March 13, were as follows:

Hewitt Rubber Company of Massachusetts, 59¾ cents per foot, approximate total, $1,792.50; C. Edward Murray, Jr., and Arthur H. Wood, receivers for Empire Tire and Rubber Company, 58 cents per foot, approximate total, $1,740; B. F. Goodrich Rubber Company, 57½ cents uncoupled, 63⅛ cents coupled, approximate total, $1,905; the Manhattan Rubber Manufacturing Company, 60 cents per foot, approximate total, $1,800; Boston Woven Hose and Rubber Company, 60.4 cents per foot, approximate total, $1,812.

Upon March 30 the Mayor approved a contract with the Leopold Morse Company for furnishing the Boston Fire Department with 250 rubber coats. Bids for the supply, opened February 23, 1922, were as follows:

A. Shuman & Co., $5.25 each; Archer Rubber Company, $5 each; the Harding Uniform and Regalia Company, $5.70 each; Leopold Morse Company, $4.90 each, $5.35 each, $5.50 each.

WITHOUT ADVERTISING.

The Mayor has approved the following contracts awarded without advertising; requests of heads of departments to do work with the department forces without advertising; additions to and deductions from contracts.

Public Works Department.

Upon March 25 the Mayor approved a contract with M. D. Russo for the construction of artificial stone sidewalks.

A communication from Commissioner Joseph A. Rourke of the Public Works Department was as follows:

Boston, March 16, 1922.

Hon. James M. Curley,
Mayor of Boston:

Dear Sir,—Permission to award a contract for the construction of artificial stone sidewalks in the public streets, without advertising, to M. D. Russo, 407 Revere street, Revere, is hereby requested on the ground that this contractor is not selected by the city in the first instance but by the abutters, and secondly, the expense of construction being divided by the city and abutters; also because such contracts vary greatly in amounts and seldom involve one thousand (1,000) dollars.

Respectfully yours,

Joseph A. Rourke,
Commissioner of Public Works.

Upon March 25 the Mayor approved a contract with Joseph Cerra for the construction of artificial stone sidewalks.

A communication from Commissioner Joseph A. Rourke of the Public Works Department was as follows:

Boston, March 24, 1922.

Hon. James M. Curley,
Mayor of Boston:

Dear Sir,—Permission to award a contract for the construction of artificial stone sidewalks in the public streets, without advertising, to Joseph Cerra, 12 Athol street, Allston, is hereby requested on the ground that this contractor is not selected by the city in the first instance but by the abutters; and secondly, the expense of construction being divided by the city and abutters; also because such contracts vary greatly in amounts and seldom involve one thousand (1,000) dollars.

Respectfully yours,

Joseph A. Rourke,
Commissioner of Public Works.

Upon March 28 the Mayor approved the relaying of granite block to provide improvements in Dorchester street, from Broadway across Emerson street, South Boston, with the division force.

A communication from Commissioner Joseph A. Rourke of the Public Works Department was as follows:

Hon. James M. Curley,
Mayor of Boston:

Dear Sir,—Authority is requested to relay granite blocks, with grout joints, in Dorchester street, from Broadway, across Emerson street, South Boston, with the division forces, without inviting proposals therefor by advertisement, the estimated cost for labor and material being $7,000. This is maintenance work, and can, in my opinion, be done as advantageously by day labor methods as any work now necessary.

Respectfully,

Joseph A. Rourke,
Commissioner of Public Works.

Upon March 29 the Mayor approved a contract with the American Car Sprinkler Company for flushing and sprinkling certain streets within the city.

A communication from Commissioner Joseph A. Rourke of the Public Works Department was as follows:

Boston, March 28, 1922.

Hon. James M. Curley,
Mayor of Boston:

Dear Sir,—In requesting the attached authority to award a contract, without advertising, to the American Car Sprinkler Company of Worcester, Mass., for flushing and sprinkling from April 15 to October 31, 1922, at a monthly rental of $1,800 per car or $5,400 for the proposed three cars, said company to furnish electric trolley flushers and sprinklers, working forty-eight hours per week flushing with each car and fifty-six hours per week sprinkling with each car, it is my opinion that these three cars will cover almost every paved tracked street south of Milk street, including Brighton. Practically no street cleaning has been done in past years south of Dudley street and as this contract will entail no additional expense in the budget, I feel that in justice to the taxpayers in the outlying districts, this activity should be extended to their sections of the city.

Street car flushing is the cheapest method per square yard of area covered than any other method in use in the city.

Respectfully yours,

Joseph A. Rourke,
Commissioner of Public Works.

Upon March 29 the Mayor approved a contract with the Pitometer Company for conducting a waste water survey in Boston.

Communications from Commissioner Joseph A. Rourke of the Public Works Department were as follows:

Boston, March 28, 1922.

Hon. James M. Curley,
Mayor of Boston:

Dear Sir,—I respectfully request authority to award a contract to the Pitometer Company, without inviting proposals therefor by advertisements, for conducting a waste water survey in Sections 7-B, 9 and 11 of the distribution system. The Pitometer Company has agreed to do this work for $25,000.

The results accomplished by this concern in other sections have been highly satisfactory, and in my opinion the price agreed upon for the present survey is reasonable.

A letter explaining the reasons for awarding this contract is attached.

Yours respectfully,

Joseph A. Rourke,
Commissioner of Public Works.

Boston, March 28, 1922.

Hon. James M. Curley,
Mayor of Boston:

Dear Sir,—Attached find recommendation from the division engineer of the Water Division for spending $25,000 this year to partially complete a pitometer survey of the city. This will include three districts, leaving only two additional ones to be finished next year, and making the total cost for five districts $39,000. The entire city will then be covered with the exception of East Boston, West Roxbury extra high service, Hyde Park extra high service and Breed's Island, where either the leakage conditions or the consumption are so low as to render it inadvisable to conduct a survey.

In a previous conference with you on this matter it was thought that the city forces could carry on this work, but after a long conference with the pitometer engineers it was decided that the real advantage to the city from this work, other than the reduction of leakage, was the establishment of strategic points in the system at which pitometer observations could be taken; and it was clearly shown that it would be almost impossible to expect our city forces to intelligently establish these locations. All previous openings in the piping system for pitometer instruments have permanent gate boxes established for use at any time, and similar boxes will be established at future openings, which become an integral part of our distribution system the same as any gate.

When the survey is completed by the Pitometer people, there is no reason why at two or three year intervals our city forces cannot utilize pitometer instruments in the identical locations established by this company, to check up on any leakage conditions which have developed since the previous survey, so that it can be stated that the work done by the Pitometer Company will be of lasting benefit to the city in providing locations in which to carry on this work by city forces; and the total amount of money spent on the original survey, instead of being considered as a comparatively large sum per year, will be apportioned over a very long period of time and thereby reduce the yearly amount. Your approval is requested for this year's contract for the Pitometer Company work, amounting to $25,000.

Yours respectfully,

Joseph A. Rourke,
Commissioner of Public Works.

Public Works Department,
Water Division,
March 27, 1922.

To the Commissioner of Public Works:

I return herewith proposal from the Pitometer Company for completing waste survey of distribution mains of water service, wherein they state they will finish the survey of the city for $39,000, and will enter into a contract to survey Sections 7-B, 9 and 11, as per plan filed in this office, during the present year, for $25,000.

I respectfully recommend that this proposition be accepted. I am convinced that in no other way can equally satisfactory results be obtained.

In the work already done by the Pitometer Company, covering about one half of the city, waste amounting to 7,000,000 gallons per day has been discovered and stopped at a cost of $42,000. This saving in consumption will result in a reduction of approximately $29,000 per year in Boston's share of the metropolitan water assessment; in addition, the survey disclosed one unmetered 4-inch service through which water had been furnished for several years to the value of approximately $3,400 per year without compensation; it also brought out the fact that a number of large meters were under-registering, which caused the department to make an intensive follow-up campaign of repairs of all large meters, which course has resulted in an increase of revenue, the amount of which cannot be determined exactly, but which will certainly approximate $30,000 per year; thus, for an expenditure of $42,000, the survey already made has saved the city $29,000 yearly in its metropolitan assessment and has increased the revenue of the Water Service over $30,000 yearly through calling attention to slow meters and to illegal use of water.

After the entire city has been surveyed and permanent gauging stations have been established, the waste survey should be carried on for the future by the engineering force of the Water Service.

Very respectfully,

F. A. McInnes,
Division Engineer.

ADDITIONS TO AND DEDUCTIONS FROM CONTRACTS.

The following additions to and deductions from contracts have been approved:

Public Buildings Department.

An addition, in the amount of $2,497, upon contract with Michael Seretto, for changes in the contract for erecting and completing Municipal Building in old Ward 12. Original contract, $360,000; total additions, $5,579.06; contract as standing, $365,579.06.

Schoolhouse Department.

A deduction, in the amount of $124, on contract with the J. S. Hunter Company for work upon an intermediate school in the Roger Wolcott District. For deducting eighteen sets of spring hinges and boxes and thirty-four door pulls. Original contract, $2,852; total deductions, $124; contract as standing, $2,728.

An addition, amounting to $282, on contract with the J. B. Hunter Company for work upon an intermediate school in the Roger Wolcott District. For 18 sets of pivots and boxes; 34 door pulls of approved size; 18 door checks (Jobson), and 28 pole hooks. Original contract, $2,852; total addition, $282; total deductions, $124; contract as standing, $3,010.

NOTICE TO OWNERS OR LESSEES OF FACTORIES, DEPARTMENT STORES, HOTELS, ETC., WITHIN THE CITY OF BOSTON.

Section 1, chapter 339, Acts of 1908, provides that any person, firm or corporation failing to notify the Fire Commissioner, before commencing work, of the installing of wiring or apparatus or making any changes in connection with electric light, heat or power installations in this city, shall be subject to a fine of not less than ten nor more than fifty dollars for each offense.

It is for your protection and the protection of life and property that this law be complied with.

Will you kindly instruct your electrician that before he installs any wiring or apparatus, or makes any changes in same in your premises, he must first obtain permit from this department so to do, thereby insuring a proper inspection of same and the approval of this department.

Yours respectfully,

Joseph P. Manning,
Acting Fire Commissioner.

RECOGNITION OF VETERANS.

Mayor Curley addressed a communication to E. Mark Sullivan, the Corporation Counsel, upon the 30th ultimo, relative to the necessity of presenting a bill to the Massachusetts Legislature in recognition of the service of the veterans of the World War, now living, as well as those who made the supreme sacrifice. The Mayor's communication was as follows:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor,
March 30, 1922.

E. Mark Sullivan, Esq.,
Corporation Counsel:

Dear Sir,—During the last two years the custom has grown in the City Council to name street intersections, where no square exists, as a square in honor of some World War hero. This is an injustice to those who served, and a practice that if continued will leave the city government open to the charge of playing cheap politics with heroes of the World War solely for political capital.

Personally I think that every man who served should have his name perpetuated, and after all, those who are undergoing a living death, the victims of shell shock, who are sound in body, but whose minds are a blank, are as much entitled to the honor of having a square named after them as those who were more fortunate and died on the field of battle.

In my opinion the best solution of the entire problem, in order that no man may be done an injustice, is to present a bill to the Legislature requiring the state to place on an enduring bronze in the State Armory the names of all who served, and all who have been wounded or suffered loss of mentality, or died. Will you kindly draw a bill that will cover this matter, to be presented to the Legislature as soon as possible.

Very truly yours,

James M. Curley, Mayor.

CONTRACTS EXTENDED.

The contract between the City of Boston and M. Seretto for alterations and additions to the Wayfarers' Lodge has been extended.

The reason for this extension is that there was an original appropriation of $45,000 for doing this work when the contract was awarded, and some time later the trustees were instrumental in having an extra appropriation in the sum of $5,000 added to the same, with the result that many changes were made in the contract which necessarily retarded the completion of the work and was no fault of the contractor's.

The Mayor has approved an extension of the contract of James Barletta for sewerage works in Faneuil Valley Brook conduit and dredging of Charles river outlet of conduit, Brighton, to July 1.

CONTRACTS APPROVED.

The Mayor has approved a contract with John F. Cullen for architect's services in connection with the proposed elementary school in the Robert Gould Shaw District, West Roxbury. The fee will be 2 2/5 per cent on cost of domestic engineering, exclusive of plumbing and 6 per cent on cost of all other work.

PROCLAMATION.

City of Boston.
Office of the Mayor.

Under the authority vested in the Mayor in chapter 8, section 5, of the Ordinances of 1916, relative to the display of the city flag of the City of Boston, permission is hereby granted to all those who display the flag of the United States during the centennial year of 1922 to display the flag of the City of Boston in conjunction therewith.

James M. Curley, Mayor.

POLE PETITIONS APPROVED.

The Mayor has approved the following petitions for the erection of poles received from the Board of Street Commissioners:

West End Street Railway Company, Dorchester avenue, addition, etc., of tracks.

Edison Electric Illuminating Company, Freeport street, Ward 20, erect one pole.

Edison Electric Illuminating Company, Moreland street, Ward 16, erect one pole.

Edison Electric Illuminating Company, Trenton street, Ward 1, extend time to erect one pole.

New England Telephone and Telegraph Company, N street, East Seventh and East Sixth streets, Ward 10, extend time to erect eight poles.

Postal Telegraph Cable Company, Rutherford avenue, remove twenty-seven poles.

FIRE BOAT EQUIPMENT.

Mayor Curley and Chief John Taber of the Fire Department both announce that no decision has yet been reached to equip Boston's three fireboats with radiophones.

Chief Taber declares that the matter will be given due consideration some time in the future, but that nothing will be done about it immediately.

Before any step is taken there will be conferences with fire officals of other cities which are just trying the device now in this field.

SALE OF EDIPHONE.

The Mayor has granted permission for the sale of an ediphone by the Fire Department to the Hospital Department, together with its equipment, for the sum of $100.

FIRE DEPARTMENT ORDERS.

General Order No. 25.

I. Loss of Department Property.

The attention of the members of the fire force is called to rule 353 of the Rules and Regulations of the department. The provisions of this rule apply to the clothing issued to the members by the department, especially rubber fire-coats.

II. Uniform Overcoats.

Uniform overcoats will be worn from November 15 to April 1. The overcoats will not be collected for storage until May 1st in order that the coats may be worn, at the option of each member, in the event of any unseasonable weather.

III. Changes in Apparatus Assignment.

The following additions in apparatus assignments are hereby announced to take effect at 9 a. m., Friday, March 31, 1922. Company commanders will see that these changes are made immediately on the assignment cards.

By order of the Fire Commissioner,

John O. Taber,
Chief of Department.

REJECTION OF CLAIMS.

Hon. E. Mark Sullivan, the Corporation Counsel, announces the Law Department has disapproved five claims against the city, in three of which no amounts were specified, and the other two amounted to $452.50, and are classified as follows:

Against the Fire Department, one, in which no amount was specified; against the Police Department, one, amounting to $450; against the Public Works Department, three, in two of which no amounts were specified, and the other one amounted to $2.50.

All these claims have been disapproved for the reason that there appeared to be no legal liability on the part of the city.

GARAGE PETITIONS APPROVED.

The Mayor has approved the following petitions for garages received from the Board of Street Commissioners:

Robert A. Gaston, Jr., 60 Orchard street, Ward 22, one car.

Thomas E. Hannigan, 90 and 92 Welles avenue, Ward 20, one car.

Peter A. Murray, 1209 and 1211 Columbus avenue, Ward 15, additional gasolene, 2,000 gallons.

CONTRACT AMENDED.

The contract of the John Bowen Company for the erection and completion of the Thorndike Memorial Building, East Concord street, Boston, Mass., has been amended by striking out Clause 35 on pages 25 and 26, which is entitled "Fire Insurance," and substituting in place thereof:

"The Contractor shall, during the progress of the work, maintain fire insurance on said work in the name of the City and to cover his own interests against loss or damage by fire. The policies shall cover all work incorporated in the building. They shall be in sums equal to at least 80 per cent of the value of the work, based on the certificates of payment issued by the Architect and approved by the Board, beginning with the first certificate issued after the first floor construction is in place."

It has also been agreed, in view of the fact that the contractor's accepted bid was based on the insurance being taken out and maintained by the owner, that the contractor shall be reimbursed for the expense of providing and maintaining this insurance.

RETIREMENT OF VETERAN.

Mayor Curley has approved the application for retirement of J. Francis Chickey, a veteran of the Civil War, who has been employed in the Public Works Department as clerk at the Brighton paving yard since April 30, 1900. He has reached the age of eighty-four years and is now unable to fully perform his duties. Mr. Chickey will be retired April 1, 1922, at half his present salary of $1,400.

MAYOR FAVORS REDUCED RATES.

Mayor Curley declares insurance rate reductions already made by the Boston Board of Fire Underwriters on account of completion of the downtown high-pressure service are paltry and believes the Board could well order immediately a flat reduction of at least 30 per cent more, supplementing the reductions already made.

With this aim in mind, Mr. Curley conferred with President Charles H. J. Kimball of the Board, and its secretary, Elliot Cabot, and Public Works Commissioner Joseph A. Rourke upon the 31st instant.

Mr. Rourke supports the Mayor in his opinion that a further reduction could well be made.

Mayor Curley points out that many large downtown buildings are equipped with sprinkler systems. The reduction of fire hazard this measure guarantees, plus that given by the high pressure service, minimizes the danger of a downtown conflagration. The fire insurance rates ought to come down correspondingly, declares Mayor Curley.

Unless the Mayor gets promise of immediate action he will suspend construction of two miles of mains now being laid, and, after that, look around for some other way to bring about the desired reduction, if this means should fail, he declares.

RULING BY ATTORNEY GENERAL REQUESTED.

Upon request of Mayor Curley, Representative John W. McCormack of South Boston has presented an order in the House of Representatives directing the Attorney General to render an opinion whether the contract between the Commonwealth and the Boston Elevated Railway Company can be rescinded for the fraud of the company, as follows:

Ordered, that the opinion of the Attorney General be requested as to whether the contract between the Commonwealth and the Boston Elevated Railway Company, as set forth in chapter 159, Special Acts of 1918, is invalid and of no binding effect, and can be set aside by the courts upon appropriate proceedings instituted in behalf of the Commonwealth, if, in fact, the contract was induced or procured by the Boston Elevated Railway Company or its agent by fraud, improper influence, bribery or corruption of members of the General Court, provided that no vested rights of stockholders are thereby violated.

The Attorney General shall report to the House of Representatives on or before April 20, 1922.

STUART STREET IMPROVEMENT.

The continuation of Stuart street, Back Bay, from Dartmouth street to Huntington avenue will be made by the Public Works Department as soon after June 1 as possible.

The contract for razing the dwelling houses at 1, 2 and 3 Oxford terrace has been awarded by Nathan Matthews to the American Building Wrecking Company for $500. Mr. Matthews is the owner of the property to be razed, as well as owning the Hotel Oxford, part of which will have to be moved to allow for the extension of the street. The work of wrecking the three buildings mentioned above will be begun next week, as they must be razed by June 1.

DEATH OF POLICE COMMISSIONER CURTIS.

Hon. Edward Upton Curtis, Police Commissioner of Boston, died suddenly at his home, 131 Bay State road, upon Tuesday, the 28th instant, at 2.30 p. m., from cardiac failure.

Mr. Curtis was a native of Roxbury, where he was born March 26, 1861, in the house at 74 Highland street, where he resided for approximately fifty years. Six generations of the Curtis family had lived upon this estate, near Boylston Station, Jamaica Plain, and which was for many years a landmark in the district.

The deceased was the son of George and Mary Ann (Upton) Curtis. He received his early education in the grammar and Latin schools in Roxbury and in a private institution at Farmington, Me. Mr. Curtis entered Bowdoin College in the class of 1882 and was graduated with the degree of A.B. Three years later Bowdoin granted him the degree A. M. and in 1914 the degree LL.D.

Mr. Curtis was admitted to the Suffolk Bar in 1885 and formed a partnership with William Gardner Reed under the firm name of Reed & Curtis. Mr. Curtis was elected City Clerk of Boston in 1889.

The Republican Convention in the fall of 1894, unanimously nominated Mr. Curtis as their candidate for Mayor, and he was elected by a plurality of 2,000, and assumed the office, January 7, 1895. As Mayor of Boston he secured important amendments to the City Charter by enactment of the Legislature in 1895, one of the most important being that of the subsitution of one commissioner for a board of commissioners at the head of each city department. Another important result achieved by Mr. Curtis was the creation of the present Election Board.

After serving as Mayor, and upon his retirement from office, Mr. Curtis was appointed a member of the Metropolitan Park Commission by Governor Wolcott and served on the special committee for the construction work at Revere Beach, when this important sea shore reservation was added to the domain of the Commonwealth.

In 1906 President Roosevelt appointed Mr. Curtis Assistant United States Treasurer of Boston. Subsequently on December 1, 1909, Secretary Franklin McVey appointed Mr. Curtis Collector of the Port of Boston to succeed Col. George H. Lyman. Mr. Curtis succeeded to the office of Commissioner of the Police Department of Boston soon after the death of Stephen O'Meara, the appointment being made by Gov. Samuel W. McCall.

Mr. Curtis was married to Miss Margaret Maud Watterman, October 27, 1897, and two children were born of this union, Miss Penelope and Miss Margaret Curtis who, with the widow, survive.

Statement of Mayor James M. Curley.

"The death of Hon. Edwin U. Curtis who gave to three important offices, Mayor, Metropolitan Park Commissioner and Police Commissioner a singular devotion to duty of high character and unswerving fidelity to public service is a genuine loss to the city.

"Mr. Curtis was a man of tremendous sincerity of purpose and interested in every service which was of benefit to Boston. He commanded a wide and influential circle of friends, not only in Boston but throughout the country, who will deeply mourn the loss of one who served with a steadfast interest of the highest character in every office which he held."

Office of the Acting Police Commissioner,
Boston, March 28, 1922.

General Order No. 1147.

For the second time within a few years, it becomes my sad duty to announce to the Police Department the loss of its revered commissioner. Hon. Edwin U. Curtis died very suddenly at his home this afternoon, and in his death the department is called upon to mourn the loss of a wise executive and a loyal friend, whose kindly thoughtfulness for their comfort and welfare has endeared him to every member of the department, in whose behalf I extend to his bereaved family our deepest sympathy.

Michael H. Crowley,
Acting Police Commissioner.

FIRE DEPARTMENT ORDERS.

General Order No. 23.

I. Insignia for Department Branches.

Hereafter officers and other uniformed men attached to the various branches of the department will wear insignia as outlined in the following schedule:

Officers receiving from $3,000 to $3,500, insignia of district chief.

Officers receiving from $2,500 to $3,000, insignia of captain.

Officers receiving from $2,100 to $2,300 insignia of lieutenant.

Assistant operators receiving from $1,400 to $1,800, regular department insignia for privates, consisting of Greek cross with letters "F. A." in center.

II. School of Instruction in the Care and Operation of All-Service Type Gas Mask.

In order that the officers and privates shall have a thorough knowledge of the care and operation of the Burrell All-Service Type gas mask, a school of instruction will be inaugurated with Capt. Daniel J. Hurley of Rescue 1 as instructor.

The school is to be attended by the officers and privates of the following named ladder companies:

Ladder Companies 2, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 12, 13, 14, 16, 17, 18, 26 and 28.

There will be two classes daily, consisting of about eight members in each class, until all have received instruction. Deputy chiefs will arrange for the officers and privates in the above companies in their respective divisions to attend the school.

III. Bureau of University Extension Courses.

The Acting Fire Commissioner has been informed by the Bureau of University Extension that over three hundred applications have been received from members of the Boston Fire Department for the University Extension Course in preparation for civil service examinations announced in General Order No. 18, c. s. This display of interest reflects great credit on the personnel of the Boston Fire Department, and shows a desire on the part of the men to advance and improve themselves when the proper opportunity is offered. The Acting Fire Commissioner hopes that many more men will give favorable consideration to the advantages offered, and urges upon the men, once they have started the course, the importance of applying themselves with industry and effort so as to obtain the greatest benefit possible.

By order of the Acting Fire Commissioner.

John O. Taber,
Chief of Department.

NEEDY VETERANS RECEIVE FIRST CONSIDERATION.

Chairman Payson Dana of the Massachusetts Civil Service Commission has acceded to the request made by Mayor Curley that all World War veterans at present receiving unemployment aid from the City of Boston be given preference on the civil service lists.

This decision of the Civil Service Commission should result in a saving to the City of Boston, in the Soldiers' Relief Department, of approximately $200,000 during the present year, as upwards of 1,000 men will be employed upon the East Boston Tunnel improvements.

The Secretary of the Boston Municipal Employment Bureau, Luke E. Shields, has compiled a list of names of 300 veterans, which will be submitted at once to the Civil Service Commission. Everyone who is able to work will be afforded an opportunity.

SOUTH AMERICAN TRADE ASSURED.

The Commercial and Industrial Bureau of the City of Boston announce the recently established Manufacturers' Export Company, Limited, which has headquarters at 131 State street and which designs to find an outlet for industrial New England in the Argentine Republic has received a number of contracts from manufacturers in New England to act as their sales agents in Buenos Aires.

Dr. Bernard J. Alter of the company sails from New York for Buenos Aires on Thursday of this week carrying with him a large assortment of samples for their show rooms, upon which sales will be based. Mr. John Gray, manager of the Export Company, will sail later and is enthusiastically certain that a good trade under the best conditions will be built up.

It is unfortunate that at present no direct shipments can be made from Boston to Buenos Aires and shipments must be made now from New York, where the necessary consular papers must be secured. In time this defect will be remedied as trade increases and cargoes are accumulated in quantity sufficient to induce a steamship to call here.

Meantime Boston is one of the few great seaports which has no Argentine consul functioning here. Mayor Curley believes the commercial importance and dignity of the city require the presence of such an official and has written to the Argentine ambassador calling attention to this fact and asking him to have the neglect remedied.

NOTICE TO LICENSED ELECTRICIANS AND ELECTRICAL CONTRACTORS WITHIN THE CITY OF BOSTON.

Section 1, chapter 339, Acts of 1908, provides that any person, firm or corporation failing to notify the Fire Commissioner, before commencing work, of the installing of wiring or apparatus, or making any changes in connection with installations in this city, shall be subject to a fine of not less than ten nor more than fifty dollars for each offense.

The department is doing its utmost to protect life and property against hazardous electrical installations, and the only way this may be properly accomplished is for you to lend your assistance and comply with the law by notifying this department of any work which you may perform, thereby insuring proper inspection and approval by the proper authorities before current may be turned on.

Failure to comply with the above law will result in the company supplying current being ordered to cut current off said illegal installations, and may lead to considerable trouble for the party performing such work.

Yours respectfully,

Joseph P. Manning,
Acting Fire Commissioner.

SETTLEMENT OF BOSTON.

Boston was settled in the latter part of August, 1630, by Puritan colonists under Governor John Winthrop. The name of the original settlement was changed to Boston from Trimountaine by order of the Court of Assistants on September 7 (O. S.), 1630. This date was moved forward by the New Style calendar in 1752 to September 17, the recognized date of the founding of Boston. The name, Trimountaine, had been given because of the three peaks of the most prominent hill, afterward called Beacon Hill, much higher then than now. By the Indians the place was called Shawmut. The name, Boston, was derived from the English town of Boston in Lincolnshire, the home of some of the leading colonists and promoters of the enterprise.

MAYOR AIDS VETERANS.

Mayor Curley gave unemployed veterans of the World War material aid when he appointed 150 more to the Transit Department for work on the big $2,500,000 East Boston Subway terminal. He also announced that thirty more veterans will be employed at once by the Park Department.

Since February 6 Mayor Curley has placed about 580 veterans in city employment and this total will be swelled soon to 640 by the appointment of sixty more for work in the Public Works Department. In addition to the East Boston employment the Mayor plans to have about 1,000 more engaged on the Strandway improvement in South Boston and on bridge repair work.

The employment of thirty men in the Park Department is the result of a letter to the commission from Mayor Curley in which he requested that veterans be employed and the expense charged to the balances of the various playgrounds under control of the Park Department.

Proposals, with a certified check for $400, will be received at the above office until 12 o'clock noon Wednesday, April 12, 1922, at which time and place they will be publicly read. A duplicate bid, without check, must be filed with the City Auditor prior to the time named for opening bids. The Superintendent reserves the right to reject any or all proposals or any part of a proposal and award the contract as he deems for the best interests of the city. All contracts made subject to appropriations to meet payments thereunder.

MUNICIPAL BUILDING, BRIGHTON.

The following was received:

City of Boston.
Office of the Mayor, March 17, 1922.

To the City Council:

Gentleman,—In response to your request of February 20 I am transmitting herewith a report from the Superintendent of Public Buildings relative to sites available, and the cost of same, for a municipal building in Brighton.

Respectfully yours.
JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

City of Boston.
Public Buildings Department,
March 10, 1922.

Hon. James M. Curley,
Mayor of Boston:

Dear Sir,—Replying to the inclosed order from the City Council, which was referred to me, and having reference to a report on the available sites and location of same for a municipal building in Brighton, I respectfully state that I have visited Brighton and have selected several sites which would be available, have taken said subject up with the Assessing Department and respectfully submit the attached statement.

Respectfully yours,
FRED J. KNEELAND,
Superintendent of Public Buildings.

Placed on file.

DEPUTY COMMISSIONER OF PUBLIC WORKS.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, March 18, 1922.

To the City Council:

Gentlemen,—Owing to the size and varied activities of the Public Works Department, a large part, and in my opinion a disproportionate part, of the work imposed on the commissioner has consisted of the signing of bills, pay rolls, and requisitions and attending personally to other clerical and detail work, thereby consuming time which might better be devoted to improving the efficiency of the department and devising means of bettering the service rendered to the public.

This condition has existed since the establishing of the department, and in order to relieve the commissioner to some extent of these more or less perfunctory duties I recommend the passage of the accompanying ordinance.

Respectfully yours,
JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

City of Boston.
In the Year Nineteen Hundred and Twenty-two.

An Ordinance Relative to the Deputy Commissioner of Public Works.

Be it ordained by the City Council of Boston, as follows:

Section one of chapter twenty-eight of the Revised Ordinances of 1914, as amended by chapter three of the Ordinances of 1916, chapter two of the Ordinances of 1917, and chapter three of the Ordinances of 1921, is hereby further amended by adding at the end thereof the following:

The commissioner may, from time to time, by a writing approved by the mayor and deposited with the city auditor, designate, for such period as may be specified therein, one of his division engineers to be deputy commissioner. The deputy commissioner shall have authority, by virtue of such designation, to approve and sign bills, drafts, pay rolls, and requisitions, and to perform such other routine duties as the commissioner may require, but shall not have authority to make any permanent appointments nor to make contracts, except in the absence of the commissioner and then only under a separate authorization under section twenty-two of chapter three of the Revised Ordinances of 1914.

Referred to the Committee on Ordinances.

EMPLOYMENT OF CITIZENS.

The following was received:

Office of the Mayor, March 18, 1922.

To the City Council:

Gentlemen,—I submit herewith and recommend the immediate passage of an ordinance to amend section 4 of chapter 9 of the Ordinances of 1921, concerning contracts made by the city.

I am entirely in accord with the proposition that in all work controlled by the city both the contractors and those employed by them shall be citizens, and have already issued orders to the several heads of departments to see that the ordinance is strictly enforced and to charge their inspectors with the duty of reporting any violation of it.

Section 4 of the ordinances, however, in my opinion and in the opinion of the heads of the several departments, imposes a very clumsy and cumbersome method of ascertaining whether or not the employment of noncitizens under certain circumstances may be authorized.

I have established with the approval of the City Council an employment bureau which has already in only a month's existence more than justified the appropriation made for it for a year, and the amendment submitted herewith contemplates a certificate from the head of the employment bureau that he is unable to find any citizen competent and willing to do the work required before authorization is given to employ a noncitizen.

This appears to me to be a much better method of procedure, and it will have the additional advantage of encouraging registration with the bureau by citizens out of work and increase its scope and value.

I shall hold the department heads and the head of the employment bureau to a strict accountability in this matter in order that there shall be no evasion of the spirit or intention of the ordinance.

Respectfully yours,
JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

City of Boston.
In the Year Nineteen Hundred and Twenty-two.

An Ordinance Concerning Contracts Made by the City.

Be it ordained by the City Council of Boston, as follows:

Chapter nine of the Ordinances of 1921 is hereby amended by striking out section four of said ordinance and inserting in place thereof the following:

Section 4. The authorization provided for in the preceding section shall not be issued until the head of the department shall have received from the person in charge of the employment bureau established by the city a certificate that there are no persons on his list who are citizens and who are competent and willing to perform the work required. Where the employment is to be by a contractor or subcontractor the head of department shall require in addition to the said certificate a sworn statement from such contractor or subcontractor that he is unable to obtain citizens to perform the work.

Referred to the Committee on Ordinances.

PETITIONS REFERRED.

Coun. FORD, for the Executive Committee, submitted the following, viz.,

1. Report on petition of Hyman W. Starr (referred today) for permit to sell, rent or lease firearms at 401 Columbus avenue — that a permit be granted.

Report accepted; permit granted on the usual conditions.

2. Report on petition of Maria Paporello (referred today) for permit for children to appear at Jordan Hall, April 26 — that permit be granted.

Report accepted; permit granted on the usual conditions.

3. Report on order (referred March 13) to accept act relative to payment of a sum of money to mother of Arthur B. McGill—that the order ought to pass.

Report accepted; order passed.

CONVENIENCE STATION, EAST BOSTON.

Coun. HAGAN offered an order—That the Board of Park Commissioners be requested, through his Honor the Mayor, to meet the urgent desires of the people of East Boston to install in Central square a convenience station for men and women, either above or below ground, as will meet with the approval of the Board.

Coun. HAGAN—Mr. President, I am going to move a suspension of the rule for the passage of this order, as I feel quite confident that every member of the Council will be glad to vote for the order at this time. As a matter of fact, this is a matter which has been agitated for a long term of years. I can remember six or seven years ago presenting such an order, but the accommodations suggested have not been granted, Mayors have come and gone, and nothing has been done. I think it is time that somebody took some decided action to see if we cannot do something to meet the wishes, the actual necessities of the people of that district. Therefore, I ask for a suspension of the rule, and a passage of the order.

Coun. DONOGHUE—Mr. President, I have no objection to suspension of the rule and passage of the order offered by Coun. Hagan. I merely want to say in connection with the order introduced at this time that it is about time that the Park Department of the City of Boston paid some attention to orders passed by the City Council. During my term in the City Council I know of no other commission or department which has so completely ignored orders which have been passed by the City Council as has the Park Department. A flagrant outstanding exhibition, to my mind, of the lack of courtesy shown to the City Council by the department has been the lack of action by the department on suggested names of squares and playgrounds in honor of veterans of the World War. Up in the district where I happen to live there is a playground called the Randolph Street Playground, and an order was introduced here almost a year ago asking that the name of that playground be changed to Lester J. Roach Park. But no action has been taken upon the matter, so far as I know or so far as the President of the body who introduced the order knows, in the direction of changing that name, in honor of one of the young fellows of the district who gave his life for the country. A similar condition prevails out at Marcella street, as well as in other sections of the city. I think the Park Department should take action upon those matters. They should at least let the Council know whether they favor or oppose the changing of the names of these playgrounds in honor of veterans who gave their lives in the service of their country. I feel that the Park Department has fallen asleep on its job particularly on these matters. The same attitude has been taken on other orders that have been introduced by different members of the body. One that occurs to my mind is in connection with this order offered by Coun. Hagan, dealing with a proposed convenience station. I introduced an order to eliminate one of the convenience stations located on Washington street, near the Franklin Square House, in the South End district. It is entirely a man's convenience station, concerning which a great deal of complaint has been made. I introduced that order here more than eight months ago, and I have yet to hear even an answer to it. I think the commission ought to show us at least the courtesy of an answer to orders that we put in.

Coun. WATSON—Mr. President, I want to state that I agree with the expressions to which Coun. Donoghue has given utterance, to the letter. I think the Park Commission has treated this body, in each of the nine years that I have been here, in a way in which it has not deserved to be treated. I introduced several orders last year calling for the changing of names of certain parks, in honor of veterans. There is one that I have in mind particularly, which has also been referred to by Coun. Donoghue, concerning the Marcella Street Playground. "Marcella street" means nothing. It does not commemorate any man or anything, except a mere street. I put in an order to have the department consider the advisability of calling that James Connelly Playground more than a year ago. I have sought an opportunity to be heard by the Board on the matter, but for some reason the members have been out of town or could not hear me at one time or another, and Mr. Shea could not act alone. I put in another order to change the name of Wood Island Park to "Veterans of the World's War Park," or something of that nature, or "Hero Park," but nothing has been done about it, and we have not even been given the courtesy of recognition in the matter. One of the active citizens of East Boston, Mr. Giblin, has been continually after me in the matter, and I have tried to get action or to have a hearing upon it, and some of the East Boston papers have been calling me this and that because of my position on the matter. I do think it is high time that the Park Department showed us a little courtesy. One of the reasons for lack of action in these things may be because of the fact that the only paid member of the commission is the chairman, and he is in the minority. The others are unpaid. It is the old story, frequently no pay employment is no good and paid employment at times of very little good. That is the whole story. As Mayor Curley told us the other day, in the matter of the ordinance for three Transit Commissioners, at salaries of $5,000 for two of them and $7,500 for the chairman, it was his experience that where men served simply for glory, in city, state or nation, they did not give what they should give to the public. I agree with him heartily. You can pick out some of the most eminent men we have in the city, men of high standing and ideals When they are appointed to public positions, working without compensation while they may love their work, as members of an unpaid board you do not get results from them. That is the trouble with the Park Department. There are two unpaid members on the Board, and the details of the department are run by the paid chairman. But the unpaid members, feeling that they are serving for nothing, that they are doing the city a favor by serving for nothing, are arrogant and look down upon us. I, as one member of this body, do not propose to let any unpaid commission or any unpaid board treat me as a member of this body otherwise than with respect. But I have waited upon that Board and tried to get proper consideration from them, and I have not received it. As a matter of fact, there are certain newspapers in East Boston, with a paid circulation of perhaps ten or fifteen copies a week, which have more influence with the Park Department than I have as a member of this government. I think it is high time that the Park Department showed a little life. I am not criticising the chairman; he is fairly good. But I am criticising the unpaid members. We want some action, and I trust that in the near future we will have a hearing and that I and other members of the body who have introduced orders requesting that certain names be given to parks under the control of the Park Department, will have an opportunity to be heard. Certainly we should be given some consideration. These men do not think it wrong to name a location away out on Beacon street "Gaston square." Must a man be of tremendous importance in the community in order to have a square named after him? Is no consideration to be paid to the humble man, a veteran of the war, even such small consideration as is shown by naming a park to commemorate the service he has done for the country? I am strongly of the same opinion in this matter as you, Coun Donoghue, Coun. Hagan. For years we have been introducing orders, and no attention has been paid to them by this department. I remember, Coun. Hagan, that six or seven years ago you put in practically the same order that you have introduced here today, and made a long speech in favor of it, showed an interest in the matter. But you heard nothing from it. I agree with you, and I would simply like to amend here by adding to it that the Park Department inquire into the matter and furnish the Council with the probable cost of the convenience station named in the order.

Coun. HAGAN—Mr. President, I accept the amendment and gladly welcome the co-operation of my esteemed colleague.

Coun. GILBODY—Mr. President, I would like to say just a word in addition to what has been said by the two members of the body on the other side. I think this commission has unjustly treated many thousands of residents of our city who have attempted weekly and monthly to get some satisfaction. It seems to me that their request should be given some consideration, either "Yes" or "No." It seems to be impossible to get either answer from this body upon the bill, and I merely rise, on behalf of thousands of people of Boston, to say "Amen" to the previous remarks of Coun. Watson and Coun. Donoghue.

Coun. MORIARTY—Mr. President, I want to say that I am in the same position as some of the gentlemen who have spoken, so far as introducing orders to name spaces after veterans of the World War is concerned, But I do not blame the Park Department altogether. I take my own blame individually upon myself. If I introduce an order here and do not receive the recognition which I ought to receive, I keep plugging at No. 33 Beacon street, and I have been quite successful in following up that method. It is all right to introduce an order here today, because some one we meet asks us to do it, and we do it in a sort of fashion; but I do not feel that we have done our duty if within a certain time we find that we are getting no action in regard to the matter we are interested in, unless we follow it up. I feel that some of the criticism of the commission here is justified, but, again, I feel that some of the criticism is not justified. I think if we do not feel that the commissioners are doing their duty we ought to have the clerk notify them to be here at our next meeting, and tell them then and there what we desire from them. I don't think we ought simply to express our opinion here in this way. I do not have any idea that any of the commissioners are going to read the criticisms that have been made of them here today and therefore our words have gone for naught.

Coun. WATSON.—That isn't so.

Coun. MORIARTY.—Well, Mr. President, I am going to do my own thinking. The member on the other side may do his for himself, but I am going to continue to do my own for myself, without any remarks from him. I will say that I am not so intimate with the Park Commissioners as to know what they do do and what they do not do. If he knows their daily habits, whether they read the newspapers or the minutes, in regard to our proceedings, he knows more about them then I do. But I believe the right way to do, if we are sincere. is to ask the whole commission to come to our next meeting, and have our clerk instructed to ask them to be prepared to answer as to what has been done about orders that we have introduced here concerning that commission for the past few years, orders upon which we have received no recognition, and we can then ask them the reason why. I believe if we go about it in that way we may be able to accomplish something, learning about orders that have been sent to the Park Department upon which there has been no action. I want to say that I introduced an order here a short while ago for the naming of the pier in South Boston. I have got no action upon it up to the present time. The Park Commissioners have not acted. I feel the same as other members of the Council. But I feel that the best way to find out what we want to know is to ask them to appear here at our next meeting; and after this resolve is acted upon I am going to ask that the Council request the Park Commissioners—not the chairman, not one unpaid commissioner, but the chairman and the unpaid commissioners,—to appear here at the next meeting and then let us say in our humble way what we expect and what we do not expect from them in behalf of those we represent.

Coun. WATSON.—Mr. President, I have been nine years in this body and I don't think I have to take any suggestion from any other member to go and have things done by any of the different departments. I don't think that the other members of this Council are failing to do their duty. There are other members besides the councilor opposite who do their duty, who try to serve the people properly. So far as our proceedings here not being noticed by the Park Commissioners is concerned, I will guarantee that before five o'clock —and it is now five minutes past four—the telephone, 4066 Haymarket, will ring and somebody will ask for the chairman, and the chairman will be told by somebody that Jerry Watson, Johnnie Donoghue, Gilbody and Hagan have been kicking the slats out of him and the commission.

Coun. HAGAN—Not in what I said.

Coun. WATSON—Well, your order started the whole thing. It will get to them, of course, it will get to them. As far as letting departments know what we think of them is concerned, I guess everybody here knows my reputation, and you all know what I will tell the chairman of the Park Commission when I see him. I have been on his back continually in connection with different orders here, different things in which we are interested: and if I was not on his back, good Lord! I would be dead, because Giblin has been chasing me three times a week about one of these matters in particular, and I have been on the chairman's back in regard to it. I cannot get at the others. They are there occasionally only. They give as much as they are paid for, and that is nothing, and they get nothing in return. But when the gentleman opposite (Coun. Moriarty) gets up and suggests that he is on the job, that he goes at these things in the right way, and that the rest of us ought to go at the heads of departments the way he does, I simply want to say that anybody in Boston who knows me knows that I never fail to read the riot act to anybody who does not do as I think he should do, because that is a disease of mine. I have been getting after people for years, and have been doing my duty as well as any of the other members. I simply say that the Park Department continually ignores me, as one member of the body, the same as they ignore others, and I suppose they will continue to do it as long as two of the members are performing their duty without pay

Coun. DONOGHUE—Mr. President, I have no desire to bring in any arguments as to what is the best, most advisable way, to have this matter handled, whether we should take the advice of the councilor on the other side (Coun. Moriarty) who first advised us that we should attend to these matters personally by going to the commission, and concluded by saying that we should bring the commission here and tell them what we have been saying this afternoon, or whether we should do something else. I personally feel that we will accomplish some results through publicity as to what has taken place here this afternoon. I also want to assure the councilor on the other side that as far as personal application is concerned, I was not the introducer of either of the orders I have referred to, the Randolph Street Playground or the Marcella Street Playground orders. They were introduced by other members of the Council. But upon those, as upon other matters, I feel that we should have some action, not through personally chasing after the members of the commission but because of the fact that we are members of this Council and that when orders are introduced here and we pass them some attention should be paid to them by the different departments. Of course, we may all have different ideas as to the best way to handle propositions that come up here. We might all be the wisest men in the world, and still we would have differences of opinion as to the best means to employ. What I might think would be wrong. I don't claim to be infallible, and what some other councilor might think as to the proper way of accomplishing results might be correct or incorrect. I do, however, think that the agitation that has been stirred up here this afternoon will at least convey to the Park Department the fact that we realize that they are not taking any action on a number of orders passed by this body. Whether we should have them come down here so that we may tell them personally what we think of their action, or whether it should stand in the minutes of the City Council, does not matter to me, so long as the result is accomplished.

Coun. MORIARTY—Mr. President, I want to say that I made my remarks with no thought of having either the councilors on the other side (Coun. Watson and Donoghue) or the other six members follow the path I have followed. I do want to say to one of the councilors on the other side that if he intended any inference that I would telephone the Park Department, I am not of his stature and I don't do any telephoning as he does; and I don't say that from hearsay from any other man, because I heard the councilor on the other side (Coun. Watson) a week ago today telephone to the Mayor's office informing the Mayor's office that everything went through O. K.

Coun. WATSON—I did.

Coun. MORIARTY—So far as any inference he may have intended to the effect that I would telephone to the Park Department or to any other department in regard to our proceedings in this Council, no such insinuation strikes me. I am not here to make any apologies for the Park Department or any other department, but if I understand my duties—and I think I do—every request that has been sent to this Park Department has been sent to the Mayor, for the Mayor to request the department to do certain things. Now, if we want to criticise, we may criticise two departments. We may criticise the Park Department and we may criticise the Mayor's office. And I don't mean this administration, because up to the present time I don't believe, since the present Mayor has been sitting, that any such request has gone through. But I do believe that when an order goes through this body requesting the Park Department to furnish certain information or to do certain things, through his Honor the Mayor, it is up to the Mayor's office, that after a certain period of time if no action is taken through the Mayor's office, it is the Mayor's office that is responsible for not having the heads of departments give the Council the desired information. I again say that I believe it shows negligence on our individual part if we do not follow up matters and if answers do not come back here to orders that we pass, that it is then time for us to get after the things personally, and if nothing is done to get up on this floor and criticise. I have no criticism to make of Coun. Donoghue for introducing the order; I have no thought of criticising Coun. Watson for criticising the Park Department, or Coun. Gilbody or anybody else, because I have criticised heads of departments myself during my tenure of office, and I expect to do so again, not only the Park Department but other departments. But when insinuations seem to be made that I am a man who would call up the Park Department or any other department by telephone, and tell them what has happened here, I wish to say that I never was a copper and I never expect to be a copper in my life, carrying information. There is no head of a department or any member of this Council who can say that I have ever carried the action of the Council or of any individual man in any such way. I have never telephoned the action of the Council, not even to the Mayor's office, whether I was in or whether I was out. Unfortunately, I have always been out, and am out in the present time. I was out under the last administration and am out under the new administration. I do not give any information there and do not and have not given any to heads of departments, and do not intend to do so. So if the remark was made as applying to me, I want to stamp it as false right away. It rightfully belongs to those who do carry stories to heads of departments.

Coun. WATSON—Mr. President, small things for grown men to talk about, but oftentimes we get childish, and I am prone to do it myself. But I have made no reference to the gentleman opposite (Coun. Moriarty) about telephoning. He came back at me with his warm remarks about telephoning to the Mayor's office that everything had gone on all right. I wonder if he is peeved because I beat him to it, because I called up the Mayor's office and said that everything was beautiful today. He said, "I know it; another member telephoned me a minute ago." I don't know who it was. I don't say that it was the gentleman opposite. But he uses the telephone as much as anybody. Now, about being a copper——

President BRICKLEY—The Council will come to order. I think we have gone far enough on this matter.

Coun. WATSON—May I continue, please, Mr. President?

President BRICKLEY—We are discussing an order that has been introduced here. You may know more about parliamentary procedure than I do, but I think we have gone far enough with these sarcastic remarks. I think if we stick right to business we will get along better.

Coun. WATSON—Mr. President, may I have the courtesy extended to me of finishing my few remarks, or not?

President BRICKLEY—You may certainly continue, if you stick to the order, but I don't think you should go into personalities.

Coun. WATSON.—Mr. President, if I have said anything of a personal nature, I will gladly withdraw it. But I distinctly recall that in my first statement concerning telephone calls I mentioned no one's name. Another member has taken the floor and has mentioned me as doing a certain thing, and has insinuated that I was acting improperly. The time for the Chair to bring the gavel down in regard to personalities was then, not now. I will gladly yield.

Coun. MORIARTY—Mr. President, I feel that it isn't anything personal when you have got the goods, but when anybody leaves the inference that the other eight members are acting improperly, just as an insinuation, that is an entirely different thing. But when you can come out with the goods I don't think there is anything personal in that. And when I get up here and state a fact and a member takes the floor and comes back with another insinuation in regard to another member, without stating who he is, well, if I was as close to the Mayor's office as he is, I might find out who the other member was.

Coun. FORD—Mr. President, I move the previous question.

President BRICKLEY—The question is on suspension of the rule.

Coun. WATSON—Mr. President, I ask the courtesy of at least an opportunity to reply to the second last gentleman's remarks.

President BRICKLEY—Granted.

Coun. WATSON—Mr. President. I admit that I am in close. I admit it, and I don't blame others for trying to get in close. I didn't mention anything in my original remarks about any member of this body telephoning. I said distinctly that before five o'clock the telephone, 4066 Haymarket, would ring, and the chairman would be called on the phone and told by somebody that Jerry Watson, Gilbody, Hagan and Donoghue had in a way tanned the Park Commission, making no reference whatsoever to any member of this body. Therefore, I am inclined to think that if the shoe fits he may wear it.

Coun. HAGAN—Let me say that I was not the other member.

The rule was suspended and the order was passed.

REINSTATEMENT OF FRED L. CARROLL.

Coun. WATSON offered the following:

Resolved, That the City Council of the City of Boston favors the enactment of legislation to authorize the reinstatement of Fred L. Carroll in the Boston Fire Department.

Passed under a suspension of the rules.

SIDEWALK ORDER.

Coun. WATSON offered an order—That the Commissioner of Public Works make a sidewalk along both sides of St. John street, from Centre street to Rockview street, Ward 22, in front of the estates bordering thereon, said sidewalk to be from 3 to 10 inches above the gutter adjoining, to be from 5 to 12 feet in width, and to be built of artificial stone, with granite edgestones, under the provisions of chapter 196 of the Special Acts of 1917.

Passed under a suspension of the rule.

PENSION TO ADELINE F. D. ELKINS.

Coun. FORD offered an order—That chapter 167, Acts of 1922, entitled "An Act Authorizing the County of Suffolk to pension Adeline F. D. Elkins,' be and the same hereby is accepted.

Coun. FORD—Mr. President, I move a suspension of the rule on that matter. It should properly have come in before the recess, but I did not get it drawn. This lady has worked for thirty years in Mr. Campbell's office, in the Courthouse, and wants to be retired. We have already gone on record as favoring the legislation. If there are any questions to be asked by members of the Council, I shall be glad to answer them.

(The order was read for information of Coun. Watson.)

Coun. WATSON—What is her present salary?

Coun. FORD—I think $1,350 or $1,300. It is not a large sum, as far as the amount is concerned. It may be more than that, I am not quite sure. I know she has been there so long that she now has a desire to retire.

Coun. WATSON—Mr. President, I would like to see some action taken in regard to employees who are retired on fairly good salaries, to the effect that they shall not go to work outside. I think something should be done to prevent that sort of thing. They immediately take a job from somebody who needs it more than they do. But I suppose we cannot help that.

The order was passed under suspension of the rules.

TAKING OF DOCKING FACILITIES.

Coun. DONOGHUE offered an order—That his Honor the Mayor be requested to consider the advisability of taking the necessary steps with a view to taking over all docking facilities along the water front of the City of Boston.

Coun. DONOGHUE—Mr. President, I move a suspension of the rule and passage of the resolution. I merely want to say in connection with this matter that we have heard a great deal of discussion recently, particularly during the last mayoralty campaign, relative to increasing the standing of Boston as a commercial port. We have heard a great deal about its being a day nearer Europe than New York and also a day farther away from inland cities than almost any other city in the United States. As far as the water commerce of Boston is concerned, I personally feel that until such time as the docking facilities, the docks and wharves along the waterfront, are under municipal ownership we will not be able to compete with other cities such as New York and Baltimore, which seem to have got a lead on the City of Boston as far as increasing their commerce is concerned. I felt that this resolution I introduced might start the ball rolling. I realize that to carry it out will cost a tremendous amount of money figured in dollars and cents, somewhere in the neighborhood of $50,000,000 to $70,000,000, if the City of Boston were to immediately take over all the docking facilities along our waterfront; but I feel that in the end it would be a much better way of handling the matter than at present and would tend to draw commerce to our ports, if concerns which use ships going from one side of the Atlantic Ocean to the other knew that they could come in here and dock at municipally owned docks, where they would not be charged exorbitant prices for docking. We would then be in a better position to compete with the other cities along the waterfront. Until the time when some such action is taken, I feel that discussions about differentials and other matters that we have heard discussed recently, talk about our being a day nearer to Europe, and so on, are not going to avail us anything. Until such time as we offer to the shippers and the owners of steamships plying between foreign ports and American ports at least equal advantages with those that are offered by other cities along the waterfront, we are not going to be able to get the commerce that rightfully belongs to Boston because, as I said before, the private docks now owned by private interests charge so much for docking that those who want to come to Boston are prohibited from doing so by the docking costs, added to their other costs. So I think this proposition must at some time be taken up, and I believe that the time will come when the City of Boston will own and control all the docks along the waterfront. I ask for a suspension of the rules.

Coun. HAGAN—Mr. President, it appears to me that the object of the order the gentleman has offered is a very worthy one, but I am afraid that it is an error of judgment to ask us to act on it with such haste as would be involved in a suspension of the rule and passage at once, without further thought and consideration. I agree with the thought that if Boston owned its waterfront it would be to the advantage and benefit of Boston and its citizens commercially, but I am not sure that Boston would have any legal right to confiscate the waterfront property from private ownership. I do not venture this as a prophecy, but it does seem to me that before acting too hastily we should at least get the opinion of the Law Department in order to determine whether Boston has any legal right to confiscate or take by right of eminent domain the wharf property. If we have such right, I shall be glad to join with the gentleman; but I don't want to act hastily or in an ill-advised way in this matter. Again, the gentleman knows nothing about the cost. Neither do I. This may cost $25,000,000, or it may cost $125,000,000. The cost of anything undertaken by Boston should at least be considered before action is had. So, looking at the matter from the broad standpoint, considering the legal question and also the cost question, I am opposed to suspension of the rule or the passage of the order till we have consulted with the Law Department and know a little more about the matter than we do at the present time. This is a mighty important, mighty big problem, and while I think it is an extremely worthy one, as I said at the outset, and while it is one that I would say off-hand that I would favor, it may be that conditions would not permit of such action being taken at the present moment. I don't know what the conditions may be; the gentleman, I understand, does not know. Nobody knows. Let us find out where we are and keep our feet on the ground until we do.

Coun. WATSON—Mr. President, it is unfortunate that the gentleman did not understand the resolution as it was read. He may have thought he understood it, but when he refers to the danger of expense and illegal action in connection with the matter, that is buncombe. I don't see that those questions even suggest themselves with regard to the order as introduced.

Coun. HAGAN—Mr. President, I may have misunderstood the order.

Coun. WATSON—It is a resolution to the effect that his Honor the Mayor consider the advisability of doing this. We are not going to tie up $70,000,000 in thirty seconds here. I think the thought is an excellent one, and I think, inasmuch as there is no idea of tying up the city's funds, inasmuch as it merely asks the Mayor to consider the advisability of this action, we ought to move rapidly. It merely asks that the Mayor consider the advisability of doing so. Perhaps he has already considered it; perhaps we are behind him. I don't know. I have not heard anything concerning it, but I would like to have something done along the line suggested which will tend to encourage the use of our port. As the resolution reads in the way it does, it seems to me that we should act upon it today. This is not a matter that requires the presence of the Law Department down here. I think Coun. Hagan agrees with me, and I think he will withdraw his motion.

Coun. HAGAN—Mr. President, as I read the resolution I see that it does not commit the City of Boston or the city government to anything. It merely asks the Mayor to consider the advisability of it. If I had known that, if I had paid proper attention when the paper was read, I would have made no objection to action at this time.

Coun. DONOGHUE—Mr. President, I am glad that the gentleman acknowledges that the paper is drawn properly. I did not want to enter into any controversy over it. I felt that we were not in a position to take any definite action relative to the proposition, and this merely asks his Honor the Mayor to consider the advisability of action in the premises. My thought was that the Mayor is certainly as well versed as if not better versed than any member of the Council in this matter. If in his judgment action should be taken immediately he will undoubtedly so recommend. In fact, if he considers it advisable he will undoubtedly act anyway, whether we pass the resolution or not.

The rule was suspended and the resolution was passed.

ABANDONMENT OF RAILROAD YARD.

Coun. DONOGHUE offered an order—That his Honor the Mayor be requested to consider the advisability of taking whatever steps are necessary with a view of having the Boston & Albany Railroad abandon the present freight yard, located between Exeter street and Massachusetts avenue, along Boylston street, so that this property may be used for business purposes.

Coun. DONOGHUE—Mr. President, I would also move a suspension of the rule on this order, because I think it is also a very worthy order and one that should receive the attention of the present Mayor of the City of Boston. It has always seemed to me, looking at the situation there on Exeter and Boylston streets, alongside the Hotel Lenox, that we had there a vast stretch of fine land, practically in the heart of the new business district, which will be right at the foot of the new Stuart street, which we have heard so much about. I think that that property ought to be used for business purposes rather than remaining as an eyesore, simply continuing to be used as it is being used at present by the Boston & Albany Railroad as a freight yard. I think that the Boston & Albany Railroad could very well, from a civic standpoint and from the standpoint of pride in the City of Boston, whether we have the right politically to compel them to do so or not, agree to move their freight yards farther out from the center of the City of Boston. I think it is high time that those men in control of large, industrial, manufacturing and railroad activities in our community, should co-operate in the present agitation that is going on for the improvement of the City of Boston along industrial, commercial and financial lines. I think they could do no better than to interest themselves in the things that they know the citizens of Boston are interested in. I believe that the stockholders of the Boston & Albany Railroad would confer a very great favor from a civic point of view upon the residents of the City of Boston if they were to remove that present freight yard from its present location. They could very easily move it farther out and get just as much service from the standpoint of the railroad as they can get where it is located at the present time. I don't want to enter into discussion of the question whether or not we have a legal right, under eminent domain or otherwise, to confiscate the property of private interests. I am not agitating or favoring any such proposition. But I do believe there should be co-operation between private individuals on the one hand and the authorities of the City of Boston on the other hand, in all such enterprises as this, and I hope the rule will be suspended and that the order will pass.

The rule was suspended and the order was passed.

ROAD RACE, CATHEDRAL A. C.

Coun. DONOGHUE offered an order—That the Street Commissioners be requested to close to vehicular traffic on April 8, 1922, between 2 and 4.30 o'clock p. m., Union Park street, between Harrison avenue and the estate No. 75 on said street on the occasion of the Cathedral road race.

Passed under a suspension of the rule.

UNFINISHED BUSINESS.

The Council took up unfinished business, viz.:

1. Action on appointments submitted by the Mayor March 13, 1922, viz.:

Richard J. Devine, William Doonan, Andrew J. Dowd, Michael S. Drew and Charles M. Winters to be Constables of the City of Boston.

The appointments were confirmed, yeas 9.

2. Ordered, That the Board of Street Commissioners be authorized to sell at public auction at a price not less than twenty-five hundred (2,500) dollars the property at the corner of B and Athens streets, South Boston district, formerly used as a fire station, the proceeds to be credited to sales of city property.

On March 6, 1922, the foregoing order was read once and passed, yeas 8, nays 0.

The order was read a second time and again passed, yeas 8, nays (Coun. Watson) 1.

3. Ordered, That the sum of $750,000 be and hereby is appropriated for Columbus Park Improvements, and that to meet said appropriation the City Treasurer be and hereby is authorized to issue, from time to time, upon the request of the Mayor bonds or certificates of indebtedness of the city to said amount.

On March 6, 1922, the foregoing order was read once and passed, yeas 9.

The order was read a second time and again passed, yeas 9.

PRESENCE OF PARK COMMISSIONERS DESIRED.

Coun. GILBODY—Mr. President, I would offer a motion to the effect that we invite, request or demand the presence of the Park Commissioners before this body at our next meeting, with complete records on every request that has been made for the changing of the name of a park in honor of a World War hero.

President BRICKLEY—Before the Executive Committee?

Coun. GILBODY—Before the full Council, Mr. President. I ask a suspension of the rule that the motion may be acted upon at this time.

President BRICKLEY—I think it had better be before the Executive Committee.

Coun. GILBODY—Well, Mr. President, I will agree to that.

Coun. WATSON—And, Mr. President, I would like to add that we will also wish to ask them in regard to the matter that Coun. Hagan has intorduced an order about today.

President BRICKLEY—We can ask about that at the same time.

The motion was amended by inserting "the Executive Committee" in place of "this body," and as amended was carried.

GENERAL RECONSIDERATION.

Coun. MORIARTY moved a general reconsideration on all business transacted at the meeting, hoping that the same would not prevail. Lost.

Adjourned at 4.30 p. m., on motion of Coun. FORD, to meet on Monday, March 27, at two o'clock p. m.

Monday, March 27, 1922.

Regular meeting of the City Council, held in the Council Chamber, City Hall, at two o'clock p. m., President BRICKLEY in the chair and all the members present.

Laid over under the law.

PURCHASE OF CITY LAND.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, March 27, 1922.

To the City Council:

Gentlemen,—Mary M. Brady desires to purchase a parcel of land containing about 158 square feet on Washington street, Forest Hills, which was taken from her by the city in 1917 as part of the site for the West Roxbury Courthouse. The city paid $500 for this strip of land.

I am transmitting herewith a communication from the Superintendent of Public Buildings, stating that the property is no longer required for public purposes. I therefore recommend the passage of the accompanying order.

Respectfully yours,
JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

City of Boston,
Public Buildings Department,
March 27, 1922.

Hon. James M. Curley,
Mayor of Boston:

Dear Sir,—I wish to advise you that in 1917 the Board of Street Commissioners took by right of eminent domain certain property at the corner of Tower and Washington streets, Forest Hills, for a proposed site of the West Roxbury Courthouse.

Since that time a new site has been procured and the building is being erected, with the result that the city has no further use for the property owned by them at the corner of Tower and Washington streets, Forest Hills.

Respectfully yours,
FRED J. KNEELAND,
Superintendent of Public Buildings.

Ordered, That his Honor the Mayor be and hereby is authorized in the name and behalf of the city, for a price not less than $500, and in form satisfactory to the Law Department, to convey to Mary M. Brady a certain strip of land bounded northwest by Washington street, ten and 35/100 feet; north by other land of said Brady, thirty-two and 52/100 feet; and south by land of the City of Boston (Stony brook), thirty-seven and 33/100 feet, containing one hundred fifty-eight square feet, more or less; said parcel being shown on a plan marked "City of Boston, Washington Street, Tower Street, West Roxbury, January 26, 1917, F. O. Whitney, Chief Engineer, Street Laying-Out Department," and on file in office of said department.

Referred to the Executive Committee.

APPROPRIATIONS FOR PLAYGROUNDS.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, March 25, 1922.

To the City Council:

Gentlemen,—I am transmitting herewith an order covering appropriations for the following:

Christopher Gibson Playground, Improvements	$50,000
Eagle Hill Playground, Improvements	50,000
Christopher J. Lee Playground, Improvements	75,000
North End Park, Improvements	75,000
Allston Playground, Improvements	25,000

All of these improvements are very much needed, and in order that the playgrounds may be in condition for use this summer I respectfully recommend the immediate passage of the accompanying order.

Respectfully yours,
JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

Ordered, That the sum of $275,000 be appropriated to be expended by the Park Commissioners for the following, and that to meet said appropriations the City Treasurer be and hereby is authorized to issue, from time to time, on the request of the Mayor, bonds or certificates of indebtedness of the City of Boston to said amount:

Christopher Gibson Playground, Improvements	$50,000
Eagle Hill Playground, Improvements	50,000
Christopher J. Lee Playground, Improvements	75,000
North End Park, Improvements	75,000
Allston Playground, Improvements	25,000

Referred to the Committee on Finance.

RESCISSION OF GYMNASIUM ORDER, SOUTH BOSTON.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, March 27, 1922.

To the City Council:

Gentlemen,—I beg to submit herewith for reconsideration by your honorable body orders providing for the rescinding of the order passed August 22, 1921, and one passed January 31, 1922, authorizing the purchase of a site and erection of building for gymnasium in South Boston.

As stated in a previous message I believe other improvements in South Boston to be more important and of greater benefit to a larger number of persons. I therefore respectfully recommend the adoption of the accompanying orders.

Respectfully,
JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

Ordered, That so much of the loan order authorized August 22, 1921, for the purchase of a site and for the erection of building for gymnasium in South Boston, as has not been issued, amounting to $150,000, be and the same is hereby rescinded.

Ordered, That the loan order for $118,000 authorized January 31, 1922, for the purchase of a site and for the erection of building for gymnasium in South Boston, be and the same is hereby rescinded.

Referred to the Committee on Finance.

SALARY OF SUPERINTENDENT OF MARKETS.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, March 27, 1922.

To the City Council:

Gentlemen,—The added labors incident to the operation of the open-air markets, which properly conducted should be of inestimable value to the public at large, necessitates such additional labors as would make it desirable for the city to pay a salary to the Superintendent of Markets commensurate with the labors and responsibilities of this office. I accordingly recommend the passage of the accompanying ordinance.

Respectfully,
JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

City of Boston.
In the Year Nineteen Hundred and Twenty-two.
An Ordinance Concerning the Salary of the Superintendent of Markets.

Be it ordained by the City Council of Boston, as follows:

Section 5, chapter 3, of the Revised Ordinances of 1914 is hereby amended in the clause establishing the salary of the Superintendent of Markets by striking out the words "three thousand" and inserting in place thereof the words "four thousand."

Referred to the Committee on Ordinances.

PETITIONS REFERRED.

The following petitions were received and referred to the committees named, viz.:

Claims.

Charles H. Arnold, for compensation for injuries caused by being knocked down by a patrol wagon.

VIADUCT OVER BOSTON & ALBANY YARD.

Coun. WATSON offered an order—That the proper department be requested, through his Honor the Mayor, to send to the City Council an estimate of the cost of building a viaduct from Huntington avenue, corner of Exeter street, across the yard of the Boston & Albany Railroad, to either the corner of Fairfield or Gloucester street, giving a separate estimate on both locations.

Coun. WATSON—Mr. President, I think in justice to my colleague on the right (Coun. Donoghue) I should explain the purpose of this order, in view of the fact that it is somewhat in conflict with an order introduced by him at the last meeting and passed by this Council concerning the abandonment of the Albany yards at Exeter street, Huntington avenue and Boylston street. This proposition that I have in mind in no way interferes with his proposition, because if this viaduct with his proposition, because if this Albany changing the location of its yard, the viaduct could still be retained as a public highway. This matter upon which I have asked for information—a viaduct from the junction of Exeter street and Huntington avenue across the Albany Railroad to Gloucester or Fairfield street—is not a new thought. Many years ago, in my early days in this body, I took the matter up with the chairman of the Planning Board, Mr. Cram, with reference to a viaduct of this nature. He was quite enthusiastic over the proposition, but for some reason or other nothing ever came of it. In fact, I did not introduce the order. At that time he told me that he thought the Planning Board would take the matter up and have it in their report. So I have had this in mind for a long time, and it is more important now than ever. The junction of Exeter street and Huntington avenue is directly opposite Stuart street, which is to be laid out, and Stuart street, if finally completed, will extend down to Eliot. The widening of Eliot through to Kneeland and the widening of Kneeland will then give a thoroughfare from the South Station to Huntington avenue, which means that at that time traffic will undoubtedly increase, and it will mean more congestion on Huntington avenue, a great deal more congestion at the very congested corner of Huntington and Massachusetts avenues, and further congestion at the corner of Boylston street and Massachusetts avenue, because no doubt, with the laying out of Stuart street and the widening of Eliot and Kneeland streets to connect with the new Stuart street, it will mean a new thoroughfare and an enormous traffic from the north of Boston to the south. Atlantic avenue will become a very busy thoroughfare, and that will remove the congestion from Tremont and Washington streets that now comes from the north and south. Certainly unless something is done with the increase in automobile and truck traffic, pleasure vehicles and pedestrians, I don't know what is going to happen to the heart of Boston, unless some way of relieving the congestion is brought about. I have had prepared for the Planning Board plans showing what might be considered my dream plus the thought of Mr. Cram. But I believe we will have to do something in a big way. Stuart street, as it will be laid out, will mean something in the way of an improvement, but it will be only partial. I was not in favor of the Stuart street widening or laying out, not because I was opposed to Stuart street as Stuart street, but because I thought the city was not properly safeguarded by the bill as drawn, and the Council practically unanimously tried to compel them to enter into something in the way of an agreement which would prevent the city paying too large a share of the cost of extension. Stuart street is going to be of some benefit, but something else has also got to be done. You cannot expand the body of a bottle and leave the neck the same size, because the capacity of the bottle will be too great for the neck and it will be impossible for the traffic to flow through the neck of the bottle without its being expanded. Unless something is done to relieve that situation, it will result in further tremendous congestion. It is so with this Stuart street extension. I believe this is one way out of it, one way to relieve congestion through the heart of the city, and a way to relieve congestion at two points that are already over-congested, the corner of Massachusetts avenue and Boylston street and Huntington avenue and Massachusetts avenue. Everybody who is acquainted with those localities knows that, taking the twenty-four hours of the day, there is no greater congestion at any point in Boston than at the points I have mentioned—Boylston street and Massachusetts avenue and Huntington avenue and Massachusetts avenue. So this is the plan and the thought I have, to be carried into execution by extending a viaduct from the vicinity of Exeter street across the track almost direct to Gloucester street, because that will not require raising the grade. The viaduct could be made shorter by extending across the yards to Fairfield street, but it would result in a grade that would be a drawback to some extent. It would mean that the viaduct would be higher than Boylston street at that point and therefore higher than Fairfield street. Consequently it would not be practical. It is about 1,300 feet or 1,400 feet from Exeter street to Gloucester street across the yard in a direct line. The expense may look large, when we find out what it is going to be, but no real benefit is ever brought about without the expenditure of some money, and the greater benefit, as a rule, the larger the expenditure of funds. I have talked with men who know Boston perhaps better than I do from a commercial standpoint and from the standpoint of traffic, and they tell me that in ten years from now, with the increase in automobiles and in foot traffic, the heart of Boston will be one great big solid mass, almost, of moving individuals and vehicles. I have offered this suggestion believing that some good will come of it. Furthermore, if this proposed viaduct should ever be extended to Gloucester street it will mean this, that instead of adding to the congestion of Boylston street and Massachusetts avenue it will relieve it. Instead of automobiles going up Huntington avenue and across Massachusetts avenue, and instead of their passing at the junction of Boylston street and Massachusetts avenue, they can take this direct route and go across, not going up Boylston street, but continuing along Gloucester street and along by either of four highways to the north or south. There is Newbury street, on the one hand, or they can take Commonwealth avenue, Marlborough or Beacon street. I do believe that, as a layman, without knowing much about traffic questions or the cost of such an improvement, I have produced a thought that may perhaps be of advantage. I certainly trust that it will receive consideration. I have the plans here showing the whole outfit on paper, and it looks even better to me as I examine it on the plan. So far as expense is concerned, you might be obliged to pay the Albany Railroad, as Coun. Lane suggests to me, a small sum for the easement. It would not interfere a particle with their opportunity to store cars there at any hour they desire. All you would have to pay for would be a use of the property that would not interfere with their use, an easement. I believe that this plan would have the co-operation of the Planning Board, and if it receives the support of members of this body and of the Mayor, as I trust it will, at some time in the future my thought, born a few years ago,—although it might have been thought of many years before, but at least brought to light by me,—may result in something that will be a credit to the city, and incidentally of some credit to me if I live to see it. I certainly trust that the rule will be suspended and that the order will be passed at this time.

Coun. HAGAN—Mr. President, I would ask the councilor who introduced the order if the project has been brought to the attention of the City Planning Board as yet.

Coun. WATSON—I have already stated that several years ago I took the matter up with Mr. Cram and that it met with his approval. In fact, he was quite enthusiastic concerning it. I have not taken it up with the present Planning Board, but I have talked with the brains of the Planning Board, and he tells me that it is a great idea. According to Miss Herlihy's idea it is a good proposition, and they have drawn a mighty good plan of it. So they are not opposed to my idea, anyway. My order only calls for a report as to the possible cost. Possibly when we find out the cost we may kick it overboard. But this is only preliminary. It is simply proposed that we get figures, in order to have something at least to act upon, that is all.

The order was passed under suspension of the rule.

IMPROVEMENT OF HOMESTEAD PARK.

Coun. WATSON offered an order—That the Park Department be requested, through his Honor the Mayor, to improve and place in condition for ball field the so-called Homestead Park on Jamaica way.

Passed under a suspension of the rule.

LEAVE OF ABSENCE FOR SPANISH WAR VETERANS.

Coun. WATSON offered an order—That the heads of departments be authorized to grant leave of absence, without loss of pay, to all employees of the city who are members of the Spanish War Veterans' organization for the department convention to be held April 17, 18 and 19.

Passed under a suspension of the rule.

MONEY FOR SOLDIERS' RELIEF.

Coun. GILBODY offered an order—That there be allowed and paid to the Soldiers' Relief Commissioner, and charged to the appropriation for Soldiers' Relief Department, the sum of three hundred dollars, said sum to be expended, subject to the approval of the Committee on Soldiers' Relief, by said commissioner in affording immediate relief to persons entitled to aid under chapter 79 of the Revised Laws and acts in amendment thereof and addition thereto.

Referred to the Executive Committee.

SAMUEL WARREN SQUARE.

Coun. GILBODY offered an order—That the open space at the junction of Blue Hill avenue, Canterbury, Wales and Abbot streets be named Samuel Warren square, in memory of said Warren, who fell in action at St. Mihiel during the World War, while serving with the Seventy-Sixth Company, Sixth Division of Marines, and that said location be suitably marked with signs.

Passed under a suspension of the rule.

ORDINANCE CONCERNING SOLICITING IN THE STREETS.

Coun. HAGAN offered the following:

City of Boston.

In the Year Nineteen Hundred and Twenty-Two.

An Ordinance Concerning Soliciting in the Streets.

Be it ordained by the City Council of Boston, as follows:

Whoever, upon any street or sidewalk, in front of any store in the city of Boston, accosts any person and there induces or tries to induce such person to purchase any kind of merchandise, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and, upon conviction thereof, shall be fined not less than ten dollars, nor more than one hundred dollars; provided, however, that nothing herein shall be construed as prohibiting licensed peddlers from acting within the scope of their license, nor to persons when seeking to sell newspapers or magazines.

Referred to the Committee on Ordinances.

PAYMENT TO MRS. ELLEN O'BRIEN.

Coun. DONOGHUE offered an order—That there be allowed and paid to Mrs. Ellen O'Brien, widow of Maurice O'Brien, the sum of $2,500 in compensation for the death of her husband, who was killed by Fire Department apparatus August 30, 1917, said amount to be charged to the Reserve Fund.

HEARING ON PORT OF BOSTON.

Coun. DONOGHUE offered an order—That the City Council hold a public hearing on next Monday, April 3, 1922, for the purpose of presenting facts and figures with relation to the development of the Port of Boston.

Coun. DONOGHUE—Mr. President, I would like to have the Council hold a public hearing with relation to the order that we passed last Monday pertaining to the question of devising some means of developing the Port of Boston. It has come to my attention since last Monday that there are some men in this city who are very much interested in developing the port in order to bring commerce to Boston, and when ships once come here, being able to have them pick up cargoes here to take back, without going to New York or Baltimore to pick up freight. Some men in the city have been working on this proposition for some time, and a list of names has been submitted to me of very prominent men in the city and sourrounding cities and towns who are very much interested in the development of the port. They seem to think that if the Calf Pasture was properly developel to a large extent there would be a solution of the entire proposition with relation to large ocean liners coming to the Port of Boston rather than stopping off at other cities and towns along the Atlantic seacoast. I have been told that some of the vessels that come in here have to lie outside the three-mile limit sometimes for days, being unable to obtain docking facilities at the Commonwealth Pier. Then, again, when they do obtain docking facilities they have to pay such a high rate for wharfage, the expense is so great, that those who are buying goods in Boston or for Boston would rather have their goods docked free in other ports than to pay the wharfage charges here at Commonwealth Pier. In fact, I have been given to understand that there is an agency on Commonwealth Pier which receives 25 per cent of all wharfage charges for collecting the same for the Commonwealth. It seems to me as though that is simply adding the expense onto the merchants of the City of Boston and reversing conditions as they should be. Those who own vessels or boats should be allowed to come in here, I think, and dock free. When a merchant of Boston pays to have his goods docked in Boston, when he has to pay high wharfage rates, necessarily he must add those charges to the price of his goods, which are ultimately sold to the consumer in Boston. That seems to me all wrong. It seems to me that conditions are the reverse of what they should be. On the other hand, if those who own vessels are not sure when they come to Boston that they can dock almost immediately, they are not going to attempt to come to Boston. If they are going to be held up outside the three-mile limit or outside Boston Light for three or four days, until there are facilities that they can avail themselves of at some of the docks, they are not going to attempt it again. However, I think if we hold a public hearing next week some of the men who have been working on this proposition for some time, and who claim that it will be possible through dredging to have the largest ocean liners that float come up to Calf Pasture without the aid of a tugboat, will have a chance to be heard, and there may possibly be something in their proposition. I don't believe we have anything to lose by listening to these men, who have devoted considerable time and money to this development as they see it. I think the Council will receive some very valuable information if it sees fit to hold this hearing. I hope the order will pass.

The order was referred to the Executive Committee.

SIDEWALK ORDERS.

President BRICKLEY offered the following:

Ordered, That the Commissioner of Public Works make a sidewalk along Canterbury street, from Austin street about 212 feet northeasterly, Ward 23, in front of the estates bordering thereon, said sidewalk to be from 3 to 10 inches above the gutter adjoining, to be from 5 to 12 feet in width, and to be built of artificial stone with granite edgestones, under the provisions of chapter 196 of the Special Acts of 1917.

Ordered, That the Commissioner of Public Works make a sidewalk along both sides of Newburg street, from Belgrade avenue to Beech street, Ward 23, in front of the estates bordering thereon, said sidewalk to be from 3 to 10 inches above the gutter adjoining, to be from 5 to 12 feet in width, and to be built of artificial stone with granite edgestones under the provisions of chapter 196 of the Special Acts of 1917.

The orders were passed.

MASSACHUSETTS CIVIL SERVICE EXAMINATIONS.

The Massachusetts Civil Service Commission announce examinations for desirable positions.

Ambulance Chauffeur and Repairman, at Boston City Hospital, April 12, 1922.

The salary is $27 per week. Ambulance chauffeurs at the hospital are required to work eight hours a day, six days a week, and are expected to do minor repairs on cars, the type of car used at present being the White, three to four-ton truck. They are also required to work on Sunday, except on their Sunday off.

The examination will consist of a sworn statement of training and experience, the possession of a chauffeur's license, and a physical examination.

The date given above is not the examination date, but the date on or before which application blanks must be filed. Experience sheets will then be mailed to applicants and those who receive a mark of at least 65 per cent in experience and possess the requisite license will subsequently be notified for the physical examination.

Reconstruction Aide in Physiotherapy, Boston City Hospital, April 12, 1922.

This examination is open to men and women. There are several vacancies at present at a salary of $14 per week, half-time service. The duties of the position will consist of administering physiotherapeutic treatment in its several branches, such as massage, electrotherapy, hydrotherapy, mechanotherapy, active, passive and assistive exercises, and muscle re-education. Special stress will be laid on electrotherapy. Applicants must have had training and experience in physiotherapeutic work.

The subjects of examination with their respective weights will be as follows: Training and experience, 6; practical questions to test applicants' knowledge and ability to perform duties of the position as outlined above, 4; total, 10.

Applicants will be required to obtain at least 65 per cent in each subject.

Successful applicants will also be given a physical examination.

Stenographic Service April 15 and April 29, 1922.

This examination is for the service of the state and of all cities, and of such towns in the state as are classified under civil service. On April 15 the examination will be held in Boston and all persons who reside within commuting distance will be notified for that day. Applicants residing in other places will be examined on April 29 at certain centrally located cities throughout the state.

Stenographers and Typists.

Grade I.—Annual compensation not more than $780 a year. This grade includes persons who obtain a mark of at least 60 per cent in accuracy of transcription with a general average in the entire examination of less than 80 per cent.

Grade II.—Annual compensation more than $780 and not more than $1,200 a year. This grade includes persons who obtain a mark of at least 60 per cent in accuracy of transcription with a general average in the entire examination of 80 per cent or better, but less than 85 per cent.

Stenographers, Secretaries, Office Correspondents, Office and Executive Assistants.

Grade III.—Annual compensation more than $1,200 a year. Applicants who receive a mark of at least 60 per cent in accuracy of transcription and a general average in the entire examination of 85 per cent or over will have their experience rated, and their general average computed on the following basis: Written examination, 7; experience, 3; total, 10. They will not be placed upon the Grade III. eligible list unless they receive a mark of at least 65 per cent in experience.

Applicants who pass the examination for Grade II. or Grade III. will be certified for positions in lower grades if they are willing to accept the salaries offered.

The same tests will be given for city service as for Commonwealth service, and persons qualifying in this examination may have their names placed on the state list as well as on the list for any city or town.

The subjects of examination with their respective weights are as follows: Stenography, 5; rough draft, 2; plain copying, 1; business correspondence, 2; total, 10. The dictation is given at the following rates of speed per minute: 80, 100, 120, and 140, the dictation at each rate of speed consisting of a letter of from 300 to 350 words in length. Each applicant elects any two of the four speed tests for transcription, and is obliged to obtain at least 60 per cent. in the transcription of one of these speed tests.

Specimen examinations may be secured from the civil service office, State House.

UNDERGROUND RAPID TRANSIT IN BOSTON.

The Boston Transit Commission, consisting of five members, two appointed by the Governor and three by the Mayor, began its official existence July 1, 1894, and ended it July 1, 1918, after seven extensions of the original term. It constructed, under the authority of Acts of the Legislature, the following subways and tunnels, the ownership of which is vested in the City of Boston, and all costs to be covered by revenue from same, not by taxation; Tremont Street Subway from Broadway and Tremont st., South End, to North Station and from Boylston st., near Charles to Park st., 1.68 miles, opened to Park St. September 1, 1897, and to North Station on Sept. 3, 1898, costing with subsequent alterations, $4,416,000, the first municipal subway in the United States; East Boston Tunnel, from Maverick square, E. Boston, under Boston Harbor and State st. to Scollay square, Boston Proper, 1.42 miles, opened December 30, 1904, costing $3,336,000; Washington Street Tunnel, from Ash st. opp. Nassau, South End, to Traverse st., near North Station, 1.16 miles, opened November 30, 1908, costing $8,496,700 (including $2,850,000 land damages); Cambridge Connection Subway, from under Park st. station of Tremont St. Subway to Grove st., near Cambridge Bridge, 0.47 miles, opened March 23, 1912, costing $1,465,000; Boylston Street Subway, from Commonwealth ave., near Kenmore st., Back Bay, to Tremont St. Subway, near Charles st., 1.5 miles, opened October 3, 1914, costing $5,327,000; East Boston Tunnel Extension, from Scollay square to North Russell st., 0.41 miles, opened March 18, 1916, approximate cost, $2,450,000; Dorchester Tunnel, from Park st., Boston Proper, to Andrew square, South Boston, 2.26 miles, opened December 3, 1916, as far as South Station, on December 15, 1917 to Broadway, South Boston, and on June 29, 1918, to the Andrew Square terminal; trains of four or six cars are run in the Washington St. Tunnel, continuing on elevated track to Forest Hills, also in Dorchester Tunnel and connecting Cambridge Tunnel from Andrew sq., So. Boston to Harvard sq., Cambridge, while only single or double street-cars are run in the other tunnels and subways; amount borrowed to 1921 for the Dorchester tunnel, $10,750,000. Total cost of all subways and tunnels, about $36,995,000, incl. loan of $825,000 for new Arlington Station, against which a sinking fund of $5,818,710 has been accumulated from the revenue, payable mostly in 40 years from date of each loan (loans since 1911 payable in 45 years), annual interest averaging 3.8 per cent. These underground ways about 8.9 miles in all with total of 19.27 miles of single track were leased to the Boston Elevated Railway Company (which furnished the equipment) for term of 25 years (except Tremont Street 20 years) at annual rental of 4½ to 4⅞ per cent of net cost (except East Boston Tunnel which was at ⅜ of one per cent of all annual gross receipts of said company). In accordance with Chapter 741, Acts of 1911, the various leases were extended to July 1, 1936, the rental to be 4½ per cent of net cost after expiration of the first-term leases.

By Chap. 185, Special Acts of 1918, the powers of the Transit Commission, whose term expired that year, were transferred to the Mayor, Commissioner of Public Works and City Treasurer, or such person or persons, not exceeding three, as the Mayor might appoint. By Chap. 3, Ordinances of 1918, the Transit Dept. was established as a regular City department, to be in charge of three commissioners.

POPULATION OF COUNTIES (U. S. CENSUS) WITH INCREASE OVER PREVIOUS CENSUS (STATE) RANKED FROM LARGEST.

(1) Suffolk (3 cities and 1 town) 835,522 or 8,721 over 1915; (2) Middlesex (11 cities and 43 towns) 778,352 or + 44,728; (3) Essex (9 cities and 25 towns) 482,156 or + 18,494; (4) Worcester (3 cities and 57 towns) 455,135 or + 24,432; (5) Bristol (4 cities and 16 towns) 359,005 or + 12,041; (6) Hampden (3 cities and 20 towns) 300,305 or + 37,361; (7) Norfolk (1 city and 27 towns) 219,081 or + 17,174; seven other counties (4 cities and 127 towns) 422,800 or — 3,905. Total for the 14 counties (38 cities and 316 towns) 3,852,356 or 159,046 (i. e., 4.3 per cent) over 1915. Of said total, 2,741,599 (i. e., 71.17 per cent) were in the cities and 1,110,757 (i. e., 28.83 per cent) in the towns. The four counties, Suffolk, Middlesex, Essex and Bristol contain 63 73 per cent of the state's inhabitants.

If the municipalities having a population of 5,000 or over are properly called urban, then the percentage of urban population in the entire state reaches the notable figure of 90, while the rural shows but 10 per cent.

Included in the latter are 138 acres of filled flats added to the land area of South Boston in 1919 and 48 acres to that of East Boston in 1918. Original Boston contained about 780 acres of land. Of the twelve leading American cities, six are larger in land area than Boston, viz., New York (326.9 square miles), Chicago (199.37), Philadelphia (129), Detroit (75.62), Cleveland (56.6) and St. Louis (61.37). The only city in Massachusetts with larger land area is Taunton (50 square miles).

If Boston should expand by annexations as New York, Chicago and Philadelphia have expanded, its total area, in case of including the 39 cities and towns within the 15-mile radius, would exceed the largest, viz., New York, the present land area of "Greater Boston" being 409.5 square miles.

MAYOR PROTESTS CLOSING OF NAVY YARD.

MAKES STRONG APPEAL FOR MAINTENANCE OF FEDERAL WORKS.

Mayor Curley issued a ringing protest against the proposed abandonment of the Boston Navy Yard, and the consequent forcing out of employment of several thousand high grade mechanics, in a communication addressed to President Everett Morss of the Boston Chamber of Commerce, upon the 1st instant.

The letter of Mayor Curley is as follows:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor.

Mr. Everett Morss, President Boston Chamber of Commerce, 201 Devonshire Street, Boston, Mass.:

My dear Sir,—I beg your organization will enlist the united support of the New England delegation in Congress headed by Hon. Henry Cabot Lodge to prevent the abolishing of the Boston Navy Yard.

The present delegation in Congress from Massachusetts is the most powerful in the history of our government, and despite this fact apparently the oldest navy yard in America will shortly cease to exist unless united and aggressive action is taken at once.

The threatened reduction of the navy below the plain requirements of what is called the "Pacifist Pact" and the contemplated closing of all the navy yards on the Atlantic coast, except those at Portsmouth, Va., and Kittery, Me., brings home most acutely a question that is of vital importance to New England generally and to Boston and Massachusetts specifically. This program of pacifism—for that is what it is—includes the closing down and practical abandonment of the Charlestown Navy Yard, the addition to the army of the unemployed of the 2,500 men employed there, and the cessation of an industry which is one of the most important elements in the economic life of Greater Boston.

It is the business of every banker, merchant and manufacturer in this city and its suburbs that this yard continue to function, since it means the drying up of one of the most fruitful financial sources of revenue that goes to feed and invigorate the economic system of Boston. Moreover, it is a serious matter for the consideration of every taxpayer and realty owner in this community, since this addition to the existing unemployment will add materially to the demand on the treasuries of the cities and towns of Greater Boston and increase their burdens.

It has ceased to be a political question; it is no longer the concern of Republicans and Democrats; it is a matter that calls for the thought and action of every man and interest here.

The Navy Yard is an industrial unit of first importance and is the feeder and mother of dozens of minor industries outside the yard that furnish livelihoods for thousands.

The pay roll of the Charlestown Navy Yard in normal times amounts to about $5,000,000 per annum, and the materials bought and used in its activities amount to as much more; and these two items only begin to tell the story of its financial importance to commercial and industrial Boston, since they do not comprehend the pay and upkeep of the naval forces in and about the yard.

The loss of this economic asset is very much the business of every man, woman and child in Boston, and calls for their united and vigorous action both here and in Washington.

While there are historic and sentimental reasons aplenty for the preservation and continued activity of the Navy Yard, there are very vital and practical arguments that should give the government cause in what is alleged to be a movement for economy and which is actually a program of waste. It should be understood that it is time to put an end to the plans which have cooly sacrificed New England and fattened the Virginia interests in the past six years; and the New England bloc, recently organized to protect New England commercial and industrial interests, must be used now to save this city from what is practically a disaster. Every New England Senator and Congressman should be told what his duty is in this emergency and be required to do it.

What are Boston's reasons for demanding the preservation of the Navy Yard and the continuance of its activities?

1. Its unique geographical position; its unsurpassed harbor, free 365 days from ice and fog and amply protected from the menace of invasion.

2. The possession of the largest dry dock on the continent, fully equipped to repair and condition the largest vessels afloat. It must not be forgotten that the scandalous intrigue which deprived Boston of the contract for conditioning the "Leviathan" sent her to private capitalists in Newport News, and it was said that if necessary to get her to dock there $5,000,000 of public money would be used to dredge a channel for her. The present "reduction" movement is a continuing chapter in that intrigue.

3. The Charlestown Navy Yard is fundamentally a repair yard; it is equipped with machine shops with the most modern appliances; it has the finest ropewalk and chain shop on the seaboard, and its discontinuance means a folly as wasteful as it is wicked.

4. The revenue the yard yields to Boston makes the suspension of its usage a severe blow to economic Boston.

In addition to these special reasons it should not be forgotten that the necessity for "Preparedness" still exists; human nature has not changed and war will come again, and the navy is our first reliance for safety. While we live up to our treaty agreements it is madness to permit our navy to go below the stipulated strength and egregious folly to get rid of the trained and expert personnel that man our vessels, by reduction to the figures contemplated by men in Washington, whose knowledge of naval conditions and problems is questionable. Moreover, it is the duty of our representatives in Congress to see that the naval regulations which forbid the use of the navy yards for the repair of vessels owned by the government be abolished, for the use of the Charlestown Navy Yard for such purposes, when considered in connection with the dry dock, is not only reasonable but economically sound and necessary. It provides also an excellent reason why shipping should resort here, to the benefit of every interest in and around Boston.

Yours very sincerely,

James M. Curley, Mayor.

MAYOR DEMANDS LOWER RATES.

Boston Board of Fire Underwriters' executives declined to attend a conference with Mayor Curley relative to the Mayor's determination to persuade this body to make a 30 per cent reduction in downtown fire insurance rates, in view of the present partial completion of the high pressure service, which reduces to a minimum the chances of a potentially big fire hazard there.

Vice Pres. Alfred Davenport of the Board wrote informing the Mayor that reductions promised to Mayor Peters have already been made, and that the Board has still further reductions in mind upon completion of the system.

Mr. Davenport's letter stated that the 15 per cent conflagration item hitherto added on all policies taken for this retail section has been altogether dropped since the system went into operation in the closing weeks of last year.

Mr. Curley says he has been informed that this reduction would have been made in any event and without relation to the progress on the high pressure system. So he proposed and means to continue to try to secure what would be equal to a flat 30 per cent reduction on all future policies.

The Mayor called Public Works Commissioner Joseph A. Rourke, City Auditor Rupert S. Carven and Fire Chief John O. Taber into consultation.

Mayor Curley stated it is his intention to ask legislative permission to borrow $2,000,000 outside the debt limit. If granted, he means to apply the money to the erection of a third high pressure pumping station in Stanhope street, near the Back Bay Station of the New Haven Road, on land owned by the city.

This station would be a duplicate of the existing two at the Edison's Atlantic avenue plant and that in Battery street, North End.. Out of this money, also, would be laid the seven and one half miles of pipe lines in thoroughfares contiguous to Boylston and Tremont streets and along Columbus avenue to Stanhope street.

The Mayor's present understanding is that, when this work is completed, the Board of Fire Underwriters will be ready to consider further reductions in rates.

LISTING OF VOTERS.

Paupers in public institutions are the only ones that the police have excluded in the work of listing the voters in the City of Boston. About 1,300 policemen were engaged in the work.

During the six days, it is estimated, the police will obtain the names of approximately 480,000 persons. The listing last year resulted in 480,783 names, and it is believed that there will be no great difference in this year's figures.

MAYOR'S PLAN APPROVED.

The Boston Board of Fire Underwriters, through Vice President Alfred Davenport, has assured Mayor Curley of its co-operation in his efforts to obtain legislative action which will allow the city to borrow $2,000,000 with which to complete the high pressure water system.

In reply to a letter from the Mayor, announcing his intention to complete the high pressure system and explaining the necessity of special legislation, Mr. Davenport said the underwriters would be glad to co-operate and would appear before the legislative committee in support of the Mayor's enabling bill which will be drawn by City Auditor Rupert S. Carven as Acting Budget Commissioner.

On the question of reduction of fire insurance rates which the Mayor took up with the underwriters last week, Mr. Curley said the public itself does not take the interest it should. He pointed to the fact that large concerns in the city have to pay fire insurance bills amounting in some instances to $100,000 or $150,000, and that these concerns take no intiative either through the newspapers or public officials to obtain relief.

Mayor Curley incidentally remarked that if the underwriters did not reduce their rates 50 per cent on the present exposure charges when the high pressure system is completed and accepted, the city would call in some man to investigate, just as was done in New York City.

CONTRACTS AWARDED.

Permission to award contracts for work, materials and supplies, in accordance with recommendation of department heads, has been approved by the Mayor.

PARK DEPARTMENT.

Upon April 5 the Mayor approved a contract with the F. J. Gallagher Company for the construction of a brick storage shed at Franklin Park. Bids for the work, opened April 3, were as follows:

* Awarded contract.

Upon April 3 the Mayor approved contracts with the New England Crushed Stone Company, the West Roxbury Trap Rock Company, B. E. Grant Company, the Rowe Contracting Company, Coleman Brothers, Inc., and the J. C. Coleman & Sons Company for furnishing crushed stone to the various city departments for the year ending January 31, 1923.

Incident to the award of these contracts Superintendent Rock of the Supply Department made the following statement:

"I respectfully request that permission be granted me to award the contracts to the lowest bidder in each district, as indicated on the attached sheet, with the following explanation: In the Dorchester and Ashmont District, the New England Crushed Stone Company and the West Roxbury Trap Rock Company have submitted identical bids, and in the city proper, District No. 10, the New England Crushed Stone Company and the J. C. Coleman & Sons Company have also submitted identical bids.

"In view of the fact that the New England Crushed Stone Company is low in the South Boston, West Roxbury and Roxbury Districts, I respectfully recommend that the contract for supplying crushed stone in the Dorchester and Ashmont Districts be awarded to the West Roxbury Trap Rock Company and the contract for supplying crushed stone in the city proper, District No. 10, be awarded to the J. C. Coleman & Sons Company, as the three districts awarded to the New England Crushed Stone Company are all that can be taken care of efficiently by any one company.

Upon April 3 the Mayor approved a contract with the Boston Structural Steel Company for furnishing 920 tons of structural steel to the Transit Department. The entire trade was thoroughly canvassed for bids on this requirement, approximately twenty-five bidders being requested to submit prices. The only bidder was the Boston Structural Steel Company who submitted prices as per the attached list. Checking up these prices with the Carnegie Steel Company and the Bethlehem Steel Company, both of these concerns have notified this office that the prices submitted are lower than they could submit, the base price today at Pittsburgh being $1.50. Bids for the supply, opened March 27, were as follows:

Boston Structural Steel Company, 30-inch, $2.10½ per 100 pounds; 10-inch, $1.95½ per 100 pounds; 15-inch, $2.05½ per 100 pounds; 8-inch, $2.05½ per 100 pounds; 14-inch, $2.05½ per 100 pounds. Approximate amount, $38,609.89.

Upon April 3 the Mayor approved a contract with the Gibby Foundry Company for furnishing iron castings to the Sewer Service of the Public Works Department.

Incident to the award of this contract Superintendent Rock of the Supply Department issued the following statement:

"There is a difference of $7 between the bid of the lowest bidder, the Wollaston Foundry Company, and the second lowest bidder, Gibby Foundry Company, the amounts being $26,740 and $26,747, respectively.

"I respectfully request that permission be granted me to award this contract to the Gibby Foundry Company for the following reasons: The additional cost of inspection entailed by the increased car fare paid by inspector and also the cost of sending the patterns to the Wollaston Foundry Company at Norfolk Downs would be greater than the $7 difference in the two bids. As the Gibby Foundry Company has, in the past, executed all contracts placed with them by this department in a satisfactory manner, I trust that the permission asked for will be granted."

Bids for the supply, opened March 29, were as follows:

640,000 Pounds Class A.—Wollaston Foundry Company, Norfolk Downs, 3 cents per pound; Gibby Foundry Company, 96 Condor street, East Boston, 2.98 cents per pound; Mechanics Iron Foundry Company, 3.15 cents per pound.

10,000 Pounds Class B.—Wollaston Foundry Company, Norfolk Downs, 5 cents per pound; Gibby Foundry Company, 96 Condor street, East Boston, 5¼ cents per pound; Mechanics Iron Foundry Company, 5.65 cents per pound.

8,000 Pounds Class C.—Wollaston Foundry Company, Norfolk Downs, 7 cents per pound; Gibby Foundry Company, 96 Condor street, East Boston, 7 cents per pound; Mechanics Iron Foundry Company, 7.3 cents per pound.

80,000 Pounds Class D.—Wollaston Foundry Company, Norfolk Downs, 7 cents per pound; Gibby Foundry Company, 96 Condor street, East Boston, 7 cents per pound; Mechanics Iron Foundry Company, 7 cents per pound.

600 Bronze Pins.—Wollaston Foundry Company, Norfolk Downs, 25 cents per pin; Gibby Foundry Company, 96 Condor street, East Boston, 35 cents per pin; Mechanics Iron Foundry Company, 30 cents per pin.

600 Pounds Bronze Fittings.—Wollaston Foundry Company, Norfolk Downs, 30 cents per pound; Gibby Foundry Company, 96 Condor street, East Boston, 80 cents per pound; Mechanics Iron Foundry Company, $1 per pound.

WITHOUT ADVERTISING.

The Mayor has approved the following contracts awarded without advertising; requests of heads of departments to do work with the department forces without advertising; additions to and deductions from contracts.

Public Works Department.

Upon April 1 the Mayor approved a contract with John Landis for the construction of artifical stone sidewalks.

A communication from Commissioner Joseph A. Rourke of the Public Works Department was as follows:

Boston, March 29, 1922.

Hon. James M. Curley,
Mayor of Boston:

Dear Sir,—Permission to award a contract for the construction of artificial stone sidewalks in the public streets, without advertising, to John Landis, 178 North street, Boston, is hereby requested on the ground that this contractor is not selected by the city in the first instance but by the abutters; and secondly, the expense of construction being divided by the city and abutters; also because such contracts vary greatly in amounts and seldom involve one thousand (1,000) dollars.

Respectfully yours,

Joseph A. Rourke,
Commissioner of Public Works.

Upon April 4 the Mayor approved a contract with Peter Martiniello for the constructon of artificial stone sidewalks.

A communication from Commissioner Joseph A. Rourke of the Public Works Department was as follows:

Upon April 5 the Mayor approved construction work upon the west side of Washington street, between Harvard place and Ordway place, city proper, with the division force.

A communication from Commissioner Joseph A. Rourke of the Public Works Department was as follows:

Boston, April 4, 1922.

Hon. James M. Curley,
Mayor of Boston:

Dear Sir,—Authority is requested to perform work upon the west side of Washington street, between Harvard place and Ordway place, city proper, with division forces, without inviting proposals therefor by advertisement, the estimated cost for labor and material being $5,000. This is an assessable street, and the work can be done as advantageously by day labor methods as any work now necessary.

Respectfully,

Joseph A. Rourke,
Commissioner of Public Works.

TRUSTEE OF WHITE ESTATE.

George E. Phelan, of large influence in the commercial world, is to be trustee and manager for a five-year period of the George R. White estate properties involved in the White $5,000,000 bequest to the people of Boston, which means an annual income of $250,000 to be expended upon public improvements such as are decided upon by the Board managing the bequest in conformity to the will's provisions.

Mr. Phelan's compensation, based upon the State and Boston Real Estate Exchanges' regulation at 5 per cent of the sum involved, will therefore be $12,500 a year.

His selection was finally decided upon at a meeting of the Board, held in the City Hall executive chamber, with Mayor Curley presiding. Present were City Auditor Rupert S. Carven, President David J. Brickley of the City Council and President Everett Morss of the Chamber of Commerce—all designated in the will as the governing board. Henry S. Hurlburt, the fifth member of the Board, is in Europe.

Tentative decision was taken by the Board in favor of the establishment of four health units in the city, such as that so successfully operated by the American Red Cross in Blossom street, West End, for several years.

The will stipulates, however, that any project the Board favors must be publicly advertised over a period of three months, and the Board is bound to give all due consideration to all suggestions and criticisms offered by citizens.

There also developed in the discussion a proposal that the yearly income of $250,000 be left to accrue for a period of three years, and that the $750,000 plus interest be used at the end of that time for erection of a large public auditorium. This suggestion, however, is now in abeyance.

Mr. Phelan has since 1915 been a trustee and manager of the John Mason Little estate, controlling the Little Building at Boylston and Tremont streets. Before that he was for a long time associated with the C. E. Cotting estate in like capacity.

When Mr. Little agreed with other interests upon erection of the office building he engaged Mr. Phelan as an adviser in the construction of the building, and retained him as a trustee after its erection, naming him as permanent trustee at his death in October, 1919.

MARSHAL JOFFRE INVITED HERE.

Mayor Curley extended a most cordial invitation to General Joffre, Marshal of France, and his suite to be the guests of the City of Boston, upon Patriots' Day, April 19, the occasion of ceremonies noting the one hundredth anniversary of the establishment of Boston as a city.

The Mayor's telegram to Marshal Joffre was as follows:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor,
April 5, 1922.

Gen. J. Joffre,
Marshal of France:
Hon. Hippolyte Charles Julien Neltner, Consul General, Consulate of France, San Francisco, Calif.:

The City of Boston greatly desires to renew its delightful acquaintance with Marshal Joffre and suite, and respectfully offers the freedom of the city and the special entertainment of Marshal Joffre as guest of the city, upon April 19, the occasion of the one hundredth anniversary of the establishment of Boston as a city.

In the event that the itinerary of Marshal Joffre cannot be so arranged as to provide for an acceptance of this tender, may I assure you the City of Boston will be very pleased to entertain Marshal Joffre and suite between April 24 and 29.

Ambassador Jusserand has been fully advised in the matter of invitation.

Sincerely yours,

James M. Curley, Mayor.

PRESENTATION TO FIRE DEPARTMENT.

The Salvation Army, with appropriate ceremonies, presented Mayor Curley and Fire Chief Taber the services of a large motor bus for future use in dispensing coffee and sandwiches to the fire fighters at winter fires of more than one alarm, upon the 3d instant.

Col. W. A. McIntyre made the presentation address.

The bus interior is readily convertible, so that the machine may be used as an ambulance or a lunch cart. On every fire next winter of more than one alarm the car will speed through the streets to the scene, just like regular department apparatus. It is equipped with the regulation department swinging bell.

Captain and Mrs. Keller and Ensign Annie Fuller will be in charge of the coffee-sandwich doles. Operation expenses will be met by the Army.

In a short address from the City Hall steps Mayor Curley praised the Army's thoughtfulness, sipped the first cup of coffee handed out and called it excellent. Others in the group were Chief Taber, District Chief Shallow, President B. A. Ham of the G. A. R. Memorial Building Association, who supplied the meat for the sandwiches, and Mrs. Agnes H. Parker, W. R. C. national president.

MAYOR SEEKS SOLDIERS' MEMORIALS.

Mayor Curley, aiming to secure a square deal for World War heroes and relieve the Park Commission of the embarrassment that is certain to follow upon its present plan of endeavoring to meet the demands for naming thirty-six public parks after 287 dead heroes for whom such honor has been asked, has suggested to Governor Cox that he recommend legislation empowering the state to erect in the various armories enduring bronze tablets bearing the names of all within the radius of each who gave their lives.

The letter of Mayor Curley was as follows:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor,
April 5, 1922.

Hon. Channing H. Cox, Governor of the Commonwealth, State House, Boston:

Your Excellency,—The naming of street intersections and squares in honor of some World War hero who has died in the service, while most commendable, is open to the objections that worthy heroes may be overlooked, and this selecting of names from among those of the many young men who gave their lives in their country's cause is at best a matter of uncertain discrimination which is very susceptible of favoritism.

Grateful American citizens will never deny that any of our men and women who served in the World War should have his or her name and memory perpetuated in some public enduring form. Men and women, however, who are now undergoing a living death, victims of shell shock, who are sound in body but whose minds are a blank, should be considered.

I suggest to your Excellency, therefore, as an adequate solution of this problem, that you recommend legislation requiring the state to place on enduring bronze in state armories in the various cities and towns throughout the Commonwealth the names of all who served, from those several cities and towns, in the World War and all who have been wounded or who died in service, and where in any city or town there is no state armory that some fitting memorial be raised and maintained.

Respectfully submitted,

James M. Curley, Mayor.

REJECTED CLAIMS.

Hon. E. Mark Sullivan, Corporation Counsel, advises the Law Department has disapproved twenty claims against the city, in fifteen of which no amounts were specified, and the other five aggregated $347.90, and are classified as follows:

Against the Fire Department, two, in one of which no amount was specified, and the other one amounted to $26.50; against the Hospital Department, one, amounting to $139.60; against the Police Department, one, in which no amount was specified; against the Public Works Department, fifteen, in thirteen of which no amounts were specified, and the other two amounted to $176.80; against the Schoolhouse Department, one, amounting to $5.

All these claims have been disapproved for the reason that there appeared to be no legal liability on the part of the city.

FIRE DEPARTMENT ORDERS.

General Order No. 26.

The following is published for the information and guidance of the Fire Department:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor,
March 31, 1922.

Mr. William J. Casey, Superintendent Printing Department, 286 Congress Street, Boston:

Dear Sir,—Under authority of section 12, chapter 486, Acts of 1909, I hereby designate you to discharge the duties of the office of Fire Commissioner, beginning April 1, 1922.

Very truly yours,

James M. Curley, Mayor.

In accordance with the above communication, I hereby assume charge of the Boston Fire Department.

William J. Casey,
Acting Fire Commissioner.

General Order No. 27.

I. High Pressure.

The following changes in method of operation of the high pressure system are hereby announced to take effect at 9 a. m., Tuesday, April 4, 1922:

Section 2, paragraph 1, General Order No. 85, series of 1921, is hereby rescinded, and the following section is substituted in place thereof:

Pumpers and steam fire engines, on arrival at a fire, shall connect to hydrants, and be ready for immediate service. (Section 1, paragraph 1, General Order No. 85, series 1921, explains the hydrants which are to be used.)

The need for rescinding the old paragraph and substituting a new one is clearly evident. In some places in the high pressure zone, hydrants and mains are widely separated, and the needless delay of seeking a high pressure hydrant remote from the fire will be overcome by the apparatus connecting to hydrants near the scene of the fire.

After 9 a. m., Tuesday, April 4, 1922, on the receipt of box alarms the high pressure pumps will be started. The high pressure pumps will not be started on still, automatic and A. D. T. alarms. On the latter alarms two pieces of apparatus usually respond, one of which is a pumping unit. It will not be necessary, therefore, to start the pumps on the latter class of alarms, as adequate pumping facilities are provided.

Company commanders will understand that they must connect to any hydrant, except high pressure hydrants, and be ready for immediate service.

II. New Fire Alarm Boxes.

The following new fire alarm boxes will shortly be established:

Box 1668.—City Hospital, Albany street side. Assignment the same as for Box 1665. Placed in circuit No. 37.

Box 2574.—Glendower road, opposite No. 83. Assignment the same as for Box 2573. Placed in circuit No. 25.

Box 2575.—Beech and Wiggin streets. Assignment the same as for Box 2572. Placed in circuit No. 25.

Box 2622.—Belgrade avenue and Bradwood street. Assignment the same as for Box 2616. Placed in circuit No. 65.

Box 2645.—Washington and Heron streets. Assignment the same as for Box 2644. Placed in circuit No. 13.

Box 2655.—North avenue and Wright road. Assignment the same as for Box 2654. Placed in circuit No. 13.

Box 2657.—Centre and Stimson streets. Assignment the same as for Box 2654. Placed in circuit No. 13.

Box 2752.—Perham and Winslow streets. Assignment the same as for Box 2751. Placed in circuit No. 13.

Box 2763.—Spring and Cypress streets. Assignment the same as for Box 2761. Placed in circuit No. 23.

III. Change in Circuit.

The following change in circuit has been made and will be noted on the circuit cards:

Box 2646 will be taken out of circuit No. 13 and connected into circuit No. 23.

IV. Annual Report. (Department Ball.)

The net receipts from the annual ball of the Boston Fire Department and Protective Department, held for the benefit of the Boston Firemen's Relief Fund, February 15, 1922, amounted to $24,079.25. This is $1,667.10 more than the net receipts of the ball last year.

The Acting Fire Commissioner thanks the members of the Boston Firemen's Relief Fund, the officers and members of the Boston Fire and Protective Departments, and all those who in any way helped to make the ball a success.

V. Boston Firemen's Relief Fund.

The following is published for the information of the department:

"That it was ordered by a vote of the Board of Trustees that the Medical Examiner of the Boston Fire Department grant permission to a member to consult a specialist, and that before any further treatment be given that the Medical Examiner approve of same by granting permission for further treatment by the specialist on the official blank and approved by one of the Surgical Committee."

By order of the Acting Fire Commissioner.

John O. Taber,
Chief of Department.

INCREASES IN SALARIES.

The Mayor addressed a communication to Rupert S. Carven, Acting Budget Commissioner, upon the question of increase of salaries of city employees, upon the 1st instant. The communication of the Mayor was as follows:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, April 1, 1922.

Rupert S. Carven,
Acting Budget Commissioner:

My dear Mr. Carven,—You are hereby directed to notify the various department heads that the maximum increase to be allowed in any case, except that of transfer or where a sliding scale exists regulated by law, as in the case of firemen and policemen, shall be limited to $100 and that this increase shall be limited to those receiving less than $1,400 per year.

I greatly regret that it is necessary to adopt this rule but the general unemploymnet and the increase made necessary as a result thereto in charities, hospitalization and corrections, leaves no other course open.

Respectfully yours,
James M. Curley, Mayor.

BUREAU OF UNEMPLOYMENT FUNCTIONS WELL.

Boston's Municipal Unemployment Bureau has more than proven its usefulness and demonstrated the demand for such a department since it was organized four weeks ago, according to Mayor Curley, in commenting on the work accomplished.

According to figures presented the Mayor by Commissioner Luke E. Shields of the Bureau, in the four weeks of its existence there have been 2,000 citizens of Boston registered and applying for work through the department. Of that number the Bureau has found places for and set to work 450 men. This is 22½ per cent of the applicants, a better figure than can be shown by any other unemployment bureau of the kind in the state.

This benefit to Boston citizens has been accomplished at the cost of but $1.67 per man. The work of the Bureau has expanded so that it has outgrown its present quarters and a new home will soon have to be obtained. According to Mayor Curley, the record of the Bureau in aiding Boston citizens far surpasses anything of the kind in the United States. It not only shows that the department is filling a want but that businessmen as well as other citizens are realizing its importance and turning to it to supply their needs in the field of labor.

NOTICE.

ASSESSING DEPARTMENT.

The Board of Assessors of the City of Boston call particular attention to the necessity of making returns upon property, subject to taxation, which should be filed not later than May 15, 1922. Blank forms may be had at the assessors' office, or will be mailed upon request by Joseph G. O'Malley, secretary assessors' office, City Hall Annex, Boston.

MAYOR AIDS VETERANS.

Mayor Curley has found places for 1,000 veterans of the World War, upon the excavation work at Maverick square, East Boston, under the auspices of the Transit Commission. The wage of the veterans who are appointed as laborers is $4 a day.

The veterans are by their employment removed from the roll of the Soldiers' Relief Department, where they have been receiving $40 monthly.

HEALTH CONFERENCE CALLED BY MAYOR.

Mayor Curley made the following announcement relative to the safeguarding of the health of the citizens of Boston in a statement issued upon the 4th instant, and announcing a conference at the Mayor's office, April 11, 1922.

The communication of Mayor Curley was as follows:

"The most important department of a municipality is the Health Department and any departure conducive to the promotion of public health is worthy of trial.

"The old-fashioned theory of consulting a physician or surgeon only when one is ill is rapidly being displaced by the present day theory of conserving health by the adoption of preventative agencies.

"The various organizations interested in the promotion of public health in Boston have been generous in their contribution of service and of money, but, in my opinion, the co-ordination of all individuals and all organizations interested in this subject is imperatively necessary at the present time, first, that unnecessary duplication of work may be eliminated and, second, that money expended upon the work may be conserved rather than wasted.

"The life, health and accident insurance companies should, of necessity, be interested in a program of efficiency and economy that must ultimately result in the promotion, to a greater degree than has ever been possible heretofore, of the public health.

"With a view to obtaining the co-operation of the insurance and all other agencies and the utilization of the proposed health units to be established in the congested districts of the city, I have extended an invitation to the insurance companies, life, health and accident, and to all other organizations engaged in health work, to attend a conference at the office of the Mayor, City Hall, on April 12, at 3 p. m.

"I sincerely hope that the co-operation so essential for public health will result in giving to Boston the most progressive and best health service in the entire United States."

The following agencies were notified of the conference:

American Red Cross (Boston Metropolitan Chapter), Baby Hygiene Association, Boston Health League, Boston Lying-in Hospital, Boston Tuberculosis Association, Boston University School of Medicine, Children's Hospital, Faculty of the Harvard University Medical School, John Hancock Mutual Life Insurance Company, Instructive District Nursing Association, Massachusetts Charitable Eye and Ear Infirmary, Massachusetts General Hospital, Massachusetts Homeopathic Hospital, Norfolk District Medical Society, Peter Brent Brigham Hospital, St. Elizabeth's Hospital, Suffolk District Medical Society, Jewish Welfare Center, Boston Council Agencies, Baby Hygiene Association, Boston Sanatorium, Boston Dispensary, Instructive District Nursing Association, Boston Mutual Life, District Nursing Association, Baby Hygiene Association, Salvation Army, Northwestern Mutual Life, Mutual Benefit Life, Phoenix Mutual Life, New England Mutual Life, Frances E. Willard Settlement, Equitable Life, New York Life, Metropolitan Life, John Hancock Mutual Life, Prudential Insurance Company, Berkshire Life Insurance Company.

REPORT OF EDUCATIONAL CONVENTION.

Superintendent Jeremiah E. Burke of the School Committee has filed the following report on his attendance at the convention of the National Education Association held at Chicago, Ill., February 27 to March 3, 1922:

To the School Committee of the City of Boston:

In compliance with the provisions of section 3 of chapter 274 of the Acts of 1914, I herewith submit the following report of my attendance at the annual convention of the Department of Superintendence of the National Education Association, held in Chicago from February 27 to March 2, 1922, inclusive.

Among the chief topics of interest discussed at the convention were the following:

Sterling Towner Bill.

There was observable at the convention a more dispassionate attitude toward the proposed congressional legislation than has previously been exhibited, and a greater willingness to hear both sides of the controversy. Upon the program especially provided for consideration of this particular topic were speakers who approved the bill unconditionally, those who opposed it unreservedly, and those who accepted some provisions but rejected others. The sentiment outside school circles was reflected in the editorials of some of the daily papers. Such editorials for the most part were unfriendly to the bill. One prominent Chicago daily spoke editorially as follows:

"Those who turn lightly to federal subsidies and talk about a federal department of education, with a secretary at its head and a seat for him at the cabinet table, should consider more earnestly than they appear to have done the probable effect of their proposals on the rural school, the suburban school and the chances of eliminating demoralizing political influences from the city school system. Undue reliance on and faith in a distant bureaucracy and prescribed uniform standards could not fail to strengthen the deplorable tendencies discussed by the educators, and to arrest progress instead of accelerating it."

The Convention itself, while favoring governmental subsidies for education and the appointment of a secretary of education in the President's Cabinet, strongly opposed any form of governmental control of education. In its resolutions the convention declared, "Education is a function of the state and not of the nation. The principles of our government and the teachings of our history establish that fact.

"Any attempt to transfer or limit this peculiar state function cannot fail to impair rather than to improve the effectiveness and thoroughness of education.

"A state which is willing to surrender its sovereign power and responsibility in education should be degraded to the territorial status, if their motive is for a financial consideration."

Retrenchment.

There is noticeable in certain sections of the country a tendency towards retrenchment in school finances. This tendency the convention lamentably deplored. Larger rather than reduced expenditures are necessary, the convention declared. It was pointed out that, owing to inflation, $10 per capita for education at present cannot provide any more than $4.46 per capita did in 1911. It was the belief of the convention that the public have not yet come to the point where the value of public education is fully realized nor where anything like real sacrifices are being made to support education. Our people are expending yearly enormously more for luxuries than they are for education.

Character Building.

It is gratifying to note in many of the addresses at the convention a plea for a return to the teaching of the fundamental virtues. In fact a committee of the Council of the National Education Association is actively engaged in formulating a definite program for teaching character building in the schools. The chairman of this committee in outlining its work stated that the business of all educational agencies, including the home, school and church, is to give systematic attention to the development of conscience. "All the virtues must be taught somewhere at some time in the course of study," said the chairman; "the courses of study and the activities of the school should be so constructed as to realize in both theory and practice all the objectives of character education."

Respectfully submitted,

Jeremiah E. Burke,
Superintendent of Public Schools.

George W. Evans, head master, Charlestown High School, has also filed a report as follows:

The convention of the Department of Superintendence of the National Education Association in Chicago (February 27 to March 2, 1922) was organized in eighteen departments, and held forty-eight different meetings in twenty-five or thirty different places. Something over two hundred different formal addresses, papers, or discussions were presented at these meetings; and of this total amount—leaving out of account the general subject of education and the particular subjects that referred to supervision and superintendence, mainly as such—14 per cent of the total related to the intelligence tests and kindred topics, and 12 per cent to the high school, not including rural high schools. These two topics, then, received more attention in the planning and preparation of the convention than any other two.

Most of the matter referring to high schools was presented in meetings of the National Association of Secondary School Principals. By common consent, these meetings were the best arranged and the most interesting of the whole convention. The president was from Oklahoma, and the vice president from New Jersey, the secretary-treasurer from Illinois. On the second day, three of the addresses were announced as referring to the general subject of intelligence tests. Two of them referred to the use of the intelligence tests as a means of classifying high school students and adapting the course of study to their varying capacities. There did not seem to be any conclusive evidence as to the value of such an arrangement or classification; but there was a preponderance of evidence as to the fact that the intelligence test was serviceable in selecting the pupils who would, as a group, have a very low percentage of failures. Figures were given in three subjects, particularly mathematics, and the results in all subjects were consistent.

One of these three addresses referred to the selection of tests. There are, as a matter of fact, something over a dozen tests in ordinary use, and it becomes of some importance to decide which should be selected. The expert who was to give this address was unfortunately absent from the meeting. I learned that he was to deliver an address at another meeting, at which our Mr. Kallom was to speak, so I galloped over there, and found Mr. Kallom already in action. I heard the main part of his address. It was clearly put, brought out the facts as to the help that the intelligence test might be to a class room teacher, and held the attention of the audience throughout. In conversation with some of the people there afterwards, I learned that his address was considered the most interesting and valuable delivered at that meeting.

After Mr. Kallom came the learned gentleman who was to have spoken at the meeting of the high school people. He had his paper with him, but his time was apparently too short to permit him to linger over it. His delivery was therefore hurried and indistinct, and, on the whole, ineffective. From the papers which he circulated a careful study might elicit some information, but from his spoken word little could be learned. This material, and a great deal of the rest of the material presented at the meetings, can be obtained from the publications of the National Education Association and from those of its subordinate groups.

At the banquet of the National Association of Secondary Schools, held on Tuesday evening, a group of girls from the physical training department of the high school in Cicero, Ill., presented interpretative dancing, very graceful and beautiful, and extraordinary for girls without stage training. Doctor Coffman of the University of Minnesota, Doctor Inglis of Harvard and Doctor Briggs of Columbia delivered addresses, mostly of advice to high school teachers. The first speaker said that salaries would fall as a general thing throughout the country unless everywhere were developed higher qualifications and a professional spirit. On the other hand, the community was warned to make high school teaching attractive and stable, so that teachers might lose their wandering proclivities and stay long enough in one place to make a permanent impression.

Another speaker emphasized the fashionable catchwords of these meetings, and in particular laid down, as the successive tasks of the teacher, to study pupils and learn their nature, to guide them in their efforts, to instruct them in response to their demands, and finally to govern them; these tasks being named in the order of their importance to the teaching effort.

The last speaker said that the task of the teacher was, first to get the pupils to do in better fashion the activities they would follow any way, whether instructed or not; second, to reveal to them higher types of mental activity, and to create a desire to pursue them. "Moreover," he said, "all lines of education should be so organized as to be valuable to the pupil if pursued at all, to be more valuable if pursued further, and in general, to have its value depend upon the amount of study that has been made, and not, to any great extent, upon any application that might be made of it in further study."

Thursday afternoon a committee of Middle Western high school men reported on the "Standardization of Teachers' Marks." This report gives a very careful definition of the requirements for the different grade markings, A, B, C, D, etc. My opinion is that although it represents a good deal of co-operative effort, it is not particularly effective. In a discussion of this report, and of other papers in connection with the subject that we had, the opinion seemed to be in favor of so marking pupils that the basis of judgment should be, as they said, quantitative rather than qualitative; the comparison of the pupils being on the basis of the number of things done right rather than on the degree of rightness with which a smaller number of things might be done.

Another report attracted considerable attention, and probably will have a great deal of effect in schools preparing for college under the accrediting system prevailing in the Middle West. It is the formation of the so-called Honor Society of the pupils. This Honor Society is now a national organization, with very definite and rigid prescriptions as to the basis of admission thereto, not only of pupils, but also of schools. It appears that not every school may have the honor of membership.

By far the most interesting subject to me, and I think the most valuable for consideration by the high school men of Boston, is the type of high school organization described by the man from Oklahoma. There was one address on this subject at the first meeting. The other addresses at that meeting were of less consequence; one of them being on the high schools principal's opportunity and obligation as a salesman. The idea was that the high school principal's task includes not only convincing pupils that certain types of education are desirable for them to pursue, but also convincing the public that certain types of education should be pursued by the pupils and paid for out of the public funds. This same idea turned up in three or four places during the convention. There seemed to be a general disposition to accept the point of view that the superintendent and principal had the job of selling education to the community as well as to the pupil.

The first address by the principal of the Central High School of Tulsa, Oklahoma, on "Sane and Systematic Direction of Extra-Curricular Activities," was, in spite of its polysyllabic title, an extremely interesting presentation of a remarkable school organization. This high school contains two thousand pupils, and some ninety or ninety-five teachers. (The vagueness is caused by the inclusion of some part-time teachers.) The school is organized in nine departments: English, history, mathematics, science, foreign language, commercial, music and art, home economics, manual arts (this being the principal department).

Each of the four classes, which bear the classical names of freshman, sophomore, and so on, has a director and an assistant director. The director has an allowance of $120 a year and one fourth of her teaching time for the work of taking care of these pupils. The assistant director has $60 a year, and no allowance in teaching time for whatever he or she does.

I had a talk after the meeting with Mr. Merle Prunty, the principal of the school, who delivered this address, and with Mr. Oberhauser, the superintendent of schools in Tulsa. They both agreed in commending this system as a very effective and economical method of supervision. The director and assistant director progress with the classes as they go through the school; the same pupils continuing to have the same director and assistant director until they graduate. The directors of the senior class this year will be the directors of the freshman class next year, and so on. The effect of this organization is to give the pupils as they come through the school the benefit of very thorough knowledge on the part of the people who are responsible for their progress. It is also true that, so far as possible, the teachers follow the pupils in their upward progress through the school. I can imagine that there might be occasions when the teachers would be glad to be relieved of a particular pupil or group of pupils; and it is possible that the feeling might exist on the other side also. However, the opinion of these two Oklahoma officials is that the system is wholly beneficial, and leads to a very thorough co-operation between the teacher on the one hand and the pupil on the other.

The buildings in which this experiment in education is housed are on a scale which it is difficult for us to regard as possible in this neighborhood. There are, for example, four gymnasiums, two for girls and two for boys; two swimming pools, one for girls and one for boys; an auditorium which will seat 2,800 persons; play grounds in ample quantity; meeting rooms for the several classes, each as large as an assembly hall in an ordinary high school hereabouts. The superintendent tells me that the buildings, which were built partly before the war prices began to show their heads, and partly after war prices had disappeared, will have cost the town authorities about $1,700,000; and his belief is that a less careful selection of time and place for investment would have cost the town possibly half a million more. These buildings are paid for by an issue of bonds running ten or twenty years. The population and valuation of the city have increased and are increasing at such a rate that the sinking fund for these bonds will be no appreciable burden. Obviously the financial situation is different from that in New England towns.

The time table for the day is arranged in six periods, of which the first is a home room period of twenty minutes. The other five periods are severally divided into forty-minute periods for instruction and thirty-minute periods for supervised study. The school begins at 8.15. After the twenty-minute home room period, in which a good deal of the student participation in the school government has its foundation, the first regular instruction period begins. Five minutes are allowed for the transfer of pupils from room to room between the preparatory period and the first class period; also, between the first class period and the second. The second class period closes at 11.15, and then comes three forty-minute periods. The school goes to lunch in three distinct divisions, the remainder of the school continuing its work while one third of it is at lunch.

What Mr. Prunty referred to as extra-curricular activities are the following: Public speaking, journalism, dramatics, debating, athletics, student government, theory of music and sight chorus singing, the boys' glee club, the girls' glee club, vocational printing, swimming and gymnastics, cartoon drawing, and scenic painting. These activities, which are regarded by most people as outside of the regular curriculum of instruction, are here considered as educative in the same sense that most of the studies included in the high school program are.

DEVELOPING BOSTON TRADE.

Starting out for the purpose of "Selling Boston" as the greatest passenger port on the Atlantic seaboard, Charles C. Dacey of the Cunard Steamship Company has left the city for the North and West on a visit to a number of the great cities of the United States and Canada. This announcement was made by Mayor Curley upon the 4th instant.

"Boston is incontestably the passenger port par excellence of America for trans-Atlantic business," continued the Mayor, "since it is the one port of the country where tourists from the West can be so transported that they can slip their Pullmans on board the liner they sail in; and returning from a tour abroad they can transact all their affairs at the pier where they disembark, pass the examinations of the customs and emigration officers, exchange their money, secure railroad tickets and board their trains right at the ship's side.

"Special trains to and from Boston and points as west as Minneapolis are made up specially for Boston sailings and those bound for Europe save a day on the voyage.

"These facts are not as well known even to our own people as they should be but they are going to be a potent element in the development of Boston in the near future and are things that should be more familiar to themselves as well as to the American people generally. Boston has many historic and picturesque attractions in and about it that appeal to traveling America which should be emphasized, features that in the pleasant days of summer can induce people en route to Europe to spend some days seeing us before they sail or on their return from abroad.

" 'Selling Boston' " is not only good for the individual transportation enterprise here, but is the policy that is certain to restore something of Boston's old time dominance in commerce and pleasure, and the pleasure spots of Boston properly exploited are profitable all around."

NEW HIGH PRESSURE MAINS.

The expenditure of $25,000 by Public Works Commissioner Joseph A. Rourke for the installation of high pressure mains in the vicinity of the new First National Bank, which is to stand on the site of the Equitable Building and other buildings now being razed, has been authorized by Mayor Curley. The work in question is on Milk street, between Federal and Devonshire streets.

THE LABOR SITUATION.

The records of the Massachusetts Public Employment Office at 23 and 25 Pearl street for the month of March gives considerable ground for the optimistic view that business is gradually but surely improving.

After taking into consideration that February had only twenty-three working days and that March had twenty-seven, the figures show an upward trend. During the month the number of orders from employers show an increase of 32% over February but a decrease of 23% from March, 1921. The number of people called for by employers shows an increase of 19% over February, also an increase of 3% over March last year. The number of positions reported filled shows an increase of 23% over February, also an increase of 22% over March a year ago. The attendance of applicants for employment increased 13% over February but was 18% less than March, 1921. The attendance of service men in search of employment was 2,653 (1,878 soldiers, 775 sailors), of which 214 (149 soldiers and 65 sailors) were given cards to firms and 169 (121 soldiers and 48 sailors) secured positions.

In the men's skilled department the positions offered were more of a permanent nature than previous months. The principal demand in the building trades were for carpenters, painters, paperhangers and wood mill men. There has been a better demand for compositors, pressmen and feeders in the printing industry which was easily filled. The demand for machinists shows considerable improvement but the supply of competent machinists far exceeds the demands. The demand for upholsterers was fair with a scarcity of applicants and difficulty has been found to fill the positions opened.

The men's unskilled department has had a strong demand for able bodied laborers but the supply was more than equal to the demand. It has been noticeable that a number of applicants who are married are desirous of returning to the farms. They have been engaged in business in the cities for ten or twelve years but the depression causing them to be out of work makes them willing to go and try farm life again. There has been little demand for their services as the employing farmers are desirous of securing up to date farm hands who can milk. The demand for hotel and restaurant help has been fair and the positions quickly filled.

The demand for boys for errands, office and factory has improved considerably during the past month and many positions have been filled.

The demand in the women's skilled department has been general, no particular line showing much of a demand. There is a plentiful supply of candy and paper box makers in the market but little demand for their services. The demands from hotels and restaurants have been fair with an excellent supply and places have been easily filled.

The demand for housework girls continues to dominate the women's unskilled department with half a dozen customers waiting for every applicant for this kind of work. There has been a better demand for day workers and cleaners with an over supply of help.

The daily average demand was 55 as compared with 53 in 1921; 110 in 1920; 65 in 1919; 90 in 1918; 81 in 1917; 85 in 1916; and 50 in 1915.

The daily average number of positions reported filled was 46 as compared with 38 in 1921; 59 in 1920; 43 in 1919; 57 in 1918; 50 in 1917; 63 in 1916 and 42 in 1915.

APPROVAL OF STREET.

The Mayor has approved the order of the Board of Street Commissioners that the location, direction, width and grade of the private way at West Roxbury designated as Halton road, from Park street to Wren street, be accepted.

CLAIMS.

The Mayor has approved, with the indorsement of the Corporation Counsel, the following claims:

John L. McMenimen, 90 Berkshire street, Cambridge, in the amount of $50, as compensation for damage to coat by iron stake bent over the sidewalk on Shawmut avenue, corner of West Newton street, South End, January 25, 1922.

Samuel V. Goldberg, in the amount of $750, as compensation for damage to property caused by police strike rioters, at Tremont street and Temple place, city proper, September 10, 1919.

Grace H. Linzee, in the amount of $6,500, as compensation for damages to her estate caused by the widening of Charles street, city proper.

Travelers' Insurance Company, in the amount of $85, as compensation for damage to automobile of the United Jewelry Company, 132 Hanover street, city proper, which was damaged on the ferryboat "Governor Russell," which collided with the piles, May 18, 1921.

Northern Industrial Chemical Company, 11 Elkins street, South Boston, in the amount of $8.56, as compensation for refund on seventy-eight dump tickets unused.

Margaret C. Reardon, 33 Dix street, Dorchester, in the amount of $31, as compensation for damage to property and expense incurred at 20 and 22 Green street, Jamaica Plain, by the sewer not being properly connected, January, 1922.

Mrs. Daniel Leary, 28 Marion street, Charlestown, in the amount of $150, as compensation on account of personal injuries sustained by a hole in the crosswalk at the corner of Bunker Hill and Sprague streets, Charlestown, January 19, 1922.

Rosario La Rosa, 53 Liverpool street, East Boston, in the amount of $125, as compensation on account of personal injjries sustained on East Boston ferry when boat bumped the slip, December 12, 1921.

Sarah Kelley, in the amount of $350, as compensation for personal injuries caused by hole in sidewalk in front of 35 Preble street, South Boston, June 18, 1921.

Helen Driscoll, a minor, 6 Wood street, Charlestown, in the amount of $125, as compensation on account of injuries sustained when boarding the ferryboat at Battery street, city proper, December 22, 1921.

Christopher White, 132 Haynes street, East Boston, in the amount of $100, as compensation for injuries received on ferryboat "John Hancock," which collided with wharf, September 25, 1921.

Rebecca Weinstein, 40 Staniford street, city proper, in the amount of $125, as compensation for injuries sustained by a hole in sidewalk on South Margin street, between the school gate and No. 52, city proper, December 17, 1921.

William J. Murray, in the amount of $2,500, as compensation for personal injuries caused by hole in sidewalk at 258 Eustis street, Roxbury, December 15, 1917.

Abraham L. Siegel and Louis H. Jacobson, as Eliot Clothes Shop and Model Hat Store, in the amount of $200, as compensation for damage to property caused by rioters during the police strike at 709 and 883 Washington street, on September 9, 1919.

INSURANCE EXPERT MAY COME.

Mayor Curley is seriously considering inviting Samuel Untermyer, who has made an extraordinary crusade in New York City against profiteering, to come to Boston and wage a battle to force the Boston Board of Fire Underwriters to reduce their fire insurance rates at least 30 per cent, which request they have rejected.

Mr. Untermyer has written Mayor Curley as follows:

New York, April 5, 1922.

Hon. James M. Curley,
Mayor of Boston:

My Dear Mr. Mayor,—I am in receipt of your very kind letter of March 31.

I have sent for additional copies of the bills that were introduced in the Legislature by our committee and will forward you a full set of them as soon as they reach here, which will be within the next day or two.

I agree that the rates upon fire, casualty, fidelity, plate glass, burglary, surety and like lines of insurance are grossly extortionate. That is true also as to workmen's compensation insurance which, in my judgment, should be a state monopoly for reasons that you will find set forth in the report of our committee, of which I am sending you a copy under separate cover. You will also find there a complete resume of the situation with respect to fire and other lines of insurance.

If there is any way in which I can be of service to you in furthering your very laudable and public-spirited effort to reduce the cost of insurance to the people of your community, please do not hesitate to command me.

It may interest you to know that for the year 1920 the people of the United States paid $1,564,000 in premiums on the various classes of insurance above specified (excluding, of course, life insurance). In my judgment there is a saving of 25 per cent to be made on this vast sum, which will amount to between $300,000,000 and $400,0000,000 per year, so you will observe that a study of the problem is well worth while.

With kind regards, believe me,

Sincerely yours,

Samuel Untermyer.

Mayor Curley replied to Mr. Untermyer as follows:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor,
April 6, 1922.

Samuel Untermyer, Esq., Counselor-at-Law, 120 Broadway, New York, N. Y.:

Dear Mr. Untermyer,—I am duly in receipt of your cordial letter of the 5th instant and the inclosures which reached me under separate post.

May I assure you I appreciate the absolute truth of all the facts which you have excellently set forth relative to the extortionate rates charged for the various policies in insurance companies as affecting the hazards in every metropolitan community. I am making every effort that lies within my power to bring the protection of insurance to the citizens of Boston at a cost which is fair and equitable.

I sincerely trust that you appreciate how greatly the citizens of Boston commend your disinterested services along the lines of the greatest public endeavor and your cordial effort to co-operate meets my realization of the highest mark of public service within the community.

Sincerely yours,

James M. Curley, Mayor.

Mayor Curley believes that insurance rates as they exist in Boston play a tremendous part in the high cost of living. If insurance rates are excessively high, they reflect themselves in the charges made upon every man, woman and child in town. for such necessaries of life as food, clothing and shelter. Large commercial houses are not joining him in this campaign, the Mayor laments, because it is much easier for their managers to pass the cost of these "extortionate" insurance rates along to their customers.

Mr. Curley expressed deep satisfaction that Mr. Untermyer is willing and free to join in his fight for a reduction of rates to "somewhere near normalcy" in Boston. He said he will consult with his advisers during the next few days as to his future course in this matter.

MAYOR ABOLISHES SLUMS.

Mayor Curley has started procedure to wipe out another North End slum section, similar to that around Morton street in that vicinity, which was eradicated at a $250,000 cost in his first administration.

The Mayor states that the Congregation Beth Israel has consented to sell to the city at its assessed valuation the 12,577 square feet of land (assessed at $34,600) and the century-old brick building (assessed at $22,000) in Baldwin place.

A $70,000 loan order will be introduced by the Mayor at the City Council's session next Monday to effect purchase of the property and to build on its site a broad, clean playground for the children and a mothers' outdoor rest.

The City Planning Board has always been heartily in accord with the Curley policy in this matter of letting the sunshine in where congestion, darkness, disease and crime have had chance to dominate.

So it was that several years ago Board agents surveyed this territory and found an extreme fire hazard here, as well as social and sanitary conditions constituting a community menace.

In the block affected, which is bounded by Prince, Salem, Cooper, North Margin and Thacher streets, the surveyors found 1,239 persons living in an area of two and one half acres. Baldwin place runs off Salem street and ends in a blind, dark alley.

The synagogue, abandoned for church purposes several years ago, is described by surveyors as "a rookery." It was formerly the Home for Little Wanderers, before that organization moved uptown.

Soon after he came into office Mayor Curley communicated with Congregation Beth Israel leaders.

"They wanted $70,000 for the land and buildings," said Mr. Curley. "I pointed out to them that the property was assessed for $54,600, and told them that when they were ready to do business at a figure somewhere near that I'd be overjoyed to join them.

"President Isaac Heller of the Congregation informed me today that Richard Pinksohn, a realty operator for the Congregation, had been empowered by it to close the deal with the city for the assessed valuation—$54,600. So I mean to send a loan order to the Council Monday for $70,000, providing $16,000 for building the playground and mother's rest."

MAYOR FINDS EMPLOYMENT.

During the past five weeks Mayor Curley, through several of his city departments, has found employmnt for 931 citizens of Boston. By just that number he has relieved distress and brought joy to the hearts of families in this city whose outlook on life was rather gloomy at the first of the year.

By departments the number of persons to whom employment has been given by Mayor Curley are: Transit Department, 411; through the Unemployment Bureau, 450; through the Park Department, 30, and through the Public Works Department, 50.

Of this number the great majority have been from the ranks of veterans, there being 706 of this class to whom employment has been furnished as against 125 citizens. The number of veterans for whom employment was found in the Transit Department was 401; the number of veterans taken care of and for whom work was found by the Unemployment Bureau was 225; in the Public Works Department and the Park Department all the men put to work by the Mayor were veterans.

The Mayor hopes that as Spring opens up and business increases, through his various departments, he will be able to place a much larger number of men at work, with the aid of employers throughout the city who are also interested in relieving the situation of idleness.

EXTENSION OF CONTRACT.

The Mayor has approved an extension of the contract with P. DeCristoforo, for laying and relaying water pipes in Dudley street, from Blue Hill avenue to Magnolia street, Dorchester, to June 1, 1922.

CIRCULAR LETTER ISSUED.

The Mayor issued the following circular letter to department heads upon the 3d instant:

City of Boston,
Mayor's Office, April 3, 1922.

To Heads of Departments:

Dear Sir,—The most prolific source of waste and corruption in any municipal administration is represented in what is known as split contracts.

During my previous administration as Mayor of Boston, the highest record ever made in the history of the city, in the matter of regularly advertised contracts for work to be performed in excess of $1,000, was established.

I am desirous that this record be maintained during the present administration.

You are accordingly directed to regularly advertise, except where emergency will not permit of delay, upon all expenditures, the estimated total of which, shall be in excess of $1,000.

Sincerely yours,

James M. Curley, Mayor.

LAND-TAKING IN WEST ROXBURY.

The Mayor has approved the order of the Board of Street Commissioners for the taking of land in Washington street, West Roxbury district, between Cottage avenue and Grouse street, for school purposes.

The land is described as follows:

A parcel of land, in Boston, supposed to be belong to Theresa A. Mulqueeney, one quarter; Mary A. Mulqueeney, one quarter; Frank L. Mulqueeney, one quarter; and Cecelia M. Dillon, one quarter, bounded:

Southeast by Washington street, two hundred two and 85/100 feet; on a curve of three hundred fifty-three feet radius; southwest by Grouse street, one hundred ninety-nine and 80/100 feet; northwest by land supposed to belong to Jennie E. Stuart, two hundred feet; and northeast by Cottage avenue, two hundred five and 9/100 feet; containing thirty-eight thousand five hundred and fifty square feet, more or less.

The Mayor has approved the order of the Board of Street Commissioners that the undermentioned estate sustains damages by the taking made for school purposes on Washington street, West Roxbury district, between Cottage avenue and Grouse street, in the amount hereinafter set against it and awards said amount therefor:

Teresa A. Mulqueeney, one quarter; Mary A. Mulqueeney, one quarter; Frank L. Mulqueeney, one quarter; and Cecelia M. Dillon, one quarter; 38,550 square feet and building..........$6,500

LIBRARY EXHIBITIONS.

Centenaries of Edward Everett Hale (Born April 2, 1822) and Gen. Ulysses S. Grant (Born April 27, 1822).

On view in the cases of the exhibition room of the Public Library in Copley square are centenary exhibits in memory of Ulysses S. Grant and Edward Everett Hale.

There are shown a considerable number of contemporary documents relating to Grant's campaigns, both military and political, and many tributes on the occasion of his death, among them, "The Ulyssiad, an American epic." Of special interest is a collection of political cartoons, issued by Grant's opponents during his first campaign for the presidency. Note also the facsimile of the Vicksburg Daily Citizen for July 2, 1862.

The other exhibit gives a vivid idea of the amazing range of Doctor Hale's interests. The publications run from 1845 to 1906 and includes works in theology and homiletics, Colonial and United States history, biography, political science, philanthropy, travel in four continents, prose fiction and poetry. The titles of Doctor Hale's writings form, as it were, a running commentary on the many kinds of social uplift with which he was actively identified.

RULES OF HYGIENE.

Dr. Francis X. Mahoney, Health Commissioner, has heartily indorsed the following rules of hygiene of the United States Public Health Service:

1. Ventilate every room you occupy.
2. Wear loose, porous clothing suited to season, weather, and occupation.
3. If you are an indoor worker, be sure to get recreation outdoors.
4. Sleep in fresh air always; in the open if you can.
5. Hold a handkerchief before your mouth and nose when you cough or sneeze and insist that others do so too.
6. Always wash the hands before eating.
7. Do not overeat. This applies especially to meats and eggs.
8. Eat some hard and some bulky foods; some fruits.
9. Eat slowly, chew thoroughly.
10. Drink sufficient water daily.
11. Evacuate thoroughly, regularly.
12. Stand, sit, and walk erect.
13. Do not allow poisons and infections to enter the body.
14. Keep the teeth, gums, and tongue clean.
15. Work, play, rest, and sleep in moderation.
16. Keep serene. Worry is the foe of health. Cultivate the companionship of your fellow men.
17. Avoid self drugging. Beware the plausible humbug of the patent medicine faker.
18. Have your doctor examine you carefully once a year. Also consult your dentist at regular intervals.

Office of the Mayor, April 1, 1922.

To the City Council:

Gentlemen,—I am transmitting herewith a communication from the chairman, Board of Park Commissioners, relative to an appropriation for Fens Improvements, and respectfully recommend the passage of the accompanying order by your honorable body.

Respectfully,
James M. Curley, Mayor.

City of Boston,
Park Department, March 30, 1922.

Hon. James M. Curley,
Mayor of Boston:

Dear Sir,—At a meeting of the Board of Park Commissioners held on Thursday, March 30, 1922, it was voted to ask your Honor to request the City Council to appropriate $50,000 from the income of the Parkman Fund for Fens Improvement, to be expended as follows:

Resurfacing park roadways with permanent pavement, approximately 25,000 square yards	$42,000
Improvement of the railroad bridge at Charlesgate	8,000
	$50,000

Very respectfully yours,
James B. Shea, Chairman.

P. S. Income from Parkman Fund available April 3, 1922, $60,083.06.

Ordered, That the sum of $50,000 be and hereby is appropriated from the income of the Parkman Fund, to be expended under the direction of the Park Commissioners, for the maintenance and improvement of the Common and parks in existence on January 12, 1887, as follows:

Fens, Improvements	$50,000

Referred to the Committee on Parkman Fund.

VETO—REINSTATEMENT OF F. L. CARROLL.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, March 30, 1922.

To the City Council:

Gentlemen,—I return herewith, without my approval, the resolve passed by your honorable body March 20, favoring legislation for the reinstatement of Fred L. Carroll in the Fire Department.

In view of the accompanying report submitted by the Acting Fire Commissioner there is no justification in reinstating this man.

Respectfully yours,
James M. Curley, Mayor.

City of Boston,
Fire Department, March 23, 1922.

Hon. James M. Curley,
Mayor of Boston

Dear Sir,—I am in receipt of a memorandum from your office requesting my opinion on the following order passed by the City Council on March 20, 1922:

"Resolved, That the City Council of the City of Boston favors the enactment of legislation to authorize the reinstatement of Fred L. Carroll in the Boston Fire Department."

Below I give the record of Fred L. Carroll as member of this department:

Born: October 5, 1878.
Appointed to the Fire Department: August 4, 1905.
Discharged for cause: November 20, 1912.
Reinstated (special legislation, chapter 240, special Acts of 1916): June 2, 1916.
Resigned: July 21, 1818.
Reinstated: April 22, 1919.
Resigned: July 11, 1919.

Two things to be noted in the above record are the age of Mr. Carroll and the number of times he has been in and out of the department in the past. Mr. Carroll will be forty-four years of age this year and since his original appointment in 1905 has served only nine years, approximately, in the department, whereas other men who came into the department at the same time he did have served seventeen years

From his record in the department it would appear that Mr. Carroll is of the opinion that regardless of any rules or regulations he can come and go as he pleases. He was discharged for cause in 1912 and had an act passed in 1916 which permitted his reinstatement. He resigned July 21, 1918, stating in his resignation that he had "been called by the Shipping Board," although I understand that later he enlisted in the navy. He was reinstated April 22, 1919, and resigned two and one half months later "to accept a more lucrative position."

If another act is passed by the Legislature which will permit Mr. Carroll to be reinstated I believe that it will be injurious to the morale of the Fire Department. I believe that when a man has been given the consideration given Mr. Carroll he has been treated fairly enough, and that in filling vacancies the men who are waiting on the civil service list should be given an opportunity for appointment.

Yours very truly,
Joseph P. Manning.
Acting Fire Commissioner.

CLOSING OF NAVY YARD.

Coun. FORD offered the following:

Whereas, It is the intention of the United States Government to close the Navy Yard at Charlestown;

Whereas, This will cause untold suffering and hardship to twenty-four hundred men and their families and a serious economic loss to our community as a result of forced unemployment;

Resolved, That the City Council of the City of Boston protests against this intended step on the grounds that it is plainly a discrimination against the City of Boston and New England, and will cause a condition of unemployment in this city and its immediate vicinity that cannot be relieved; be it further

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be sent to the Massachusetts Representatives in Congress.

Coun. FORD—Mr. President, I have been talking publicly about Boston for some time, trying to show some reasons why the city's economic situation is in the doldrums and that Boston is being discriminated against by those who are in a position which would enable them to remedy a serious situation that exists. The most important problem to be solved today—and this is not merely my declaration, but the Mayor said to us as an assembled body that it was the most serious problem he had to solve—is the problem of unemployment. For the last twenty years, and particularly in the last ten years, Boston has been discriminated against by the powers in control at Washington. Instead of taking care of our interests they have, if not actually opposing our interests, been negligent, almost criminally so. We boast here in Boston that we have the greatest universities in the world. We talk publicly about Boston College, Harvard University, Radcliffe, the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, the New England Conservatory of Music, and other universities and colleges. We boast that we have the greatest drydock in the world, and then sometimes, it seems almost idly, we talk about having the greatest pier in the world; and then we declare how within fifty miles of Boston we have the greatest boot and shoe making industry, the greatest fish products industry and the greatest textile industry. Yet here in the City of Boston at the present time we have 50,000 people unemployed, all due to something. The manufacturers in the surrounding cities and in Boston have waited for the representatives at Washington to do something that would enable them to adjust their business to a peace time basis, but nothing has been done. The tariff bill that was to relieve the situation is still in committee at Washington, and the tax legislation that has been passed has benefited no one except the rich corporations and the manufacturers who were making excess profits. There has been no benefit to the ordinary individual like you and me. By the legislation they are now proposing or intending to pass, which is being promoted by those who have not the interests of New England and Boston at heart, they are trying to strangle New England and Boston, making New England nothing but a playground. The Morgan interests for years have boasted that they would make New England and Boston a playground, cutting it off from the rest of the United States and making it a place for vacationists, and nothing more. As was pointed out at the recent conference in Boston, some of our great public minds, some of our great public men, men of standing and business acumen, when they have visited Washington have been given about a line or a line and a half in the press. The opinions of some of our biggest men are given hardly any weight there. Unless we stop their putting through for New England what they aim to put through, the St. Lawrence river waterway and canal, a canal so deep that it will allow sea-going vessels to go through to the lake ports, New England will be wholly strangled and its export trade, that we want to build up, developing the port of Boston for that purpose, will be absolutely at an end. There are differential rates with an advantage of 60 cents in favor of Baltimore and 40 cents in favor of Philadelphia, all the result of almost criminal neglect on the part of our representatives at Washington. With all our existing unemployment, with all the deadness in condition at our port, with all these things affording no stimulus to the industries about Boston, they now intend to shut up an institution the closing of which means from an economic standpoint at least a loss of a million dollars a year to the people of the City of Boston, the citizens and the merchants of the city; that means hardship and untold suffering to 2,400 families, including 10,000 or 15,000 people at least. There has been too much discrimination, Mr. President, in favor of the South and West, in favor of Virginian interests, in favor of the Norfolk ship yards and the navy yards of the southern part of our Atlantic seaboard, and it has been at the expense of our Navy Yard. Where we once had 10,000 employees there, we now have 2,400 employees, and it is proposed to shut it up altogether. The story of the "Leviathan" is known to everybody in New England. It did not come to Boston because of the opposing interests that exist at Washington, and we saw it taken away from this city with the men we have sent to Washington, those who pretend that they have power, sitting idly by. Down in Washington they can put through their four-power pact treaties and Senator Lodge can and will boast in the next few days about the tremendous influence he has had for world peace through the passing of the legislation looking to disarmament and to the execution of the four-power pact treaty. But at the same time he has done nothing for New England, but is allowing New England and Boston to starve. They allowed the "Leviathan" to be taken away from Boston. It was intended that that should be so long before Mayor Curley or any of our representatives went to Washington, even though we had bid low. The interests in power said it was to go to Virginia. It was intended that it should go there, and it will go there. There was nothing but deceit practised towards the people of Boston and New England when the agitation, the fake and false agitation, was stirred up, when they pretended that they were doing their utmost, doing their best to send the "Leviathan" to Boston. They intended to sacrifice the City of Boston. Now they intend to shut up the Navy Yard here, while at the same time passing these great treaties, spending their time, Mr. President, in doing things that are of no benefit, or no immediate benefit, to the people of Boston, who want to solve this problem of unemployment; they now criminally neglect Boston and want to shut up the Navy Yard. It is about time that we did something to displace these men who only pretend to represent New England, who make a mere pretence. They live at Washington year in and year out, and then, when they seek the suffrage of the people, they pretend that they have done something for Boston and New England. If the Navy Yard is closed, if the reports are true, these men should be made to pay. We have talked and talked and talked, but nothing has been done. Boston, Massachusetts and New England now have no confidence in those men who pretend to have a lot of influence at Washington, but who do nothing for New England. I say, Mr. President, that if these men cannot do this work, if those in control at Washington cannot help Boston and New England, then Boston, Massachusetts and every state in New England should see that these men are removed and others sent there who can and will apply themselves to the task, properly representing us in public office in the capital. These men in the Navy Yard demand their right to live; Boston demands its right to have proper patronage from Washington and the White House. Let us now determine that if the Navy Yard, the last straw which will break the back of public opinion, is taken away from us, our representatives there ought to and must pay. Mr. President, the City of Boston can voice its opinion on this matter, and I trust that it will do so. I think it will have some force and effect, and it may be that the publicity given to it and our efforts to preserve this institution which we have had for many years past, and which at present is the means of supporting 2,400 families, may have some result.

The preambles and resolutions were passed.

LAWRENCE C. CHISHOLM SQUARE.

Coun. WALSH offered an order—That the space at the junction of Warren street and Commonwealth avenue be named Lawrence C. Chisholm square, in memory of the aforesaid, who fell in action in the World War, and that signs be set up to designate the same.

Coun. GILBODY offered an order—That Francis J. Kane square, Bowdoin and Hancock streets, be transferred to the custody of the Park Department, through his Honor the Mayor.

Passed under a suspension of the rule.

PROTEST AGAINST STATE LEGISLATION.

Coun. FORD offered the following:

Whereas, There is pending in the Massachusetts Senate a bill providing for the removal of the mayors of the various cities of the Commonwealth after a hearing before three judges of the Superior Court; and

Whereas, This legislation is a direct attack upon the rights of the people to control their elective offices and repugnant to a democratic form of government, therefore be it

Resolved, That in the opinion of the City Council of the City of Boston such legislation is undesirable in that it confers on a branch of our government powers that our Constitution and Laws never intended should be so conferred, and is a deprivation of powers belonging to the people themselves; be it further

Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be sent to each member of the Massachusetts Senate.

Coun. FORD—Mr. President, I do not have to prove our case here in the City Council or before the people of Boston, that the State House has during the past dozen years—yes, during the past twenty-five years—robbed the government of the City of Boston of its powers, so that it is now practically under the control of those at the State House. We have seen legislation passed that has taken powers away from the Mayor of the City of Boston; we have seen legislation passed that has diverted our whole form of government in an improper direction. We have always had in the past, and always believed in. three branches of government, and we always intended that those should be preserved for the people. At one time, Mr. President, when one arose to talk about a subject such as this, it was sometimes said that it was done for political purposes or that the idea was to obtain publicity; but, Mr. President, the Legislature of Massachusetts, unless it stops just where it is, will pass legislation that will result in an uprising of the people of the City of Boston. We have talked about it, we have sent up resolutions opposing it, and soon there will be a mighty public sentiment directed against the members of the Legislature and there may be some serious trouble. The minute people believe that their powers are being stolen away from them they will rise en masse, and these things make for anarchy and radicalism. We are not pessimists, we are not talking as demagogues talk. We are telling the truth. This particular piece of legislation to which the resolutions refer was directed toward the City of Boston. It makes little difference to me whether it was directed against the City of Boston or any other city, but the result of such legislation is that it tends to take away from the people not what the Legislature at any time allowed them to have but what the people retained for themselves, under the Constitution. The Legislature derives its power from the people, and the people retain for themselves in their Constitution the right to elect and the right to remove their own officers, Mr. President. The Legislature in this case, because of the vaporings of some diseased mind or minds, is giving this power to judges of the Superior Court, who do not want the power, Mr. President. The judges of our courts, irrespective of what the Legislature does. would like to keep away from and be uninterfered with by the other branches of our government. But what can they do when these statutes are passed and these laws are spread upon the books? They have to obey, and they have to assume powers that they do not want. The Supreme Court and the Superior Court do not want to interfere with the rights of the people, but they are being forced to do so by a Legislature which, because of some party jealousy, because of some plea directed toward one man—the Mayor of the City of Boston—would, because of their personal feelings, rob the people of their rights, caring nothing about the people or the rights retained by them in the Constitution, throwing everything to the winds because of their desire to vent their spleen upon the Mayor of the City of Boston. Mr. President, where are we going? Whither are we tending? Is it going to come to this, that all the powers of the people are going to be vested in the judges of our courts, who are appointed, not elected by the people? Is that what we are tending to? Are our powers going to be taken away from us and given to those men, who do not even want them, so that we will be hemmed in and the people will have no rights? Mr. President, we are surely tending in that direction, unless the intelligent members of an intelligent Legislature will protect us and protect the people against the insane members who are favoring such legislation. I hope that the resolutions will pass, in order that the people and the Legislature will understand that there is at least one body which will stand up for the people and will help the people to retain the rights they have retained for themselves in their Constitution.

The preambles and resolutions were passed.

RECESS TAKEN.

The Council voted at 3.07 p. m., on motion of Coun. FORD, to take a recess subject to the call of the President.

EVERY WEEK A CLEAN-UP WEEK.

AN APPEAL TO HOUSEHOLDERS.

City of Boston,
Health Department.

Boston should be the cleanest, healthiest and happiest city in the world. With your help, it may be. Will you not begin now by helping to keep the city clean?

F. X. Mahoney,
Health Commissioner.

1. Keep your own house and yard, including your alleyways and passageways and the cellar, clean. If you live in an apartment, keep your own apartment clean, and do what you can to keep the rest of the premises in proper condition.
2. Throw no garbage, ashes, or trash into the hallways, bathrooms, water-closets, or areaways, or on the stairs. If an accident happens, clean up at once.
3. For garbage, provide a water-tight, covered receptacle, preferably of metal. For ashes and rubbish the law requires metal receptacles.
4. If your garbage, ashes, or rubbish is not taken away when it should be report to the Department of Public Works, Room 508, City Hall Annex. Telephone call, Congress 5100, Branch 253.
5. Be careful when using water-closets, bathrooms and sinks. See that your children are careful, too. If an accident happens, clean up at once.
6. Let plenty of light and air into your rooms. Keep your windows clean and open.
7. Do not overcrowd your rooms. You cannot get enough light and air in if you overcrowd.
8. Keep clean your kitchen, your refrigerators, and all pots, pans, dishes, etc., used in caring for and serving food.
9. Put nothing on your fire escape. It may be in your way in case of fire.
10. If you feel that your neighbor does not do his part to keep the premises in good order, and if you live in rented premises and feel that your landlord does not do his part, talk to him about it. If you do not get satisfaction, report the matter to the Health Department, Room 1111, City Hall Annex. Telephone call, Congress 5100, Branch 167.

FREE PUBLIC LECTURES.

The Trustees of the Boston Public Library announce the following free public lectures to be given at the Lecture Hall.

The entrance is from Boylston street only. The doors will be opened two hours before each lecture and closed ten minutes after the lecture begins.

Sunday Afternoons at 3.30 O'Clock.

Apr. 9. The Music of Birds. Arthur Edward Wilson. With whistling imitations.

The Boston Ruskin Club.

The Ruskin Club will continue its meetings on the second and fourth Mondays of the month at three o'clock. The following free lectures are announced, subject to changes:

Apr. 10. New Problems of Penology. Hon. Sanford Bates, Massachusetts Commissioner of Corrections.

Apr. 24. Massachusetts Federation Conference.—Department of Music. Mrs. Ellen Porter Davison, chairman.

May 8—Annual Meeting. (Members of the Club only.)

SETTLEMENT OF BOSTON.

Boston was settled in the latter part of August, 1630, by Puritan colonists under Governor John Winthrop. The name of the original settlement was changed to Boston from Trimountaine by order of the Court of Assistants on September 7 (O. S.), 1630. This date was moved forward by the New Style calendar in 1752 to September 17, the recognized date of the founding of Boston. The name, Trimountaine, had been given because of the three peaks of the most prominent hill, afterward called Beacon Hill, much higher then than now. By the Indians the place was called Shawmut. The name, Boston, was derived from the English town of Boston in Lincolnshire, the home of some of the leading colonists and promoters of the enterprise.

BOSTON NOTES.

METROPOLITAN DISTRICT OR "GREATER BOSTON."

Consists in the most inclusive sense of 40 municipalities, including Boston, or 14 cities and 26 towns, all within 15 miles of the State House. The 7 cities in the first zone, i. e., adjacent to Boston, are these, viz., Cambridge, Chelsea, Everett, Newton, Quincy, Revere and Somerville; the 6 cities in the second zone, not adjacent, are Lynn, Malden, Medford, Melrose, Waltham and Woburn. The 6 adjacent towns are Brookline, Dedham, Milton, Needham, Watertown and Winthrop; the 20 other towns are Arlington, Belmont, Braintree, Canton, Cohasset, Dover, Hingham, Hull, Lexington, Nahant, Reading, Saugus, Stoneham, Swampscott, Wakefield, Wellesley, Weston, Westwood, Weymouth and Winchester. North and northwest of Boston are situated 11 of the cities and 12 of the towns; south and southwest, 2 cities and 14 towns. Area of Northern Division, 150.8 sq. miles and population in 1920, 699,685, or a density of 4,619 per sq. m.; Southern Division, 214.8 sq. miles and 211,191 population, or density of only 983 per sq. m.; in the whole Metropolitan District, 4,051 per sq. m. In percentages Boston shows 10.5 p. c. of District's area and 45.09 p. c. of population; Northern Division, 36.2 of area and 42.18 of population; Southern Division, 53.3 of area and 12.73 of population. In the period 1915–1920, increase of population 34,798 larger in Northern than in Southern Division.

Total land area of District, 409.5 square miles; population by census of 1920, 1,658,936 or 4.08 per cent increase over that of 1915. Of the total population of the State, "Greater Boston" has 43.06 per cent; of total valuation, 51.23 per cent; of total value of manufactures, 32.21 per cent.

Total valuation of taxable property in District on April 1, 1920, $2,737,589,002, i. e., for realty and tangible personalty, including bank stock, intangible personalty being exempt from taxation (except income therefrom) in 1917 and thereafter. The said total exceeds the 1919 valuation by $130,698,130, a gain of 5.01 per cent. Of said total 57.57 per cent was in Boston and 42.43 per cent outside. The four organized Metropolitan Districts existing for the purpose of constructing and maintaining certain extensive systems of public works under State control are as follows: Metropolitan Park District, established by chapter 407, Acts of 1893, including all the cities and towns except Lexington, and managed by a State Board of five commissioners; Metropolitan Water District, established by chapter 488, Acts of 1895, including 10 cities and 9 towns, and covering an area of 175 square miles; Metropolitan Sewerage District, established by chapter 439, Acts of 1889, consisting of the North System and South System, including 17 cities and towns in the former system and 8 in the latter, and covering an area of 225 square miles; the last two districts managed by a single State board of three commissioners; Charles River Basin District, established by chapter 465, Acts of 1903, including all the cities and towns except Cohasset and Lexington, and in charge of the Metropolitan Park Commission. By Chap. 350, General Acts of 1919, the two Metropolitan boards were abolished and a single Metropolitan Commission of five members was established.

Another Metropolitan District, viz., the Fire Prevention District, was organized in 1914 by the enactment of chapter 795. In this district are the 14 cities of "Greater Boston," but only 10 of the towns, to which were added Reading and Rockland, a total of 26 municipalities. The District is in charge of a single commissioner, assisted by a deputy commissioner, both appointed for a term of three years. This office was also abolished by said Chap. 350, the work of same being transferred to Dept. of Public Safety.

Total gross Metropolitan debt for water, parks, sewers and Charles River Basin improvements on July 1, 1920, $77,292,543; sinking funds, $27,263,179; net debt, $50,029,364 or $1,796,817 less than in 1919. The division of this net debt was Water supply, $26,399,132; sewers, $12,301,741; parks, boulevards, etc., $8,044,420; Charles River Basin, $3,284,071. Of the latter, $1,106,345 is payable by Boston alone, i. e., $640,884 for Boston Embankment, and $465,461 for Charles River Bridge. Of 1920 tax rates, the highest of all the cities was Quincy's ($32.20) and the highest among the towns, Saugus's ($35.95); the lowest among the cities was Boston's ($24.10) and among the towns, Dover's ($9.00). Mean tax rate of the 13 cities in the District outside of Boston, $29.10 or $3.29 more than in 1919. Mean tax rate of the 26 towns, $24.61 or $3.87 more than in 1919. There were in the District in 1918, 4,319 manufacturing establishments, value of product, $1,240,496,193; capital invested, $672,377,072; value of stock and materials used, $737,506,555; total wages paid, $210,781,794; average number of wage earners, 212,629 (maximum number 251,867); increase over 1917 product, 30.87 per cent. Rank, 1 to 12, in value of product: Boston, $522,646,032; Lynn, $130,386,667; Cambridge, $130,022,595; Somerville, $107,572,650; Quincy, $85,248,312; Watertown, $53,131,801; Everett, $34,366,419; Chelsea, $31,492,524; Malden, $20,583,671; Woburn, $18,786,306; Waltham, $17,608,720; Newton, $14,817,126. Boston's total product value was 42.13 per cent of the Metropolitan District's.

PORT OF BOSTON.

Best of natural harbors, sheltered, spacious for anchorage, main ship channel 35 feet in depth at low tide, near open sea, area about 6,300 acres; waterfront (i. e., lineal pier space) 40 miles, 6 miles fronting on 30 feet depth at low water. A 45-foot channel from entrance of harbor to President Roads, and 40-foot from there to wharves will be dredged in the near future. New Commonwealth Pier No. 5, South Boston, 1,200 feet long, 400 feet wide, accommodating five 600-foot ships at one time, 40 feet depth at mean low water on both sides, with three 2-story fireproof buildings of steel and concrete construction, containing 900,000 square feet of floor space; total cost of this enterprise to State, $4,500,000. Commonwealth Pier No. 6, South Boston (Fish Pier), buildings on same erected by lessee, Boston Fish Market Corporation, cost to State, $1,487,361. New Commonwealth Pier No. 1, East Boston, 900 feet long, costing State $764,600 for site and about $345,000 for construction. New dry dock at South Boston (probably the largest in world), completed in 1919, 1,200 feet long and 120 wide, costing over $3,000,000 and taken by U. S. Government at total cost of same to State. Islands in Boston Harbor over 3 acres in area, 17, with total area of 965 acres; Long Island the largest, or 215.5 acres. Owned by United States, 392 acres; by City of Boston, 334 acres. Number of wharves, 146, of which 8 are owned by the City. There are 24 foreign steamship lines. In 1915 a revision of the harbor lines was made and the project undertaken whereby 600 acres of flats between Governor's Island and Jeffries Point, East Boston, will be filled in and used for extensive commercial development under State control.

In April, 1918, the Government decided to establish its Army Supply Base on a portion of the Commonwealth lands in South Boston. About 57.6 acres were purchased of the State, the price being $1,317,510, quickly followed by the construction of two pier sheds, each 920 feet long, a wharf shed and other buildings, including one of the largest storehouses in the world, built of reinforced concrete, eight stories high, 1,638 feet long, 126 feet wide and with floor space of over 1,650,000 square feet. The total outlay for the plant was about $26,000,000.

Total Federal expenditure for improvement of Boston Harbor from 1790 to June 30, 1918, $12,525,981; total expended and provided for by State, $18,364,947 since 1859.

HOW THE CITY DOLLAR WAS SPENT DURING THE LAST FINANCIAL YEAR.

For Public Schools, $0.23 cents (if the total amount appropriated had been expended, the correct figure would be 0.262); Public Works, 0.176; State Tax and Assessments, 0.133; Debt Requirements, 0.12; Police Dept., 0.08; Fire Dept., 0.07; Institutions and Poor Relief, 0.039; Hospitals and Health, 0.038; General Government, 0.037; County Courts, etc., 0.037; Public Recreation, 0.027; Public Library, 0.013, making a total of 100 cents. This excludes all expenditures from loans, etc., but includes Special Appropriations from Tax Levy and other General Income.

The revenue of the departments amounted to 16 per cent of their gross expenditures. The revenue of Public Service Enterprises alone (including Water Service, Markets, etc.) amounted to $3,997,166 or $234,117 more than their total expenditures. The fractions of the dollar above stated represent net expenditure, computed after deducting department revenue.

Revenue from another class of public $19,979.55 more than the interest and sinking-fund requirements of the Rapid service enterprise, i. e., Rapid Transit subways and tunnels, $1,446,516.75 or Transit debt in 1920.

INCORPORATION OF BOSTON.

Boston was incorporated as a city February 23, 1822, this being the date when the Act of incorporation was passed by the Legislature. On March 4 following, the voters of Boston accepted said Act, viz. Chap. 110, 1821-22, as its first City Charter by a majority of 916 in a total vote of 4,678. Ten futile attempts had previously been made to incorporate as a city, viz., in 1650, 1659, 1667, 1708, 1744, 1762, 1784, 1791, 1804 and 1815. Revised charter adopted in 1854. Charter again revised in 1885 and amended in 1909.

MAYOR DEMANDS ACTION.

VIGOROUS REQUEST FOR STREET RAILWAY LEGISLATION.

Mayor Curley addressed a strong communication to Hon. B. Loring Young, Speaker of the Massachusetts House of Representatives, upon the 12th instant, urging the imperative necessity of favorable action upon the resolve presented by Representative John W. McCormack, asking the opinion of the Attorney-General of Massachusetts, in order to determine whether the legislation secured by the Boston Elevated Railway Company providing for a 10-cent carfare within the city limits of Boston, was not secured by fraud and that proceedings might be instituted in behalf of the City of Boston to have this contract set aside. The letter of Mayor Curley was as follows:

CITY OF BOSTON,
OFFICE OF THE MAYOR,
April 12, 1922.

HON. B. LORING YOUNG, Speaker of the House of Representatives, State House, Boston, Mass.:

MY DEAR MR. SPEAKER,—In my campaign for election as Mayor of Boston, I pledged myself to an attempt to relieve the people of this city from the unjust burden imposed upon them by the Elevated Railway Act of 1918.

As the session of the Legislature was considerably advanced at the date of my inauguration, I appealed to Governor Cox to aid me by sending a special message which would bring the matter promptly to the attention of the Legislature. This aid the Governor refused. Since then I have endeavored with persistence to induce the Legislature to give this matter consideration, but nothing has been done. My best effort has been blanketed by inaction and indifference.

The excuse has been advanced that because this legislation is a contract between the railway and the Commonwealth, it therefore cannot be repealed; and it has been said that this is so even though the act was secured by most flagrant corruption and bribery of the representatives of the Commonwealth.

I cannot believe this is so. If a contract be secured by one individual from another by means of fraud or the corruption of another's agent, the contract is invalid. But it is said as to this contract that the rule does not apply; that no matter how flagrant the fraud by which this contract was secured, the Commonwealth has no remedy; that no matter what the means were that were used to drain from the people ten or fifteen million dollars of their money into the coffers of this corporation, there is no redress.

This, to my mind, is a monstrous proposition. If true, it would mean apparently that in case a band of criminals should bribe the requisite number of legislators to vote the purchase of a worthless property for ten or fifteen million dollars, there could be no escape from such a fraud.

If such be the situation, if it be true that within the law as it now stands, the Commonwealth could be robbed of its money by a device so simple and secure, I think the people ought to know it.

But if it be true that still under the laws of this Commonwealth there is a remedy for fraud, it ought to be applied in this case, where fraud was so clearly demonstrated in the investigation of last year.

To test the question whether there is a remedy possible, Mr. Representative McCormack, at my request, sometime ago introduced a resolve, asking for the opinion of the Attorney-General as to whether, in case it could be shown that this legislation was secured by the fraud of the Elevated Railway, or in its behalf, proceedings might not be properly instituted in behalf of the Commonwealth to have this contract set aside.

This resolve, I am told, is sleeping quietly in the archives of the Rules Committee of which you are chairman. It appears to be meeting that same inaction and silent hostility which have defeated my other efforts to secure legislation.

This ought not to be. I feel confident you do not wish, yourself, to take the responsibility of preventing the Attorney-General from giving an opinion to the Legislature on this vital question.

I ask your assistance in this important matter. Will you not see to it that the Rules Committee act upon the report of this resolve immediately, and that the action of the Legislature thereafter be expedited?

If, however, the committee hesitate to report the resolve without further consideration, I request that an immediate public hearing be given. I should like to appear before the committee to state the reasons for action (and prompt action).

Respectfully yours,
JAMES M. CURLEY, Mayor.

WOMEN'S CONVENTION.

When the thirty delegates from the Boston League of Women Voters leave for the Pan American Conference of Women at Baltimore upon the 18th instant they will bear with them an invitation from Mayor Curley, together with a key to the city to be presented to the convention, with a request that all the delegates visit Boston when their sessions are over and that the representatives of Latin America and Canada make this port the point of departure for their homes. In their presentation of the invitation the Boston delegation will be supported by those of the other sections of Massachusetts and all New England. It is the belief of the delegates that the invitation will be gladly accepted.

The Boston delegates, headed by Miss Alice Stone Blackwell, honorary president of the Massachusetts League of Women Voters, will come to City Hall on Monday afternoon to receive from his Honor the special invitation and the key to the city. The conference begins on Thursday, April 20, and continues ten days. At the sessions there will be many of the most noted women of all the Americas, delegates coming from twenty governments and the Hawaiian Islands. It is expected that more than 1,000 women will be present.

"A visit of these delegates," said Mayor Curley in commenting on the invitation, "will have an almost immediate effect on the relations of Boston and New England with our Latin neighbors in cementing more strongly the bonds that already hold us, and from that visit will come a great boom in trade with Boston and New England.

"With the aid of the Chamber of Commerce, leaders in our civic and mercantile organizations and our League of Women Voters, Boston and New England can make the visit of the delegates so impressive and delightful that fame of this city and section will be spread over Latin America as it could have been done in no other way. Of course, all depends on whether the delegates will decide to accept the invitation.

"All these women represent the best brains of their respective countries and they will discuss all manner of problems, including those of trade. We will be very glad to demonstrate to them what Boston and New England hospitality is and will give them such an impression of us that they will sing our praises to their friends and relatives at home continually. I am glad the delegates from the Boston League of Women Voters and those from the state are so willing to co-operate with us in such an invitation. I look for great good to come from the event and I hope all the New England delegates will support the invitation on the floor of the convention when it is presented."

Among the foreign delegates already on their way are: Senorita Graciela Mandujano, a well known student and writer of Chile; Dona Bertha Lutz, famous Brazilian woman and secretary of the National Museum of Brazil; Mme. Jacobo Varela, wife of the Uruguayan Minister at Washington; Mme. Matilda Carbo, wife of the former Minister from Ecuador; Senora Arcadia Zalles, daughter of former Minister Calderon of Bolivia; Mme. Tomas Le Breton, wife of the Argentine Ambassador, and many others of equal prominence from other countries, including Canada.

Delegates from Boston who will convey the invitation are: Miss Alice Stone Blackwell, honorary president of the Massachusetts League of Women Voters; Mrs. J. Malcolm Forbes, president of the Boston League of Women Voters; Mrs. William Healy, first vice president of the Boston League; Mrs. Wenona Osborn Pinkham, executive secretary; Miss Louvan W. Hyde, Mrs. Mary Kenney O'Sullivan, Mrs. H. H. Colburn, Mrs. Lucinda Prince, Miss Lillian Haley, Mrs. William Tilton, Miss Mabel C. Willard, Mrs. Jennie Loitman Barron, Mrs. George R. Fearing, Jr., Miss Fanny C. Osgood, Mrs. Benjamin F. Pittman, Mrs. Arthur G. Rotch, Mrs. True Worthy White, Mrs. J. B. Brown, Mrs. La Rue Brown, Miss Laura Meneses, student from Peru at Radcliffe; Mrs. George Winslow Perkins, Mrs. Elena Cosdovez de Bonner, from Peru; Miss Marian W. Cottle, Mrs. Wirt Dexter, Mrs. Stanley McCormick, Mrs. James Parker, Miss Mary P. Blair, Mrs. Francis Peabody Magoun, and Mrs. Robert Gould Shaw.

WILL SERVE AS DELEGATE.

Dr. John J. Dowling, Superintendent of the Boston City Hospital, has been named as delegate to represent the city at the conference of medical superintendents to be held in New York April 15. The meetings are held for the purpose of discussing matters relating to the conduct of large hospitals.

RULING OF COMMISSIONER APPROVED BY MAYOR.

Mayor Curley has approved the ruling of Commissioner Joseph A. Rourke of the Public Works Department that transfers in the department shall cease until further notice.

The ruling of Commissioner Rourke is as follows:

Boston, April 6, 1922.

Hon. James M. Curley,
Mayor of Boston:

Dear Sir,—For the past few weeks, during the preparation of the budget, there has been a very large number of applications in this department for transfers from one position to another, involving different duties of the labor forces.

A great many of these cases undoubtedly have merit and are deserving of attention, and have been made. If this is not checked, there will be very few men available for energetic labor service.

Recently all of the district foremen in the Sewer and Sanitary Division have had their chauffeurs taken from them and put on useful work within or outside the yard, in line with the policy to increase the amount of productive labor in the department. Granting transfers to softer jobs will have a tendency to neutralize this policy, and it is respectfully recommended that no transfers be permitted in this department until a careful investigation and study of the entire department, its conditions and proposed changes, is made which will result in greatly increased general efficiency.

Yours respectfully,

Joseph A. Rourke,
Commissioner of Public Works.

Upon April 10 the Mayor approved a contract with Alden Speare's Sons Company for furnishing 50,000 gallons, more or less, of 60 per cent asphaltic road oil to the Street Cleaning and Oiling Service of the Public Works Department. Bids for the supply, opened April 5, were as follows:

Joseph J. Galvin, 5.91 cents per gallon; total, $2,955; the Texas Company, Asphalt Sales Department, 6.9 cents per gallon; total, $3,450; Boston Harbor Oil Company, 6 cents per gallon; the Alden Speare's Sons Company, 4.69 cents per gallon; total, $2,345; Mace Moulton, Jr., Inc., 5.35 cents per gallon; American Oil Products Company, 6.22 cents per gallon; total, $3,110; Standard Oil Company of New York, 5.25 cents per gallon; total, $2,625.

Incident to the award of these contracts Frank P. Rock, Superintendent of the Supply Department, made the following statement:

"Attached please find list of bids on proposals for furnishing 450,000 gallons (more or less) of 45 per cent asphaltic road oil, and 50,000 gallons of 60 per cent asphaltic road oil, to the Street Cleaning and Oiling Service, Public Works Department, which were publicly opened and read in this office, under date of April 5, 1922.

"This department, acting on your Honor's suggestion, delayed opening of the bids until after the Massachusetts Department of Public Works had advertised for the same material.

"On the 45 per cent asphaltic road oil, the Massachusetts Department of Public Works received a price of $0.0615 per gallon, as compared with the City of Boston price of $0.0469 per gallon, less 1 per cent, which results in a saving to the City of Boston of $6,570.

"On the 60 per cent asphaltic road oil, the City of Boston also received a price of $0.0469 per gallon, as against a price of $0.0605 per gallon, received by the State of Massachusetts, representing a saving of $680.

"When the contract for 500,000 gallons of asphaltic road oil was placed with the Standard Oil Company, one year ago, it was at a price of $0.081 per gallon, therefore this year's contract for road oil represents a saving of $17,050 over last year.

"Permission is respectfully requested to award this contract to Alden Speare's Sons Company, the lowest bidder, at $0.0469 per gallon."

Public Works Department.

Upon April 8 the Mayor approved a contract with Peter Falabella for the construction of artificial stone sidewalks.

A communication from Commissioner Joseph A. Rourke of the Public Works Department was as follows:

Boston, April 7, 1922.

Hon. James M. Curley,
Mayor of Boston:

Dear Sir,—Permission to award a contract for the construction of artificial stone sidewalks in the public streets, without advertising, to Peter Falabella, 308 Harrison avenue, city, is hereby requested on the ground that this contractor is not selected by the city in the first instance but by the abutters; and secondly, the expense of construction being divided by the city and abutters; also because such contracts vary greatly in amounts and seldom involve one thousand (1,000) dollars.

Respectfully yours,

Joseph A. Rourke,
Commissioner of Public Works.

Upon April 11 the Mayor approved a contract with John Varnerin for furnishing artificial stone sidewalks.

A communication from Commissioner Joseph A. Rourke of the Public Works Department was as follows:

Boston, April 8, 1922.

Hon. James M. Curley,
Mayor of Boston:

Dear Sir,—Permission to award a contract for the construction of artificial stone sidewalks in the public streets, without advertising, to John Varnerin, 321 Norfolk avenue, Roxbury, is hereby requested on the ground that this contractor is not selected by the city in the first instance but by the abutters; and secondly, the expense of construction being divided by the city and abutters; also because such contracts vary greatly in amounts and seldom involve one thousand (1,000) dollars.

Respectfully yours,

Joseph A. Rourke,
Commissioner of Public Works.

Upon April 12 the Mayor approved a contract with the Adams Pond Company for building artificial stone sidewalks.

A communication from Commissioner Joseph A. Rourke of the Public Works Department was as follows:

Boston, April 11, 1922.

Hon. James M. Curley,
Mayor of Boston:

Dear Sir,—Permission to award a contract for the construction of artificial stone sidewalks in the public streets, without advertising, to Adams Pond Company, 568 Columbia road, Dorchester, is hereby requested on the ground that this contractor is not selected by the city in the first instance but by the abutters; and secondly, the expense of construction being divided by the city and abutters; also because such contracts vary greatly in amounts and seldom involve one thousand (1,000) dollars.

Respectfully yours,

Joseph A. Rourke,
Commissioner of Public Works.

Upon April 12 the Mayor approved a contract with Erminio Manganiello for building artificial stone sidewalks.

A communication from Commissioner Joseph A. Rourke of the Public Works Department was as follows:

Boston, April 11, 1922.

Hon. James M. Curley,
Mayor of Boston:

Dear Sir,—Permission to award a contract for the construction of artificial stone sidewalks in the public streets, without advertising, to Erminio Manganiello, 57 Lubec street, East Boston, is hereby requested on the ground that this contractor is not selected by the city in the first instance but by the abutters; and secondly, the expense of construction being divided by the city and abutters; also because such contracts vary greatly in amounts and seldom involve one thousand (1,000) dollars.

Respectfully yours,

Joseph A. Rourke,
Commissioner of Public Works.

Supply Department.

Upon April 11 the Mayor approved a contract with the Boston-Buick Company for furnishing a sedan car to the Supply Department.

A communication from Superintendent Frank P. Rock of the Supply Department, was as follows:

City of Boston,
Supply Department, April 8, 1922.

Hon. James M. Curley,
Mayor of Boston:

Dear Sir,—Permission is respectfully requested to award a contract to the Boston Buick Company, without publicly advertising the same, for furnishing to the Transit Department one new 1922 7-passenger Buick sedan at a price of $2,555, delivered.

The Transit Department has selected the Buick sedan as being the car which best suits the requirements of the department.

Respectfully yours,

Frank P. Rock,
Superintendent of Supplies.

EXTENSION OF CONTRACTS.

The Mayor has approved, upon the indorsement of the Commissioner of Public Works, the following extensions of contracts:

A. G. Tomasello & Son for building sewerage works in Columbia road, southeast side, from Convenience Station about 112 feet northeasterly, Dorchester, from February 25, 1922, to May 3, 1922 (67 days).

This extension of time is occasioned by the fact that on account of winter weather work was not started.

S. J. Tomasello, for building sewerage works in Adams street, from Rosemont road southeasterly to Lonsdale street, Dorchester, from April 8, 1922, to May 6, 1922 (28 days).

This extension of time is occasioned by the fact that on account of winter weather work was not started.

S. J. Tomasello for building sewerage works in Sever street, between Haverhill street and Kingston street, Charlestown, from March 16, 1922, to April 1, 1922 (16 days).

This extension of time is occasioned by the fact that the bids were opened February 23, 1922, and it was expected the work would begin by March 1, 1922. The contract was approved March 7, 1922, and work begun March 13, 1922.

A. Baruffaldi for building sewerage works for Roslindale branch of Stony Brook, West Roxbury, from February 4, 1922, to June 1, 1922 (117 days).

This extension of time is occasioned by the fact that while the work has progressed continuously with no stops except for stormy weather, the contractor was unable to complete the work at the specified date.

A. Cefalo for building sewerage works in Rockland avenue, between Grampian way and Caspian way, Dorchester, from February 25, 1922, to June 3, 1922 (98 days).

This extension of time is occasioned by the fact that on account of winter weather work was not started.

George J. Regan for building sewerage works in Vanderbilt avenue, from Blake street, about 180 feet northwesterly, Hyde Park, from December 31, 1921, to May 1, 1922 (121 days).

This extension of time is occasioned by the fact that on account of winter weather it was not practicable to resurface Blake street with macadam over trench.

A. G. Tomasello & Son for building sewerage works in East Cottage street, from Pleasant street to Dawes street, Dorchester, from January 21, 1922, to May 1, 1922 (100 days).

This extension of time is occasioned by the fact that on account of winter weather it was impracticable to lay finished pavement over trench.

George J. Regan for building sewerage works in Morton street, from West Selden street to summit about 90 feet southeasterly of Fairmount street, Dorchester, from May 6, 1922, to July 15, 1922 (70 days).

This extension of time is occasioned by the fact that on account of winter weather work was not started.

J. W. O'Connell for building sewerage works for Oakland brook in Monterey avenue, Savannah avenue, private land, Itasca street and Currier street, Dorchester, from April 30, 1922, to July 31, 1922 (92 days).

This extension of time is occasioned by the fact that on account of winter weather it was impracticable to do the work under the conditions existing.

Louis De Sisto, for building sewerage works in passageway at 891 Adams street, Dorchester, from December 17, 1921, to May 1, 1922 (135 days).

This extension of time is occasioned by the fact that on account of winter weather it was impracticable to lay finished pavement over trench.

C. & R. Construction Company, for building sewerage works in Washington street, between Beech street and Parkway, West Roxbury, from April 1, 1922, to June 15, 1922 (75 days).

This extension of time is occasioned by the fact that the bids for this work were opened on December 21, 1921, and it was supposed the contract would be awarded and the work begun a few days after that date. The contract was not approved until February 23, 1922, and work begun March 28, 1922.

The General Construction Company for building sewerage works for Davenport brook in private land between Marsh street and Minot street, Dorchester, from November 26, 1921, to May 1, 1922 (156 days).

This extension of time is occasioned by the fact that on account of winter weather it was not practicable to construct the embankment and seed with grass seed until open weather.

James Barletta, for building sewerage works in private land and land of Boston Sanatorium, between Manchester and West Selden streets, Dorchester, from December 17, 1921, to April 22, 1922 (126 days).

This extension of time is occasioned by the fact that on account of the winter weather it was impracticable to continue the work under the conditions.

Louis DeSisto, for building sewerage works in Wood avenue, from existing sewer 62 feet northeasterly of Parker street about 250 feet northwesterly, Hyde Park, from December 3, 1921, to May 1, 1922 (149 days).

This extension of time is occasioned by the fact that on account of winter weather it was impracticable to lay finished pavement under trench.

William Barrett & Co., 27 Hunneman street, Roxbury, for building catch-basins, minor drains, etc., in city proper, Roxbury and South Boston, from February 1, 1922, to May 15, 1922 (104 days).

This extension of time is occasioned by the fact that the progress of the work was retarded by winter conditions.

D. Vitiello for sewerage works in Wren street, between Saville street and Robin street, West Roxbury, from February 25, 1922, to May 1, 1922 (65 days).

This extension of time is occasioned by the fact that while the work was carried on continuously except during bad weather, it was not possible to finish construction by date set for completion of the work, and additional time is required to put the street surface in proper condition.

A. Di Lucci & Co., 44 Dunstable street, Charlestown, for building sewerage works in Mt. Vernon street, between Charles street and Charles River Embankment, city proper, from March 15, 1922, to June 15, 1922 (92 days).

This extension of time is occasioned by the fact that winter conditions retarded the progress of the work, and it was also necessary to shut down the work entirely during a portion of the winter.

James Barletta, 10 Whipple avenue, West Roxbury, for building sewerage works in Public Alley 817, from Gainsborough street 370 feet westerly, Roxbury, from February 15, 1922, to June 1, 1922 (105 days).

This extension of time is occasioned by the fact that on account of winter conditions the contractor did not start the work until April 5, 1922.

C. & R. Construction Company, 3 Tremont row, Boston, for building sewerage works in Public Alley No. 816, from St. Botolph street 275 feet southeasterly, and outlet in St. Botolph street, Roxbury, from January 3, 1922, to April 15, 1922 (102 days).

This extension of time is occasioned by the fact that the progress of the work was retarded by winter conditions. The sewerage works are completed except that the trenches are not yet sufficiently compacted.

M. DeMatteo, for building sewerage works in Arborway, between Forest Hills street and Morton street, and in Morton street, from Forest Hills street to point 800 feet east of Morton road, West Roxbury, from December 10, 1921, to May 1, 1922 (142 days).

This extension of time is occasioned by the fact that more ledge excavation was encountered than was anticipated. Work was continued until on account of cold and freezing weather it was considered advisable to allow a suspension of work until the frost was out of the ground.

James J. Conway, 19 Beethoven street, Roxbury, for building sewerage works in Farragut road, between East First street and East Second street, and in East Second street, between Farragut road and O street, South Boston, from April 15, 1922, to June 15, 1922 (61 days).

This extension of time is occasioned by the fact that the progress of the work was retarded by winter conditions.

A. Baruffaldi for building sewerage works in Glendale road outlet, section 1, and North avenue, West Roxbury, from January 21, 1922, to August 1, 1922 (192 days).

This extension of time is occasioned by unexpected difficulties encountered in excavation and by the flooding of the work by overflow of Charles river, due to heavy rains.

W. S. Rendle & Son Company for repairing fender piers at Charlestown and Warren bridges, from March 6, 1922, to May 1, 1922.

Bids were opened on November 23 and the contract was approved by the Mayor on December 6, 1921. It was expected that the work would be completed in three months from the date of approval. This could not be done, however, on account of weather conditions and owing to certain extra work which had been ordered.

STREET IMPROVEMENTS.

Two important street improvements are to be carried out this year by order of Mayor Curley, the building of Mt. Vernon street, Dorchester, so as to make available 2,000,000,000 square feet of land bordering on the harbor, and the completion of Chelsea street, Charlestown, a main artery of travel to the North Shore. The Mayor stated that the estimates given him call for $181,000 for Mt. Vernon street and $175,000 for Chelsea street. This money will be available from the $500,000 recently appropriated by the City Council for street work in general.

Already the American Radiator Company has promised to build a foundry to employ about 2,000 men, provided the city completes the street. Four other large concerns are contemplating building factories near the street when it is finished. Arrangements will be made when the paving is being set for railroad tracks and siding connections.

Several years ago a total of $175,000 was spent during two years in widening and otherwise improving Chelsea street. After that the work was suspended. Now Mayor Curley proposes to push it to completion, in the belief that is one of the principal routes to the North Shore and will, when the proposed new bridge is built, be even more traveled than it is at present. The part that is finished has a width of sixty feet between the curbings. This width also will be the standard for the three fourths mile extension of Mt. Vernon street.

CITY REMEMBERS SOLDIERS.

Mayor Curley has directed that Easter blooms and potted plants may be placed in the rooms of each disabled Veteran of the World War now confined at the Parker Hill, West Roxbury and Boston State Hospitals, City Hospital, Homeopathic Hospital and Naval Hospital, Chelsea. Supplementary to this presentation of flowers each of the six hospitals will be filled with potted palms and ferns from the city greenhouse. The suggestion to Mayor Curley in this regard was made by Mrs. Helen Gormley of 18 Creighton street, Jamaica Plain.

Chairman James B. Shea and Deputy Commissioner William P. Long of the Park Department will make every possible endeavor to bring the greeting of Easter to each disabled veteran.

There are 480 soldiers in the Parker Hill Hospital, 280 in the West Roxbury Hospital and about 50 veterans in the Boston State Hospital, 142 in the Naval Hospital, 9 in Homeopathic Hospital and 4 in City Hospital.

PAYMENT FOR DREDGING.

The Mayor has approved, with the indorsement of the Commissioner of Public Works, the partial payment by the City of Boston for dredging operations at the Frost Coal Company's dock, Neponset.

A communication from Commissioner Rourke of the Public Works Department was as follows:

Boston, April 12, 1922.

Hon. James M. Curley,
Mayor of Boston:

Dear Sir,—The Frost Coal Company at Neponset has requested this department to bear the expense of dredging their dock, based upon a sewer overflow which empties into the river at this point. Investigation showed that the City of Boston paid the entire expense for dredging work in May, 1889, and in June, 1897, since which time the city has been to no expense in the matter, although the dock has been dredged twice. An examination by the writer, at low tide a week ago, showed that the overflow extending from the sea wall comprises iron pipe sections, and there is quite a large hole in next to the last section close by the dock; also several catch-basins in this neighborhood drain through this outlet.

The proposition of the Bay State Dredging and Contracting Company to the Frost Coal Company is for removing approximately 800 yards of material, as shown by measurements taken by the Sewer Service, at a cost of $1,000, which is at the rate of $1.25 per yard. From figures received from the State Department of Public Works, $1 a yard is considered suitable for dredging work in this neighborhood; hence it is assumed that $800 would be the total reasonable cost, of which the city might properly bear one half, considering that it is twenty-five years since the city has spent any money for this purpose, and during the time considerable deposit must have been made by the sewer overflow, particularly since the hole in the iron pipe has been in existence.

Your approval is respectfully requested for the payment of the sum of $400 to the Bay State Dredging and Contracting Company as partial expense of this work.

Yours respectfully,
Joseph A. Rourke,
Commissioner of Public Works.

CLAIMS.

The Mayor has approved, with the indorsement of the Corporation Counsel, the following claims:

E. Pauline Dowd, 14 Keith street, Weymouth, in the amount of $150, as compensation for personal injuries caused on Dover Street Bridge, South End, by the negligent operation of the drawbridge by employees of the city, November 26, 1921.

James H. Molaskey, 2 Sumner place, Roxbury, in the amount of $30 as compensation for damage to auto wagon, caused by car skidding on ice on Dorchester avenue, Dorchester, caused by water leak in street, February 4, 1922.

Giovanni Cassetta, in the amount of $150, as compensation for personal injuries caused by hole in sidewalk at 66 Lenox street, South End, August 8, 1920.

Celia Alapis, in the amount of $300, as compensation for personal injuries caused by collision of ferryboat with slip, August 1, 1918.

Marie Coguata, in the amount of $200, as compensation for personal injuries caused by defect in front of 23 North square, North End July 21, 1921.

Job E. Gaskin, in the amount of $125,089, as full payment for all land taken and damages occasioned to his estate upon Stuart street, Back Bay, by the laying out, extension, widening and relocation of this street under the order of the Board of Street Commissioners.

M. Douglas Flattery, in the amount of $255,960, as full payment for all land taken and damages occasioned to his estate upon Dartmouth street by the laying out, extension, widening and relocation of Stuart street under the order of the Board of Street Commissioners.

PATRIOTIC MEETING.

A flag raising was held under municipal auspices at the new underground Elevated station in Maverick square, East Boston, upon the 10th instant. Mayor James M. Curley, Col. John F. J. Herbert of Worcester and Leo Spillane, adjutant of the State Department of the American Legion, were the principal speakers. Col. T. F. Sullivan, Transit Commissioner, presided.

Mayor Curley, in a stirring address, defended his policy of having the city do such work, thus making jobs for unemployed war veterans and citizens instead of awarding it by contract. Incidentally he said that there were 650 veterans employed on the job at present and that this number would be double as soon as the work warranted their services.

The Mayor also pointed out that in the past six months the army of unemployed in the city had been reduced from 70,000 to 45,000, due mostly to the efforts of the city administration in providing work. He pointed out that the city had appropriated several millions of dollars for sewer construction and for school buildings, and would spend at least $5,000,000 more if the Legislature will permit the extension of the Dorchester Tunnel.

State Adjutant Spillane, with a few remarks, unfurled the flag. The ceremonies were concluded with the entire audience singing the Star-Spangled Banner."

PROTEST LEGISLATIVE MEASURE.

Hon. E. Mark Sullivan, Corporation Counsel, interceded with Governor Cox, upon the 13th instant, to voice a protest of Mayor Curley against the passage of an act to separate the town of Dover from the Metropolitan District Commission.

The measure is now before the Governor for his approval. It is understood that other communities have joined in the protest and that the Governor is in receipt of a large number of letters urging him to veto the measure.

Mr. Sullivan pointed out that Boston pays the largest tax by far and receives the least benefit from the Metropolitan District Commission plan. Dover, he said, is made up of rich men's homes and can well afford to meet the comparatively small assessment on account of the metropolitan district plan. He said the desire of Dover to be separated from the district is likely to be followed by similar petitions from other cities and towns, especially those which contribute a small share to the district's taxes.

CITY WILL CONTEST SUITS.

Mayor Curley has directed Hon. E. Mark Sullivan, the Corporation Counsel, to vigorously contest suits pending against the City of Boston by ten national banks to recover taxes assessed by the city against stock shares in each, outstanding in individual hands, paid directly in every instance by the banks.

The Mayor then sent to the City Council for action an appropriation order for $50,000 to cover the costs of employing special legal talent and to cover the expense of the necessary stenographic and printing service entailed in such a contest.

The total amount involved in all the suits, now pending in Suffolk Superior and United States District Courts, aggregates $7,000,000. In some instances the taxes involved were collected in 1917.

Corporation Counsel Sullivan's report upon the litigation is as follows:

Re Suits of National Banks to Recover Taxes.

City of Boston,
Law Department, April 5, 1922.

Hon. James M. Curley,
Mayor of Boston:

Dear Sir,—There are now pending against the City of Boston various suits (in the Suffolk Superior and United States District Courts) brought by ten different national banks within the City of Boston to recover taxes assessed by the city against the shares of the stock therein outstanding in the hands of individuals, which tax was paid directly in each instance by the bank. In some instances these suits attempt to recover back taxes collected even as remotely as the year 1917. The total amount involved is over $7,000,000.

The principle involved in these suits is founded on the assumption of the several plaintiffs that this tax is levied under authority given the several states by section 5219 of the United States Revised Statutes and that the tax levied and collected is, in fact, violative of the provision therein that such "taxation shall not be at a greater rate than is assessed upon other moneyed capital in the hands of individual citizens."

The claim of the First National Bank, involving over $3,500,000, has been heard before a commissioner appointed by the Superior Court of Suffolk County. At the instance of my predecessor in office, Arthur D. Hill, Esq., Mr. William Harold Hitchcock, formerly of the Attorney General's office, was employed by the Commonwealth to assist Mr. Hill in the defence of this particular suit.

It was Mr. Hill's opinion and the opinion of Mr. Hitchcock also that the City of Boston should accept the compromise offer made by the First National Bank. This compromise calls for a judgment by agreement of $2,125,000, the same to be entered against the city and to be paid for in the following manner: The City of Boston will at once give its check for its estimated share of this judgment, which is suggested by counsel as being "something like $500,000," and the balance of the judgment would be represented by the promissory note of the City of Boston, which it is expected would be taken care of by legislation requiring the state and the various cities and towns among which the balance of these taxes were distributed, though collected by the City of Boston, to make adequate contribution.

After reviewing the law in this case and many decisions of our State Supreme Court and of the United States Supreme Court, I am persuaded that we should not accept the compromise offer made in the First National Bank case but should contest this and all other similar cases, even though it is necessary to carry them to the United States Supreme Court. If, perchance, the right of the state to tax shares in national banks owned by individuals is dependent upon section 5219 of the United States Revised Statutes, which I, myself, do not believe, and is restricted by its provisions, then the other question may fairly be raised, namely, is our present method of taxing such bank shares "at a greater rate than is assessed upon other moneyed capital in the hands of individual citizens of such (our) state."

If your Honor is of my opinion, namely, that these cases should be contested, then I am obliged to say that the amount of labor involved in the preparation and defence of these suits is necessarily so great as to justify our employing special counsel for the work. The claims of these ten banks represent a multiplicity of suits raising various legal questions, also involving a great deal of statistical investigation. The resources of the Law Department are such that we can adequately handle only the routine matters that come before us. If we are to properly defend these suits we will require the special assistance of counsel who is not only learned in law but has some special training in the field of finance and statistics and he, in turn, will require legal and clerical assistance in order to adequately discharge the duties which would be imposed upon him. I, therefore, recommend the passage of an order for the appropriation of the sum of $50,000 to meet the expense incident to the conduct of these cases to a final decision in the United States Supreme Court.

Very truly yours,

E. Mark Sullivan,
Corporation Counsel.

The order reads as follows:

Ordered, That the sum of fifty thousand (50,000) dollars be and the same is hereby appropriated to be used for the employment of special counsel and for the payment of stenographers' services and all typewriting and printing that may be in any way necessary for the purpose of defending any suit now pending or hereafter instituted against the City of Boston by any national bank or banks for the recovery of taxes paid or to be paid where the claim is made that the tax is illegal because of the provisions of section 5219 of the United States Revised Statutes; and it is further ordered that his Honor the Mayor is hereby authorized to employ such special counsel to act in such case or cases and to represent the city before the Congress of the United States or the Legislature of Massachusetts for the purpose of having made such changes in the present statutes in any way affecting said tax as may be beneficial to the city and its interests. Said sum of fifty thousand (50,000) dollars is to be raised by assessment on the polls and estates for the current year.

POLICE DEPARTMENT ORDERS.

General Order No. 4.

The department is hereby notified of a communication received from the Department of Civil Service and Registration, under date of April 10, 1922, by which it appears that the examinations for promotion to the grades of lieutenant and sergeant in this department, recently held, are canceled.

The Department of Civil Service and Registration will hold new examinations, consisting of the special questions only, for promotion to both grades on Thursday, April 20, 1922.

The examination for promotion to the grade of sergeant will be held in the morning and is open only to those who took the former examination. The examination for promotion to the grade of lieutenant will be held in the afternoon and is open only to those who took the former examination. Candidates will be notified by letter from the Department of Civil Service and Registration of the hour and place in both instances.

The Superintendent of Police will promulgate this order.

Herbert A. Wilson,
Commissioner.

MAYOR EFFECTS LARGE SAVING.

Mayor Curley effected a saving of more than $17,657 over the prices paid last year when he approved of contracts upon the 11th instant for cement, structural steel, deformed steel rods, toweling and other supplies purchased by the city after contracts had been advertised for bids by Superintendent Frank P. Rock of the Supply Department.

Bids had been received for 250 tons of asphalt for the Transit Department, 51 tons of structural steel beams, 60,000 yards of toweling, 500 tons of square deformed rods and 10,000 barrels of Portland cement.

For supplying the asphalt the contract was awarded to the Alden Speare's Sons Company, their bid being $19.48 per ton. This same material last year cost the city $26.95 per ton. On the structural steel beams the contract this year was awarded to the Bethlehem Steel Company at $2.005 per hundred pounds while this steel last year cost the city $2.41½ per 100 pounds. Last year the city paid 15½ cents per yard for toweling. Mayor Curley secured, by letting the contract to the R. H. White Company, 60,000 yards of toweling at 7½ cents per yard.

The Mayor also contracted for 500 tons of square deformed rods at $37.10 per ton while last year the city paid $41.30 per ton. The biggest saving to the city, however, came in the purchase of 10,000 barrels of Portland cement, the contract being let to J. Massirman & Co. at $2.79 per barrel. Last year cement cost the city $3.57 per barrel.

PARK NAMED FOR SOLDIERS.

The Boston Park Commission voted unanimously upon the 11th instant to rename Wood Island Park, East Boston, as World War Memorial Park, in honor of young men of that section who gave their lives for democracy, following the first of a series of public meetings in the City Council Chamber.

This water-front park is the fourth largest of the city's thirty-six parks and playgrounds, with an area of 211 acres. Only Marine and Franklin Parks and the Arnold Arboretum have a larger acreage.

This is the first name of a park to be changed, although the commission now has in hand more than 280 petitions for the changing of these park names for individual World War heroes.

Chairman James B. Shea stated, in announcing the commission's immediate vote, that the name "Wood Island" has no tradition; it attached itself to the park when the city acquired it in 1882, with supplementary purchases in 1891. Hundreds of East Boston boys fought and died in the war and there could be no sound objection to thus honoring them, he said.

Ex-Representative Thomas J. Giblin of that section, who originated the idea, was given the pen with which Chairman Shea signed the order, after Mayor Curley had himself approved it.

GREETINGS BY MAYOR.

Mayor James M. Curley extended his personal greetings and sincere best wishes to the surviving army nurses of the Civil War at a reception at the Parker House, incident to the State Grand Army of the Republic Convention, on Tuesday, 11th instant, and also personally presented flowers to each of the surviving nurses.

It appears that there are twelve surviving nurses of the Civil War, now resident in Massachusetts, and in 1921 six of the nurses were able to attend the reception. In the past year two of the nurses have passed away and another is quite ill and three of the nurses, the youngest of whom is eighty years of age, were able to be present at the reception.

MAYOR AGAIN APPEALS FOR MEMORIALS.

Mayor Curley, aiming to secure appropriate recognition for World War heroes and relieve the Park Commission of the embarrassment that is certain to follow upon its present plan of endeavoring to meet the demands for naming thirty-six public parks after 287 dead heroes for whom such honor has been asked, has again written Governor Cox that he recommend legislation empowering the State to erect in the various armories enduring bronze tablets bearing the names of all within the radius of each who gave their lives.

The second letter of Mayor Curley was as follows:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor,
April 7, 1922.

Hon. Channing Cox, Governor of the Commonwealth, State House, Boston, Mass.:

Your Excellency,—I am in receipt of your communication of April 6, 1922, written in response to a telephone message and letter from the Mayor of Boston embodying certain legislative suggestions and asking the aid of the Governor of Massachusetts in bringing the matters to the attention of the Great and General Court with a view to obtaining helpful and remedial legislation. I am not indifferent to the expression of your Excellency's desire to aid in "any proper measure which will help the City of Boston." I have already noted your solicitude with interest; and it is needless to assure you that no call will be made by me at any time upon your Excellency's time and attention for assistance in obtaining measures that are not proper, necessary and beneficial to the city whose affairs I have been elected to direct and administer.

Your Excellency's suggestion that the right to petition the General Court still exists is reassuring; doubtless your familiarity with the rules and methods of procedure in a chamber over which you yourself have presided in the past will suggest the obvious difficulties of securing a hearing for new legislation, no matter how urgent and necessary, at this stage of the General Court's session without the aid of the Governor. Nor will I be deemed as trenching unwarrantably on the time and prerogative of your Excellency when I say with all propriety and respect that the right of the Mayor of the Capital of Massachusetts to call in the assistance of the Governor of the Commonwealth by telephone, letter or personal solicitation to obtain necessary legislation in emergencies is, after all, merely a modified form of the exercise of the right of petition.

Respecting as I do the high office your Excellency occupies and understanding its functions, I would be sorry to have the Governor of the Commonwealth believe that the Mayor of Boston seeks to embarrass or hamper him in the discharge of his duties when he endeavors to secure a prompt remedy for certain exigent difficulties by what he conceives to be the most reasonable and direct method; and, in doing what he is persuaded is a plain duty in a plain and orderly fashion, he would deeply regret that his anxiety for the betterment of the City of Boston and its interests should be held an occasion of offence and irritation.

I regret that your Excellency fails to grasp the purport of the suggested use of the state armories for memorial entablature purposes. They constitute the permanent symbols of our state military service and are the meeting places of our military forces and they furnish the housing and protection that permanent military memorials should have. It is not disputed that numerous cities and towns have set up memorials to the soldiers of this Commonwealth who served in the European war, that squares and streets have been designated for some and that other honors have been paid to this or that individual; but they are too frequently impermanent in character and unworthy of those who made the great sacrifice for the Republic. These monuments I believed to be unsatisfactory and I desired to bring home to your Excellency that lack of uniformity, equality and permanence which could only be obtained by bronze tablets set upon the walls of the state's own property, where they would be safeguarded from vandalism and the destruction of the elements and where the present methods of selection and favoritism in honoring the dead, abhorrent to a democracy, would be avoided.

I regret that your Excellency does not approve of a plan which provides equality of honor to all who served and died.

The world forgets too easily. Already the veteran has to struggle for recognition of pledges made to him in days of stress. As the war recedes his difficulties grow greater; his demands are met with grudging reluctance; the urgings of his friends with suggestions of impropriety; pledges are met with petulance and greed pushes gratitude out of doors.

I regret exceedingly that your Excellency will no longer feel able to give time or attention to this great city and I sincerely trust this attitude is merely temporary.

With assurances of my highest respect, I have the honor to subscribe myself,

Very truly yours,

James M. Curley, Mayor.

SHIPPING INCREASES.

Following the activity of Mayor Curley through his Commercial and Industrial Bureau, grain shipments via the Port of Boston are increasing, there being loaded during the week at Hoosac Docks, Charlestown, the "Nord Africaine," of the Furness, Withy line, with a full cargo of 240,000 bushels of grain for England.

This is the seventh steamer to leave Boston with grain since the shipments to Russia though this is the first ship to depart with a full cargo. The "Nord Africaine" is under charter from French owners and will take her cargo to Falmouth, there to await orders.

The steamship "Lexington," which went to Philadelphia and failed to secure a complete cargo, came to Boston where she finished loading to capacity, taking among other commodities 40,000 bushels of grain. She carried from Boston when she left, 5,000,000 pounds of general cargo, including a large amount of sugar.

The steamship "West Kevar," which sailed, carried out a complement of grain.

BUILDING PROGRESS.

Mayor Curley issued the following statement relating to building operations in the City of Boston upon the 10th instant:

"The outlook is most promising, March building permits approaching $5,000,000 and with April showing an improvement over March, the indications are that Boston will gain more than $75,000,000 in new construction in the next twelve months."

THE CITY'S UNEMPLOYED.

An indication of the extent of unemployment in Boston is contained in the report to Mayor Curley by the Overseers of the Public Welfare controlling Wayfarers' Lodge upon the 12th instant. It showed that 4,947 men had been given lodgings and that 10,130 meals were furnished in March alone.

The Mayor announced these figures were so incredible that he sent the report back to be checked up, and that it has been found correct.

In January, 1920, only 182 lodgers were accommodated at Wayfarers' Lodge and 481 meals furnished. The figures for the corresponding month last year were 1,011 lodgers and 1,922 meals, as compared with 1,409 lodgers in January of this year and 5,438 meals.

REJECTED CLAIMS.

Hon. E. Mark Sullivan, the Corporation Counsel, states the Law Department has disapproved thirteen claims against the city, in eight of which no amounts were specified, and the other five aggregated $258.75, and are classified as follows:

Against the Fire Department, two, amounting to $177.32; against the Hospital Department, two, amounting to $51.43; against the Public Works Department, nine, in eight of which no amounts were specified, and the other one amounted to $30.

All these claims have been disapproved for the reason that there appeared to be no legal liability on the part of the city.

BOSTON FINANCE COMMISSION.

Boston, April 7, 1922.

Hon. James M. Curley,
Mayor of Boston:

Sir,—The Finance Commission in accordance with your oral request has investigated the practice of allowing the plants and shrubbery of the city to be used at public and private affairs and the practice of rebating the fees established for the use of municipal buildings for private dancing parties and entertainments.

The use of plants and floral decorations from the city greenhouses at affairs conducted by the city or state is obviously proper. It is equally obvious that the use of the same city property at private affairs is improper if not illegal. These plants are grown by the city for the purpose of decorating the Public Garden, cemeteries, parks and public buildings. The use of the city's plants at private affairs should not be allowed, not even at functions which assume a semipublic character because of the presence of state and city officials, but at which the city or state is not the host.

The practice of allowing private organizations to have the use of the city's floral pieces is becoming greater each year. In 1920 the Park Department sent out seventy-four decorations. In 1921, from January 3 to November 15, ninety-four decorations were sent, of which fifty-four went to churches. A large percentage of the 40 other occasions were school graduations, the plants being used for platform decorations.

In addition to furnishing plants and other decorations for private functions, the city has delivered the plants and furnished the necessary labor to place them in position, look after them while in the building and, if moved in cold weather, to furnish heated vans to protect them against frost. The cost to the Park Department for this service is estimated at $5,000 a year.

The officials of the Park Department report that many plants are damaged or lost in transit. Besides, most of the moving work is done after the regular department hours and the men are later compensated by time off, which subtracts from their regular work in the department.

The commission recommends that the floral pieces of the city be used only for public celebrations and public school exercises, and that in the case of public school exercises a charge be made to the School Committee for the use of the plants, sufficient to cover the cost of transportation and care while out of the greenhouses.

Rebates for Use of Municipal Buildings.

Three municipal buildings of the city have public halls, viz., Hyde Park, South Boston and Roslindale. There is, also, Faneuil Hall. These buildings are under the jurisdiction of the Public Buildings Department. Revised Ordinances of 1914, chapter 27, section 5, establishes the rental charges for Faneuil Hall. There are also various ward rooms maintained by the city and used principally for political meetings at election times. Fees have been established for these halls and ward rooms as follows:

Hyde Park: $25 to 11 p. m.; $50 to 1 a. m.

South Boston: $25 to 11 p. m.; $40 to 1 a. m.

Roslindale: No regular fee; in some cases $12 fee received.

Faneuil Hall: $10 day rate; $15 night rate. Fixed by ordinance.

Ward Rooms: $6 a night.

The schedule, however, is based neither upon the cost to the city for heat, light and janitor services, nor upon the charges for similar halls in the same locality. Moreover, the established schedule is not followed. Considerations of various kinds are used for obtaining rebates of either a part or the whole of the charge. In other instances organizations hiring the quarters fail to pay the fee and no attempt is made to collect from them.

The fees received from these halls and ward rooms for last year with the number of cases when rebate of the fee in whole or in part was granted are as follows:

	No. of engagements.	Amount received.	No. of cases of rebate.
Hyde Park*
South Boston	89	$1,750	18
Roslindale	5	41
Faneuil Hall	60	440	23
Ward Rooms	95	510	†

---

* Only recently opened.

† No complete record kept.

The School Committee has established a uniform schedule of rates for the use of the halls in school buildings based upon the cost of heat, light and janitor services. These rates are not subject to rebate or discount, and are collected in advance. Organizations desiring the use of school halls make application therefor and pay the established fee. Applications are filed according to the time of receipt and granted in the same order. Patriotic organizations, like the American Legion, are granted the free use of a school hall for not more than twice a month provided the attendance is over fifty persons, and no fee is charged for admission.

The public halls under the charge of the Public Buildings Department were erected from public funds. They were constructed for the use and enjoyment of the citizens. The use of these halls for public purposes should be as unrestricted as possible. But in order to serve all the citizens in an equitable manner, a schedule of prices based on actual cost should be established and adhered to.

The commission desires to report also to your Honor on the use of the gymnasium of the city by private organizations. The gymnasia in municipal and other city buildings are under the control of the Park Department. Morning, afternoon and evening classes in calisthenics are conducted by the department in these halls. The commission is informed that many requests for the use of these places for dancing parties, entertainments and community tableaux are made and some are granted. When the use of the gymnasia has thus been granted, the work of the classes has been interrupted and the members retarded in their work. The commission believes that a rule should be established prohibiting the use of the gymnasia of the city for any purpose which interferes with the work of the department.

The Finance Commission recommends that the Superintendent of Public Buildings be instructed by your Honor to draw up a schedule of fees, based upon the cost of heat, light and janitor services, and that the schedule thus established be adhered to by the city authorities.

Respectfully submitted,

Michael H. Sullivan,
Chairman,
Courtenay Guild,
John F. Moors,
James M. Morrison,

ADDRESSES OF ONE HUNDRED YEARS AGO.

The observance of ceremonies incident to the one hundredth anniversary of the establishment of Boston as a city makes of especial interest at this time the address of Mayor Phillips to the retiring Board of Selectmen and the new City Council, delivered Wednesday, May 1, 1822, the first year of the incorporated city.

Mayor Phillips said:

"Mr. Chairman and Gentlemen of the Board of Selectmen:

"The members of the City Council acknowledge their obligations to you for the attention and care which you have bestowed in all the arrangements for their accommodation. They tender their thanks for the friendly and respectful sentiments expressed in the address which accompanied the delivery of the ancient act of incorporation of the town, and the recent charter of the city.

"During the short period which has elapsed since I was elected to the office, the duties of which I have now solemnly undertaken to discharge to the best of my ability, I have devoted such portion of my time as I could command to examine the records of your proceedings, with the able assistance which your chairman most readily afforded me, and they furnish full evidence of the ability, dignity and integrity of those who have been justly denominated the fathers of the town.

"Gentlemen, you will now be relieved from labors, the weight of which can only be duly estimated by those excellent citizens who have preceded you in office. You retire with the conscientiousness of important duties faithfully and honorably discharged. Our best wishes attend you, whether engaged in public employments or private pursuits. May you be useful and prosperous and long continue your exertions to advance the interest and honor of our city.

"The experience of nearly two centuries has borne ample testimony to the wisdom of those institutions which our ancestors established for the management of their municipal concerns. Most of the towns in this Commonwealth may probably continue to enjoy the benefits of those salutary regulations for an unlimited series of years. But the great increase of population in the town of Boston has made it necessary for the Legislature frequently to enact statutes of local application to enable inhabitants to successfully conduct their affairs, and at the last session, with a promptness which claims our gratitude on the application of the town, they granted the charter which invests it with the powers and immunities of a city. Those who have attended to the inconveniences under which we have labored will not attribute this innovation to an eager thirst for novelty or restless desire of innovation. The most intelligent and experienced of our citizens have for a long period meditated a change and exerted their influence to affect it. Difference of opinion must be expected and mutual concessions made in all cases where the interests of a large community is to be accommodated. The precise form in which the charter is to be presented may not be acceptable to all, but its provisions have met with the approbation of a large majority, and it will receive the support of every good citizen.

"Those who encourage hopes that can never be realized, and those who indulge unreasonable apprehensions because this instrument is not framed agreeably to their wishes, will be benefited by reflecting how much more our social happiness depends upon other causes than the provisions of a charter. Purity of manners, general diffusion of knowledge, and strict attention to the education of the young, above all a firm, practical belief of that Divine revelation which has affixed the penalty of increasing anguish to vice, and promised to virtue rewards of interminable duration, will counteract the evils of any form of government. While the love of order, benevolent affections, and Christian piety distinguish, as they have done, the inhabitants of this city, they may enjoy the highest blessings under a charter with so few imperfections as that which the wisdom of the Legislature has sanctioned.

"To enter upon the administration of this government by the invitation of our fellow citizens, we are this day assembled. When I look around and observe gentlemen of the highest standing and most active employments devoting their talents and experience to assist in the commencement of this arduous business, in common with my fellow citizens, I appreciate most highly their elevated and patriotic motives. I well know, gentlemen, the great sacrifice of time, of care, and of emolument, which you make in assuming this burden. It shall be my constant study to lighten it by every means in my power. In my official intercourse, I shall not encumber you with unnecessary forms, or encroach on your time with prolix dissertations. In all the communications which the charter requires me to make, conciseness and brevity will be carefully studied. I will detain you no longer from the discharge of the important duties which now devolve upon you, than to invite you to unite in beseeching the Father of Light, without whose blessing all exertion is fruitless, and whose grace alone can give efficacy to the councils of human wisdom, to enlighten and guide our deliberations with the influence of his Holy Spirit, and there we cannot fail to promote the best interests of our fellow citizens."

SOLDIERS' MASS MEETING.

Placed on file, and the transfer of Francis J. Powers approved, to take effect on the date stated.

APPOINTMENT TO A PORTABLE.

A communication was received from the Schoolhouse Custodian, under date of Apr. 3, 1922, recommending that John Murphy, custodian of the Dorchester High School-house, be also appointed custodian of Portable No. 218, located in the yard of that school, to take effect Feb. 3, 1922.

Placed on file, and the appointment approved, to take effect on the date stated.

REPORT OF TRIAL BOARD.

A communication was received from the Trial Board, to which was referred at the meetings of Jan. 30 and Mar. 6, 1922 (see pp. 200 and 18), communications from the Schoolhouse Custodian making charges against certain custodians, reporting that the Trial Board conducted a hearing in these three cases on Mar. 23, 1922, which was attended by the three members of the Trial Board, by Schoolhouse Commissioner Mahar, by the Schoolhouse Custodian and by the custodians concerned.

The following reports, findings and recommendations in these three cases are now respectfully submitted:

George J. Thornton, custodian, Choate Burnham School-house:—

The classes in this building were dismissed on Feb. 17, 1922, because of an accident which happened to the heating apparatus.

FINDING—That the damage was due to a defect or exposed condition of a pipe which resulted in the freezing up and giving way of an elbow, for which the custodian was not responsible. In this finding the Schoolhouse Commission concurs.

RECOMMENDATION — That the charges against the custodian be dismissed and the matter placed on file.

William Murphy, custodian, Frances E. Willard School-house:

In this case it was necessary to suspend the sessions of this school for several days beginning Feb. 27, 1922, because of an accident to the boiler and an underground pipe to which the custodian had no means of access.

FINDING—That this accident was due to defective apparatus and the custodian was not responsible therefor. In this finding the Schoolhouse Commission concurs.

RECOMMENDATION — That the charge against the custodian be dismissed and that the matter be placed on file.

Henry Keenan, custodian, William Brewster School-house:

The sessions of this school were suspended for three days during the first school week in January because of the freezing of returns and damage to one section of the boiler involving an expense of approximately $225, of which perhaps $165 was due to the failure of the custodian properly to drain the apparatus on a cold night.

The custodian states that he has no valid excuse to offer and that the accident resulted from an oversight for which he cannot account.

In view of Mr. Keenan's long and faithful service and the attitude of the Schoolhouse Commission in the matter the Trial Board takes a more lenient view of the incident than it otherwise would feel justified in doing.

FINDING—That this accident was due to an oversight on the part of the custodian in not properly appreciating that the temperature during the night on which the accident occurred was so low as to require him to take additional care and precaution, and that he is, therefore, guilty of an oversight in the management of the apparatus under his charge.

RECOMMENDATION—That the custodian be reprimanded for his failure to exercise due care on the night in question.

Placed on file, and the recommendations adopted.

AUDITING OF ACCOUNTS OF SECRETARY.

A proposal was received from Grimes, Elliott & Clarkson, under date of Mar. 30, 1922, for auditing the accounts of the Secretary.

Placed on file.

On motion, it was

ORDERED, That the proposal of Grimes, Elliott & Clarkson, Certified Public Accountants, dated Mar. 30, 1922, to audit the accounts of the Secretary once every three months during the financial year ending Jan. 31, 1923, and to report their findings after each quarterly examination and to render a detailed report for the entire fiscal year at an expense of sixty dollars ($60), is hereby accepted, and said accountants are hereby authorized to undertake such audit in accordance with the terms of their proposal.

ABATEMENT OF CHARGES OF PARENTS' MEETING, ELIHU GREENWOOD SCHOOL.

On motion, it was ORDERED, That the charge for light, heat and custodian service in connection with the occupancy of the assembly hall in the Elihu Greenwood School-house on Wednesday, Feb. 15, 1922, when a meeting to establish a parents' association was held, is hereby abated and the cost thereof is assumed by this Board.

PENSION TO KATHERINE McNAMARA.

On motion, it was ORDERED, That Katherine McNamara is hereby granted a pension at the rate of one hundred eighty dollars ($180) per annum, to take effect Apr. 1, 1922, in accordance with the provisions of Section 4 of Chapter 617 of the Acts of 1910, as amended by Chapter 569 of the Acts of 1912.

LEASING OF ADAMS STREET SCHOOL TO OLD DORCHESTER POST AMERICAN LEGION.

The following preamble and order were offered:

WHEREAS, The Adams Street School Building, in the Gilbert Stuart District and the Cedar Grove section of Dorchester, is now vacant and not in actual use for school purposes, it is hereby ORDERED, That the City Council be requested to authorize the School Committee, in the name and behalf of the city, to lease to the Old Dorchester Post, No. 65, a duly authorized Post of the American Legion, the school-house and site situated on Adams Street, in the Cedar Grove section of Dorchester.

Laid over.

ELECTION OF AN ASSISTANT SUPERINTENDENT.

The Board proceeded to the election of an Assistant Superintendent for the term of six years beginning Sept. 1, 1922.

The members as their names were called, respectively stated that they voted as follows:

For MARY C. MELLYN—Dr. Bogan, Miss Curtis, Messrs. Lane, O'Connor and Scannell—5.

The Chairman declared Mary C. Mellyn duly elected Assistant Superintendent for the term specified.

UNFINISHED BUSINESS.

The two orders laid over at the meeting of Mar. 20, 1922 (see p. 24) making changes in the authorized list of text and supplementary books, were taken up and passed unanimously.

SPECIAL COMMITTEE TO EXAMINE HISTORIES OF THE UNITED STATES ON THE AUTHORIZED LIST.

The following was offered:—

ORDERED, That all histories of the United States, or books pertaining to the history of the United States, in story form or otherwise, authorized for use in the Boston public schools as text, supplementary or reference books, be examined by a Special Committee with a view to dropping from the authorized list books whose authors have omitted, garbled, or misstated the established and accepted facts of American history, or who have in any way reflected on the motives or actions of American patriots who served their country in the Revolutionary or any other war in which the United States has been engaged; that said Special Committee shall examine all text, supplementary or reference books, with a view to dropping from the authorized list books whose authors have made references of a derogatory nature affecting the religious, racial or political character of any class of inhabitants in this City of Boston; that this Special Committee shall be of permanent standing, so that hereafter it will not be possible for any books of the kind referred to, to reach the teachers or pupils in the public schools for use in instruction or reference.

The order failed of passage by the following vote:

YEA.—Mr. O'Connor—1.

NAYS—Dr. Bogan, Miss Curtis, Messrs. Lane and Scannell—4.

ADJOURNMENT.

The Board adjourned at 7.10 o'clock P. M.

Attest:

THORNTON D. APOLLONIO,
Secretary.

PROCEEDINGS OF CITY COUNCIL.

Monday, April 10, 1922.

Regular meeting of the City Council, held in the Council Chamber, City Hall, at two o'clock p. m., President BRICKLEY in the chair.

APPOINTMENTS BY THE MAYOR.

Subject to confirmation by the City Council, the Mayor submitted the following appointments for terms ending April 30, 1922:

1. Thomas F. Coffey, 34 Havre street, East Boston, to be a Weigher of Goods.
2. Daniel P. Sheehan, 37 Monument square, Charlestown, to be a Weigher of Goods.

Laid over under the law.

LOAN FOR PLAYGROUND, BALDWIN PLACE.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, April 10, 1922.

To the City Council:

Gentlemen,—The movement for the elimination of disease-breeding tenement property and the creation of health-giving parks in the congested sections of the city, which was inaugurated in 1916 and which was temporarily discontinued during the past four years, is, in my opinion, of such vital importance to the future of our city as to render it impossible to justify failure to pursue this necessary and helpful work.

The policy of creating a small park each year by the elimination of unwholesome tenement property, or the opening up of a city block where congestion is so great as to injure the health of those forced to live within that block, should be continued.

The City Planning Board, after long study, has recommended that the Baldwin place section of Boston is the most congested and unhealthful spot in the city. I conferred with the owners of the property, who set a price of $76,000 thereon, and informed them that when they were prepared to dispose of the property at its assessed valuation I would recommend its purchase by the city.

I am submitting herewith the offer received from the owners to sell the property for $56,600, and respectfully recommend the adoption of the accompanying order which provides sufficient money to defray the cost of razing the synagogue and opening up this section for the benefit of mothers and children.

Respectfully,
James M. Curley, Mayor.

Ordered, that the sum of $70,000 be appropriated to be expended by the Park Commissioners for playground, Baldwin place, and that to meet said appropriation the City Treasurer be and hereby is authorized to issue, from time to time, on the request of the Mayor, bonds or certificates of indebtedness of the City of Boston to said amount.

Referred to the Committee on Finance.

LICENSING LODGING HOUSES.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, April 10, 1922.

To the City Council:

Gentlemen,—Chapter 59 of the Acts of 1921 authorizes the City Council of a city to establish a fee not exceeding $2 for licenses for lodging houses. In my opinion it is not unreasonable to charge such a fee in order to partially reimburse the city for the cost of issuing the licenses, and as the license period begins the 1st of May, I respectfully recommend the passage of the accompanying order.

Respectfully,
James M. Curley, Mayor.

Ordered, That under the provisions of chapter 59 of the Acts of 1921 the annual fee for licenses for lodging houses be and the same hereby is fixed at two (2) dollars.

Referred to the Executive Committee.

SUITS OF NATIONAL BANKS.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, April 10, 1922.

To the City Council:

Gentlemen,—I beg to submit herewith report of the Corporation Counsel, relative to suits of national banks to recover the taxes paid to the City of Boston since 1917.

The total amount involved is approximately $7,000,000. I have gone into the matter with care both with the present Corporation Counsel and his predecessor, Mr. Hill. It was the opinion of former Corporation Counsel Hill and also the opinion of Mr. William H. Hitchcock, formerly of the Attorney-General's office, that a compromise should be effected by which, on payment of a sum in excess of two million dollars, the cases would be dropped.

I have found it impossible to share the views of either the former Corporation Counsel or the assistant in charge of the work, Mr. Hitchcock, yet, realizing that the time and attention of the Corporation Counsel is, of necessity, taken up largely with routine matters and the amount in this case is so great, I have deemed it advisable to favor the recommendation of the Corporation Counsel for the employment of legal and clerical assistance.

I accordingly recommend the adoption of the accompanying order.

Respectfully,
James M. Curley, Mayor.

Ordered, That the sum of $50,000 be authorized to be expended for the purpose of meeting charges for the employment of special counsel and for the payment of stenographers' services and all typewriting and printing that may be in any way necessary for the purpose of defending any suit now pending or hereafter instituted against the City of Boston by any national bank or banks for the recovery of taxes paid or to be paid where the claim is made that the tax is illegal because of the provisions of section 5219 of the United States Revised Statutes; and it is further ordered that his Honor the Mayor is hereby authorized to employ such special counsel to act in such case or cases and to represent the city before the Congress of the United States or the Legislature of Massachusetts for the purpose of having made such changes in the present statutes in any way affecting said tax as may be beneficial to the city and its interests. Said sum of $50,000 to be charged to the Reserve Fund, and all expenditures shall be subject to the written approval of the Mayor and the Corporation Counsel.

Re Suits of National Banks to Recover Taxes.

City of Boston,
Law Department, April 5, 1922.

Hon. James M. Curley,
Mayor of Boston:

Honored Sir,—There are now pending against the City of Boston various suits (in the Suffolk Superior and United States District Courts) brought by ten different national banks within the City of Boston to recover taxes assessed by the city against the shares of the stock therein outstanding in the hands of individuals, which tax was paid directly in each instance by the bank. In some instances these suits attempt to recover back taxes collected even as remotely as the year 1917. The total amount involved is over $7,000,000.

The principle involved in these suits is founded on the assumption of the several plaintiffs that this tax is levied under authority given the several states by section 5219 of the United States Revised Statutes and that the tax levied and collected is, in fact, violative of the provision therein that such "taxation shall not be at a greater rate than is assessed upon other moneyed capital in the hands of individual citizens."

The claim of the First National Bank, involving over $3,500,000, has been heard before a commissoner appointed by the Superior Court of Suffolk County. At the instance of my predecessor in office, Arthur D. Hill, Esq., Mr. William Harold Hitchcock, formerly of the Attorney-General's office, was employed by the Commonwealth to assist Mr. Hill in the defence of this particular suit.

It was Mr. Hill's opinion and the opinion of Mr. Hitchcock also that the City of Boston should accept the compromise offer made by the First National Bank. This compromise calls for a judgment by agreement of $2,125,000, the same to be entered against the city and to be paid for in the following manner: The City of Boston will at once give its check for its estimated share of this judgment, which is suggested by counsel as being "something like $500,000," and the balance of the judgment would be represented by the promissory note of the City of Boston, which it is expected would be taken care of by legislation requiring the state and the various cities and towns among which the balance of these taxes were distributed, though collected by the City of Boston, to make adequate contribution.

After reviewing the law in this case and many decisions of our State Supreme Court and of the United States Supreme Court, I am persuaded that we should not accept the compromise offer made in the First National Bank case but should contest this and all other similar cases, even though it is necessary to carry them to the United States Supreme Court. If, perchance, the right of the state to tax shares in national banks owned by individuals is dependent upon section 5219 of the United States Revised Statutes—which I, myself, do not believe—and is restricted by its provisions, then the other question may fairly be raised, namely, is our present method of taxing such bank shares "at a greater rate than is assessed upon other moneyed capital in the hands of individual citizens of such (our) states"?

If your Honor is of my opinion, namely, that these cases should be contested, then I am obliged to say that the amount of labor involved in the preparation and defence of these suits is necessarily so great as to justify our employing special counsel for the work. The claims of these ten banks represent a multiplicity of suits raising various legal questions, also involving a great deal of statistical investigation. The resources of the Law Department are such that we can adequately handle only the routine matters that come before us. If we are to properly defend these suits we will require the special assistance of counsel who is not only learned in law but has some special training in the field of finance and statistics, and he, in turn, will require legal and clerical assistance in order to adequately discharge the duties which would be imposed upon him. I therefore recommend the passage of an order for the appropriation of the sum of $50,000 to meet the expense incident to the conduct of these cases to a final decision in the United States Supreme Court.

Very truly yours,
E. Mark Sullivan,
Corporation Counsel.

MARINE PARK LAND.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, April 10, 1922.
To the Honorable the City Council:

Gentlemen,—I herewith transmit an order which authorizes an exchange of rights in flats and land adjacent to Marine Park in South Boston district and owned partially by the Commonwealth and partially by the City of Boston, which lands and flats are fully described in said order. This matter was called to the attention of the City Council of 1921 by my predecessor in office, but no final action was taken by that body so that the Commonwealth at the present time is unable to accomplish the desired results with these lands and flats.

As the Commonwealth has filled this land for the purpose of commercial use, and if favorable action is taken upon this order it will enable the Public Works Department of the Commonwealth to further carry out the development of the port and add a large amount of taxable real estate, and as without expense the City of Boston is to have certain of its lands filled and Pleasure Bay is to be dredged to a depth satisfactory to the Park Department, I consider the proposed exchange greatly beneficial to the interests of the city and I therefore recommend the passage of the accompanying order.

Yours very truly,
James M. Curley, Mayor.

City of Boston, In City Council.

Whereas, The City of Boston by deeds from the executor of and trustee under the will of Benjamin Adams, dated April 30, 1883, recorded with Suffolk Deeds, Lib. 1595, pages 395 and 396, acquired title to certain land, beach and flats on Q street, now Farragut road, in the South Boston district, extending easterly and northerly to low water mark, "to be used for the purposes of a public park," and the said city by a taking recorded with said deeds, Lib. 1597, page 591, took the said land, beach and flats "as and for a public park"; and

Whereas, The Board of Park Commissioners of the City of Boston by the three following acts was authorized to make such excavations and filling and erect and maintain such structures in and over the area of tidewater at or near Dorchester Point as the Board may deem necessary or desirable for the purposes of a public park: Chapter 360 of the Acts of 1885, covering the area which lies southerly of the northerly line of East First street extended easterly to Castle Island and east of the westerly line of Q street, extended southerly into Old Harbor; chapter 427, section 1, of the Acts of 1887, covering the area which lies south of a line drawn parallel to and three hundred (300) feet northerly from the northerly line of East First street extended easterly to Castle Island and easterly of the westerly line of Q street, extended northerly to an intersection with said parallel line and southerly into Old Harbor; and chapter 438 of the Acts of 1889, covering the area which lies east of the westerly line of Q street and extending southerly into Old Harbor and northerly to the southerly line of the Reserve channel as established by the Board of Harbor and Land Commissioners under chapter 46 of the Resolves of 1886, and south of the said southerly line of the said Reserve channel, Section 2 of said chapter 438 provides that "all lands of the Commonwealth which are occupied or enclosed under the provisions of this act shall be appropriated to and used solely for the purposes of a public park"; and

Whereas, The location of the Reserve channel as established under chapter 46 of the Resolves of 1886 was changed under the authority of chapter 90, Resolves of 1911, leaving a large area of land belonging to the Commonwealth lying between the two locations of the southerly line of the channel adjacent to the said land, beach and flats owned by the City of Boston for a public park, and whereas in order to furnish approaches to and properly develop this area it is necessary to use a portion of the said land, beach and flats which the city owns and was authorized to occupy for a public park; and

Whereas, By agreement between the Department of Public Works of the said Commonwealth and the Mayor and Park and Recreation Commissioners of the City of Boston, the Commonwealth in connection with the filling of the area lying between the old and new locations of the southerly line of the Reserve channel has in addition filled a portion of the flats adjacent to the land of the City of Boston used for a public park with the understanding that a portion of such area should be transferred to the Commonwealth in order to provide proper facilities for reaching and developing the land of the Commonwealth which has been filled; and, further, that the Commonwealth release any interest it may have in and to all land, beach and flats lying between Marine Park and Castle Island and extending southerly from the northerly side of the existing bridge that connects City Point with the said island; and that the Commonwealth agree to perform certain acts in regard to the filling of these flats and making a beach running into Pleasure Bay, and in regard to the location and construction of a street one hundred feet wide, and to restrict a certain area.

Ordered, That his Honor the Mayor be and he hereby is authorized and empowered in the name and behalf of the city, in accordance with the provisions of chapter 748 of the Acts of 1911, to convey to the Commonwealth of Massachusetts all the rights, title and interest which the City of Boston has in and to the land and flats on the easterly side of Farragut road in the South Boston district, containing approximately forty-nine thousand eight hundred (49,800) square feet of solid land and three hundred eighty-seven thousand one hundred eighty-three (387,183) square feet of flats to be devoted to commercial purposes, and forty-one thousand (41,000) square feet of solid land and one hundred forty-eight thousand eight hundred seventy (148,870) square feet of flats over which the Commonwealth is to construct a street or way to be used in part for commercial purposes, all as shown on a plan made by Henry C. Mildram, real estate engineer, dated February 14, 1921, in exchange for conveyance by the said Commonwealth of all its rights, title and interest in and to the lands and flats lying between Marine Park, as now filled, and Castle Island, and extending from the southerly line of the said land and flats to be released to the Commonwealth southerly into Old Harbor, and the agreement by the Commonwealth that it will complete the filling of the flats from the southerly line of the flats to be released to it to the southerly side of the existing bridge that connects City Point with said island, the material dredged from the harbor making a beach sloping from the southerly side of the said bridge southerly into Pleasure Bay; the beach being made at such slope as the material will naturally assume when placed by a hydraulic dredge; the said Commonwealth further agrees never to erect any building or buildings on the land or flats owned by it lying between Castle Island and the red line shown on said plan and marked "Restriction line, beyond which on the east side no buildings are to be erected," and within a reasonable time to locate and construct a street or way one hundred feet wide within the premises to be released to it and along the southerly line thereof, extending from East First street easterly to a line riparian ownership, using a strip twenty-three (23) feet wide for the location of two standard gauged railroad tracks to be used for commercial purposes, with branches leading into the areas on the northerly side of said street, the Commonwealth to pave and regulate the portion of said street northerly of the said twenty-three foot strip, and agree that the city reserve the right to develop that portion of said street south of the said strip for park purposes.

Both conveyances and agreements referred to in this order are to be in form satisfactory to the law department.

Referred to the Executive Committee.

PENSION TO WIDOW OF DANIEL T. DINEEN.

Coun. WATSON offered an order—That chapter 195 of the Acts of 1922, entitled "An Act Extending the Provisions of an Act to Authorize the City of Boston to Pension the Widow of Daniel T. Dineen," be and the same hereby is accepted.

Passed.

COMPENSATION TO LOUISE McGILL.

Coun. FORD offered an order—That under the provisions of chapter 70 of the Acts of 1922, there be allowed and paid to Louise McGill, as compensation for the death of her son, Arthur B. McGill, who was killed during the riot on September 10, 1919, the sum of $2,500, in weekly payments of $15; the amount so paid to be charged to the Reserve Fund.

Coun. FORD—Mr. President, that is the same order that we passed before for $4,000, excepting the amount. The Mayor has fixed a definite sum for these death cases of $2,500. Inasmuch as we discussed and passed the previous order, I move that the rule be suspended and that this order be passed and sent to the Mayor for his approval.

The rule was suspended and the question came on the passage of the order.

Coun. MORIARTY—Mr. President, I want to say just a word in opposition. I do not wish to go on record as a member of this body as passing the judgment of the body that the value of a life is $2,500. I think the order that we passed before gave the right to pay any amount up to $4,000, and I believe that the matter should be acted upon as already passed by the Law Department. I certainly don't want to register my vote as valuing a boy's life at $2,500.

Coun. FORD—Mr. President, the situation is this: We sent the order to the Mayor providing for $4,000, and the Mayor would not approve it for $4,000. But after a conference —and we were all there that day—he decided that he would approve an order for $2,500. All I know about it personally is that the beneficiaries are perfectly satisfied to accept that sum, and, of course, I am only acting as an automaton, passing the matter along. The Mayor and the mother, the beneficiary, are in agreement as to the sum. Of course, I would myself like to see the mother get the $4,000 if it were possible, but I understand that it is not, and I understand that the Mayor is acting on the advice of the Law Department. It being satisfactory to the persons concerned in this form, all I can say is that I shall be glad to see it passed, because I know that the money, the $15 a week, is needed. I would like to see the order go through, and I don't see how we can expect to pass it, under the circumstances, for any larger amount.

Coun. MORIARTY—As I understand the act, it allows the City of Boston to pay a maximum sum of $4,000, and I feel that under the order we have already passed there should be a conference between the attorney of the mother and the attorneys of the City of Boston, coming to an agreement, in conference with the Mayor, instead of a specific order being put in here that we value the life of that young boy, who was shot during the police strike, at $2,500. I don't wish to take the responsibility of voting on a blanket order to the effect that as a body we feel that there is only a responsibility on the part of the city because of the death of that boy of $2,500.

Coun. FORD—Mr. President, of course we all appreciate the sentiment of Coun. Moriarty. He is absolutely right in what he says. But this sum of $2,500, because of the circumstances, is perfectly satisfactory to the mother of the boy and to the lawyers who represent her. I talked with them three quarters of an hour ago, and they would really like to see this order go through, because they would like to see something done in the matter at once. I think Coun. Watson is going to follow me. and I think I will leave it to him to explain as to the legal proceedings in the case.

Coun. WATSON—Mr. President, I feel about as the two preceding speakers feel in regard to this matter. I think $2,500 is a very small sum to place on the life of a boy, man or child. But I know that the ultimatum has gone out from the Mayor's office that $2,500 is all he will agree to settle cases for out of court. I had a very serious case, where a man was maimed for life, would never walk again, and lies helpless in bed. I thought I could get $4,000, the limit the law provides, but the Mayor told me very frankly that while there were very many deserving cases of this sort coming up from time to time, where the parties got less than belonged to them, there were also a great many where they got more than belonged to them, because of the large sums that had been paid out in the past. So he said he had put his foot down and decided that $2,500 would be the limit. I spoke to the parties interested and they said they needed the money badly, and would accept the $2,500. I know, as Coun. Ford does, that they do need the money badly and that $2,500 to them now will be almost like a million at a later time. While I would like to see the order passed in its original form, I trust that under the circumstances it will be passed as it has been introduced here today. Under the circumstances, if it had been passed for $5,000, I would still vote today for the $2,500.

Coun. MORIARTY—Mr. President, I realize that I am taking up a good deal of time about this matter and that we will not be able to get any more money for this woman. I realize that this mother who has lost her son, if the truth is told by her attorneys, stands in great need of money at the present time, and that if the amount proposed in this order were $500 she would take it. I realize, again, that there is no legal obligation on the part of the city. I realize that, and I realize that on 75 per cent of the claims that go before the Law Department there is no legal liability on the part of the city. But there are claims that go before the Law Department which have not got as much merit as this one has, that do not deal with such an important matter as the life of a young boy, and the claimants are given more money by the city. When it comes to a life, however, it is proposed that we shall vote that a life is worth $2,500. I certainly am going to register my vote in opposition to that, not that I do not want to see the woman get $2,500, but I don't believe the money is coming to her in the right way. I believe the form this should take is that the Mayor should instruct the Law Department to get in touch with him upon the order that has already been passed, which covers the situation, allowing the city to pay up to $5,000. They can all get together on that, and a recommendation can then be made.

Coun. WATSON—Mr. President, I do not think that this order places the price of $2,500 as the value of this young boy's life, and I do feel that if the most interested person living, the boy's mother, is satisfied with $2,500, we should be sufficiently satisfied to pass the order in this form, especially if the Mayor says that is the limit. I hope that the order as presented will pass.

The order was passed under suspension of the rule.

ROPING OF STREETS FOR MARATHON RACE.

Coun. BRICKLEY offered an order—That the City Messenger be authorized to rope such streets as may be necessary in connection with the Marathon race April 19, 1922.

The expense attending the same to be charged to the appropriation for City Council, G. 1, Flags, Ropes and Stakes.

Passed.

NAMING OF PETERSON SQUARE.

Coun. BRICKLEY offered an order—That the junction of Washington and Northampton streets be named John C. Peterson square, in memory of said Peterson, who died in France during the World War, and that said space be suitably marked with signs.

Passed.

NAMING OF MAHONEY SQUARE.

Coun. BRICKLEY offered an order—That the Board of Park Commissioners be requested to change the name of Hyde square to Cornelius J. Mahoney square, in memory of said Mahoney, who died in the World War.

Passed.

REINSTATEMENT OF FRANK J. HOGAN.

Coun. BRICKLEY offered an order—That the City Council favors legislation for the reinstatement of Frank J. Hogan as a member of the Fire Department of the City of Boston.

Passed.

WOODBINE ROAD.

Coun. BRICKLEY offered an order—That the Board of Street Commissioners be requested to accept and lay out as a public street Woodbine road, West Roxbury.

Referred to the Executive Committee.

CONVEYANCE OF LAND TO MARY M. BRADY.

Coun. WATSON—Mr. President, I have to leave at half past three and, if there is no objection, I would like to have No. 2 on the calendar taken up and voted upon at this time.

No. 2 on the calendar, under unfinished business, is as follows:

2. Ordered, That his Honor the Mayor be and hereby is authorized in the name and behalf of the city, for a price not less than $500, and in form satisfactory to the Law Department, to convey to Mary M. Brady a certain strip of land bounded northwest by Washington street, ten and 35-100 feet, north by other land of said Brady, thirty-two and 52-100 feet, and south by land of the City of Boston (Stony brook), thirty-seven and 33-100 feet, containing one hundred fifty-eight square feet, more or less, said parcel being shown on a plan marked "City of Boston, Washington Street, Tower street, West Roxbury, January 26, 1917, F. O. Whitney, Chief Engineer, Street Laying-Out Department," and on file in office of said department.

On March 27, 1922, the foregoing order was read once and passed, yeas 9.

The order was given its final reading and passage, yeas 8, nays 0.

Yeas—Coun. Brickley, Ford, Gilbody, Hagan, Lane, Moriarty, Walsh, Watson—8.

Nays—0.

RECESS TAKEN.

The Council voted, at 2.40 p. m. on motion of Coun. FORD, to take a recess subject to the call of the President.

The Council reassembled, and were called to order by the President at 3.40 p. m.

EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE REPORTS.

Coun. Ford, for the Executive Committee, submitted the following, viz.:

1. Report on communication from the Mayor and order (referred today) that annual fee for licenses for lodging houses be fixed at $2—that same ought to pass.

Report accepted; order passed.

2. Report on order (referred today) that Board of Street Commissioners be requested to accept and lay out as a public street Woodbine road, West Roxbury—that the same ought to pass.

Report accepted; order passed.

3. Report on petitions (referred today) for permits for children to appear as follows, viz.:

Dorothy R. Richardson for children to appear at hall at 294 Huntington avenue, evening of April 29.

Pauline Marks Harvey, for children to appear at Sarah Greenwood Hall on April 17.

4. Report on petitions for retirement of William Daley, that the following order be passed, viz.:

That the Retirement Board for Laborers be hereby authorized and requested to retire, under the provisions of chapter 765 of the Acts of 1914, as amended by chapter 63 of the Special Acts of 1915, William Daley, employed in the labor service of the City of Boston in the Park Department.

Report accepted; said order passed.

5. Report on petition for retirement of Peter F. Connors—that the following order be passed:

That the Retirement Board for laborers be hereby authorized and requested to retire, under the provisions of chapter 765 of the Acts of 1914, as amended by chapter 63 of the Special Acts of 1915, Peter F. Connors, employed in the labor service of the City of Boston in the Public Works Department.

Report accepted; said order passed.

RETIREMENT OF MARY M. FITZSIMMONS.

Coun. FORD offered an order—That the City Council of Boston favors legislation for the retirement of Mary M. Fitzsimmons, an employee of the office of the clerk of the Superior Court, Civil Business, County of Suffolk.

Coun. FORD—Mr. President, I would move a suspension of the rule for the passage of this resolution. Mary M. FitzSimmons has been a clerk in the office of the Superior Court for twenty-eight years, and the retirement in this case, in accordance with the bill, —like all retirements of this sort—is at the request of the one to be retired.

The order was passed under suspension of the rule.

PLACING OF FIRE ALARM BOX.

Coun. FORD offered an order—That the Fire Commissioner of the City of Boston, through his Honor the Mayor, be requested to place upon the fire alarm box at the corner of East street and Dorchester avenue an alarm bell to warn citizens of the approach of the fire apparatus over East street.

Coun. FORD—Mr. President, the reason for that order is that East street has a sharp decline coming toward Dorchester avenue. There have been several accidents at the corner of East street and Dorchester avenue, and it is felt that if there is an alarm bell placed at the foot of the hill, at the fire alarm box, warning pedestrians coming down the hill, it will prevent a recurrence of such accidents as have already occurred in past years, and that it will be very beneficial to citizens. That is all. I hope the order will pass.

The order was passed under suspension of the rule.

MINORS' LICENSES.

President BRICKLEY submitted petitions of eighteen newsboys and three vendors for licenses, approving same.

Placed on file.

PROPOSED RESCISSION OF SOUTH BOSTON GYMNASIUM ORDER.

Coun. LANE, for the Committee on Finance, submitted a report on the message of his Honor the Mayor (referred March 27) with accompanying orders providing for the rescission of loan order authorized August 22, 1921, for purchase of a site and erection of building for gymnasium in South Boston, amounting to $150,000, and loan order for $118,000 authorized January 31, 1922, for the purchase of a site and for the erection of building for gymnasium in South Boston—that the same ought to pass.

The report was accepted, and the question came on the passage of the order.

Coun. FORD—Mr. President, when the vote is taken I suggest that it be taken by roll-call.

Coun. LANE—Mr. President, after the report is accepted I shall move that the matter be placed on the table, inasmuch as Coun. Watson is absent today, having been unable to remain longer, and wants to go on record on the matter. I therefore will make that motion.

Coun. MORIARTY—Mr. President, I am going to oppose laying on the table.

Coun. LANE—Mr. President, I move that the order be placed on the table.

The motion to lay on the table was carried, yeas 5, nays 3:

Yeas—Coun. Donohue, Gilbody, Hagan, Lane, Walsh—5.

Nays—Coun. Brickley, Ford, Moriarty—3.

Coun. MORIARTY—Mr. President, I want to say to the members of the Council that we have got to assume that the same right will be extended to other members at other meetings of the Council—that if there is a member absent on any order coming up, whether I am in favor of or against the order, I am going to ask for postponement for the protection of any member of the Council who may be so absent.

Coun. HAGAN—Mr. President, I concur absolutely with the remarks of the gentleman opposite. I think that is as it should be. I am glad that we agree on that point—that any matter in which a member is interested should be postponed until that member is here.

Coun. MORIARTY—Mr. President, I want to say that we have been playing politics with this matter for the last eight weeks, and that if we are also going to play politics by being absent, with the other eight members of the Council who are present today each of them being absent at subsequent meetings, it may be possible that this matter will be put off for eight weeks more. If everybody else is going to play politics with it, I am going to do so when it comes to a roll call next week. I may walk out and say that I have to do business, and the week after Mr. Ford may do the same thing. The fact is that we have been playing politics on this matter ever since it came in. We now have eight votes here, and it is going to be laid over because one of the members is absent. Because the Mayor says he will not do anything in other districts, the members are going to pass the order. The councilor who is now absent said earlier that we should not be dogs in the manger, but should help other sections. Of course, that is a position they may try to put us in in regard to this fight, simply because we are standing by what we think is right and what we are entitled to. I believe in being fair. There is one duty that each and every one of us has. When we go to the people and ask for their votes we tell them how faithful we will be to our public duties. I believe our public duties here come first, and that if we have any private business it ought to be put away. I have many a day sacrificed other business to come here, and I know that other members of the Council have done the same thing; but if they are going to take another week on the matter in this way, playing politics in between, because they are afraid they haven't got the votes to put it over today, then I believe we ought to have the same opportunity given to every other member, whether we know the reason why he is away or not. If we have not got a full Council meeting, if some member has not an opportunity to be here, we will not act on the matter. None of us here today knows whether he will be here next Monday or not, and I agree with the councilor on the other side of the chamber (Coun. Hagan) that I would like to see that courtesy extended to other members. But I had some matters laid on the table here one year ago and they did not give me the same consideration that you are showing to the absent member on this matter today. While I was away out of the city they took those matters up and passed them, and did not give me an opportunity to be heard upon them. Of course, I am not criticising the man who is away at this time, but I simply want the same fair consideration given to every other member of the Council, and if there is anybody absent at the next meeting, whether he is in favor of or against a proposition, I am going to ask that the matter be laid over. In that way we may be able to have it laid over long enough so that even the people in the districts where they want to spend the money will not have an opportunity to have the money taken away from this important matter devoted to some other purpose. If we are going to start in jockeying—and I believe that is what we are doing today—let the public know it. I believe we can well be criticised by all the citizens of the city for jockeying upon a proposition of this kind, where there is no need of jockeying. We have four votes here today against this, and an attempt is being made to try to change some of the votes against the thing so that they will be for it later on. Some weeks ago it was defeated by a vote of eight to one. So, if jockeying in this matter is to be allowed, with a possible chance of being able to turn over a vote or two, I believe that when a member deliberately leaves the Council, and there is an attempt to delay action with the idea of possibly getting a vote changed, you ought to extend the same opportunity to other members. Of course, you have the votes here today to lay this over, but if you are going to put through such votes on account of having the might, we might as well adjourn sine die. I believe the proposition should be voted on on its merits, like every measure that comes in here. I believe there has simply been a political move made here in having the thing tabled, to give an opportunity to crack the whip, so as to change members' votes over in a way that will not reflect their own real sentiment. I will simply add in conclusion, Mr. President, if we are to vote to lay this matter on the table today, that I hope that when it comes up a week from today, if there is any member of the majority or minority on this question who is not able to be here at the meeting, it will be put over until he can be present.

Coun. LANE—Mr. President, I resent the imputation which my colleague has made concerning the playing of politics on this question. I cannot speak for the other eight members of the Council, but I certainly speak for myself, and I wish to assure him that no political consideration enters into any vote of mine upon the matter. When the order was first introduced I voted for the gymnasium in South Boston, and I would like to see the people of South Boston get that gymnasium. I have changed my attitude for one reason, and for one reason only. I have been assured by his Honor the Mayor, and I have no reason to doubt that he is sincere, that he will not expend this money for a gymnasium in South Boston, and in consequence that large sum of money is going to be tied up and do no one any good. He has sent in to us a proposition that if this vote is rescinded he will expend various amounts in other parts of the city. Those parts of the city have no more interest to me than South Boston, but the interests of the people as a whole are close to me, and if we are otherwise going to deprive people in other parts of the city of needed improvements I believe it is my duty to vote to rescind the previous order. I cannot speak for Coun. Watson, who is absent, except to say that I am absolutely convinced that he did not leave this chamber with the idea of ducking. He was obliged to go away on a business call, and I am sure that he is not trying to delay action on the proposition. If the matter came to a vote today it would probably be defeated, and I have no doubt that it will be defeated if it comes up next Monday. I expect to take my licking with no feelings whatsoever. I am only changing my position on the matter for the reason I have stated. But I don't like to have the councilor saying that I am playing politics, because I believe, as far as votes are concerned, that I would get just as many votes from South Boston as from the other parts of the city where they will have these benefits if the order referred to is rescinded.

Coun. MORIARTY—Mr. President, I don't mean that they are playing outside politics. I mean that they are playing inside politics.

Coun. HAGAN—Mr. President, I would like to ask a question. What is the difference between outside politics and inside politics?

Coun. MORIARTY—Well, while theoretically each one of you may not be representing a certain district, but are representing the electorate of Boston as a whole, nevertheless members might be taken aside and the statement made to them, "I will take this appropriation and split it up and give you $25,000 in your district, $50,000 in your district and $75,000 on your pet measure. I will distribute the money around." I call that inside politics. I would say to the councilor who has just taken his seat that if he believed in 1921 that a municipal gymnasium should be built in that district, and if again in 1922, when the rescinding order came in here, voted "no," he has not said anything that would show me why he has changed his mind, any good reason why he has done so. He says he is changing his position just because the Mayor says that if we do not rescind that money certain projects will not go through. Well, there is still some money in the Reserve Fund. There was another order for $50,000 that came in here today, that you are going to eventually vote in favor of, to hire some counsel to fight the national banks; and if there was something else came up there would be another $50,000 or $75,000. It is my claim that there is still money enough in the Reserve Fund to take care of the Eagle Hill project and the other two propositions to which the Mayor has agreed to transfer that money. I do not want to be considered—and I say this without any feeling in so far as the Mayor is concerned—as a dog in the manger against the propositions of the Mayor, but I was elected to use my own judgment and I took my oath to live up to that. That is what I am doing. I believed in 1921, with the other members of the Council, with not one dissenting vote, that we were entitled to a gymnasium in South Boston, and I so voted. In 1922 I voted against rescinding that order, because I believed that we were still entitled to that gymnasium and it was a real need in the district. I am of that same mind today, and if the councilor who has resented my remarks has not really changed his idea, if he still really thinks that this is an easy proposition for the district, then I say that he is not voting according to his oath of office. Just because someone says that this won't be done and that won't be done is no reason why we should not observe the oath we took when we came here. If he still feels that that money should be spent there, that there is need of it, he should vote against rescinding the order. I do not wish to state that Coun. Watson is avoiding a vote on this matter. I feel that Coun. Watson is as courageous as any member of this Council. I believe he has nerve enough to vote yes or no on any question. There is no inference on my part that he is ducking the issue, but in all my four years as a member of this body it seems to me very, very funny at this time that they are at this moment giving consideration to one man. I have not seen it before. If it had been a thing that had been done, if it was the custom of the Council to show that courtesy to a man who was called away on business, I would have had no objection. But that has not been the policy of this Council. If this means a new day and a new policy, I am glad that the gymnasium proposition came up today, because I will be glad to go along during the remainder of my term under that new policy.

Coun. LANE—Mr. President, the gentleman has said that I have given no reason except the word of one man that the gymnasium will not be built if we do not rescind the order. Unfortunately, that man is the one who has the final and only word. If it was not his Honor the Mayor who made that statement, we might think there was an opportunity or a possibility of getting the gymnasium; but under our charter the Mayor alone is responsible for the expenditure of the money, and he has given his word—and I believe his word is good, I have never found it otherwise—that the money will not be spent for that purpose. I believe he fully intends not to spend the money for that purpose. Therefore, I feel that I would be remiss in my duty as a member of this Council if I did not make that money available for other purposes. The gentleman who has taken his seat has confounded the Reserve Fund and the borrowing capacity of the city. He has stated that an order has come in here today for $50,000 for the Reserve Fund and that he believes there is more money in the Reserve Fund that can be spent for Eagle Hill and other purposes. The reserve money will not be expended that way, because that money was to come from loan orders. As we all know, we have appropriated already a great many loan orders this year, and I don't believe his Honor the Mayor will sanction any further inroads on the borrowing capacity unless something that is very important comes up in the near future.

Coun. HAGAN—Mr. President, I believe it is only right, fair and just to say that Coun. Watson, leaving the hall today, did so on an important errand of business, and believing at the time that this matter was going to lie on the table and that there was no special need of his being here. I say that in simple justice, that he is not ducking any responsibility. May I say to my colleague that it was the custom in the body——

Coun. FORD—Mr. President, I was wondering what was before the body. What question are we discussing?

Coun. GILBODY—That is what I have been wondering for ten minutes.

Coun. MORIARTY—Well, I got away with it.

Coun. LANE—Yes.

Coun. FORD—These fellows on the right and left say that they got away with it. I think we had better move along, Mr. President.

Coun. HAGAN—Well, if there is nothing before the body, I will sit down.

President BRICKLEY—There is nothing before the body. You are all out of order. But I gave you the liberty to proceed. We will now take up No. 1 on the calendar.

APPOINTMENTS BY THE MAYOR.

President BRICKLEY called up the following, under unfinished business:

Action on appointments submitted by the Mayor April 3, 1922, of the following named persons to be Constables, viz.:

1. Peter A. Caporale, Thomas P. Gorey, David A. Greenburg, St. Claire E. Hale, Alphonsus Palumbo and Theodore A. Walker.

The question came on confirmation. Committee, Coun. Ford and Donoghue. Whole number of ballots cast 8, yeas 8, nays 0, and the appointments were confirmed.

SIDEWALK CONSTRUCTION.

Coun. DONOGHUE offered an order—That the Commissioner of Public Works make a sidewalk along Williams street, both sides, from Forest Hills street to Washington street, Ward 22, in front of the estates bordering thereon; said sidewalk to be from 3 to 10 inches above the gutter adjoining, to be from 5 to 12 feet in width, and to be built of artificial stone, with granite edgestones, under the provisions of chapter 196 of the Special Acts of 1917.

Passed under suspension of the rule.

GENERAL RECONSIDERATION.

On motion of Coun. DONOGHUE, general reconsideration of all action taken today was refused.

Adjourned at 4.07 p. m. on motion of Coun. MORIARTY, to meet on Monday, April 17, at two p. m.

MASSACHUSETTS CIVIL SERVICE EXAMINATIONS.

The Massachusetts Civil Service Commission announce examinations for desirable positions.

Master House of Correction, Institutions Department, April 26, 1922.

The salary is $2,500 per year and maintenance. The master of the House of Correction is chief executive officer, having authority over employees and inmates and being responsible for the discipline and for expenditures of money, both for the maintenance and the upkeep of the institution.

BOSTON NOTES.

BOSTON TRUST FUNDS AND BEQUESTS.

Number of permanent funds and bequests held by the City, February 1, 1921, for various purposes, 128, representing a total value of $10,025,490. The earliest dates back to 1674, viz., Gibson School Fund. The largest fund is the bequest of the late George F. Parkman, consisting of various parcels of real estate (now mostly sold) valued at $5,000,000 to $6,000,000, the income from which (about $195,000 annually) is used for the upkeep and improvement of the older parks. Total amount of Parkman Fund in custody of City Treasurer, $5,377,877; next in amount, $907,894, made up of 17 funds in charge of the Overseers of the Public Welfare; (3) the Franklin and Franklin Union, amounting to $766,808; (4) 41 Public Library funds, $674,533; (5) Public School Teachers' Retirement, $665,568; (6) 8 Cemetery funds, $609,839; (7) Permanent School Pension, $380,516; (8) Police Charitable, $207,550; (9) 19 School funds, $170,936; (10) 19 Hospital funds, $97,750; 18 others, $166,219. Average annual income from all invested funds, nearly 4 per cent.

Two other funds are held by incorporated members of the Fire Department and Police Department respectively, viz.: Firemen's Relief Fund, amounting to $240,000 and Police Relief Fund, $232,005.

The Thorndike Memorial Building Fund, viz., $200,000 (bequest of George L. Thorndike) received by City Treasurer in 1919, is to be used for a ward building for clinical research purposes by the City Hospital Trustees. A loan of $150,000 for this object has been authorized but not yet issued.

CITY CHARTER CHANGES.

In 1854, 1885 and 1909 important changes in the original City Charter of 1821 were effected for the purpose of improving the methods and efficiency of the City Government. The revision of 1854 (Chap. 448, Stat. 1854) referred to the voters for acceptance, gave the Mayor a qualified veto over the action of the City Council, also the power of removal of appointed officials, besides providing for his election by a plurality instead of a majority vote. The amendments of 1885 (Chap. 266, Stat. 1885) were not submitted to the voters for approval. They transferred all the executive powers to the Mayor, prohibiting the City Council from interference with the executive and administrative business of the City. This was done in order to end the inefficiency resulting from an excessive number of joint committees, a municipal development conforming to the traditions of the outgrown town government.

The amendments of 1909 (Chap. 486, Stat. 1909) cut down the number and powers of the legislative branch of the government to a minimum, the Board of Aldermen (13 members) and the Common Council (75 members) being abolished. For these was substituted a single City Council of nine members to be elected at large for 3-year term. The Mayor's position was further strengthened by giving him a 4-year term, subject to recall at end of two years, but requiring a majority of the registered voters to make the recall effective. The Mayor's power over appointments was no longer subject to check by aldermen but by a State board, the Civil Service Commission, and City elections were removed from all connection with national and State politics, no primaries nor caucuses being permitted, all candidates for office to be selected by means of nomination papers. The only question in this Act of 1909 which was submitted to the voters was contained in section 35, i. e., whether Plan 1 or Plan 2 should be adopted, the first providing for a term of two years for Mayor and a City Council of 36 members to be chosen in primaries. Plan 2 was adopted by a majority of 3,894. Charter of 1909 amended later as follows: (1) By Chap. 437, Acts of 1910, exempting loans issued for Rapid Transit construction from the prohibition of the establishing of sinking funds, as contained in sec. 26. (2) Chap. 730, Acts of 1914, fixing date of annual municipal election on the sixth Tuesday after the state election instead of in the following January, as in sec. 32; changing the requirement as to signatures on nomination papers to 3,000 for Mayor and 2,000 for City Council and School Committee instead of 5,000 for all, as in sec. 53, also limiting the number of nomination papers issued to 300 for a candidate for Mayor and 200 for other candidates, referring to sec. 54. (3) Chap. 37, Special Acts of 1918, annulling the jurat at end of nomination papers. (4) Chap. 94, Special Acts of 1918, abolishing recall of Mayor, and making him ineligible for re-election, i. e., establishing a single term of four years, but not prohibiting the election of any Mayor for other than consecutive terms.

BOSTON AS A TOWN.

From its foundation until 1755, or a period of 125 years, Boston was not only the most outstanding but the most populous town in the American colonies. In 1760, Philadelphia's population was ahead, viz. 18,756, Boston's then being 15,631 and New York's about 14,000. In the last year of town government, viz., 1821, Boston's population was about 45,000 and its public debt $100,000, all incurred for new county buildings.

The history of Boston as a town during a period of nearly two centuries surpasses in civic interest that of Boston as a city because of the untiring zeal and successful efforts of its townsmen to realize more of true democracy than had ever been attained before. Their obligations were held as sacred as their liberties.

SETTLEMENT OF BOSTON.

Boston was settled in the latter part of August, 1630, by Puritan colonists under Governor John Winthrop. The name of the original settlement was changed to Boston from Trimountaine by order of the Court of Assistants on September 7 (O. S.), 1630. This date was moved forward by the New Style calendar in 1752 to September 17, the recognized date of the founding of Boston. The name, Trimountaine, had been given because of the three peaks of the most prominent hill, afterward called Beacon Hill, much higher then than now. By the Indians the place was called Shawmut. The name, Boston, was derived from the English town of Boston in Lincolnshire, the home of some of the leading colonists and promoters of the enterprise.

A CENTURY OF BOSTON.

HISTORICAL ADDRESS OF HON. HARVEY N. SHEPARD, AT MUNICIPAL CENTENNIAL OBSERVANCE, FANEUIL HALL, PATRIOTS' DAY, APRIL 19, 1922.

A little book in our Public Library, entitled, "Selections from the Chronicle of Boston," published in 1822, contains upon its second page these words: "forasmuch as the whole body of the people could not leave their several callings to oversee and conduct the public business, the special government of the town was committed to the elder and experienced men, who were designated by the name of Selectmen, annually elected by the people assembled in one place. Now after this government had continued for 192 years, even from the first settlement of the country, some men of Boston began to desire a change. For they said: Is not this the capital of a great state? Is it not rich and populous? Why should it not possess such advantages as Philadelphia, as New York, or as Paris, or London, or any of the capitals of a state or country? Shall our municipality be not otherwise distinguished from that of Hull, which contains but twenty voters, than by the number of its members? So they drew up a list of the evils endured under the present system of Town government, and a list of the benefits to be derived from a City government. For they said: 'We are wise men and cunning, and we will work upon the fears, the hopes, the indolence, the curiosity, and the proverbial notionality of the people, exaggerating both the evil and the good, and thus produce a general excitement.'"

Seemingly the author did not altogether approve the change from a town to a city; and it is quite certain that many of the good people of Boston did not. For over forty years after the adoption of the constitution of the Commonwealth in 1780 affairs were conducted in the same simple and democratic way as formerly, although there were several attempts to make the change. In May, 1784, on the petition of a large number of the inhabitants, a committee of thirteen, selected with great care from among the most influential and popular citizens, and including Samuel Adams and James Sullivan, was appointed "to consider the expediency of applying to the General Court for an act to form the town of Boston into an incorporated city"; and June 4 it reported two plans, which were printed and distributed to each house, the town meeting adjourning to the 17th. At this meeting, on the question of making any alterations in the form of government, there was "an unabated roaring," with cries of "No corporation — No Mayor — No innovations"; and the records state: "the impatience of the inhabitants for the question being immediately put, prevented any debate thereon, and it passed in the negative by a great majority." In December, 1791, there was raised a large committee of inhabitants of leading influence in both the political parties, including John Quincy Adams, Charles Bulfinch and James Sullivan, and the committee, after long deliberation made a report, which was printed and distributed in handbills. The town meeting then adjourned until January 26, when it was discussed at great length. But the people thought themselves very well off as they were, and the proposal was rejected. An historian of Boston has said that at no other period in its history did the town have a more zealous and devoted body of citizens; and that the long war had not exhausted their energies or resources. In January, 1804, another large committee, equally selected from both political parties, and elected by the wards, was instructed to report any alteration in the town government it deemed expedient. It had frequent meetings, and in March reported a system of municipal government. But the attachment to town government was not diminished; and after a warm and tumultuous debate, the result was a decided negative. In October, 1815, a city form of government under the title "The Intendant and Municipality of the Town and City of Boston" came near to success, being rejected by only a majority of thirty-one. It was apparent, however, that, with a population of 4,000 and 7,000 qualified voters, it was impossible calmly to deliberate and act; and six years later, on the 22d of October, John Phillips, William Sullivan, Charles Jackson, Josiah Quincy, William Prescott, William Tudor, George Blake, Henry Orne, Daniel Webster, Isaac Winslow, Lemuel Shaw, Stephen Codman and Joseph Tilden were appointed a committee to report to the town "a complete system relating to the administration of the town and county, which shall remedy the present evils." When through this committee made its report, December 10, 1821, it only recommended that forty-one assistants should be chosen annually in the wards, who with the selectmen should form a town council, and that the town should be a county by itself, so as to reduce the expenses and reform certain abuses in the courts.

After considerable debate, Major Benjamin Russell, a soldier in the Revolution, distinguished for his activity and influence, editor of the Columbus Centinel, popular in the politics of the town, and a leader among the mechanics, declared that the committee "had not gone far enough in its alterations, and," in his opinion, "a great change had been effected in the minds of the inhabitants on the subject of city government"; and he moved "that the report should be recommitted to the same committee, with the addition of one person from each ward of the town, with instructions to report a system for the government of the town, with such powers, privileges and immunities as are contemplated by the amendment of the constitution of the commonwealth, authorizing the General Court to constitute a city government." This motion was adopted, and twelve persons were added to the former committee, the most prominent being Mr. Russell, who had been one of the delegates from Boston to the Constitutional Convention of 1820. On Monday, the last day of the year, the committee made its report, written by Lemuel Shaw, then senator from Suffolk County: That there should be an executive board of seven persons, called the selectmen, to be elected by the inhabitants on a general ticket; a chief executive, called the intendant, to be elected by the selectmen; and a Board of Assistants, consisting of four persons from each of twelve wards. Faneuil Hall was thronged on that day and the two following days with a noisy and excited assembly, which debated with much heat, but with general good humor, the various provisions of the report. "At times," says an eye witness, "a stranger would almost fancy himself in Bedlam, and that the moon had come nearer the earth than she was wont, and had made some men mad." The word intendant, perhaps taken from Canada or perhaps from Charleston, S. C., where the city was divided into thirteen wards, each of which selected a warden, and the thirteen wardens then elected the intendant, had in those days a peculiar fascination for Bostonians. Many of the orators vented their sarcasm on the word mayor, called mare, and one declared that "a mare is a horse and he had as lief be called a horse or an ass as a mare." President was the word preferred by some as being more dignified; but mayor finally carried the day. The name of selectmen was changed to aldermen and the name of the Board of Assistants to the Common Council. Whether Boston should be called a town or a city was the occasion of prolonged debate. Mr. Russell argued in favor of the word city on the ground that the people of Boston could not be called citizens if they were inhabitants of a town. "The word citizens," he insisted several times, "was derived from the term city." City was agreed upon by a small majority. The amended report was submitted to the inhabitants and was adopted.

Application was made to the General Court by a "Committee authorized and instructed by the Town of Boston." There was much delay, however, in the General Court, and it was only by the persistent efforts of the friends of the charter, particularly William Tudor, that on the very last day and in the closing hour of the session it was passed; and February 23, 1822, the Governor signed the act establishing the City of Boston. The administration of all the fiscal, prudential, and municipal concerns of the city was vested in the mayor and aldermen as one board, and the common council as another board to be exercised by the concurrent vote, each board having a negative upon the other. At a meeting of the inhabitants in Faneuil Hall March 4, 1822, the question "Will you accept the charter?" was decided in the affirmative by a vote of 2,797 to 1,881, and the result was announced formally three days later by a proclamation from Governor Brooks.

From this time to the second Monday of April, the day fixed by the charter for the choice of the new government, the chief question was; "Who shall be mayor?" The ward meetings were opened with prayer at nine o'clock. There was no fixed hour for closing the polls and this was done at the option of the ward officers The votes were 3,708, chiefly divided between Harrison Gray Otis and Josiah Quincy, neither having a majority, and Mr. Otis and Mr. Quincy each then declined being a candidate. The friends of Mr. Otis were particularly aggrieved, because Mr. Quincy had been one of the chief opponents of the charter. He had said, "The pure democracy of a town meeting was more suited to the character of the people of New England and less liable to abuse and corruption, than a more compact government." His opinions on this subject, when he became mayor, underwent radical modification. John Phillips, a graduate with honor from Harvard College, Fourth of July orator before the inhabitants of the town, member of the General Court, member of the Constitutional Convention of 1820, chairman of the committee which reported the charter, familiar with public business, honest, discreet and of sound judgment, after a few days of greater excitement was then elected mayor with great unanimity, receiving 2,500 out of 2,650 votes.

The new government was organized on Wednesday, May 1, 1822, with a solemnity adapted to the occasion, when the town fathers should lay down their sceptre and the new officials take up the reins of government, and the town meetings of Boston should be ended forever. Faneuil Hall "was filled to excess, and many went away unable to obtain seats or to stand, and the galleries were filled with ladies, the number estimated at 1,200." A platform was raised at the west end, with seats for the mayor, aldermen, and common council, a notable body of men; the selectmen of the past year, with other town authorities, and the chief officers of the Commonwealth. The charter, inclosed in a silver case, was laid upon a table in front of the council. After prayer by the venerable Thomas Baldwin, D. D., the oldest settled clergyman in Boston, an indefatigable worker within and without the church, the oaths of allegiance, and of office were administered to John Phillips, the mayor-elect, by Isaac Parker, Chief Justice of the Commonwealth, and afterwards, by the mayor, to the aldermen and councilmen.

The chairman of the selectmen, Eliphalet Williams, then rose and addressed the meeting, stating the grant of a city charter to the inhabitants of Boston; their acceptance of it; their election of the executive and the members of the legislative boards; and the presence of these persons. In conformity, therefore, with the will of the inhabitants of Boston, and in behalf of the selectmen of the ancient town, he delivered into the charge of the new authorities the town records from the year 1634 and the title deeds, "documents and evidences of the real and personal estate belonging to the inhabitants," and the act establishing the city. Mayor Phillips, after paying "a just tribute to the wisdom of our ancestors as displayed in the institutions for the government of the town, under which for nearly two centuries so great a degree of prosperity had been attained, and during which the great increase of the population of the place had alone made this change in the administration of its affairs essential," also said in respect to those "who encouraged hope which could never be realized, and of those who indulged unreasonable apprehensions in regard to the city charter, that they would derive benefit from reflecting how much social happiness depended on other causes than the provisions of a city charter. Purity of manners, general diffusion of knowledge, and strict attention to the education of the young, and above all a firm practical belief of that divine revelation which has affixed the penalty of increasing anguish to vice and promised to virtue rewards of interminable duration, will counteract the evils of any form of government." Thus was established the new order in a period of calm, in marked contrast to the fierceness of the previous storms, after everybody had been heard, and very few had refrained from speaking, and the will of the majority had prevailed.

Retiring from the hall, the mayor and aldermen and the councilmen met in separate rooms, and the council chose their president and clerk, and then both boards assembled in convention and unanimously elected Samuel Foster McCleary city clerk. Then they, in their separate chambers, proceeded to establish rules regulating the intercourse between the two boards; and passed orders continuing in force the by-laws of the late town. Mr. McCleary, who was born on Charter street in the North End, had been clerk of the Senate since 1813 and resigned that office to become city clerk at the request of his friend, Mayor Phillips, who then was president of the Senate. Mr. Phillips had made it a condition of his acceptance of the mayoralty that the clerk of the Senate should be translated to the city clerkship, an office which was second only in importance and dignity to that of the mayor. Mr. McCleary continued to be city clerk, by the almost unanimous votes of twenty-nine successive city councils, until 1852, when his failing health compelled him to decline a reelection. He was followed by his son of the same name, who held the office for thirty-one years. The holding of an office, which depends upon election rather than upon appointment, does not always mean frequent changes.

Faneuil Hall, where the people had gathered for so many years to administer their affairs, the place of the ending of town government and of the beginning of a new and untried system, is the most widely known building ever given to any town or city in the United States; and it was the gift of an alien in faith and race from those who received it. Sixty years after the coming of the Puritans a little party of Hugenots, impelled by similar motives, left their homes in Rochelle, France, and crossed the ocean to these shores. Among them, or coming soon after, was Andrew Faneuil, whose business ventures in Boston made him a rich man. His death in February, 1738, was an occasion of great importance in the town and province. His nephew and heir, Peter Faneuil, was careful, we are told, that every propriety of the occasion should be observed without stint. Three thousand pairs of gloves were distributed at the funeral, and later two hundred mourning rings were given to the nearer friends. Peter Faneuil was thirty-eight years of age when he came into possession of his uncle's fortune, which, added to his own accumulations, made him the merchant prince of his time. His mansion was on Tremont street, in the midst of extensive gardens, opposite King's Chapel Burial Ground.

Seeing the disadvantage under which trade was conducted, with no market house as a center of exchange, "and people forced to go out upon the neck and spend a great part of the day in providing necessaries for their families," he offered to give the town a building for a market: and 347 citizens petitioned the selectmen to bring his plan before the town, setting forth that Peter Faneuil has been generously "pleased to Offer at his Own proper cost and Charge, to Erect and Build a noble and complete Structure or Edifice to be Improved for a Market for the sole use, Benefit and advantage of the town." July 4, 1740, the selectmen issued a warrant calling a town meeting to be held ten days later. So numerous were the voters that, as on former occasions, an adjournment was taken to the Brattle Street Meeting House, after voting "That the Thanks of the Town be given to Peter Faneuil for his Generous Offer." At the adjourned meeting in the afternoon a "considerable debate" ensued; and the yeas had it by a majority of only seven votes; and his offer would have been refused had there not been added to the proposal: "and we would humbly propose that, notwithstanding the said building should be encouraged and come to effect, yet that the market people should be at liberty to carry their marketing wheresoever they please about the town to dispose of it." The meeting instructed the selectmen to "Wait upon Peter Faneuil Esquire, and to Present the Thanks of this Town to Him, as Voted in the Forenoon; and also to Acquaint Him, that the Town have, by their Vote, come to a Resolution to Accept of his General Offer of Erecting a Market House on Dock Square, According to his Proposal."

When the building was finished and the keys delivered to the selectmen, and a meeting, September 13, 1742, was held in the town house, there was a unanimous agreement "to accept this most generous and noble benefaction for the use and intention they are designed for," and to put upon record that Peter Faneuil had "Erected a Noble Structure far exceeding his first Proposal, inasmuch as it contains not only a large and Sufficient Accommodation for a Market place, but has also Superadded a Spacious and Most Beautiful Town Hall over it, and Several other Convenient Rooms, which may prove very Beneficial to the Town." The meeting also appointed a committee "to wait upon Peter Faneuil, Esq., and in the name of the town to render him their most hearty thanks for so bountiful a gift, with their prayers that this and other expressions of his bounty and charity may be abundantly recompensed with the divine blessing." And it was further voted, on motion of Thomas Hutchinson, later royal governor, "that in testimony of the town's gratitude to the said Peter Faneuil Esq., and to perpetuate his memory, the hall over the market place be named Faneuil Hall, and at all times hereafter be called and known by that name." And then a "Motion was made by Mr. William Price that as a further Testimony of the Towns Gratitude to the said Peter Faneuil Esq., the Picture of the said Peter Faneuil Esq., may be drawn in full Length and placed in the said Hall, at the Expence of the Town. Which was also Unanimously Voted in the Affirmative." This picture perhaps was carried away when Boston was evacuated by the British troops, though another account says it was destroyed by some of the citizens in resentment because several of the Faneuil family, who were Loyalists, left the town when the British sailed away. The great-hearted donor did not live long after his gift was accepted, as he died in the following March at the age of forty-two, greatly lamented by his fellow citizens. Schoolmaster John Lovell of the Boston Latin School pronounced his eulogy in the hall, March 14, 1743, the first public use of the building. With prophetic forecast he concluded his eulogy: "May Liberty always spread its joyful wings over this place."

The market did not become popular for some time, being often closed for longer or shorter periods but the hall above was in constant use. Until then the people had been dependent upon the courtesy of the pew holders for the use of their meeting houses, when, as was often the case, the town hall was not large enough. One of the earliest gatherings in the hall was October 10, 1744, to celebrate the king's coronation day "with a concert of music." In May, 1747, a series of concerts was given there, and on election day the governor and council dined there, inaugurating the long series of banquets for which the hall has been famous. In 1760 it was illuminated to celebrate the conquest of Canada, and when the Stamp Act was repealed the town voted, March 18, 1767, that the hall should again be illuminated, and that the selectmen should make provision for the people to drink the king's health. After the passage of the Port Bill, which closed the harbor to commerce, when not a fishing boat could land, or a gundalow float down the Charles or Mystic, with provisions for the distressed people, when contributions of food were arriving from every one of the thirteen colonies, the committee made their distribution from Faneuil Hall. Israel Putnam, who had fought for King George at Ticonderoga, drove a flock of sheep all the way from Connecticut into the market place around the hall. In the summer of 1778 John Hancock gave here an elaborate entertainment to the officers of the French fleet under D'Estaing, when toasts were drunk to the French King, Congress, Washington, the Army, and the Alliance of the two countries. In 1781, when the fleet under DeGrasse entered the harbor, the merchants of Boston gave a sumptuous banquet in the hall. In 1784 a banquet was given by the merchants in honor of Lafayette. A remarkable occasion in Faneuil Hall was the civic festival in January, 1793, in commemoration of the successes of their French brethren, in their glorious enterprise for the establishment of equal liberty. "An elegant and sumptuous Entertainment was provided, at which near three hundred partook, citizen S. Adams acting as President, and the citizen Letombe, as Vice President." At the west end of the hall, over the head of the president, "arose an obelisk, bearing in front the figure of Liberty, her left hand supporting her insignia, and her extended right hand displaying The Rights of Man—Under her feet, the badges of Civil and Ecclesiastical Despotism, a crown, sceptre, mitre and chains, broken in pieces—Over her head, a descending cherub presented in its right hand a wreath, as The Reward of Virtue, and in its left hand, The Palm of Peace. . . . A garter annexed, emphatically expressed: Thus we go to the stars. Over the whole, the benign Eye of Providence appeared to view with approbation the scene, and to express I guard the faithful. The right side of the Obelisk displayed the American, and the left the French flags."

We come to an historic evening in 1837. In Alton in Illinois a mob, inflamed against an abolitionist newspaper, had destroyed three printing presses. Citizens of Boston petitioned for the use of Faneuil Hall, the Rev. Dr. William Ellery Channing heading the petition, to denounce this assault upon the freedom of the press. The petition at first was refused, but subsequently was granted. Several speeches had been made, the speakers dwelling upon the great principle involved, when the Attorney-General of the Commonwealth, sitting in the front gallery, rose and said that the people of Alton had as much right to break Lovejoy's printing press and throw it into the river as the people of Boston had to throw the detested tea into the harbor; and he was applauded loudly by a portion of the audience. When he had finished, a tall young man, a graduate of Harvard, who had studied law, but who had not had much practice, Wendell Phillips by name, son of our first mayor, walked up the steps to the platform and said: "When I heard the gentleman lay down principles placing the murderers, incendiaries and rioters of Alton side by side with Otis and Hancock, with Quincy and Adams," pointing to their portraits, "I thought those pictured lips would have broken into voice to rebuke the recreant American, the slanderer of the dead." In 1848 William H. Seward, then the rising statesman of the Empire State, and a tall and ungainly man with a homely countenance, unknown to fame, Abraham Lincoln by name, made speeches in this hall. The most impressive of all the scenes ever witnessed here was that in October, 1852, when the hall was draped in black upon the death of Webster; and there is almost no eulogistic oratory to be compared with that which then fell from the lips of Edward Everett.

There is no other hall in the country so notable for the men who have gathered upon its platform; names illustrious in the history of the Commonwealth and of the Republic: Samuel Adams, Joseph Warren, John Adams, Lafayette, Isaac Hull, captain of the frigate "Constitution," lovingly christened "Old Ironsides," who destroyed the British frigate "Guerriere," and arrived in our harbor with his prisoners; James Lawrence, whose dying words were "Don't give up the ship"; Monroe, Jackson, Daniel Webster, Charles Sumner, John A. Andrew, Charles Francis Adams, Caleb Cushing, Rufus Choate, George S. Hillard, Louis Kossuth, William Lloyd Garrison, Theodore Parker.

A destructive fire, January 13, 1761, broke out in a shop on Dock square, and "crossed the street to that stately edifice, Faneuil Hall Market, the whole of which was soon consumed, excepting the brick walls which are left standing." Two years later the work of rebuilding without change in its original dimensions, 100 feet by 40, was so far completed that the townspeople met in the hall March 14, 1763, when James Otis, moderator of the meeting, delivered an appropriate address. A large part of the cost of rebuilding was raised by the sale of lottery tickets, some of which bear the signature of John Hancock. What a curious thing it is that the Puritans allowed money to be raised for almost every object, charitable, educational and philanthropic, by the now denounced method of lotteries. In 1806 the bulding was doubled in width by removing the north side, while the south side was not disturbed, it being as firm as when erected in 1742. The walls were carried to a greater height to admit of the galleries, which, resting upon Doric columns, were added on three sides at the level of the old ceiling. This building, completed according to the plans of Charles Bulfinch, remained substantially the same until the summer of 1898, when it was reconstructed with fireproof material. Although but a small portion of the Faneuil Hall, which gratified the eye of the generous townsman who gave it to Boston, is still standing, it yet is Faneuil Hall, with all its sacred associations, as "Old Ironsides" after its many changes is the same frigate with its story of heroic deeds.

Would time permit it would be both interesting and profitable to consider how the people of Boston administered their affairs as a town for nearly two hundred years. They realized that a government of the people could be maintained only by a free discussion of every question affecting their interests; and no other town was more keenly alive to its rights and liberties. Our Supreme Judicial Court has said that it was an "independent democracy." It was its own master; and it chose for itself what it would or would not do; and its powers were limited only "by the opinion of the inhabitants as to what was best to be done." It determined who could reside within its limits and where, how much the grocer and the butcher should ask for their goods, what wages should be paid in the shipyards, whether Thomas Brown could bring a suit against John Smith, and indeed "in regard to all such affairs as concerned none but themselves." In 1763 the General Court advised Boston to build a sea wall as a protection against the approach of an enemy by sea; and, as happened more than once, the town was unwilling to acquiesce, voting "not to carry on so extensive an undertaking." In 1773, in a great gathering in Faneuil Hall, after a report by Samuel Adams, vindicating the right of the town to manage its own affairs, the people unanimously declared that the town meeting would consider as town affairs whatever provision of the General Court touched the town, and would act accordingly. They believed that no matter either of politics or religion was beyond the bounds of their right and duty. It was in these times that the little town fearlessly entered upon one of the most memorable struggles of history, that between Boston on the one hand and George III., king of England, on the other. In Faneuil Hall the people voted to abstain wholly from the use of tea; and after the Boston Massacre to demand of the royal governor the instant removal of the British troops; and that most important step in bringing into existence a new nation; the appointment of a Committee of Correspondence "to state the rights of the colonists as men and as Christians; and to communicate and publish the same to the several towns and to the world."

The town meetings often voted instructions to their selectmen and also to their representatives in the General Court. The instructions of 1764 to the representatives inform them that the townsmen "have delegated to you the power of acting in their publick Concerns in general as your own prudence shall direct you. Always reserving to themselves the Constitutional Right of expressing their mind and giving you such Instruction upon particular Matters as they at any time shall Judge proper." To their selectmen they said: That a "meeting be held by you, at least monthly, seriously to consider these things, for the good of the town, Glory of God, and establishing truth and love among us." The selectmen, or town's men as they were called at first, in the earliest times at least received no pay for their services and also paid their own expenses. But in 1637 it was agreed that the charges for the meetings of the town's men should be borne by the town, and they soon found it convenient to "refresh" themselves after their ardous duties; and a custom arose which was followed long after Boston became a city. It is to the credit of the town that during all this long period, whenever a debt was incurred, it was paid as quickly as possible; so that, when Boston became a city, it would have begun with no outstanding debt of any kind had not a small sum just been borrowed by the county treasurer toward the cost of a courthouse and jail.

Boston is the largest community which ever maintained the town organization, and also the most able and intelligent. No other town ever played so conspicuous a part in connection with important events; and in all history there has been no other so interesting manifestation of the activity of the people's control. The people themselves constituted the government; and they surrendered with reluctance the management of their concerns, which they had maintained for nearly two centuries. They clung to the town, says Mr. Quincy in his History of Boston, because "In town meetings their measures of opposition to the pretentions of Great Britain had been originated, being agitated and adopted, and the affection of the inhabitants to the forms under which their efforts had been crowned with success, increased. The name and character of town became identified with the idea of popular power and civil liberty." Naturally therefore they watched with jealousy the measures of the new authorities; and their feelings are shown in the motto adopted for the municipal seal, devised by John Davis, Judge of the United States Court for the District of Massachusetts, adapted from the invocation by Solomon, King of Israel, at the dedication of the Temple: Sicut patribus, sit Deus nobis, as God was with our fathers, so may he be with us.

The novel experiment was begun by our first mayor with circumspection and respect for ancient precedents, and he succeeded in overcoming most of the prejudice against the new form of government. "His aim was to allure, not to compel, to reconcile by gentle reform, not to revolt by startling innovation so that while he led us into a new and fairer creation, we felt ourselves surrounded by the scenes and comforts of home." Since, towards the expiration of his term of service, his health began to fail, he declined a re-election, and May 29, 1823, he was stricken by disease of the heart, in the fifty-third year of his age. Public honors were paid by all parties to his memory. He lived in stormy times, yet such was the elevation of his character and the kindness of his heart, that he stands a model for that high "office which his wisdom, prudence, virtue, integrity and eloquence adorned."

His successor, Josiah Quincy, chosen almost unanimously, could take a bolder course. He believed the hour had arrived for more radical change and more permanent improvements, to develop the resources of the city; and since he felt it desirable that he should be conversant with every part of the business of the city he made himself chairman of every one of the committees of the board of aldermen and took the laboring oar into his own hands. The novelty of the office, the diversity of opinions relative to its powers, and his extensive public improvements and many new institutions, rendered his administration one of peculiar trial and difficulty. It was, however, powerfully supported, and to general satisfaction, as was shown by six successive elections. But beneath there was growing discontent, and the complaint grew louder: "the mayor assumes too much upon himself. He places himself at the head of all committees. He prepares all reports. He permits nothing to be done but by his agency. No place but what is vexed by his presence." He failed of re-election; and January 5, 1829, there began a new administration. It is interesting to note that the first change in the charter, to provide that the elections should take place in December and the year commence the first Monday of January, was made by the General Court only after a meeting of the inhabitants had been called and a vote passed by them authorizing the application for this purpose.

It is not for me now to go further in the account of successive administrations of our city government. They were tried again and again by great events; and the verdict of history must be that they stood the trial well and successfully. There have been many changes in form; and doubtless there are many still to come. For a hundred years we have been a city. The record is closed, and nothing we now can say or do will alter it. The present is ours, and the immediate future will be of our making.

To you, Mr. Mayor, by the will of the people has been committed the superintendence of the affairs of this city; and happily you already have shown that you are not insensible to the obligations which rest upon you. Boston does not hold the exalted position it ought to hold, and it now is your high privilege to lead us onward and upward. It is no mean city. It rightly is proud of its glorious record and it has loyally preserved its historic landmarks; many of its public edifices, its churches, its business blocks, its residences are among the best in our country; our fire and police protection, the regulation of traffic in our streets, our park system, our library and its branches and many other things, needless for me to name, are admirable; and yet there is one thing lacking, essential above all to the dignity of a great city, complete and untrammelled home rule. No community of free men can secure from sources outside a better government than it can make of itself. Whatever temporary relief may be had the only kind of government with which we ought to be satisfied must be our own government. Whether the choice of the people be wise or unwise, the right to make it is theirs; and no sincere believer in a government by the people should tolerate any system which hampers or impairs the full exercise of this right.

Boston has not suffered greatly in material prosperity from its domination by the state; for it is one of the best governed cities in the country. But it does suffer in its self-respect. A competent and friendly student has said: "Boston is said to get good results from its state commissions that exercise municipal functions in the community constituting Greater Boston. But the effect upon the self-governing capacities of the people of Boston would seem to an outsider to be demoralizing. In the absence of the larger responsibilities such functions as are left to the city itself are likely to be performed less and less efficiently, with the inevitable result that the state, in the interest of immediate good government, must undertake to do directly more and more of the work of the municipality." Boston should be a free city, master of its own destiny, in full control of its own affairs, its streets, its docks, its parks, and its franchises. Are the people of Boston less capable of furnishing and administering their own water supply, for instance, than are the people of New York; or are they so much less intelligent than the people of Detroit that they are incapable of managing the franchises for the use of their streets?

I have no patience with the plea that the presence of a large foreign element in Boston interferes with this method of administration. There is a large foreign element in Glasgow, and it is one of the best governed cities in the world. Experience at home is equally against this contention. St. Louis is full of Germans, Minneapolis of Scandinavians, Pittsburgh of Scotch. Each of them is subject to far less thraldom than in Boston. Let us also give up the false notion that the common people are not to be trusted. It is the poor, who from poverty itself are compelled to endure the greater part of the evils of misrule. Show them this, and they will be found ready to compel, through their votes, the changes which the lives of their children and the decency of their homes demand.

If Boston were secure against outside interference, at liberty to work out its own welfare in its own way, the very necessity of the case would develop an enlightened public opinion and good government. It is only by democratic methods that good city government can be achieved or maintained. Mr. Justice Brewer of the Supreme Court of the United States has said: Thoughtful men more and more see that the wise thing is to cast upon each community full responsibility for the management of its local affairs, and that the great danger to free government is in the centralization of power." It was one of the best of the governors of the Commonwealth, Governor Crane, who said twenty years ago: "Cities and towns should be let alone to work out their own municipal problem." And in keeping with this sound principle, in the same year he returned four acts relative to Boston, without his sanction, because they were "based upon the petition of private citizens, without the official endorsement of the mayor and city council."

Boston, in all its history, has been conspicuous for patriotism and devotion to liberty and for sacrifice in its behalf. It was the first to protest against the tyranny of the British Crown; and it was in this hall that the Revolution was organized which achieved our independence. It ever has been foremost in those humanities which mark the progress of civilization, benevolent institutions, free schools, and moral culture. Through the enterprise and the integrity of its people it has attained great material prosperity; and it is still, in moral and intellectual influence, upon which all things hang in a free country, what Cotton Mather said it was: "The great metropolis of all America." As Emerson has said: "Boston is not an accident, nor a windmill, or a railroad station, or an army barracks grown up by time and luck to a place of wealth, but a seat of humanity, of men of principle, obeying a sentiment and marching loyally whither that should lead them." Let us strive that these virtues may ever abide with us. May the sacred fire of liberty kindled by the founders of Boston, receive always the constant and watchful care of its people; and when the work of the coming century is reviewed, may it be the record of increased usefulness and of faithful stewardship, worthy of our historic past. As God was with our fathers so may he be with us. A grateful people lift to Thee their prayer: Lord God of Hosts be with us yet.

CLAIMS.

The Mayor has approved, with the indorsement of the Corporation Counsel, the following claims:

Hattie M. Ray, in the amount of $250, as compensation for personal injuries caused by defective catch-basin cover at 17 Kingston street, Charlestown, June 13, 1914.

Holland System-Motor Company, 949 Commonwealth avenue, in the amount of $19.50, as compensation for damage to motor car when the ferryboat "John H. Sullivan" struck slip in docking, December 16, 1921.

Ralph L. Bostwick, 653 East Sixth street, South Boston, in the amount of $100, as compensation for personal injuries caused by defect in sidewalk opposite 90 M street, South Boston.

F. H. Richenburg, 75 Augustus avenue, West Roxbury, in the amount of $8, as compensation for amount paid for edgestones bought from city which were not delivered, November, 1921.

James S. Rooney, 44 Kempton street, Roxbury, in the amount of $40, as compensation for damage to clothing caused by tree guard on Huntington avenue, near Forsyth street, Roxbury, February 20, 1922.

John A. Leonard, by his father Patrick J. Leonard, 40 Oak Square avenue, Brighton, in the amount of $150, as compensation for personal injuries caused by unprotected manhole or catch-basin in Rogers Park, Brighton, November 26, 1921.

Mary E. Terrant, 20 Carlisle street, Cambridge, in the amount of $150, as compensation for personal injuries caused by defect between sidewalk and Summer Street Bridge, on left sidewalk, South Boston side, January 10, 1922.

REJECTION OF CLAIMS.

Hon. E. Mark Sullivan, the Corporation Counsel, states the Law Department has disapproved ten claims against the city, in five of which no amounts were specified, and the other five amounted to $1,130.85 and are classified as follows:

Against the Hospital Department, three, amounting to $90.35; against the Police Department, one, amounting to $962.50; against the Public Works Department, six, in five of which no amounts were specified, and the other one amounted to $78.

All these claims have been disapproved for the reason that there appeared to be no legal liability on the part of the city.

Incident to the award of this contract the following communication was received by Mayor Curley from Superintendent Frank P. Rock of the Supply Department:

City of Boston,
Supply Department,
April 14, 1922.

Hon. James M. Curley,
Mayor of Boston:

Dear Sir,—Under date of March 21, 1922, bids were publicly opened on regularly advertised bids at this office covering bathing suits needed for the Park Department during the present year and prices, as per attached list, were received.

Upon receipt of these bids the samples and proposals were referred to the chairman of the Park Department for a recommendation as to the articles best suited to the needs of his department.

The Park Department, after consultation with a representative of the Prison Commission, wrote us on April 4 that they had made a selection as per the following:

25,000 fig leaves at 65c per dozen;
125 dozen men's suits at $10 per dozen;
135 dozen women's suits at $13 per dozen;
100 dozen girls' suits at $10.50 per dozen;
125 dozen pool suits at $8 per dozen.

In view of the explanation stated above, I respectfully request that permission be granted me to award the contract for furnishing the fig leaves, men's suits, women's suits, girls' suits and pool suits to the Prison Commission at the prices shown above.

Regarding the item of 150 dozen trunks which was included in the advertisement referred to above, would ask permission to award this order to J. F. Conway Company, the lowest bidder, as shown on the attached sheet, at $1.60 per dozen, without entering into formal contract for same as the amount involved is very much under $1,000.

Respectfully yours,
Frank P. Rock,
Superintendent of Supplies.

WITHOUT ADVERTISING.

The Mayor has approved the following contracts awarded without advertising; requests of heads of departments to do work with the department forces without advertising; additions to and deductions from contracts.

Public Works Department.

Upon April 20 the Mayor approved a contract with Fred T. Ley & Co., Incorporated, for building artificial stone sidewalks.

A communication from Commissioner Joseph A. Rourke of the Public Works Department was as follows:

Boston, April 12, 1922.

Hon. James M. Curley,
Mayor of Boston:

Dear Sir,— Permission to award a contract for the construction of artificial stone sidewalks in the public streets, without advertising, to Fred T. Ley & Co., Inc., 24 Milk street, Boston, is hereby requested on the ground that this contractor is not selected by the city in the first instance but by the abutters; and secondly, the expense of construction being divided by the city and abutters; also because such contracts vary greatly in amounts and seldom involve one thousand (1,000) dollars.

Respectfully yours,
Joseph A. Rourke,
Commissioner of Public Works.

Upon April 20 the Mayor approved a contract with the Scully Company for building artificial stone sidewalks.

A communication from Commissioner Joseph A. Rourke of the Public Works Department was as follows:

Boston, April 12, 1922.

Hon. James M. Curley,
Mayor of Boston:

Dear Sir,—Permission to award a contract for the construction of artificial stone sidewalks, without advertising, in the public streets, to the Scully Company, 118 First street, Cambridge, is hereby requested on the ground that this contractor is not selected by the city in the first instance but by the abutters; and secondly, the expense of construction being divided by the city and abutters; also because such contracts vary greatly in amounts and seldom involve one thousand (1,000) dollars.

Respectfully yours,

Joseph A. Rourke,
Commissioner of Public Works.

On April 21 the Mayor approved a contract with Hervey F. Armington for the building of artificial stone sidewalk.

A communication from Commissioner Joseph A. Rourke of the Public Works Department, was as follows:

Boston, April 17, 1922.

Hon. James M. Curley,
Mayor of Boston:

Dear Sir,—Permission to award a contract for the construction of artificial stone sidewalks in the public streets, without advertising, to Hervey F. Armington, 80 Warren street, Brighton, is hereby requested on the ground that this contractor is not selected by the city in the first instance but by the abutters; and secondly, the expense of construction being divided by the city and abutters; also because such contracts vary greatly in amounts and seldom involve one thousand (1,000) dollars.

Respectfully yours,

Joseph A. Rourke,
Commissioner of Public Works.

On April 21 the Mayor approved a contract with John T. Shea, Jr., for the building of artificial stone sidewalk.

A communication from Commissioner Joseph A. Rourke of the Public Works Department, was as follows:

Boston, April 17, 1922.

Hon. James M. Curley,
Mayor of Boston:

Dear Sir,—Permission to award a contract for the construction of artificial stone sidewalks in the public streets, without advertising, to John T. Shea, Jr., 696 East Sixth street, South Boston, is hereby requested on the ground that this contractor is not selected by the city in the first instance but by the abutters; and secondly, the expense of construction being divided by the city and abutters; also because such contracts vary greatly in amounts and seldom involve one thousand (1,000) dollars.

Respectfully yours,

Joseph A. Rourke,
Commissioner of Public Works.

On April 21 the Mayor approved a contract with Simpson Brothers Corporation for the building of artificial stone sidewalks.

A communication from Commissioner Joseph A. Rourke of the Public Works Department was as follows:

Boston, April 18, 1922.

Hon. James M. Curley,
Mayor of Boston:

Dear Sir,—Permission to award a contract for the construction of artificial stone sidewalks in the public streets, without advertising, to Simpson Brothers Corporation, 77 Summer street, Boston, is hereby requested on the ground that this contractor is not selected by the city in the first instance but by the abutters; and secondly, the expense of construction being divided by the city and abutters; also because such contracts vary greatly in amounts and seldom involve one thousand (1,000) dollars.

Respectfully yours,

Joseph A. Rourke,
Commissioner of Public Works.

Supply Department.

Upon April 20 the Mayor approved a contract for the purchase of 11 draft horses to be distributed between the Street Cleaning and Oiling Service and the Sanitary Service of the Public Works Department.

A communication from Superintendent Frank P. Rock of the Supply Department was as follows:

Boston, April 11, 1922.

Hon. James M. Curley,
Mayor of Boston.

Dear Sir,—Permission is respectfully requested to purchase, without publicly advertising, eleven (11) draft horses to be distributed between the Street Cleaning and Oiling Service and the Sanitary Service of the Public Works Department. It has been the custom in purchasing horses for the various services to have the selection made by the veterinarian of the Public Works Department from the various shipments of horses which come into the different sales stables of the dealers in Boston, and as the selection of the horses is made absolutely on the inspection of the veterinarian, it is impossible to state beforehand the exact price of each horse, and for this reason permission is asked to secure these horses without publicly advertising for same.

Respectfully yours,

Frank P. Rock,
Superintendent of Supplies.

COAST NEEDY ENJOY MAYOR'S FISH.

San Francisco enjoyed during the week its first taste of fresh Cape Cod haddock, word having been received by Mayor Curley from Mayor James Rolph, Jr., of that city that the shipment of 1,000 pounds sent to that city from Boston several weeks ago had been received and was being distributed.

Part of the shipment, which was sent west by way of the "Neponset," of the Naswco Line, by the New England Fish Exchange, at the suggestion of Mayor Curley, was distributed from the City Hall by Mayor Rolph and the remainder was sent to the San Francisco Relief Home to be consumed by the needy.

Another thousand pounds of the fish will be delivered to the Mayors of Seattle and Los Angeles. The message to Mayor Curley informing him of the San Francisco lot says:

"The thousand pounds of frozen haddock which you so generously sent me arrived in excellent shape this morning aboard the steamer 'Neponset.' I was present to receive the cargo, and ample publicity, I am sure, will be given to the arrival of the fish.

"After it has been properly thawed I will distribute a part of the fish from the City Hall and the remainder will go to the San Francisco Relief Home to be consumed by the needy. I greatly appreciate the compliment you have paid the people of San Francisco through me. With kindly personal regards and best wishes, believe me,

Sincerely,

James Rolph, Jr., Mayor."

ACCEPTANCE OF STREET.

The location, direction, width and grade of the private way in South Boston , designated as Power House street, from Summer street to K street, has been approved by the Mayor.

A CENTURY OF CITY ESTABLISHMENT.

NOTABLE AND IMPRESSIVE EXERCISES MARK PATRIOTS' DAY HOLIDAY.

The centennial exercises commemorating the 100th anniversary of the establishment of Boston as a city were held at Faneuil Hall, upon Patriots' Day, Wednesday, April 19.

George W. Coleman, chairman of the Centennial Committee, called the meeting to order, and told of the work of the Centennial Committee and of the event which comes on May 1, when a memorial tablet will be placed in Faneuil Hall and prize essays will be read by public school pupils.

Hon. James M. Curley, Mayor of Boston, was presented as the presiding officer. Mayor Curley said in part:

"The progress of Boston has been largely that of service and sacrifice; its contributions have been along idealistic lines, in education, in political thought, in leadership, in matters pertaining to human liberty and freedom, in emancipation and in upholding the flag of the world.

"It has furnished idealism, inspiration and leadership, not only for our own section, but much that has been necessary in the development of the West and the rest of the country. And so we hearken back in our thoughts today to the leadership of those men and women who gave to Boston its great place in the history of our country. Ours is a glorious heritage which brings us to a present fraught with responsibilities and a future which is dependent on our contributions to the progress and welfare of the city."

He said Boston needs more such citizens as the late George T. White, men who loved and had confidence in the city. He said the city of Boston is freer of lawlessness than any city in the country.

Mayor Curley then said he hoped to live to see the time when men thought more deeply on the problems of the day; when every city would have a planning board; when industry and labor would not be run haphazard; when the terror of the poorhouse would be overcome and citizens would be assured a pension if necessary in old age, and when every child should have the God-given right of care and education up to the age of sixteen, and when the womanhood of the country should be thoroughly safeguarded.

Prayer of Rev. Edward A. Horton, D.D., upon the occasion of the ceremonies marking the one hundredth anniversary of the establishment of Boston as a city, at Faneuil Hall, Wednesday, April 19, 1922, Patriots' Day:

Sovereign Ruler of the Centuries:

We bring our devout offering, a people's gratitude and praise. One century ago deep civic foundations were laid, from which the beacon light of Boston has steadily shone over the land.

Her altar fires have ever burned with religion's holy aspirations; her firesides, sources of character and citizenship, have been blest with happiness; her fervid patriotism has inspired generation after generation.

Her sons and daughters have opened paths of progress and prosperity the continent over; while prophet leaders in great causes have inspired some of the republic's noblest achievements in peace and in war.

The glory of her literature, educational ideals, manifold humanities has crowned her name with lustrous honors. Lovers of freedom and justice from distant lands have sought her shores, and by loyalty and zeal have imparted uplifting and expanding life to her welfare.

O, Source of all blessings, help our thankful hearts to honor this great past by fulfilling it, in succeeding years of progressive life, laws and civilization.

May the twentieth century find our beloved city a source of high enterprises, wide vision and perennial youth, making New England a national power for liberty, justice and fraternity.

And to Thee, God of our Fathers and God of our present life, shall be our praise and service, in His Holy Name. Amen!

A notable event was the presentation by Hon. J. C. Joseph Flamand, Consul of France, to Mayor Curley, upon order of his Excellency Hon. Alexandrè Millerand of France of "The Medal of French Gratitude — First Class," and with it went the government citation showing a symbolized France — a mother returning thanks.

The inscription upon the medal was as follows:

"The President of the French Republic by decree dated March 15, 1921, has conferred on Mayor Curley Medal of French Gratitude, first class, Mayor of Boston.

"Animated by benevolent and generous sentiment towards France, has never been called upon in vain on matters concerning France; always approved and patronized work of propaganda and charity at the time of the visits of Marshal Joffre and Mr. Viviani at Boston, and did everything in his power to give said visit such a patriotic and moral success."

Ex-Mayor Hon. Thomas N. Hart received a warm reception when he was introduced. He said:

"Mr. Mayor and fellow citizens of Boston, I have been with you now for eighty years. I came here when I was thirteen years of age. If there is anything I love and honor it is Boston. Take it to your hearts. Take it home with you. My hope is that you will all live as long as I have lived. I plowed the ground and planted the seed eighty years ago. Boston should be free of the state in its government."

The oration of Hon. Harvey N. Shepard is printed on page 383.

Rabbi Harry Levi spoke as follows:

"The eminence, the nobleness of a people," declares George Eliot in "Theophrastus Such," "depends on its capability of being stirred by memories." But first we must have memories. We are the heirs of yesterday, but unfortunately we are not always conscious of our heritage. At times we find it difficult to forget. Often it were well if the difficulty were increased, if memory pursued us like conscience itself. Spencer tells of a lady he met in England who remarked that a country without ruined abbeys and castles was not worth living in. And Spencer agreed with her. But the past is not necessarily all ruined abbeys and castles. We speak of "letting" the dead past bury its dead. But often the past is not dead at all; it is simply that we have buried it alive beneath our indifference and neglect. We have forgotten it to our own loss. For a study of the past is always interesting and entertaining. Nay, it is profitable. We review the past and discover our indebtedness to it and so become humble and grateful. Or we learn from its experiences and so enhance our efficiency. And if it be a past which in part we have shared, we are likely to gather understanding and sympathy and become more democratic. To look backward reverently is to look forward hopefully. "Finest hope is finest memory." Every birthday celebration should prompt the prayer, "So teach us to number our days that we may apply our hearts to wisdom."

"This is the day which the Lord hath made, let us be glad and rejoice on it." We are happy today and proud. We have reason to rejoice. As a community our days have been, not like those of Jacob, few and evil, but many and good. We have lived long and have prospered. Yesterday we were few in number. Today we are "mighty and populous." We enjoy not merely a national but an international reputation. Boston is known the world round. And it deserves its reputation. Few cities have a more interesting story, have done more for their citizens, or have exerted a profounder influence on the destiny of the lands of which they are part. We have warrant for our gratitude and our joy.

Yet the glory of yesterday must become the beacon for tomorrow. "The reward of one virtue is the development of another," said an old moralist. A special obligation rests upon the conquerors. Triumph must always consecrate itself to larger aims and ends. We are all but stewards of our possessions, blessed that we may bless in turn. And no matter what our lot, none is exempt. Each must give to the measure of his strength. Ability spells responsibility. When we were small we gave to the limit of our power. Now that we have grown to gigantic proportions, we must give still more. We have grown large and strong for a definite purpose. Out of the strong must come not merely sweetness but light. This is no hour to rest on our laurels. It is an hour for renewed allegiance to our heritage, an hour of reconsecration, that from our rich memory may issue a finer vision and larger achievement than we have yet known.

There is room for improvement. Not merely because, being human, we make mistakes which have to be corrected. Not merely that we must be worthy our heritage if we would enjoy it. But that to demonstrate our worthiness we must build upon what has been transmitted to us and enlarge its scope and influence. This were a vain day indeed if it left us happy and grateful, but at the same time blind, conceited and supremely self-satisfied. Of old as expressions of their gratitude, people brought as sacrifices the best of that which they had received. Are we to meet this day with open arms and empty hands? Are we simply to receive and make no return?

It is not easy to read the hearts of the men who 100 years ago made Boston a city. At different times in the history of the world there have been those who founded cities for great ideal ends. They were dissatisfied with the civic experiments with which they were familiar and so they sought to establish sacred or holy cities which might serve to bring heaven to earth. Most of these enterprises are now mere memories. Eclectic experiments of this kind are about as successful as similar adventures in the field of religion. Most cities that last are born of more practical considerations. And I dare say Boston is no exception to the rule. The people who converted Boston from a town to a city doubtless believed that the change would better meet the material needs of its inhabitants. And yet they too must have dreamed of a city built not wholly of human hands, but of divine principles, a city that would prosper its people materially but spiritually as well. If this was their vision, it was not nourished in vain. "It might make one in love with death," said Shelley "to think that one might be buried in so sweet a place." He was speaking of Rome. And Ruskin writes from Venice, "Thank God I am here, it is the Paradise of cities." We speak of the holy cities of Rome, Jerusalem, Mecca. We cannot call Boston a holy city, yet every city is holy that consecrates itself to high ends. Boston has prospered these 100 years, but it has kept its eyes on the hills. Indeed I do not believe that it is stretching the truth to suggest that its real greatness lies not in its mercantile or industrial, but in its spiritual achievments. Its greatness lies in its consistent understanding of the truth that "we live not by bread alone." What has given Boston its name, what attracts the admiring attention of the world, what has given it its message and its appeal and its influence, what has brought to its gates people from every land under the sun, is not its stores, but its schools, not its factories and banks and railroads, but its art and its music, its beauty, its historic traditions, the story of its undying loyalty to ideals. "The Jew," says Zangwill, "peddles not only old clothes, but new ideas." And Boston all these years has been living by and exporting and sharing products not merely of the factory, but of the soul. "Except the Lord build the house they who build it labor in vain." "Righteousness alone exalts a nation." "Where there is no vision the people perish." We have caught the vision and held fast to it, so that it is a matter of small concern whether we be large as New York or London, or small as Kalamazoo, Kankakee or Kokomo. After all we can never be larger than the program of our dreams and our achievments.

Ours is a rich heritage. But its responsibilities are heavy. "You alone have I known of all peoples of the earth, therefore will I punish you for your inquities." They who have gone before us have done their part and have done it well. We must do as well if not better. They made this a strong, rich, famed city. They gave it education and culture. They gave it art and beauty. Ours it is, while carrying on their work to supplement it. We need to enlarge its spiritual outlook, to deepen its moral consciousness, to enrich its community feeling, to unify it, breaking down the petty parochial provincial prejudices that now separate its people, nay array them against each other, making them realize that a house divided against itself cannot stand, that if Boston is to endure, is to prosper, its people, with all their social, political religious differences, must become one, one in their civic spirit, in their love of Boston and their readiness to serve its best interests, in their understanding that they must not merely "pray in behalf of the city in which they live" and pray together, but work for it, "since in its welfare alone can they fare well." "Why speak of immortality," asks Emerson, "why speak of immortality to a man who does not know how well to use half an hour?" And why speak of patriotism to a man who does not understand the meaning of citizenship? This indeed is the real test of citizenship, as the derivation of the word of course makes clear, that a man shall serve well the community of which he is part. So that, as in Lessing's "Nathan the Wise," the best religion is defined as the religion which best serves human interests, the best citizen is not necessarily the oldest inhabitant, the man of longest aristocratic lineage, the richest man or the most prominent, or best educated, but he who out of gratitude for the privileges he enjoys gives to the city in which he lives wholeheartedly, self-sacrificingly, gladly that it may "grow from more to more and more of reverence" and of all that is worth while, "may in it dwell." Which makes your duty and mine so clear we cannot mistake it. Here and now we need reverently to resolve that we will give Boston the best that in us lies, that through us it may become an increasing blessing to its people, the country and the world, that they who come after us may know even a finer heritage than has been ours. This is a strategic hour. Let us not disappoint it.

The Poem of Nathan Haskell Dole was as follows:

To the town of his birth the heart of a man ever turns
  As a son to his Mother who bore him, who nurst him, who taught him;
The torch of his love that was kindled by hers ever burns
  Undimmed by what fog of forgetfulness Life may have brought him;
He may wander afar but as drawn by a Star how he yearns
  To win back to his home with all that his Fate may have wrought him!

If his quest after wealth has been blest, he will lavish his gains
  That his name and his fame may be dear in remembrance forever;
If his life meet with shipwreck and nothing of virtue remains,
  With his last fading powers, with his remnant of will he endeavors
To crawl back to the scenes of his childhood, forgetting his pains.
  That distance his dust from the dust of his sires may not sever.

And the Town, like a Mother, takes into her generous heart
  All the children of others to foster and comfort and nourish;
Shares their pleasures and griefs, in their triumphs and failures takes part;
  She gives aid in affiction; unjealous, is glad when they flourish
And these sons by Adoption bring industry, eloquence, art,
  And they vie with their native-born brothers the Mother to cherish.

II.

We are gathered together, this day, to acclaim
The Century-flower of our City's fair fame!
She has grown through the years in a splendor of glory,
And our hearts thrill with pride at the stride of her story,
If we look to the Past, when her hills crowned with wood—
Save by eagle-eyed Sachem unvisited,—stood,
It must seem like the Palace Aladdin's djinns furnisht
When the black tarnisht Lamp in his hovel he burnisht,
Such a town to create from the march and the bay:
With magnificent avenues rolling away,
With her marble-white towers, her noble museums,
With her forest of churches—incarnate "Te Deums,"
Her bazaars crammed with wealth, her luxurious homes,
With her libraries holding the rarest of tomes,
With her hospitals kindling new hope for the curable
Or making Old Age and its trials endurable,
With her culture enshrined in bronze and in stone—
What a pile from the hut of lone Blackstone has grown!
Here's a roster of names for our offspring to cherish:
Whose words and whose deeds from the world shall not perish!
Princely merchants who live in munificent gifts;
Famous orators flashing the Truth that uplifts:
Great leaders in Causes whose prospects of winning
Seemed hopeless indeed in their feeble beginning.
The champions bold of the down-trodden slave
And Womanhood's knights, glad the world's jeers to brave,
With women among them—what name blazes brighter
Than Julia Ward Howe, Wit, Poet and Fighter!—
Douglas, Garrison, Phillips and Sumner, whose words
Went forth from their mouths like glittering swords.
Famous Poets their songs through the wide world have carried:
Here Longfellow, Emerson, Lowell have tarried;
Here Homes flasht his wit without malice or sting
And O'Reilly and Joyce brought their Genius to sing,
With Whittier, lyrics of Freedom—defenders,
Now haloed with Victory's star-blazoned splendors—
Of suffering peoples all over the world,
Wherever the challenge of battle was hurled.

Here first from the scalpel—the tender flesh rifted—
The hideous terror of mortals was lifted
And a calm anasthesia bent to bestow
Her mercy in place of an agonized wo!
What city gives more to those thirsting for knowledge?
Sweet fountains of solace, the popular college,
The perfume of music, the uplift of art,
The freedom of Nature for all set apart,
With the joy of the hills and the sea's boundless reaches,
The forests and flowers and the wave-beaten beaches!

In the heart of the Town glows the Common where cows of our Puritan forefathers once used to browse,
And the Pond where they drank still hallows the hollow
And the paths that they made are the malls that we follow;
And the hill where the Patriots' dauntless young sons

Defied General Gage and the Britishers' guns;
Still rings with the shouts of the sturdy Westenders
Who startle the Frogs with their "tiddledybenders,"
While the bright Golden Dome of the State House looks down
On the City grown great as it lookt on the Town!

This sacrosanct Hall has rockt with the thunders
Of plaudits evoked by the soul-stirring wonders
Of Eloquence voicing the needs of the Hour,
When the weak became strong and the Word became Power.

Who can tell in a volume the fame of our City,
Condense all its Century-deeds in a ditty?
The Poet, the Orator hints at the tale,
And the wings of his flight must falter and fail;
'Tis the ray of the Sun in a pool by a River,
'Tis a fragment of plume in an arrowful quiver!

III.

Yet a chaplet of praise we would ardently lay at the feet
Of this opulent Mother of ours as a symbol and token
Of love and devotion and sacrifice as it is meet
In return for the blessings she gives in her largess unbroken,
And a prayer from our hearts which our lips can with fervor repeat
As the prayer of a child at the knee of his parent is spoken.

"May we serve thee, oh City we love, so that over the land
Our example may shine to inspire a high emulation,
That honor and probity, industry, virtue expand
Like a tide sweeping wide through the populous towns of our nation,
Like a Fire Pentecostal by God's spirit kindled and fanned
That flames in all hearts with a fine consecration."

Oh, Boston, fair City enthroned like a radiant Queen
From thy hills looking down on the ship-teeming plain of the Ocean
May thy future be bright, thy skies full of light, and serene,
Insured by thy sons and thy daughters devotion!
May thy glory increase as the tale of thy glory has been
Which to read or to hear swells the heart with a sacred emotion!

HONOR TO SOLDIERS.

Mayor Curley has received official advices from the Park Department that a public hearing was granted relative to the renaming of parks and playgrounds in honor of soldiers, sailors and marines who made the supreme sacrifice during the World War.

The communication of Chairman Shea of the department was as follows:

CITY OF BOSTON,
PARK DEPARTMENT, April 18, 1922.

HON. JAMES M. CURLEY,
Mayor of Boston:

DEAR SIR,—You are respectfully notified that a public hearing was given in the Old Council Chamber in City Hall on Tuesday, April 11, 1922, at three o'clock p. m., on the renaming of parks and playgrounds in honor of the soldiers and sailors who died in the World War.

It was voted that Wood Island Park, East Boston, be hereby named, and is to be hereafter known, as the World War Memorial Park, in honor and grateful appreciation of the soldiers and sailors who sacrificed their lives in the World War, in order that all humanity might live in peace and contentment under proper government.

Respectfully yours,
JAMES B. SHEA, Chairman.

MAYOR BLESSED BY POPE.

Mayor Curley was greatly honored when he was presented a framed copy of the apostolic blessing of Pope Pius XI., which, at the request of Mgr. Edward J. Moriarty, was sent by special messenger from Rome to this country.

The presentation was made by Monsignor Moriarty at a reception in his honor at the annual reunion of St. Thomas' parish, Jamaica Plain, held in Leo XIII. School Hall, and attended by several hundred persons.

The Mayor was the principal speaker. He paid a great tribute to Monsignor Moriarty, who, in response, highly praised the Mayor. At the conclusion of his remarks Monsignor Moriarty drew forth the framed blessing and told the Mayor that Pope Pius XI. invoked the blessing on the Mayor, Mrs. Curley and the family. The monsignor before leaving Rome had the copy inscribed and framed and the special messenger arrived with it a few days ago. Mrs. Curley was present at the reception and both were greatly pleased with the great honor bestowed on the Curley family by the Pope.

HOLIDAY OPENING OF LIBRARY.

The Boston Public Library was opened upon Patriots' Day.

To give opportunity to persons who are unable to enjoy the beauties of the Copley square building during business hours the public rooms and corridors were opened April 19, from twelve to six o'clock.

The vestibule and the court, the Sargent, Puvis de Chavannes and the Abbey decorations and the fine arts exhibition room were accessible.

Attention has already been called to the collection of books and prints relating to General Ulysses S. Grant now on view in the cases of the exhibition room of the Public Library in Copley square. Through the courtesy of Professor Jesse Grant Cramer of Boston University, the interest of this exhibit has been notably increased by the loan of heirlooms which he has inherited from the Grant family. Professor Cramer is a son of Dr. M. J. Cramer, formerly United States Minister to Denmark and to Switzerland, and of Mary Grant Cramer, youngest sister of General U. S. Grant. The loan exhibit consists of several Grant documents and letters, including his commission as major-general of volunteers, signed by Abraham Lincoln, and of an interesting collection of small photographs of the general and members of his family.

APPROVAL OF POLE LOCATIONS.

The Mayor has approved the following petitions for poles received from the Board of Street Commissioners:

Edison Electric Illuminating Company, East Fourth street, Ward 10, erect two poles.

Edison Electric Illuminating Company, Willow street, Ward 23, erect five poles.

Edison Electric Illuminating Company, Spencer street, Ward 19, erect one pole.

Edison Electric Illuminating Company, Montello street, Ward 18, erect one pole.

Postal Telegraph Company, New England Telephone and Telegraph Company and Edison Electric Illuminating Company, Canterbury street, Ward 21, erect eleven poles.

Edison Electric Illuminating Company and New England Telephone and Telegraph Company, Brewer street, Ward 22, erect one pole.

Edison Electric Illuminating Company and New England Telephone and Telegraph Company, Port Norfolk street, Ward 20, erect one pole.

LAND TAKING IN SOUTH BOSTON

The Mayor has approved the order of the Board of Street Commissioners for the discontinuance of East Second street, as a highway, between M and N streets South Boston district.

The highway named, East Second street, as hereby discontinued is bounded:

West by M street, fifty feet; north by the northerly line of said East Second street, as it existed previous to this discontinuance, five hundred seven and 67–100 feet; east by the westerly line of East Second street as hereby established, fifty feet; and south by the southerly line of East Second street, as it existed previous to this discontinuance, five hundred seven and 67–100 feet; containing twenty-five thousand three hundred and eighty four square feet, more or less.

No betterments are to be assessed for the making of the aforesaid improvement.

ABATEMENT OF ASSESSMENTS.

In the matter of the applications for revision of assessments levied on account of the construction of sewerage works, the Board of Street Commissioners, acting under the provisions of chapter 359 of the Acts of the year 1896, and deeming it just and proper that such action should be taken upon said applications.

Orders, That the amounts hereinafter specified, being the annual apportionments of said assessments for the year specified below, be and the same are hereby abated.

Johanna M. Odenweller, lot 3, Dempster street, 1921 apportionment, Plan 74, 1914, September 30, 1916	$4 96
Sadie M. Greenblatt (Bridget J. Mackey), lot 12, Maverick street, 1921 apportionment, Plan 20, 1911, March 18, 1913	4 48

BOSTON AS A TOWN.

From its foundation until 1755, or a period of 125 years, Boston was not only the most outstanding but the most populous town in the American colonies. In 1760, Philadelphia's population was ahead, viz. 18,756, Boston's then being 15,631 and New York's about 14,000. In the last year of town government, viz., 1821, Boston's population was about 45,000 and its public debt $100,000, all incurred for new county buildings.

The history of Boston as a town during a period of nearly two centuries surpasses in civic interest that of Boston as a city because of the untiring zeal and successful efforts of its townsmen to realize more of true democracy than had ever been attained before. Their obligations were held as sacred as their liberties.

POLICE DEPARTMENT ORDERS.

General Order No. 5.

It is hereby ordered that vacations for members of the force for 1922 shall begin June 2 and end November 22, and that not more than one eleventh of the whole number attached to any division shall be absent on vacation at the same time, except during periods 6 and 7, from August 28 to August 30. (See Rule 37, section 3.)

No "day of relief" will be allowed to any member of the force on any of the following days: July 3 and 4, September 4 and 12, October 12, and November 7, except members of the Traffic Division. Members entitled to "day of relief" on any of these days may take their "day off" either before or after regular time at the discretion of their division commanders.

Patrolmen appointed in 1922, previous to March 1, will be allowed two weeks' vacation.

Patrolmen appointed after March 1, 1922, and up to June 1, 1922, will be allowed one week, to be taken at such times as the commanding officers of divisions shall designate:

Patrolmen appointed after June 1, 1922, will not receive any vacation.

The time for each vacation will be determined by lot, in the usual way, Monday, May 1.

Vacations to begin and end as follows:

No. 1, to begin at 7.45 a. m., June 2, and end at same time, June 16; No. 2, to begin at 7.45 a. m., June 19, and end at same time, July 3; No. 3, to begin at 7.45 a. m., July 5, and end at same time, July 19; No. 4, to begin at 7.45 a. m., July 19, and end at same time, August 2; No. 5, to begin at 7.45 a. m., August 2, and end at same time, August 16; No. 6, to begin at 7.45 a. m., August 16, and end at same time, August 30; No. 7, to begin at 7.45 a. m., August 28, and end at same time, September 11; No. 8, to begin at 7.45 a. m., September 13, and end at same time, September 27; No. 9, to begin at 7.45 a. m., September 27, and end at same time, October 11; No. 10, to begin at 7.45 a. m., October 11, and end at same time, October 25; No. 11, to begin at 7.45 a. m., November 8, and end at same time, November 22.

The Superintendent of Police will promulgate this order.

Herbert A. Wilson,
Commissioner.

CONVENTION OF WOMEN INVITED.

Delegates from the Boston League of Women Voters who are to attend the Pan-American Convention of women gathered at the rooms of the Boston Commercial and Industrial Bureau, City Hall, upon the 11th instant, to receive the official invitation drafted by Mayor Curley in which the visitors from Latin America and sections of the United States are asked to visit Boston after their convention is over.

The invitation which was handsomely engraved on parchment and suspended from a key to the city was presented by Acting Mayor David J. Brickley and was received on behalf of the delegation by Mrs. William Healy, First Vice President of the Boston League of Women Voters.

The invitation of Mayor Curley reads as follows:

"To the members of the Women's Pan-American Convention. The City of Boston invites you to visit this city, the commercial capital of New England, and make it your port of departure when you return to your distant homes; and you have the assurance that your visit will be made the occasion that will enable you to carry back to your lands pleasant memories of our hospitality and the good feeling that Boston and New England bear to their Pan-American neighbors.

"The free republics of America have many things in common that differentiate us from the old world of our origins and which should make our relations more intimate and significant. Here in Boston and its neighborhood we have many historic places and buildings that are associated with our struggle for liberty and independence; many things that are the evidence of our progress and prosperity. These we want to show you that you may learn something of our ideals and human outlook and come to a closer and better understanding of the spirit and outview of our country.

"In asking you to come among us I am only giving voice to the wishes and sentiments of the people of the city and New England generally and as a pledge to their sincerity and good faith I send you herewith the key to our ancient city which is the key to our hearts and hospitality.

Sincerely,

James M. Curley, Mayor.

Those in the party receiving the invitation and key were: Mrs. William Healy, first vice president, Boston League of Women Voters; Miss L. W. Hyde, Miss Rose Loitman, Mrs. John W. Gilbody, Miss Marian W. Cottle, Mrs. H. H. Colburn, Mrs. J. B. Brown and Mrs. Wenona Osborne Pinkham, executive secretary Boston League of Women Voters. The convention opens in Baltimore Thursday.

NO ASSESSMENTS MADE.

The Mayor has approved the order of the Board of Street Commissioners that no person sustains damages in his estate by the making of the public improvement, consisting of the discontinuance of East Second street, South Boston district, as a highway, between M and N streets, and awards no damages therefor.

The official exercises incident to the dedication of the "Permanent Memorial Tablet" will take place at Faneuil Hall, May 1, 1922, at 12 o'clock m. There will be music, prayer by the chaplain, address by the Mayor, reading of essays relative to Boston of 1822, and the public is cordially invited to attend, without tickets.

The new city government was organized in Faneuil Hall on May 1, 1822. The chairman of the board of selectmen delivered into the charge of the new authorities the town records and title deeds, and the city charter inclosed in a silver case.

The Mayor, after paying "a just tribute to the wisdom of our ancestors as displayed in the institutions for the government of the town, under which for nearly two centuries so great a degree of prosperity had been attained, and during which the great increase of the population of the place had alone made this change in the administration of its affairs essential," proceeded to remark, in respect to those "who encouraged hopes which could never be realized, and of those who indulged unreasonable apprehensions in regard to the city charter, that they would derive benefit from reflecting how much social happiness depended on other causes than the provisions of a city charter."

The policy of the new administration, to keep things substantially as they were, was thus foreshadowed; and it may be said that policy was adhered to during the year, but little of importance being done beyond the organization of the several departments of the city government.

—From "Memorial History of Boston."

John Phillips, first Mayor of the City of Boston, was born on the ancient Phillips place, 39 Washington street, November 26, 1770. He was the son of William and Margaret (Wendell) Phillips.

On graduating from Harvard College he had the honor of delivering the salutatory oration. He became a lawyer with an extensive practice. His popularity as a public speaker was general. He delivered the annual Fourth of July oration in 1794 before the inhabitants of Boston. Some extracts from this oration afterwards found their way into school books as models of eloquence.

Married in 1794 to Miss Sally Walley, daughter of Thomas Walley, Esq., a merchant of Boston, he continued to develop as one of the rising men of the town. In 1800 he became public prosecutor of the newly created Municipal Court. In 1803 he was elected Representative to the General Court. The following year he was sent to the Senate, and continued there until his death.

Mr. Phillips was appointed Judge of the Court of Common Pleas in 1809. Three years later he was elected a member of the Corporation of Harvard College. In 1820 he was a member of the convention for the revision of the state constitution.

The next year began an earnest agitation for the adoption of a city government for the town of Boston, then having 45,000 inhabitants. Several previous efforts to the same end had failed. Mr. Phillips was chairman of a committee of twelve to draw up a city charter, which was adopted at a town meeting held March 4, 1822, by a vote of 2,797 to 1,881, and the result was formally announced on the 7th of the same month by a proclamation from Governor Brooks.

Two candidates for the office of mayor were Harrison Gray Otis and Josiah Quincy. Friends of these esteemed gentlemen being unable to agree on either, suddenly agreed on Mr. Phillips as the candidate and at town meeting April 16, 1822, he received 2,500 out of 2,650 votes and thus became the first mayor of the City of Boston at inauguration ceremonies at Faneuil Hall the 1st of May following.

There were no distinguishing marks of his administration. His policy was to continue things as much as possible as usual, confining his efforts to organizing the necessary new departments.

FISH SUPPLY FOR POOR.

The O'Hara Brothers, dealers in fish at the Fish Pier in South Boston, have from time to time a surplus of fresh fish which they do not wish to place in storage, or go to waste, and so they came in touch with Mayor Curley and have offered to distribute some 5,000 pounds of fresh flounders to such charitable institutions as he may designate. The Mayor at once consulted with the Commissioner of Charities, Dr. Johnson, and selected the institutions to which the O'Hara Brothers delivered the fish with their own trucks and delivery wagons Friday morning.

This kindly beneficence will be duplicated during the coming weeks, when it is hoped other charitable bodies will be remembered, and it is earnestly desired that any such institutions willing to avail themselves of this generosity will send their names and addresses to the Boston Commercial and Industrial Bureau, so that they may be remembered and a wider distribution be effected than the present opportunity offers owing to very short notice.

The institutions selected are: The Jewish Orphan Asylum, Canterbury street; St. Vincent's Orphan Asylum, Camden street; Home for Destitute Catholic Children, Harrison avenue; Little Sisters of the Poor, Dudley street, Roxbury; Working Boys' Home, Newton Highlands; House of the Angel Guardian, Jamaica Plain; St. Mary's Infant Asylum, Dorchester; Daly Industrial Home, Dorchester, and the institutions on Deer Island and Long Island.

In addition to this the O'Hara Brothers distributed free a truck load of fish to the needy at the Albany street city yards.
